Mission services will begin at 1:30 p.m. following a noon lunch served by the ladies. Guest speaker will be Rev. Harlan Helland of Landstad Lutheran church, rural Perley. Special music will be provided by groups from the missions.

Hoff, Cameron Are Dormitory Aids At UND

Sandy Hoff, Thief River Falls is serving as a resident assistant at Johnstone-Fulton halls for the spring semester at the University of North Dakota (UND), Grand Forks. Scott Cameron, Red Lake Falls, assumed duties as the conduct committee officer at West hall, UND.

According to Terrence Webb, UND director of housing, resident assistants aid the head residents and complex directors in the residence halls by supervising wings or floors. They help students with personal, social and academic concerns and supervise activities for the floors, wings and entire halls.

The conduct committee helps to maintain an academic atmosphere for the residence halls by providing disciplinary action.

International Exchange Seeks Host Families

Youth exchange service (YES) is at this time accepting applications from families all over the United States who would like to host an international high school student during the 1983-84 school year.

The students, ages 15 to 18, speak from fair to good English at time of arrival, have excellent medical insurance and bring their own spending money.

Host families may receive a $50 income tax deduction for each month they host the student.

Write for detailed information to Youth Exchange Service (YES), P.O. Box 4020, San Clemente, California 92672, or phone: (714) 492-7907.

UND Spring Enrollment Totals 10,166

Spring semester enrollment for the 1982-83 academic year at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks reached 10,166 — another record for second semester enrollment.

That figure is an increase of 117 students, or 1.2 per cent, over the mark of 10,049 recorded a year ago. Don Wermers, UND's director of admissions and records, noted that undergraduates were up 2.5 per cent, professional colleges were up 3.4 per cent, and graduate enrollment was down by 6.2 per cent.

University's 1983 spring enrollment includes 8,427 undergraduates, 1,225 graduate students in both on-campus and extended degree programs, and 514 graduate professional students in law and medicine.

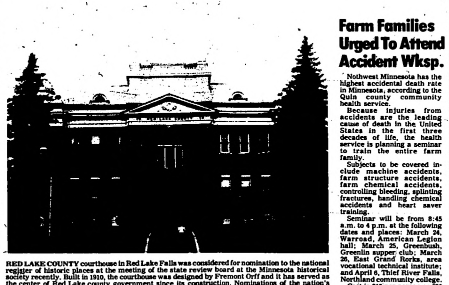
Enrollment by class, with last year's totals in parentheses, is: freshmen, 1,858 (1,796); sophomores, 2,093 (2,025); juniors, 1,732 (1,685); seniors, 2,606 (2,468); specials, 138 (244); professional (law and medicine), 514 (497); on-campus graduate, 1,020 (1,071); and extended graduate degree programs, 205 (263).

Enrollment totals by academic division, with last year's totals in parentheses, are: college of arts and sciences, 1,732 (1,712); college of business and public administration, 1,429 (1,388); center for teaching and learning, 488 (479); school of engineering and mines, 652 (581); college of fine arts, 66 (87); graduate school, including 205 (263) students in graduate extended degree programs, 1,225 (1,334); college for human resources development, 583 (556); school of law, 308 (281); school of medicine - professional, 206 (216); school of medicine - undergraduate, 220 (215); college of nursing, 367 (358); and university college, 2,890 (2,842).

Films Planned At NW Library This Saturday

Free movies will be shown at Northwest regional library in Thief River Falls starting at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 19.

Films scheduled include: "Cicero — The Queen's Drum Horse", the true, rags-to-riches story about how a farm horse became the carrier of the silver drums for Queen Elizabeth's personal bodyguards; "Dinosaur", an animated film in which the class egghead tells an unruly fifth grade what a big deal the dinosaurs were; and "Taleb and His Lamb", tells a Bedouin folk story about a shepherd boy who runs away and hides in the desert with his pet lamb to keep it from being sold.



RED LAKE COUNTY courthouse in Red Lake Falls was considered for nomination to the national register of historic places at the meeting of the state review board at the Minnesota historical society recently. Built in 1910, the courthouse was designed by Fremont Orff and it has served as the center of Red Lake county government since its construction. Nominations of the nation's resources deemed worthy of preservation can be made by an individual or group. Any questions regarding nomination should be directed to Dennis Gimmestad, assistant state historic preservation officer, Minnesota historical society, Fort Snelling history center St. Paul, MN 55111; phone 726-1171.

Ass'n. Reports Mexico Buys Sunflower Oil

National Sunflower association reports that Mexico purchased an additional 26,000 MT. of sunflower oil which is the equivalent of 130,000 acres of seed. This is the second largest purchase of oil and a third purchase is expected later this month. Mexico also recently purchased 35,000 MT. of sunflower seed.

Karl Schmidt, of the NSA staff, indicates that Mexico has decided to buy oil this winter because of transportation advantages. So far the Mexicans have been very pleased with the transportation savings in buying oil.

"Actually by purchasing oil, they can extend their dollars by one-third," Schmidt said. In the initial purchase, each of the five crushing mills (three in North Dakota and two in Minnesota) participated in the sale. A large portion of the second sale also came from North Dakota. Mexico's purchases of sunflower oil has brightened the outlook of the crushing plants considerably.

Mexico is expected to buy more sunflower seed once the Great Lakes shipping season opens in early April. Schmidt said, "the Mexicans will likely be our biggest market for sunflower this year."

Dairy Barn Meeting Set At Hanson Farm

Dairy barn meeting to assist dairymen in improving their accuracy on heat detection in the cow herd will be held at the Hanson heritage farm on Wednesday, March 16 beginning at 2 p.m.

The farm, owned and operated by Mark Hanson, is located three miles east of Thief River Falls on highway one. East Polk county extension agent Howard Person and Hanson will discuss methods to use in determining when to inseminate cows for increased conception rate.

All area dairymen are invited. The program will be concluded by 3:30 p.m.

Memorials For Cancer Fund Are Received

Memorials to the cancer fund have been received by the Pennington chapter of the American cancer society.

Funds were received in the memory of Amanda Sutherland, Clara Aune, Hazel Jesperson, Debbie Sjaaheim, Margaret Kloster, Mrs. Bertha Sparby, Ernest Berry, Orville Johnson, Archie Ptacek and Alvin Hyland.

These gifts help support the research, education and service programs of the American cancer society, according to Mrs. Charles Krause, memorial chairman.

Mar. Deadline Set For Grain Loans, Reserve

Leo Orpen, chairman of the Marshall county ASC committee, reminds farmers that March 31 is the final date to place 1982 crop grain under loan.

Commodity loan rates in Marshall county are as follows: wheat $3.61; barley $1.97; oats $1.20; and rye $2.17.

Loans for 1982 crop corn and soybeans may be taken out until May 31 at $2.42 per bushel for corn and $4.87 per bushel on soybeans.

Orpen also reminds farmers that March 31 is the deadline to place eligible 1981 and 1982 crop small grain in the three year reserve program.

39,335 Attend '83 Red River Winter Shows

Total attendance at the 1983 Red River Valley winter shows was 39,335 persons which is above the past five year average of 35,834.

This attendance figure was 359 less than the all time record of one year ago. Paid attendance was up 328 and season passes increased 554 from last year.

Plans are already underway for the 1984 winter shows scheduled for February 17 through February 26.

Grant Awarded To Aid Youth In Job Search

Inter-County community council's youth program has been awarded a grant for $47,000 to train and develop skills and provide assistance in job search.

This "school to work transition" project will assist economically disadvantaged high school seniors who plan to enter the labor market during the spring or summer of 1983.

Grant is available through the Greater Minnesota private industry council, inc. (PIC). Business, education and community leaders comprise the council. PIC is federally funded.

These students will get a head start on private employment opportunities by receiving job search skills training which is necessary in locating jobs in the "hidden" job market. The youth will also learn the latest techniques in seeking and keeping jobs in the private sector.

Employers of individuals belonging to a targeted group may also benefit by receiving a tax credit on their federal income tax through the targeted jobs tax credit program. Those youth qualifying for the job search program will be members of such a targeted group.

All school districts throughout Region I in northwestern Minnesota will be covered by this project. This includes Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Norman counties.

For more information on the youth job search program, parents, employers and high school seniors may contact Leanne Dodge, Youth Job Search Counselor, Thief River Falls Job Training Office, Thief River Falls, MN., 56701.

PROPOSED NEW MASTER'S DEGREE APPLIED BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE

Bemidji State University seeks to develop a new graduate program leading to the degree of Master of Arts. The program is designed for non-traditional adult students who wish to enhance their professional and educational skills. Courses will be offered evenings, weekends and possibly at off-campus locations.

The Applied Behavioral Science Master's degree will consist of a core of interdisciplinary courses in the behavioral sciences and a concentration in such areas as Organizational Administration, Applied Geography, Criminal Justice Administration, Human Services Management, Public Affairs, College Student Personnel, Research Methodology or Specialized Study.

As a part of the process of program approval, Bemidji State University has to document evidence of potential student interest in a proposed program. Therefore, if you are interested in this program it is important for you to contact: Dr. L. J. Downing, Dean of Graduate Studies, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, Minnesota 56601. Phone: (218) 755-2965.

Farm Families Urged To Attend Accident Wksp.

Nothwest Minnesota has the highest accidental death rate in Minnesota, according to the Quin county community health service.

Because injuries from accidents are the leading cause of death in the United States in the first three decades of life, the health service is planning a seminar to train the entire farm family.

Subjects to be covered include machine accidents, farm structure accidents, farm chemical accidents, controlling bleeding, splinting fractures, handling chemical accidents and heart saver training.

Seminar will be from 8:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the following dates and places: March 24, Warroad, American Legion hall; March 25, Greenbush, Greenlin supper club; March 26, East Grand Rorks, area vocational technical institute; and April 6, Thief River Falls, Northland community college.

Cost is $15 per person or $30 per family which includes all course materials, breaks and lunches.

To make reservations write: Roseann J. Campbell, R.N., EMS coordinator, St. Luke's hospitals, 5th St. N. at Mills Ave., Fargo, ND 58122, or call 701-280-6054.

No reservations can be accepted at the door.

Workshop is sponsored by the northwest Minnesota emergency medical services in cooperation with local rescue personnel, Minnesota agricultural estension service, North Dakota agricultural extension service, St. Luke's hospitals and the Fargo clinic.

New School Lunch Forms Curb Fraud

New school lunch application forms which schools began using last year are helping to curb fraud and abuse in the national school lunch program, according to a study released today by the U.S. department of agriculture.

Assistant secretary Mary Jarratt said the new application forms resulted in 10 per cent fewer applications approved for free meal benefits in schools taking part in the study. In addition, the number of approved reduced-price applications was about 15 per cent lower in schools using the new applications as compared with schools using the prior year's application.

Beginning in the fall of 1981, the law required applications for free and reduced price meal benefits to include the social security numbers of all adult household members and a listing of current income. Previously the applications had required only names, household size, total income and the signature of the parent or guardian.

"While the initial phase of the study was too limited to allow for a nationwide projection, it looks like the new application process is working effectively against misstatements of income in the school lunch program," Jarratt said. "That means money available for special assistance for free and reduced price meals is going to those for whom it was intended — the needy."

Savings in lunch reimbursement averaged more than four cents per meal. This could mean savings of millions of dollars nationwide each school year, Jarratt said.

The study showed that the new applications resulted in the reporting of an average annual increase in income of more than $500, suggesting that the new application is at least partially successful in preventing income underreporting.

The report contains findings from the first year of a two year income verification pilot project mandated by Congress in the omnibus budget reconciliation act of 1981. The study is intended to find ways to prevent and detect the misreporting of income and family size information on school meal applications.

During the first year (school year 1981-82) the test ran in 13 school districts scattered throughout the nation. It evaluated the effects of changes in the school meal application process, as well as two low-cost quality assurance procedures. The second year of the income verification pilot project is underway in more than 120 school districts this school year. It is testing a range of more complex income documentation and verification procedures in 60 of those sites.

The national school lunch program currently serves about 23 million children nationwide. Of these, about 10 million receive free lunches and about 1.5 million receive reduced-price lunches. Eligibility for free or reduced-price meals is based on Congressionally-mandated income guidelines.

Dr. Brothers Heads Medic Alert Week

Dr. Joyce Brothers will lead volunteers nationally during medic alert week, April 3-9, bringing emergency medical identification to the attention of millions of Americans who have a hidden medical condition.

"Medic alert gives peace of mind to people who have a special medical condition. The task of volunteers during medic alert week is to conduct eductional programs in their own communities, telling their friends and neighbors about the life-protecting service provided by medic alert," Brothers stated. "Anyone who has a special medical condition should take advantage of medic alert membership."

Nonprofit medic alert foundation has more than 1.8 million members who wear the medic alert emblem to assist in receiving proper medical treatment if, in an emergency, they were unable to speak. There are some 200 such special or hidden medical conditions, including diabetes, heart conditions, epilepsy or allergy to penicillin. If undetected by a physician in a medical emergency, these conditions could endanger the life of the patient when treatment is adminstered.

Unique medic alert system consists of an alerting device (worn as either a bracelet or necklace), a 24-hour emergency answering service, and a wallet card reissued every year to assure emergency medical personnel that they are working with medical history that is 12 months or less old.

Each alerting emblem is engraved with the member's hidden medical condition, his or her individual medic alert membership number and the toll-free number of the emergency answering service. If the member is stricken in a medical emergency and is unable to communicate his or her hidden condition, the emblem provides the information needed by emergency personnel who can then call medic alert and receive, within 30 seconds, the member's emergency medical data which has been stored in computer files.

For information, write Medic Alert, P.O. Box 1009, Turlock, CA 95381 or phone 800-344-3226. Regional offices are located in New York City and Chicago.

UND Enrolls 16 Freshman Merit Scholars

University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, ND ranks 73rd in the nation in the number of enrolled freshman national merit scholarship winners, according to a report by the national merit scholarship corporation.

Sixteen freshmen holding the prestigious scholarship are enrolled this year at the university, said UND president Thomas J. Clifford. No other college or university in the Dakotas or Montana is in the top 100, he noted.

Leading the list is Harvard university, with 295 freshmen holding such scholarships. The University of Minnesota is 29th with 44 first-year merit scholars.

Microbiology, CPR Courses Slated At UMC

Basic microbiology for nurses will be offered from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays beginning March 21 for 10 weeks in Dowell Hall 301 at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC).

Offered through continuing education, the course is designed to provide a background in general microbiology. Bacterial, viral, and fungal morphology and characteristics will be included, with the primary emphasis on clinical microbiology.

Topics will include mechanisms of infection, modes of transmission, prevention, and teatment of existing infections. This course would be of most value to students planning careers in health oriented fields or those with a strong interest in infectious diseases, according to Dr. Richard Christenson, continuing education coordinator.

Also beginning the same week is a four session course in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR). American Red Cross certification is received upon completion of the course.

CPR will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays on March 22, 24, 29, and 31 in Lysaker gym 139. Instructor is Sonia Spaeth.

For more information or to register contact the University at (218) 281-6510, extension 348.

CPLT Program Has Openings For Families

Children and parents learning together (CPLT), an early childhood and family education program, still has openings in some classes.

Change Still The Same

Lois Trapp, columnist whose writings are published in the Grafton (ND) Record, recently wrote the following about her home state which applies as well to northern Minnesota:

North Dakota, that "rectangular blank spot" on the U.S. map, made the national news with the tragic happenings at Medina. As always, bad news is news.

In the mail this week was a letter of comment from Gene Kemmer. As a high school boy he bagged my groceries at the local market. He is now a successful commercial artist in Los Angeles.

Speaking of my columns about the Los Angeles area, he said: "Your comments were well taken about this crowded cardboard city."

Quoting only in part, he said: "You, Lois, have returned to good old North Dakota, 'escaped' from the unsightliness of the city — and then what? Paramilitary survivalists in North Dakota? Cold-blooded murder sounds like something only for the city but obviously this is no longer true.

"The picture becomes increasingly clear — our entire country is changing and one must question how. That the distinct difference between Los Angeles and Medina, North Dakota, should be lessened by this sort of nightmare, seems to be quite a cruel sign of the times."

Yes, the country is changing. It always has, but the French have a saying: "The more things change, the more they stay the same."

The Posse Comitatus, of which Gordon Kahl is an alleged member, is nothing more than the old Vigilantes, wrapped in a lot of rhetoric about the Constitution and the Bible. It is kin, in some of its ideas, to the Ku Klux Klan. Sixty years ago, they were active in North Dakota, including our town. (According to a lady now deceased, when they found that Jews and Catholics — and the Negroes, who were scarce in these parts — were not going to take over the country, they used the leftover sheets to make fancy pillow cases for a church bazaar).

The tax-protest group, the "gold bugs" who insist that since the dollar is no longer backed by gold it is worthless, thus they have no income and owe no taxes; those who insist that the income tax is a Communist plot; these are not unique to our time. We have had groups rebelling against taxes with varying amounts of violence throughout our history. Remember the Whiskey Rebellion?

North Dakota is not immune to the follies that plague our nation. It just takes awhile for them to get here from New York and California, and the communications revolution has shortened the time.

North Dakota, still with a low crime rate, is seeing an upswing in many crimes. Some such increase has always occurred in times of economic stress. Those of us who lived through the Depression remember the increase in thievery and arson — remember that heavily insured barns and businesses sometimes burned mysteriously. We worry about the effect of drugs reaching our rural state and forget that during Prohibition a lot of people were injured or died from drinking rotgut whiskey, denatured alcohol or whatever, and that a lot of respectable citizens owe their survival to parents and grandparents who bootlegged booze to survive those difficult times.

The local paper this week carried a story of a nearby bar owner accused of allowing prostitution in his establishment. It is a part of local folklore that in the boom days of the railroad in Enderlin the Stabler brothers' saloon provided the same services.

It is not that there is nothing in the American scene that is disturbing — changes in attitudes on morality and religion — but one wonders if part of the change we feel is not due to increased media coverage and the casual discussion of things that were unmentionable 50 years ago. That and the fact that large parts of the country are more urban and crowded.

There are some changes that are for the better. Certainly we have more concern for our poor and sick and handicapped, even if the "safety net" has some holes. We are more aware of injustice to minorities than ever before in our history. That a Black man could win the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Chicago says someting. Whether or not he is elected may say more, of course.

I return with joy to "good old North Dakota," not because we are more peaceful, law abiding, and moral than the rest of the country, but because I revel in the simpler lifestyle, the space, the distance, the lack of pressure from too many people and too much traffic. For the foreseeable future, that probably won't change.

What Rome Never Learned

Following article was written by Martin Buxbaum and published in the Farmers' Almanac:

History teaches us little because we always assume we are generations wiser than those who have gone before us. We take no heed, even when the certain phases of history parallel our own.

History is a series of played-out dramas whose endings are known to us, yet we feel that this time the ending will be different. And because of this, we are always surprised when the curtain closes on the same ending after having followed the same plot.

History provides us, for example, with a clear look at the terrible drain the dole, or welfare, places upon a total society; worse yet, how it sometimes destroys those it professes to assist.

Almost a century before Christ, wealthy Roman landowners began driving the small farmers off the land in droves. The small, or individual, farmers could not compete with the great farms of the rich, so were forced to sell their land at whatever price the rich offered. Having then been deprived of their livelihoods, these farmers moved into Rome with their families. They were the panis frumentari, the urban unemployed. They were given grain from government stores on a regular monthly basis.

In 72 B.C., these unemployed reached a total of some 40,000. Thirty years later, under Julius Caesar, their numbers were more than 200,000.

Around 27 B.C., Augustus tried to reduce the number on welfare by refusing "those whose needs were pretended." He failed, for too many had been accustomed to free grain for too long.

Along with this great drain, Augustus had problems with the grain merchants. This group would occasionally withhold grain so as to force up the price, so a large supply of state grain was kept on hand to dump on the market whenever prices got too high.

To conduct welfare in an orderly fashion, a grain control token was issued (like our food stamps). The first of these were made of bronze and carried a portrait of the ruling emperor. Later, lead tokens were issued that could be redeemed weekly.

Under Emperor Aurelius (270-275 A.D.) the distribution of bread began instead of grain. Now those on welfare didn't even have to grind their own grain or bake their own bread. It is recorded that on the first day bread was given out, more than 300,000 persons gathered in the narrow streets before the bakeries (which were now nationalized) to redeem their tokens. Traffic was tied up for hours.

One recorder of the times says: "Under the system, the unemployed were encouraged to multiply, for those with more children received more bread." (Sound familiar?)

The State also had to set up an army of officials and clerks to administer this program, so the program became even more costly.

What followed was ironical, but seemingly just. The large landowners were required to pay larger and larger shares of their grain in taxes so that Rome could continue to feed the unemployed. Taxes became so great that one landowner remarked: "It is no longer a privilege to be a Roman, but a burden!"

Why weren't the unemployed given jobs? The State had no means set up to do this, so as a result, children grew up without trades, without proper education and many would spend their whole lives on welfare. And because of this, many turned to crime.

Rome never learned that when you give a man bread with one hand, you take away something else with the other hand — his incentive, his dignity. But when you give him work for his hands, he will supply his own needs.

Today, thousands stand around on street corners, victims of welfare, while cities decay for lack of repairs.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Parts of Murphy's Law include the truisms that the person who buys the most raffle tickets is the least frequently drawn as a winner and the child exposed to mumps for weeks won't come down with them until the day before the family is to leave on vacation.

PROJECT 120 ALLOWS high school students to meet with state representatives, political party leaders, lobbyists and reporters. Lincoln high school student Susan Block, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Block of Thief River Falls, recently met with state representative Wally Sparby, district 1B, at the state capitol as part of a week-long seminar designed to give students a first-hand look at the legislative process. Project 120, sponsored by urban concerns workshop, a non-partisan political education group, annually bring about 400 students to the capitol. Participants attend legislative sessions, committee meetings and a Supreme Court hearing.

STATE CAPITOL visitor under the Project 120 program, Susan Block of Thief River Falls met recently with Sen. LeRoy Stumpf About 30 high school juniors and seniors from throughout the state participate in the program each week.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The poem entitled "To My Parents" in the March 9 Times indeed gives us some idea what a child thinks and feels during and forever after when the most important people of his or her life are divorced! To be sure, no one wins and the children are hurt the most.

Also I think, there are times when a couple meets in divorce court the first time when the Judge should close the Law Book", call the couple before the bench, grab both of them by the nape of the neck, bang their heads together and tell them, "Now get the heck out of here, don't ever come back into my court or any other divorce court until you both are adult enough and mature enough to realize what you are doing. Start thinking of your children rather than just of yourselves for a change!"

Undoubtedly there are cases which are so hopelessly intolerable for the children that "in their best interest" both parents should be denied the "gift" of custody.

Perhaps then the parents would make as much effort to keep their marriage and family together as seems their determination to ruthlessly and heartlessly destory it!

Sincerely Yours for Family Rights
Rubert L. Wolfgram

To The Editor:

I would first like to thank Ardis Botner for her concern for our children's education in School Dist. 564. Her letter March 2 pointed out what cuts in the English department might mean for their futures.

Second, I want to thank Mike Lehrer for his letter and views of proposed budget cuts.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my feelings on some of these issues. I don't want to turn my back on what is happening in our education system. The low parent turn-out at the hearings is very disturbing.

I have expressed my concerns with parents whose comments vary from "it won't affect my children; we will move when they are school age" or "we would never send our child to the public schools."

Because they are ignoring some very important decisions being made now. I hope they will be able to move or afford the private school. But let's suppose they don't...

When cuts are made which will increase class size, how will this affect their children? Which classes will become larger? Would it be the classes with the most cuts! Proposed cuts in our English department are $45,286. Will they learn how to use a library properly with a proposed $48,405 cut? How will they be able to do basic math skills: Proposed budget cuts in math are $10,573.

My three children will all be in middle school next year. But, I would still hope for a quality education for those children just entering school, just as I want quality education for my children now.

I have viewed the records on cuts which are open to the public, attended proposed budget cut hearings, and called school board members with my views. To my surprise there has been very little public input to those persons making decisions.

Originally I (like many people) had viewed the school board as an adversary. However, upon examination of facts, I think they have the public's best interest in mind. I would like to encourage people who have an opinion to contact a board member SOON.

Please note that tonight, March 14, is a regular school board meeting.

Sincerely,
Geraldean Mostrom

BSU Student Newspaper Wins Awards

"Northern Student," the student newspaper of Bemidji state university (BSU), won three awards in college division of the 1982 Minnesota newspaper association better newspaper contest.

The BSU newspaper received a first place award for advertising excellence and a second place award in typography and design.

"Northern Student" is a student-operated and student-funded weekly newspaper that serves as a news source to the university community and an educational experience to college journalists.

College division of MNA contest gave first and second place awards in 18 categories for both two-year and four-year Minnesota schools.

Youth Program Now Accepting Job Applicants

Preparation is underway for the 1983 summer youth employment programs (SYEP) operated by Inter-County to serve the seven-county Region I area.

Funding level for the 1983 federally-funded SYEP will be: $337,846.00, down about 10 per cent from last year's initial allocation. Funding is divided in the following manner: Tri-Valley opportunity council, inc., Crookston, 42 per cent, northwest community action, inc., Badger, 26 per cent, and Inter-County community council, inc., Oklee, 32 per cent.

Applications are now being distributed in the Inter-County area. Youths between the ages of 14 and 21 years may pick up an application at any local high school or at the Job Service or Job Training (formerly CETA) offices in Crookston or Thief River Falls.

Applications will be collected by outreach personnel during the week of April 11. Collection sites will be established in each community, and times and dates will be advertised through the schools and area newspapers.

Summer programs will begin on June 13. Each participant will work for an eight week period of time and will be paid the federal minimum wage of $3.35 per hour.

Employers in both the public and private sectors may participate by hiring the summer youth workers. Private or public for-profit organizations are eligible for 50 per cent reimbursement of the wages paid during the eight weeks, with public or private non-profit organizations being eligible for the youth's full wage being subsidized by the program. An advantage that private sector employers have is that they may be eligible to claim tax credits on the youths hired after their OJT period on the program has expired.

At the present time, no concrete information is available regarding the funding levels for the state-funded Governor's youth program (GYP). However, applications will be taken for both programs (the same form is used for both the SYEP and GYP programs). Interested youths are encouraged to pick up their applications as soon as possible, if they are seeking summer employment.

AVTI Berry Workshops Are Rescheduled

Strawberry and raspberry workshops sponsored by the Thief River Falls AVTI have been rescheduled for March 21 and 22.

Strawberry workshop, an update to last year's workshop on production and marketing, will meet on Monday, March 21 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Raspberry workshop will meet on Tuesday, March 22 from 7 to 10 p.m. Dell Christianson from the Detroit Lakes AVTI will be the speaker for both workshops held at the AVTI. Fee of $7.50 will be charged for each workshop.

BSU Sponsors Test Battery Analysis Class

Interpretation of the Woodcock-Johnson battery of tests is the topic of another course in the weekender series offered by the Bemidji state university (BSU) center for extended learning.

Workshop, scheduled for April 8-9 on the BSU campus, considers the types of scores available from Woodcock-Johnson and the most effective ways to interpret test results. Participants should have knowledge in administration and scoring of the battery and are encouraged to bring case studies for discussion.

Taught by Patricia Quistgaard, the class meets from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday evening and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in Deputy 113.

Course is available for undergraduate or graduate credit at respective costs of $17.65 and $22.60.

Weekenders are one-credit workshops designed to help educators make their classrooms more exciting and effective.

More information or registration materials are available by contacting Ed Gersich, Center for Extended Learning, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601 (218-755-2068).

For specific information contact the Minnesota Council on Health Promotion and Wellness, 1645 Hennepin Ave., Minneapolis 55403; (612) 341-7044.

WHEAT GROWERS AND emergency food shelf volunteers pitched in to unload the 40,000 pounds of flour donated to the food share warehouse in Gilbert. Pictured assisting the food shelf volunteers are wheat grower board member Marv Zutz (left) and wheat grower secretary Clarence Vatthauer (right front), both of Red Lake Falls. An additional 60,000 pounds were delivered to the food shelf warehouse in St. Paul. The 100,000 total was the first shipment of flour for the unemployed in the Twin Cities and on the iron range collected through the Minnesota wheat growers flour fund.

Sparby Bill On Barley PIK Passes House

Minnesota House of Representatives voted to send Representative Walley Sparby's resolution to include barley in the payment in kind (PIK) program to President Reagan, the secretary of agriculture, and Minnesota's congressional delegation.

In his presentation to the House, Sparby, District 1B, explained his views on the necessity of including barley by saying that about 9,400 Minnesota farmers produce barley and there are about 79 million bushels in storage.

"Barley is a member of the feed grain family," he said, "so it should be included in the PIK program to reduce the oversupply. Minnesotans who grow barley or barley and other grains need the help of the PIK program, too."

Barley sold for $3.45 a bushel in 1974 but for only $1.49 per bushel in late 1982. The price has steadily declined in the past few years.

The resolution was passed unanimously by the agriculture committee of the House and then passed the House on a very positive voice vote. Sparby was commended by both DFL and IR legislators for his effort to bring this issue to the attention of the secretary of agriculture.

10,000 Pounds Donated Flour Aids Jobless

First shipments of flour totalling 100,000 pounds, which was collected through the Minnesota wheat growers flour fund, has been delivered to the emergency food shelf warehouses in St. Paul and Gilbert.

According to Minnesota wheat growers president Harry Howard of Warren, contributions to acquire the flour were received from farmers, country elevator operators, banks and businesses in rural communities, as part of the wheat growers' drive to provide wheat flour to the unemployed in Minnesota. The flour will be distributed from the warehouses to the various food shelves in the seven county metropolitan area around the twin cities and on the iron range.

Don Loeslie, president of the national association of wheat growers from Warren, made the official presentation to Governor Rudy Perpich at a rally for the unemployed in Duluth sponsored by the Minnesota AFL-CIO. "Farmers and labor share the burden of a depressed economy," Loeslie told the 5,000 unemployed workers gathered at the rally. "Many of you here today may, in fact, be unemployed because of the depressed agricultural economy," he said.

Loeslie explained to the workers that the United States exports two bushels of wheat for every one bushel that U.S. consumers eat domestically, and this creates jobs and "brings the Japanese Yen and the Russian Ruble to our shores." Loeslie also stressed the value of agriculture to the overall economy. In referring to agriculture, he emphasized that he was not just addressing the three per cent of the population that live and work on farms, but fully 23 per cent of the work force in the United States. He said this includes the people on the iron range that mine the ore that is ultimately purchased by farmers in the form of machinery and equipment, and all of the others who provide services and inputs to agriculture and process and transport agricultural commodities after they leave the farm.

Loeslie concluded his remarks by asking the workers' assistance to achieve higher income in agriculture. He indicated that the wheat farmer receives about 4.5 cents from a one pound loaf of bread. He added however, if farmers received $5 a bushel for their wheat instead of $3.50 per bushel, the price of the bread should only increase by 2.5 cents, but many of the unemployed on the iron range would be back to work.

Stangeland Votes Against Band-Aid Bill

Congressman Arlan Stangeland voted against the bill for changing social security which the House of Representatives passed by 282-148 vote Wednesday.

"Instead of approving a way to revitalize the ailing program, Congress prescribed a bigger dose of the same medicine that has weakened social security for decades," Congressman Stangeland said. "This is a 'band-aid bill' that raises taxes, reduces benefits and delays decisions and costs which will be passed on to our children.

"We all agree that social security must be preserved, but this bill doesn't do the job," he said. "Look at the people who will be hurt by the proposals:

—"Senior citizens, who will lose between $1,100 and $1,800 because of delayed COLA benefits; this will fall most heavily on the four million retirees who are living at or below the poverty line!

—"Senior citizens who invested for their retirement, who will have their social security benefits taxed away; this will discourage young people who are saving for their retirements, and will put a "means test" on social security;

—"Farmers and small business owners, who will pay double the payroll taxes that any other American worker pays;

—"Workers, who will have seven years of tax increases moved forward;

—"Young people, who will find it harder to get jobs because of higher payroll taxes for themselves and their prospective employers;

—"Most families who will now pay more social security taxes than income taxes;

—"Taxpayers, who will pay hundreds of billions of dollars for tax credits, for direct treasury transfers to social security, for bailing out the civil service retirement system, and for other items that don't even have price-tags yet; and —"Our children, who will be paying for decades because Congress failed to act now in a responsible fashion.

"All these sacrifices might have been worth it if social security had been guaranteed," Congressman Stangeland said. "But this plan is merely a delaying tactic, putting off the day of political reckoning for another few years.

"When you get right down to it, this plan hurts everyone that social security is supposed to help," he said. "That's not my idea of a rescue plan. It is more of a 'rubber-stamp' approval of a political deal.

"For two years, you have heard me say that any social security reform would have to pass three basic tests," he said. "First, the basic benefits of retirees must be maintained. Second, the long-term solvency of the system must be guaranteed. Third, payroll taxes on both workers and employers must not be raised to levels which impair our economy.

"This plan flunks all three tests," Congressman Stangeland said.

"This may have been our last chance to make reasonable changes in social security," he said. "But instead of facing squarely the problems of social security, the Congress passed a bill that allowed Washington to avoid the politically-sensitive issue of caring for our senior citizens, our economy and our future.

TRF Teams Finish 66-65-1

A busy 1982-83 Thief River Falls winter sports season for Lincoln high school and Northland community college teams ended with the seven varsity squads producing a combined 66-65-1 won-loss-tie mark for the season.

Best finish was turned in by the Northland basketball team. The Northmen were 18-4 this winter with a runner-up finish to Fergus Falls in the Northwest Division standings and a third place finish at the 1983 Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) state tournament.

Lincoln hockey team was 16-6-1 for the year, finishing third in the final regular season Section 8 standings and reaching the 1983 Section 8 tournament finals before losing a tough 1-0 decision to Roseau.

Northland hockey team wound up 10-10 for the year with a 10-8 third place regular season finish in the MCCC standings, plus a pair of state tournament losses.

Rest of the teams had losing records.

Northland women's basketball team finished 8-11, including a 3-8 mark in the Northwest Division.

Lincoln basketball team was 7-12, losing four straight at the end, including a 70-34 drubbing to Moorhead in the North Half Region 8AA tournament quarterfinals.

Lincoln boys swimming team was 4-8 in dual meet competition. The Prowlers, who qualified divers Todd Wing and Jeff Rosetta for the state meet over the weekend in Minneapolis, also participated in three invitational meets, plus the post-season Section 4 championships.

Lincoln girls basketball team was 3-14, with a 12-game losing streak taking up much of the season. The Prowlers finished with a 52-34 loss at Fergus Falls in the North Half Region 8AA tournament quarterfinals.

Spring Sports Still In Question

Spring sports line-up at Lincoln high school is still unsettled because of budget cuts faced by School District 564.

Definitely on tap for the Prowlers will be track and field for boys and girls, plus tennis for boys.

It's still uncertain, though, if baseball, boys and girls golf or intramural softball will be offered for girls. Those sports have been designated as community-funded activities and fund-raisers are currently underway to support those programs. Tentative schedules have been drawn up for the teams, but it hasn't been determined yet if enough money has been or will be raised to field teams.

Miscellaneous

+ Northland community college football coach John Helley announced the Northmen will open their 1983 season with a Sun., Sept. 11, non-conference game at Bemidji State University, playing the Beavers' junior varsity in a 7:30 p.m. start. Northland will then face four straight MCCC Iron Range teams, playing Sept. 17 at Itasca; Sept. 24 at Vermilion; Oct. 1 vs. Hibbing; and Oct. 8 vs. Mesabi; before finishing against Northwest Division rivals Oct. 15 at Brainerd; Oct. 22 vs. Fergus Falls; and Oct. 29, at University of Minnesota-Crookston. For the first time this fall the Minnesota Community College Conference will use a four-division format for football instead of the two-division set-up. Winners of the Northwest and Northeast Divisions will meet in the first round of post-season play, with the Southern and Central Division winners also paired off. Those first round winners will then meet in the state championship game. Under that new set-up, Golden Valley Lutheran, a member of the Northern Division in the past, will be playing in the Central Division and will not appear on the schedules of the northern team.

+ With the conclusion of winter sports activities for the teams in The Times' coverage area, we'd like to publicly thank the coaches who reported scores to us that we were able to pass along to our readers. Middle River Girls Drop 49-44 Region 8A Game To Cass Lake

Cass Lake, leading from start to finish, used the outside shooting of sophomore guard Anita Hanson and the inside play of 6-0 junior center Jennifer Neises to beat Middle River 49-44 Friday in the opening game of the 1983 Region 8A girls high school basketball tournament at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Before the game, Middle River coach Tom Neibauer figured if the Skippers could rebound on even terms with the taller Panthers they could win the match-up of once-beaten champions from Districts 32 and 29. But mostly because of Neises they weren't able to stay with the winners on the backboards or the scoreboard. In addition to her rebounding, which led to a 33-21 Cass Lake edge on the boards, Neises scored 11 points and blocked a half-dozen or so shots.

"We got beat on the boards", acknowledged Neibauer. "I had no idea No. 14 (Neises) was that tough on the boards. I thought we could rebound with them."

Neises wasn't the only Cass Lake player to surprise Neibauer, who watched the Panthers in their 34-31 District 29 championship game win over Akeley. Hanson didn't score 16 points from the outside in that one, either.

"So much for one-shot scouting operations," quiped Neibauer. "I guess I picked the wrong night to see them play. I didn't think they'd shoot from the outside like that."

It was the first-ever Region 8A appearance for Middle River while Cass Lake was in it for the third time in the past four years, and at the beginning it showed as the Panthers opened up a 12-4 lead on the Skippers, who appeared to have stage fright. But they shook off early turnover problems to pull within 14-11 at the end of the first quarter as 5-8 junior forward Diane Black, who would wind up with a team-leading 14 points from the inside, sandwiched close-in baskets around a Paula Rantanen free throw over the final 1:21.

"Our kids were a little tight at the start," confirmed Neibauer.

Cass Lake showed its rebound edge at the start of the second quarter when the Panthers got off five shots in a flurry around the basket before Neises scored on the fourth rebound attempt for a 16-11 edge. But again Middle River came back, duplicating its five-point surge at the end of the first quarter to close out the half as Rantanen came up with a steal and a length of the court dribble for a fast break lay-up, Black made one of two free throws and guard Jody Christofferson hit a short jumper as the Cass Lake lead dwindled to 20-19 at intermission.

Middle River, though, was never able to wrestle the lead away from the Panthers, who got a fast break lay-up off the second half jump by sophomore forward Jean Holstein to maintain a lead they never relinquished. The margin climbed to as much as 10 points, 38-28, with 1:58 left before yet another quarter-ending Middle River surge, which included a steal and a fast break lay-up by guard Vonda Peterson to end the quarter, got the Skippers back within 38-34.

Cass Lake didn't fold, however, as the Panthers, who lost all six games in their three previous Region 8A appearances, rebuilt the margin to 48-40 on back-to-back baskets underneath by junior forward Jolyn Holstein with 3:12 remaining in the game.

Single free throws by Black and Christofferson, plus a short jumper off a rebound by Kari Skoglund, had Middle River back within 48-44 with 28 seconds left, but that was as close as they got.

Cass Lake coach Carl Schirmer acknowledged the Panthers' ability to maintain their composure in the face of those numerous Middle River rallies was the key to the win for his club. "That's the difference in this club," he said. "This is the third year here for some of these girls. Before in those situations we've totally folded. It was an up and down game for us, but I guess we played the way I thought we would. We relaxed a little when we had a 10-point lead and they got back in the game."

"I thought we'd get them in the third quarter," noted Neibauer. "I thought if we could have gotten the lead we would have held it."

Cass Lake had a definite shooting edge. The Panthers were 21-for-47 from the field (45 per cent) and 7-for-14 at the free throw line (50 per cent). The Skippers, meanwhile, were 19-for-56 from the field (34 per cent) and only 6-for-16 at the line (38 per cent). Cass Lake wound up with more turnovers, 20-14.

LOOKING FOR A shot or a teammate to pass the ball to, Middle River forward Kari Skoglund had to contend with the defensive efforts of Cass Lake's Chris Norenberg during Friday's Region 8A girls high school basketball tournament game played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. The District 29 champion Panthers beat the District 32 champion Skippers 49-44.

Argyle..............29

In a game that most observers thought would be for the Region 8A title, Middle River breezed by Argyle 40-29 in Saturday's third place game.

Pre-tournament favorite Argyle, upset 45-42 by Waubun the night before, was never in it as Middle River shot a blistering 62 per cent from the field (13-for-21) en route to a 26-7 halftime bulge.

"We really played well in the first half," explained Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "The kids were loose. We executed well and we passed the ball really well."

Diane Black and Jody Christofferson had 13 and 12 points, respectively, for the winners. Julie Rapacz scored 10 for the Eagles.

Although it didn't result in a Region 8A title, the season-ending victory felt good, noted Neibauer. "We went from 7-11 (last year) to 21-2 so we can't be too disappointed," he said.

IT WAS A difficult assignment, but 5-9 Middle River center Paula Rantanen was able to take this rebound away from 6-0 Cass Lake center Jennifer Neises during Friday's Region 8A girls high school basketball tournament game played in Crookston. Jody Christofferson of the Skippers looked on. The Panthers won the game 49-44.

Lincoln Divers Take Part In State Meet

Thief River Falls divers Todd Wing and Jeff Rosetta placed 14th and 20th, respectively, in a field of 40 at the 1983 Minnesota state high school swimming and diving championships held Friday and Saturday at the Cooke Hall pool on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis.

Wing, a sophomore who won the Section 4 diving title at Bemidji State earlier this month, and Rosetta, a junior and the Section 4 runner-up, both had visions of a top-12 finish and a spot in the finals at the state event.

Still, Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney said their performances met a preseason goal of having them both finish in the top 20 at the state meet.

"We were well satisfied with their performances," reported Forney. "The kids felt about as well as they just about could have about their performances. We've got to be pleased with what they did."

Forty divers began the preliminary round competition Friday at 10 a.m. The field was cut to 32 after three dives; trimmed to 16 after five dives; and finally reduced to 12 finalists after eight dives.

Mounds View won the state swimming title with 94 points, followed by Northfield with 78 and Hibbing with 65 to round out the 54 teams who scored at least one point in the event.

Mike Yasif of St. Paul Johnson was the diving champion with 422.70 points.

Joe Vrudny of Brainerd was the only Section 4 finalist, finishing second in both the 100-yard backstroke (53.70) and the 200-yard individual medley (1:59.82).

Lakers, Tigers Will Meet For Region 8 Title

Detroit Lakes and St. Cloud Tech will meet Friday in the 1983 Region 8AA high school basketball tournament championship game at Concordia College in Moorhead.

Same two teams met in the finals a year ago, with the Tigers beating the Lakers for a state tournament trip.

Detroit Lakes emerged as the North Half Region 8AA winner Saturday with a 46-39 victory over Moorhead, while Tech edged Cold Spring-Rocori 44-42 in the South Half Region 8AA finals that same night.

In the semifinals Thursday, Detroit Lakes upset No. 1-seeded East Grand Forks 57-55 and Moorhead dumped Fergus Falls 58-48 in the North, while Tech outlasted Little Falls 46-44 in eight overtimes and Rocori beat St. Cloud Apollo 68-49 in the South.

Huskies Lose 61-55 To Stephen In District 31

Goodridge watched its 1982-83 high school basketball season come to an end Thursday with a 61-55 loss to Stephen in the District 31 tournament quarterfinals.

The Huskies opened with a 12-6 first quarter lead and had an 18-12 edge midway through the second quarter before surrendering 11 straight points to trail 23-18 at halftime. Stephen had a 38-30 edge entering the final quarter.

"We didn't respond to Stephen's defensive change," explained Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "We weren't aggressive. They tried hard, they hustled and they never quit, but our timing was off because of the lay-off, he said in reference to a 13-day break from the Huskies' final regular season game and their post-season opener.

Dan Schindele (26) and Scott Gratzek (21) combined for 46 points as the Tigers moved into the District 32 semifinals. Goodridge had four double figure scorers as Jeff Langan finished with 14 points, Darin Easthouse 12, Tony Wiseth 11 and Scott Groven 10.

Stephen shot 58 per cent from the field for the game (23-for-40) while Goodridge shot only 36 per cent (22-for-61). The Huskies shot 69 per cent at the free throw line on a 9-for-13 showing while the Tigers shot 54 per cent on a 15-for-28 night. Goodridge had a 29-25 rebound edge and Stephen topped the turnover figures 15-13.

Three key factors in the outcome, noted Nelson was the two-week Goodridge lay-off; the fact that Stephen had the home court edge; and in the fourth quarter when the Huskies pulled within five points, three times they watched the Tigers miss the front ends of bonus free throw opportunities, only to have a long rebound come off into the hands of Stephen players, who promptly put the ball back in the hoop..

Goodridge finished the year 10-9 overall.

THIS IS WHAT Middle River shooters had to contend with Friday in the Skippers' Region 8A girls high school basketball tournament assignment against Cass Lake as the Panthers' 6-0 Jennifer Neises towered over the Skippers' Diane Black, who tried to get off a shot in the first half of the game played at UMC. Cass Lake came out a 49-44 winner behind the scoring, rebounding and shot-blocking of Neises.

Northland Has Successful 18-4 Basketball Season In 1982-83

An 18-4 record — the second best mark in school history — and a third place finish in the state tournament at the expense of Golden Valley Lutheran, the Edina of the Minnesota Community College Conference, made it a successful 1982-83 season for the Northland community college basketball team, according to Northland coach Chet Engelman.

"The season was interesting and enjoyable," said Engelman. "I thought our kids did a good job, especially when you consider the fact that a couple of people we expected to play important roles for us, didn't," he explained in reference to freshmen Jay Gray of Bagley and Bud Fontes of Canton, Ohio. They were both ticketed for big years, but Gray left the squad before the season began and Fontes played only briefly at the start.

But that still left enough basketball talent for the Northmen to run off a 12-game winning streak and finish 9-2 in the Northwest Division, where two losses by a total of eight points to Fergus Falls forced them to settle for second place behind the Spartans. Fergus Falls won by a 101-95 count here and triumphed 83-82 at home a week later in overtime, a game that hurt the Northmen most, said Engelman. Northland went into the game minus season-long starter at point guard, Duncan Gregory, who was lost for the rest of the year because of a disciplinary move, and had both Matt Fontes and Kyle Ramsey, two of the team's top performers, in early foul trouble.

"The game at Fergus Falls was a little disappointing," confirmed Engelman. "Our kids played well, but it was one of those games where we felt the officials took it away from us."

Still, Northland made it into the state tournement, where the Northmen beat Vermilion 76-73 in the opening round quarterfinals, lost to eventual champion Rochester 115-87 in the semifinals and came up with a very satisfying 88-70 third place game victory over pre-tournament favorite Golden Valley Lutheran, a long-time Northland post-season nemisis.

"Most of the time we had to work hard for what we got," admitted Engelman. "We didn't blow many people away. But at the state tournament we probably came closer to playing up to our potential than any other team we've had down there. The game against Golden Valley was obviously very satisfying for us."

Matt Fontes, a 6-4 sophomore from Canton, Ohio, was the Northland leader. He drew rave reviews at the state tournament that capped an outstanding two-year career that ended with 1,100 points, second on the all-time Northland scoring charts behind Terry Harris' 1,440 points, and ahead of David Dickey's 1,073 points. Those three are the only 1,000-point scorers in Northland's 18-year basketball history. Fontes averaged 24.4 points in 45 games for the Northmen. He finished as the school career record holder for field goal percentage, going 451-for-721 from the field, a 62.5 per cent shooting eye. His 28.6 scoring average this winter is also a new standard, breaking Harris' 28.2 figure in 1979-80.

Fontes got all the ink, and deservedly so, noted Engelman, but Scott McKeever, a 5-10 sophomore from Middle River, was just as important to the success of the Northmen. "McKeever was an extremely important part of our team," said Engelman. "But really, everybody was important to us. They all had their roles to fill, and they all did their jobs."

McKeever finished with an 18.1 scoring average, and finished second to Fontes in the assist category 103-89. Fontes also led the team with 77 recoveries, 46 blocked shots and 280 rebounds while shooting a record 63 per cent from the field (245-for-389) and cashing in on a busy 140-for-195 year at the free throw line as teams constantly drew fouls unsuccessfully trying to stop him.

Gregory and reserve Thad Forman were the only other sophomores on the team. List of freshmen was headed by Ramsey, a smooth 6-4 forward-guard from Milwaukee, and Shorty Johnson, a hard-working 6-4 forward-center from Kenai, Alaska.

Steve Holloway (Argyle), Kevin Sanders (TRF) and Rick Van Camp (Newfolden) also played key roles as freshmen for the Northmen.

"We'll have a good nucleus coming back," noted Engelman, but he'll have two big holes to fill with the absence of Fontes and McKeever.

"We won't have any trouble replacing the numbers (of departing sophomores), but replacing the quality will be a problem," he admitted. "I don't know where we'll find another Matt or another Scott. In fact, I don't think we can find a specific guy who will do as much as Matt or Scott for us. We'll just have to find some kids who; with their combined talents, might be able to do the things that Matt or Scott could do individually."

Northland's 1982-83 regular season started with the Red River Invitational at Winnipeg where the Northmen beat Assiniboine community college 99-68 and the University of Winnipeg 117-69 before losing to the Grand Forks Air Force Base 124-112 in the finals. Then came that 12-game winning streak as the Northmen beat Red River 113-68 and 87-67; Bemidji State JV 93-75 and 103-63; Air Base 101-94; Rainy River 95-81; Hibbing 87-83; Vermilion 93-88; Mesabi 78-69; Brainerd 117-96; Itasca 72-35; and the University of Minnesota-Crookston 98-80. Down the stretch the Northmen lost those two starts to Fergus Falls, but completed sweeps against Brainerd 87-75 and UMC 77-75.

Team records this winter included a 66.7 field goal percentage against Hibbing (32-for-48); an 88.0 free throw percentage against Hibbing (23-for-26) and again against Rochester (15-for-17); and the 35 points by Itasca represented the fewest points ever allowed a divisional opponent.

District 32 Title Game Is Tonight

Field for the 1983 Region 8A boys high school basketball tournament will be completed tonight (Monday) when the District 32 champion is crowned at Newfolden.

University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) will host the state tournament-qualifying Region 8A event. In Friday's semifinals, District 29 champion Littlefork-Big Falls will play District 31 winner Argyle at 7 p.m. while District 30 representative Ada will meet either Hallock or Tri-County of District 32 at 8:45.

Saturday's game times will be 6:30 p.m. for the third place game and 8:15 for the title contest.

District 32

Hallock and Tri-County meet tonight at Newfolden for the title in the District 32 tournament, set back last week by weather.

In Thursday's semifinals, Hallock edged Lancaster 49-47 and Tri-County knocked off Kennedy 63-56.

Lancaster and Kennedy meet in the third place game at 6:30 tonight, with the Bears and Rabbits squaring off for the title at 8:15.

Argyle got by Warren 19-16 in three overtimes Saturday in the low-scoring District 31 finals at Crookston Central high school.

In play dating back to Thursday's quarterfinals, Argyle beat Alvarado 53-41, Stephen stopped Goodridge 61-55, Warren handled Oslo 51-20 and Red Lake Falls eliminated Fisher 63-41.

In Friday's semifinals, Argyle downed Stephen 54-44 and Warren defeated Red Lake Falls 53-28.

Stephen took third place honors Saturday with a 52-34 decision over Red Lake Falls.

Ada stopped previously unbeaten Fosston 49-44 for the District 30 title Thursday at UMC.

McIntosh-Winger edged Gary 55-54 for third place.

Littlefork-Big Falls shaded Nevis 57-56 in the District 29 championship game Thursday at Bemidji State University.

Clearbrook beat Northome 59-45 for third place.

Waubun, Albany Win Region 8 Girls Crowns

Waubun and Albany emerged as winners over the weekend in regional girls high school basketball tournament play.

Region 8A tournament was played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston Friday and Saturday, with District 30 champion Waubun the surprise winner. The Bombers upset pre-tournament favorite Argyle 45-42 in the semifinals and defeated Cass Lake 37-31 in the finals.

Middle River, a 49-44 first-round victim of Cass Lake, bounced back to beat Argyle 40-29 for third place honors.

In the finals of the Region 8AA tournament Friday, host Albany edged Bemidji 37-36 for the title. The two teams reached the title game by winning their North and South Half Region 8AA playoffs.

State tournament play starts Thursday in the Twin Cities. Waubun will play Region 4A winner Henderson at 7:05 p.m. at the Met Sports Center in Bloomington in Class A quarterfinal play while Albany will face Region 3AA champion Derham Hall at 3:15 p.m. at the Minneapolis Auditorium in Class AA quarterfinal competition.

Semifinals and finals in both classes will be played at the Met Center.

Vikings-TRF Basketball Is Set Saturday

James (Duck) White, Rickey Young and Bob Bruer will headline the talented Minnesota Vikings basketball team that will be in Thief River Falls Saturday for a 7 p.m. game against the Thief River Falls All-Stars in the Lincoln high school gym.

Thief River Falls All-Stars squad includes such notables as Dwight Tanquist, Roger Reuter, Don Howe, Rev. Dave Super, Clark Hendrickson, Tom Ronchetti, Dave Finsas, Bob Fleming, Matt Fontes, Al Buhl, Wayne Peterson and Paul Williams. For added insurance and protection against injuries, the All-Stars have also added the services of Dr. Bob Dicken of the Falls Clinic to the roster.

Free autographs of the Vikings players (maybe the All-Stars, too) will be available after the game.

Advance sale tickets are available at Larson Music, TG Sporting Goods and Kordel Furniture. Advance sale tickets are priced at $3.50 for adults and $2.25 for students in grades K-12. Tickets will be priced $4 and $2.75 at the door.

Hockey Title Is Won Saturday By Hill-Murray

Hill-Murry defeated Burnsville 4-3 Saturday to win the 1983 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament at the St. Paul Civic Center, capping an unbeaten season for the first-time champion Pioneers.

Henry Sibley edged Columbia Heights 4-3 in the third place game and Edina stopped Roseau 6-1 in the consolation finals of the three-day, eight-team tournament.

Section 8 champion Roseau lost a first-round 4-1 game to Henry Sibley Friday and got by Bloomington Kenney 3-2 Friday in the consolation semifinals.

In addition to the on-ice activity, the week also included the annual meeting of the Minnesota Hockey Coaches Association, and Larry Ross of International Falls was voted coach of the year; Rube Bjorkman of Warroad was named winner of the Cliff Thompson Award, given for long-term service to hockey; and Mike Lundby of Crookston was elected president of the association.

Tournament Results

Quarterfinals — Columbia Heights 2, Edina 0; Burnsville 4, International Falls 0; Henry Sibley 4, Roseau 1; Hill-Murray 6, Bloomington Kennedy 5.

DNR NEWS

Department of Natural Resources has announced that it will operate a youth conservation corps program in Minnesota state parks again this summer.

The program is for 15-18 year olds, and the young men and women will receive $3.35 per hour. They will work 35 hours per week and receive five hours per week environmental awareness training in an outdoor education program.

They will be employed on trails, campgrounds and building rehabilitation jobs in addition to other conservation related work.

Those wishing to apply should pick up an application at their local high school or Job Service office. Applications must be turned in to the local Job Service Office by April 8.

DNR Arrests

Thirty-four phone calls on the Turn In Poachers hot line at the Department of Natural Resources last month resulted in the arrest of 14 violators of the state game and fish laws.

Seven of the arrests were for deer violations, five for fishing infractions and one each for bear and trapping.

Persons who wish to report a violation but remain anonymous and collect a reward may call the special toll free TIP number 1-800-652-9093.

Deer Charges

A Blackduck man, Glen Dale Lutgen, 40, pleaded guilty to a charge of shining wild animals when he appeared in Beltrami county District Court on February 17, and was given a month in jail and fined $1,000.

Lutgen was arrested by state conservation officers the night of October 5, 1982.

Judge James Preece suspended five months of a six month jail term and Lutgen's plea was entered after the county attorney agreed to dismiss a charge of resisting arrest.

Lutgen also lost his big game hunting privileges for three years and conservation officers confiscated equipment used for deer shining.

School Board Proceedings

March 14, 1983
Special Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
February 10, 1983

A Special Board Meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held to hear public input on the proposed budget cuts for 1983-84 at 7:30 p.m. on February 10, 1983 in the Lincoln High School Auditorium.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Archie Cameron, Myrle Carlson, Hank Hallstrom, Larry McDowell, and Harry Sjulson. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Chairman Harry Sjulson called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. and welcomed all those attending. Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

Chairman Sjulson outlined the reasons for the proposed cuts and asked Superintendent Block to go through the summary of reductions as was distributed to the audience. Mr. Block explained just what some of the major cuts would mean. Proposed cuts specifically discussed included:

1. Closing of Knox Elementary School
2. Four-Day Week of Variation of One
3. Central Office
4. Maintenance and Operations
5. Food Services
6. Transportation
7. Elementary
8. Support Services
9. Extra-Curricular
10. School Administration
11. Art
12. Business
13. English
14. Foreign Languages
15. Physical Education
16. Home Economics
17. Industrial Education
18. Mathematics
19. Music
20. Natural Science
21. Social Science
22. Ag Education
23. Educational Media
24. Counseling-Guidance
25. Kindergarten
26. Northwest Vocational Center.

Total proposed reductions equal approximately $944,000.

Chairman Sjulson went over the procedure that would be used for individual presentation. He asked that anyone wishing to speak concerning any of the proposed cuts should sign-up on one of the sheets that was distributed and use the podium and mike at the front of the room.

Five individuals spoke regarding their concerns with the proposed cuts. Their concerns dealt with the following:

1. The method used in recording the reductions and the fact that the cuts are in relation to the Proposed 1983-84 Budget. A comparison of last year's budget to the 1983-84 budget after the proposed cuts are made was given in some areas.

2. A suggestion of using anticipation bonds as a means of generating interest money was given.

3. Concern was expressed regarding the average class sizes that will be created because of the cuts and also that the cuts be made in areas that least effect students.

4. The possibility of the taxpayer being asked to contribute more in order to avoid cuts to such a large degree was suggested.

5. Concern was expressed that the extra-curricular program not be cut to such an extent that concerts, musicals, etc. are no longer available to students nor the public.

6. Suggestions were offered to the Board concerning a variation of the four-day week whereby Christmas vacation would be lengthened thus allowing for savings in energy and transportation; cutting those extra-curricular programs that are most costly to the district; better control of heating systems for the greater energy savings; and the possibility of more cuts in administration rather than in teaching staff.

7. Concern was expressed that the proposed class rations were deceptive in that all staff were figured into the ratios.

Superintendent Block then reacted to some of the concerns brought up during these presentations. He stated that it was necessary to begin the budget cutting process at this time because of the timelines established in the unrequested leave process. He further stated that the need for such a large cut is due to the loss in enrollment, loss because of unpaid taxes, and the financial condition in the state where it's possible that the district may not receive the $1,475 per pupil unit as is proposed. As far as additional savings in energy costs is concerned, Superintendent Block stated that a great deal of work has been done in the schools already resulting in savings; however, old buildings need a lot of work. Regarding the concern over class size ratios, he stated they are strictly averages and some classes may have more and some will have less. He also stated that only classroom teachers are used in figuring class ratios, not administrators. In relation to the extra-curricular program, Mr. Block talked about the Citizen's Advisory Committee's recommendation to the Board to fund those sports that require such things as a gym, arena, football field, etc; things that participants cannot provide on their own. He also stated he felt that kids need something to do after the school day and cannot be just dumped on the street at 3:00.

Chairman Sjulson stated that the Board was legally required to balance the budget. No formal action was taken on any of the proposals. He thanked all those present and those who expressed their concerns.

Meeting adjourned at 8:15 p.m.

Regular Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
February 14, 1983

A Regular Meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held at 8:00 p.m. on February 14, 1983 in the Board Room of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Archie Cameron, Myrle Carlson, Hank Hallstrom, Larry McDowell, Greg Pribula, and Harry Sjulson. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Chairman Harry Sjulson called the meeting to order and Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the Minutes of the January 24, 1983 Regular Board Meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by A. Aune to approve the Minutes of the February 3, 1983 General Board Meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve the Minutes of the February 7, 1983 Special Board Meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

Dave Gobilrsch of Springsted, Inc. and Don Wyzyloski and Myron Knutson of Evensen-Dodge, Inc. gave presentations concerning the possibility of employing their representative company as bond consultants in the sale of aid and-or tax anticipation certificates.

Following discussion, a motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by G. Pribula to approve the firm of Springsted, Inc. to act as bond consultants in the sale of aid and-or tax anticipation certificates. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: A. Aune - yes; A. Cameron - no; M. Carlson - no; H. Hallstrom - no; L. McDowell - no; G. Pribula - yes; and H. Sjulson - no. Motion failed.

Following further discussion, a motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by M. Carlson to approve that if the Evensen-Dodge firm supplies the Board of Education with additional cash flow data and if the Board determines at that time to proceed with the sale of aid and-or tax anticipation certificates, that the Evensen-Dodge firm be employed for that purpose. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: A. Cameron - yes; M. Carlson - yes; H. Hallstrom - yes; L. McDowell - yes; G. Pribula - no; H. Sjulson - yes; and A. Aune - no. Motion carried.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by L. McDowell to approve the bills as submitted. Motion carried unanimously.

Following discussion, a motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by M. Carlson to adjust the 1982-83 Revenue Budget from $7,277,388 to $7,181,696 and the 1982-83 Expenditure Budget from $7,636,846 to $7,643,212. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: M. Carlson - yes; H. Hallstrom - no; L. McDowell - no; G. Pribula - no; H. Sjulson - no; A. Aune - yes; and A. Cameron - no. Motion failed.

A motion was made by G. Pribula to adjust the 1982-83 Revenue Budget from $7,277,388 to $7,181,969 and that the 1982-83 Expenditure Budget remain at $7,636,846. Motion died for lack of a second.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by H. Hallstrom to adjust the 1982-83 Revenue Budget from $7,277,388 to $7,181,969. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by A. Cameron to request the Administration to provide the Board of Education with a list of potential expenditure reductions that might be made in this fiscal year 1982-83 in an attempt to bring the Expenditure Budget in line with the Revenue Budget. Motion carried unanimously.

Glenn Espe and Jean Buhl gave a presentation concerning the Basic Skills Program in the district. The program is the beginning of an attempt to coordinate the basic skills areas in each level of elementary, middle school, and high school in order to gain continuity for students. The morning session of the inservice for certified staff scheduled for February 18 will deal with this program. A committee will be formed at that time to formulate guidelines for teachers to use in their classrooms. Board approval will be necessary prior to implementation of a district-wide program.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by L. McDowell authorizing the opening of a Super Now Account at the Northern State Bank. Motion carried unanimously.

The Board was informed of a request that may soon be coming from the State concerning acquisition of a small portion of property in the northeast corner of the Franklin-Mark Twain Complex to be used for a frontage road on Highway 59.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by M. Carlson to accept Blue Bird as low bidder in the amount of $11,824 for two 87-passenger transit buses. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by H. Hallstrom to reject the bid of $745 for the 1973 bus. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Cameron to approve the transportation request from Morris Howick to take Senior Citizens to the Winter Shows in Crookston on February 22, 1983 at the regular rates. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the transportation request from Zion Lutheran Church for a ski trip to Bemidji on February 19-1983 at the regular rates. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by A. Cameron to set the substitute bus drivers' rate of pay at $7.36 per hour payable for actual working time with a one-hour minimum. Motion carried unanimously.

The Superintendent informed the Board that he had received another bill from RIC for unemployment charges for 1981-82 and 1982-83 but had returned it with no payment.

A Food Service Report, as submitted by Joe Pupillo, Food Consultant, following his evaluation of the program, was discussed. Three major problems were determined by the valuation. These involved portion control and menu preparation; amount of waste and inefficiency in preparation; and marketing of the program. A number of the recommendations have already been put into effect such as decreasing the size of portions given to students but keeping within regulations; utilizing a cycle menu consisting of 17 items determined by demand for them in the past; maintaining better control of inventory; and others. A recommendation will be presented to the Board at a later date to decrease the charge for meals while still being able to make some cuts in this area and maintain a positive balance.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Aune to post for a CETA position for 20 hours a week for 8 weeks in the CPLT Program at Franklin to care for preschool children while parents attend CPLT sessions. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: H. Hallstrom - yes; L. McDowell - no; G. Pribula - yes; H. Sjulson - no; A. Aune - yes; A. Cameron - yes; and M. Carlson - no. Motion carried.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by L. McDowell to accept the resignation of Sam Honebrink as Mechanic for the School District effective November 1, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Cameron and seconded by M. Carlson to reemploy Debra Christopherson as Kindergarten Aide at Washington for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year for 20 hours per week at $4.39 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by H. Hallstrom to reemploy Joy Gillespie as Kindergarten Aide at Knox for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year for 20 hours per week at $4.39 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by M. Carlson to reemploy Sally Grand as Kindergarten Aide at Mark Twain for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year for 10 hours per week at $4.39 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by L. McDowell to approve the employment of Janeen Kalsness as Kindergarten Aide at Northrop effective February 4, 1983 for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year for 20 hours per week at $4.39 per hour; replacement. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the employment of Bryan Olson as Regular Route Bus Driver effective December 20, 1982 at the rate of $7.36 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by A. Cameron to approve the employment of Linda Skibicki as Regular Route Bus Driver effective December 17, 1982 at the rate of $7.36 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by A. Aune to approve the following lane changes with coursework having been completed and evaluated; effective as per negotiated contract:

Pam Carlson Franklin - from MS30 to MS45; Whitey Olson, Lincoln - from MS15 to MS30; John Egge, AVTI - from BS45 to BS60; Alan Swanson, AVTI - from BS to BS 15; Carol Torgerson, AVTI - from BS30 to BS45; Ron Trontvet, AVTI - from BS30 to BS45. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by M. Carlson to approve a leave of absence without pay for Diane Lillevold commencing March 11 through March 18, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by L. McDowell authorizing that a letter of thanks be sent to Gene and Gretchen Belto for the paintings donated by Northern State Bank to be placed in classrooms in the elementary school. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by A. Aune to approve a leave of absence without pay for Lee Broeker effective February 15, 1983 for the remainder of the 1982-83 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

Discussion was held concerning the possibility of asking Ken Skold to come up to tour the Arctic Facilities. Because of reservations that Board members have concerning this project, they asked that any further action be delayed to a later date.

It was felt that no equipment be sold out of St. Hilaire until it is determined what could be used by other departments in the district.

Concern over a change in governance of the AVTIs in the state was discussed and a General Meeting scheduled for Tuesday, February 22 at 7:00 a.m. in the Board Room to formulate a position statement of the Board. A meeting was also scheduled for Thursday, February 24 at 7:00 a.m. for Board representatives Harry Sjulson, Arnt Aune, Larry McDowell and Greg Pribula along with Superintendent Block to meet with representatives of Northland Community College in an effort to try work out some comprises to unite the two institutions in some areas.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by A. Aune to authorize the Administration to post for a public hearing for possible closure of Knox Elementary School to be scheduled for Monday, March 7, 1983 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln High School Cafeteria. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: L. McDowell - no; G. Pribula - yes; H. Sjulson - yes; A. Aune - yes; A. Cameron - yes; M. Carlson - yes; and H. Hallstrom - yes. Motion carried.

Other items briefly discussed included possible elimination of the towel service; what's happening with the City concerning the land they own under the Vocational Center building; the need to set-up a meeting of the Computer Subcommittee; the possibility of running a referendum; and the possibility of looking into the acquisition of government surplus property.

The next Regular meeting is February 28.

Meeting adjourned at 11:40 p.m.

General Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
February 22, 1983

A General Board Meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held at 7:00 a.m. on February 22, 1983 in the Board Room of the District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Archie Cameron, Myrle Carlson, Hank Hallstrom, Larry McDowell and Greg Pribula. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Vice Chairman Larry McDowell called the meeting to order in the absence of Chairman Harry Sjulson and Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by H. Hallstrom to accept the resignaton of Richard Rose, AVTI Electronics Instructor, effective February 25, 1983. Motion carried unaimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by A. Cameron to approve overload pay for Ron Konickson, AVTI Electronics Instructor, for two hours per day and for Roger Peterson, AVTI Electronics Instructor, for one hour per day. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by M. Carlson to authorize a change in date for the Hearing for Possible Closure of Knox Elementary School from March 7 to March 8, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Cameron and seconded by A. Aune to approve a leave of absence without pay for Polly Reed from April 26 to May 2, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

Discussion was held concerning the formulation of a position statement of the Board regarding a possible change in governance of the AVTI's in Minnesota. It is not certain yet what the Governor will be proposing; however, the Board's general consensus was that governance should continue through the local Boards of Education in partnership with the State of Minnesota. Formal resolutions will be presented for Board consideration at their next Regular meeting.

The proposed budget cuts for 1983-84 were discussed. The administration recommended to the Board that the following items be cut but reinstated if the $1,475 per pupil unit and all categorical aids are received:

1. CETA (Work Study) Program
2. One Custodial position
3. Contracted services in Buildings and Grounds
4. One fourth grade section
5. $5,000 in Support Services
6. 9-Month Secretarial position at Mark Twain
7. Half-Time English at Franklin
8. Half-Time Foreign Language at Lincoln
9. Half-Time Math at Franklin
10. Half-Time Science at Franklin
11. Half-Time Social at Franklin and at Lincoln
12. Half-Time Counselor at Franklin

It will be necessary to prioritize these items being recommended for reinstatement. The recommendation of offering a four-day week or variation of one and the proposed reduction in legal services were felt to be not probable at this time. Total reductions would then equal approximately $715,000.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by A. Aune to authorize the Administration to post for a Public Speaking Instructor for the EXCEL Program at Franklin. Motion carried unanimously.

The next Regular meeting is scheduled for February 28.

Meeting adjourned at 9:00 a.m.

If it acts soon, the 1983 Congress has an opportunity to correct what many experts see as a big mistake in last year's tax laws.

The law requires banks, credit unions, S & Ls, mutual funds, and others that pay dividends or interest to deduct ten percent every time the interest is paid to most investors and send the money to the U.S. Treasury. This, points out the United States League of Savings Institutions, discourages savings and can hurt the economy.

In addition to finding their future tax returns much more complicated, many Americans will be making interest-free "loans" to the government. Taxpayers are asking their Congressmen what they are doing about this situation, reaching representatives at the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. and senators at the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Study Looks At Budget Impact

Progress Minnesota made toward improving the environment in the 1970s is being undermined by federal budget cuts, increased emphasis on economic issues and rising costs, according to a University of Minnesota study.

Minnesota's environment will suffer, partly because of cuts in federal support of the state pollution control agency (PCA) programs for monitoring, researching and constructing wastewater treatment projects, says a study recently released by the center for urban and regional affairs (CURA). It was the second report in CURA's series examining the effects of new fiscal constraints on the state.

Nancy Walters, author of the study, looked at how the PCA, the waste management board (WMB), the department of health, the department of natural resources (DNR) and other state agencies have reacted to the "shift from the 'decade of the environment' to 'the decade of the marketplace' " during the Reagan administration.

Cuts in the 1983 federal budget for programs administered by the PCA are estimated to range from 16 per cent for hazardous waste management to 20 per cent each for air and water quality control. Wastewater treatment construction grants — the largest portion of the environmental protection agency's (EPA) grant to the PCA — have gone from more than $78 million in 1981 to less than $33 million in 1983.

Reduction in wastewater construction grants will have the greatest impact on more than 400 small Minnesota communities because much of the federal money spent on sewage treatment since 1972 has gone to the state's largest cities, primarily because their plants treat two-thirds of the state's sewage, according to the study. "The substantial cuts in funding for this program will mean delay, indefinite postponement or even abandonment of clean water for the state's rivers and lakes," the study says.

Cutbacks will also mean that the PCA will reduce compliance monitoring and issuance of permits for both water and air quality programs. Reduction in permit issuance will probably lengthen the time it takes for approval of new industrial projects.

Impact on the DNR, which is responsible for Minnesota's public lands, parks, forests, waters and minerals, ranges from the loss of 360 jobs in Minnesota youth programs to reduced efforts to stop the spread of Dutch elm disease. Changes in the federal budget for DNR programs will mean:

— A reduction — from $550,300 in 1980 to $241,000 in 1982 — in rural fire protection and control, resulting in a lessened ability by both the division of forestry and rural community fire departments to detect and suppress wildfires.

— Elimination of the Dutch elm disease control program (from the 1980 funding level of $436,000). This will limit disease management in the state and may slow efforts to halt the spread of the disease throughout the Midwest.

— Possible elimination of two programs — the young adult conservation corps and the youth conservation corps — meaning 360 jobs would be lost and more than $3 million worth of conservation work on state land would be eliminated.

Federal funding of the department of health's water supply program has fallen from $623,000 in 1980 to $445,000 in 1982. Budget reduction will mean that:

— Probability of threats to human health and safety will increase with reduced surveillance of water quality.

— State agencies that set health standards, such as the PCA and the department of agriculture, will be affected by cuts in the health department's laboratory services.

— Development of final regulations to implement the 1974 safe drinking water act — already delayed seven years — may be further postponed.

— There will be a reduction in the number of newsletters and on-site visits, which will minimize contact with the public and perhaps weaken the enforcement of the safe drinking water act.

First study in this CURA series was published in late January. Third report, which will deal with emergeing state policy, will be released this spring.

Copies of the first two reports can be obtained from the Center for Urban and Regional Affairs, 313 Walter Library, 117 Pleasant St. S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455, (612) 373-7833.

4-H Favorite Food Show Is Successful

Muffins and salads were the favorites shown by many of the 4-H'ers on March 4 at the favorite food show. Forty Pennington county 4-H'ers exhibited or demonstrated their food items at the Falls mall:

Pancakes were demonstrated by Stacy Rondorf and Sandra Hamm of Black River 4-H; Lisa Anderson and Nickolena Mostrom-Ose of Steiner demonstrated nacho snack pizzas; Stephanie Dagen, Coreen Larson and Teresa Nelson of City View demonstrated bran muffins.

Various nutritious snacks, including granola and orange julius, were demonstrated by Debbi and Joni Courneya and Jenny Rugland of Steiner and Melissa Rausch of Steiner demonstrated fruit salad.

Members who exhibited their favorite foods, either individually or as a team, included Lana Wagner, Kim Sorter and Susan Peterson of Silverton; Karen and Gordon Hall and Jaki Weleski of New Solum; Troy Forsberg and Stacy Ratliff of Satellite; Jodi Finke and Carla Sorenson of Happy Acres; and Becky Melby, Julie Berard, Kelly Amundgaard, Colleen Belmont and Jenny Haugen of City View.

Also, Kerry Helle and Edna Johnson of Sanders; Faye Erickson, Kristine and Crystal Sorteberg, Mary and Laura McDougall of Smiley; Kelly Hoefer of Black River; Monica Rausch of Steiner; Heather Olson, Karen and Beth Feuerstein of Kratka; and Gretchen Hoffman and Stephanie Howard of Highlanding.

All entries were judged on the preparation and quality of the food, understanding of nutrition, and menu and place setting. Each participant received a participation prize of small kitchen utensils. Judges for the contest were Carletta Tierney and Glenna Hanson.

Entertainers Named For Lions Telethon

Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell of the acclaimed mime and comedy act of Shields and Yarnell will join entertainers Peter Marshall, Shari Lewis and Bob McGrath to perform on the Lions telethon for hearing.

Telethon will be broadcast statewide for 20 hours Saturday night and Sunday, March 19-20, from the stage of the Minneapolis auditorium and convention center.

Shields and Yarnell have appeared in concerts worldwide and performances of their mime act for deaf audiences are an important part of their schedule.

Peter Marshall is currently host of the daytime series "Fantasy". Entertainer Shari Lewis will perform with her puppet Lambchop, along with Bob McGrath of "Sesame Street."

Minnesota's country singer Marilyn Sellars, the Plaster Sisters of St. Paul and 15 top Minnesota performers chosen from open auditions will add a local flavor to the telethon. Among audition winners appearing will be singer Gevonee Ford of Roseville, the 1982 Minnesota state fair talent champion. The Minnesota jazz dance company will return as the telethon's dance group.

All funds raised by the 1983 Lions telethon for hearing will be used to complete the furnishing of laboratories and research space at the Lions 5M international hearing center at the University of Minnesota. If the telethon passes the $650,000 mark, funds can also be used to support research programs at the hearing center and to purchase special laser equipment for the Lions eye clinic at the university.

Persons wishing to make pre-telethon donations may make checks payable to the Lions telethon and mail them to Lions 5M International Hearing Center, Box 396, Mayo Memorial Building, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., 55455.

Telethon will be broadcast by KSTP-TV in Minneapolis-St. Paul from 9 p.m. Saturday through 5 p.m. Sunday, with one break from 10 to 10:30 p.m. Saturday for the news.

More than 600 Lions clubs representing 24,000 member Lions in Minnesota, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario are sponsoring the 1983 Lions telethon for hearing.

The "Sunflower Masters" meeting is to honor growers who registered and completed harvest reports on the yields of 80 acres or more of Northrup King sunflowers.

Youth Collect For Refugees Of El Salvador

An unprecedented, month-long collection of two million pounds of food, household medicines, clothing and tools will be launched on Sunday, March 20, in St. Paul when a 348-ton barge begins its voyage down the Mississippi river.

Donated items, destined for use by Salvadoran refugees in Honduras, are being collected by more than 10,000 Catholic youths in 18 dioceses in the 10 states along the river. Christened the "River youth project for Central American refugees" by the project's organizers, the barge will stop in Davenport, Iowa, St. Louis and New Orleans where the collection will be shipped by freighter to Honduras for distribution by Catholic relief services, the overseas aid and development agency of the U.S. Catholic community.

Project originated as part of "starvation awareness day", a grass roots program to teach U.S. young people about the problem of world hunger and how they can affect change through action. "It is a youth-inspired and youth-directed program of study and prayer and the response has been tremendous," said Mrs. Suzanne Wallace, a New Orleans mother of ten and the project's founder. "In every diocese along the route our young people have responded with solid enthusiasm and commitment," she added.

"These items being collected by young people are most important," commented Rev. Thomas Donlan of Catholic relief services. "There are an estimated 16,000 refugees living in Honduras who will benefit from this generosity, mostly women and children."

Dayton Guest Of County DFL Here Tuesday

Pennington County Democratic Farmer-Labor (DFL) party will hold their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 15, in the Rex Cafe meeting room. Coffee and social hour will follow the meeting.

Farmers Appreciation Days Are Scheduled

Activities for Farmer Appreciation Days which include observance of national agriculture week March 18-24 have been arranged through the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce and Pennington county extension service, in cooperation with a number of area businesses.

In proclaiming the week, Mayor Bob Carlson noted that the city of Thief River Falls is vitally concerned with agriculture which is generally recognized as being the backbone of the economy in northwestern Minnesota. He declared March 18-24 to be agriculture week and urged all citizens of the city to join in honoring "those persons who earn their livelihood from the field of agriculture."

Events began today with a seed day meeting from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Eagles hall, sponsored by St. Hilaire cooperative elevator. Thursday an open house will be held at Johnson Greenline and on Friday the annual Pennington county 4-H club carnival will be conducted at the city auditorium from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Package weekend for farmers begins Friday at the Best Western.

Saturday special programs of interest to farmers will be provided at the Best Western inn beginning at 9:30 a.m. Computers in agriculture and estate planning will be topics of the Saturday sessions which will be repeated at 1:30 p.m. KKAQ farmers appreciation breakfast will be at the national guard armory from 9 to 11 a.m.

Monday — which has been designated as Agriculture Day USA, will feature seminars at the Best Western at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on best use of set-aside acres under the PIK program; 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. on soybean production practices for northwestern Minnesota; and 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. on computers in agriculture.

Fish fry and farm safety film will be conducted at Anderson Power & Equipment Monday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and the annual farmer-merchant mixer will be conducted by the agri-business committee of the chamber of commerce at 6:30 p.m. in the American Legion club rooms.

Tuesday event will be the annual meeting of Farmers Co-op Grain and Seed association beginning at 10 a.m. at the national guard armory. Seed day open house will be conducted Wednesday, March 23, at Thief River Grain company.

Information on many of these events is included in advertising in the Northern Minnesota Shoppers Guide delivered this week, and is covered in advertising or separate stories in this issue of the Times.

Residents Must Use Elm Wood By April 1st

City tree inspector John Johnson reminds residents that bark intact elm wood must be burned before April 1. "Do our elms a favor, don't let your firewood stack help spread Dutch elm disease," said Johnson.

"Bark intact elm wood can undo much of the progress the community has achieved so far in controlling Dutch elm disease. This wood is a breeding place for the elm bark beetles that carry the Dutch elm disease fungus to healthy trees. In the spring, adult beetles — up to 1,500 in a single fireplace log — emerge from diseased wood with the fungus clinging to their bodies. When the beetles fly to healthy elms to feed, they spread Dutch elm disease to previously uninfected trees."

Becuase of this danger to healthy elms, the city enacted an ordinance affecting the storage of elm wood. Bark-intact elm wood is permitted only between September 15 and April 1 (the dormant period for elm bark beetles).

Inspector Johnson reminds residents that once the wood is debarked, it no longer violates the ordinance or threatens to spread Dutch elm disease. "Once the bark has been removed, the wood can no longer be a breeding site for elm bark beetles. The easiest way to remove the bark from elm wood is when the tree is freshly cut. Once the logs have been allowed to sit, the layer of moisture between the bark and the log begins to dry and harden. When this happens, bark removal is much more difficult," Johnson stated.

If you cannot burn or debark your elm firewood by April 1, it must be disposed of in a sanitary landfill. The park department will be checking wood piles for elm wood the last week in March.

Also, any work done on boulevard trees must be coordinated through the park department. For more information, call tree inspector John Johnson at 681-2519.

Snowmobile Job Application Set

With snowmobile manufacturing scheduled to begin again in Thief River Falls about August 1, applications will be taken for employment of about 50 to 60 workers in assembly, welding, fiberglas and machining on Thursday and Friday of next week.

Leon Johnson of Arctco and Jeff Gustafson of Job Service announced that the applications will be taken by Job Service personnel both Thursday and Friday, March 24 and 25, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. No applications will be available from Arctco offices and none will be available to the public at the Job Service office until March 28.

All job seekers interested in applying should be 18 years of age of older and bring proof of their social security number when they apply. Gustafson emphasized that no applications completed previously with Job Service will be considered for employment with Arctco.

Bill Ness of Arctco indicated this morning that the goal of secured orders from dealers for 2,000 snowmobiles has been surpassed. Arctco is now negotiating with its lenders for consideration of manufacturing more than 2,000 machines in the first year of production to fill that demand. Arctco plans to produce Panther and El Tigre models only this year. No decision has yet been made on the manufacturing site and that decision will be made by the Arctco board of directors.

SELECTED TO THE 1983 Northern Minnesota honors band recently were Andrea Ault (left) and Pam Finney. Ault is a junior first chair trumpet player and Finney is a senior clarinet section leader in the Lincoln high school band. They will be performing with the honors band at Bemidji state university on April 9. The band is comprised of students throughout northern Minnesota who display a high caliber of talent in music. Student contest ratings and awards as well as academic abilities are factors in the selection of the band.

Annual Mixer For Farmers Next Monday

Annual farmer-merchant mixer sponsored by the agri-business committee of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce will be conducted Monday, March 21, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls.

All farmers in the area are invited and encouraged to participate as guests of the Thief River Falls business and professional people who will attend the event as hosts.

Project Review Committee In Marshall Set

Carrying out requirements of the 1980 waste management act, Governor Rudy Perpich has appointed special local project review committees for four areas being considered as hazardous waste disposal sites, including Marshall county.

The committees include residents and local officials from each of the four candidate site counties. The newly-appointed committees will assist in future siting and planning activities of the waste management board.

Named to the Marshall county project review committee were Kenneth Price, Stephen, chairman; Mayor Lawrence Sunsdahl, Stephen; Marcella Gonsorowski, Newfolden; Vance Wiseth, Goodridge; Norma Hanson, Goodridge; Armand Westlund, Strathcona; Floyd Spence, Crookston; Mayor Earl S. Hougard, Strandquist; James D. Nelson, Karlstad.

Price and Gonsorowski are county commissioners. Westlund and Nelson live near the site. Wiseth and Mrs. Hanson are officers of the Northern area fact finding committee which has opposed site location in this area.

The board has identified sites in Carver, Scott, Aitkin and Marshall counties which may be usable for disposal of hazardous wastes. Once that stage of the search has been reached, the 1980 law required the appointment of local residents to committees serving with the board.

The committees will participate in the evaluation of the candidate sites and function as liaisons between the waste management board and the four counties.

"Within the next month, each committee will appoint a representative to serve on the waste management board," Perpich said. "The four additional members will have voting powers in a variety of board activities, including the selection of the hazardous waste disposal site," the governor said.

The board's current schedule calls for selection of a site by mid-1985.

Perpich said each committee also will be responsible for helping to develop major documents for the waste management board. These documents include the state's hazardous waste management plan.

State law requires the board to make specific recommendations for ways of reducing the impact of a site on its area, or compensating residents of the area. The compensation plan would include nearby communities or the affected county. The citizen committees will assist in developing these recommendations.

Each committee also will develop recommendations on a certificate of need process, the design and operation of disposal facilities and standards for hazardous waste processing.

Committees probably will meet twice a month. They will be the primary means of keeping local residents informed of board activities.

To finance the committees' operations, the board has set aside up to $20,000 for each group for the period between now and June 30, and $30,000 per committee for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

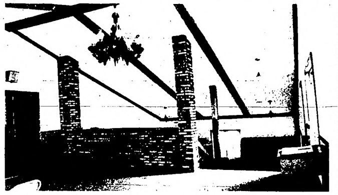
4-H Carnival Slated Friday At Auditorium

Pennington county 4-Hers will be hosting a carnival Friday evening, at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Various games will be set up on the main floor with two food stands also available.

All proceeds from this event help support the various 4-H activities in Pennington county. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

Board Votes Closure Of Knox School, Sells Bonds



NEW ENTRYWAY has been constructed on the south end of Black River Lutheran church west of St. Hilaire and will be dedicated, along with other remodeling and a new organ, Sunday at 2 p.m. Doors into the church are shown at left. Stairs at the right of the brick divider and railing led to ground level with the entry door at the base of the stairs on the right. Another set of steps beneath the brick divider leads to the church basement. The chandelier at left was converted from kerosene to electricity and was one of two previously used in the church which was built in 1887.

PIK Sign-Up High In Area

Sign-up in the federal government's payment-in-kind (PIK) program appears to be high in the northwestern Minnesota area, but county directors of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service are under federal directive not to release county figures until next Tuesday.

The sign-up period was completed recently and county offices have been busy compiling reports. According to Rodney Soderstrom of Warren, former Marshall county director and now director of the 13-county northwest area, boards will also be working Friday to determine which farmers who bid to place their entire farms under the program will have their bids accepted.

Soderstrom said it will then be his duty to collect county reports from the 13 offices in his area and bring them personally to the federal building in Fargo, ND, by noon on Saturday. Apparently it is the USDA intention to make a national release of sign-up information on Tuesday.

"This area of Minnesota traditionally has a high percentage of farmers cooperating in government farm programs," Solerstrom said. "In my visits with county directors it appears that the PIK program will have a similar acceptance among farmers."

Dedicate New Addition, Organ At Black River

Black River Lutheran church, which observed its 100th anniversary two years ago, will dedicate a new entry addition, remodeling projects and a new organ in special services Sunday at 2 p.m. The church is located nine miles west and one mile south of St. Hilaire.

The program will open with a hymn, invocation and prayer, followed by a choir anthem and Gospel reading. Speaker will be Rev. David Wagner, dean of the Grand Forks-Bemidji district, Red River Valley Synod, Lutheran Church of America.

Rites of dedication include responsive reading, words of dedication, hymn, offering, prayer of the day, Lord's prayer and benediction. Concluding hymn will be "Lift High the Cross," the same hymn used at the 100th anniversary program of the church. Pastors of the congregation are Rev. Luther Anderson and Rev. Donald Knudson.

Idea of the new entryway for the church first surfaced at a meeting of the church council in September of 1981, according to information from the dedication program. A building feasibility committee was appointed Feb. 14, 1982 and a plan developed. Women of the congregation felt that remodeling should include the kitchen arrangement, so plans were altered to include that work.

Richard Krufa was asked to draw up some possibilities for the projects, and he led a five-car caravan which spent a day looking at remodeling projects by other churches in the area. A number of members of the congregation provided volunteer labor throughout the project which was officially approved April 4, 1982.

Bob Sorvig, Lloyd Noreen and Mark Naplin were asked to continue on the building committee with construction work to begin as soon as spring weather permitted. Ground was broken on May 9 with Rev. Keith Prekker and many of the congregation members turning shovelsful of earth.

Although weather was poor for farming in the area, it allowed farmers to spend a considerable amount of time working on the church. As each part of the work progressed, various members of the congregation found jobs in which they had skills to assist.

Special effort was made in the fall to have the addition ready for use for the harvest festival program October 29. The task seemed impossible the week before festival, but extensive volunteer service brought the project to reality.

End result is a large entryway on the south end of the church which has attractive brick columns, carpeted floors and stairway, glass doors into the sanctuary and a permanent guest registration stand. In addition, the kitchen was relocated in the lower level of the church and equipped with built-in cupboards and counters, two stoves and refrigerator. The organ was purchased last year and has been used during the regular services. Mrs. Donald (Ruth) Mosbeck is organist.

Also included in the construction and remodeling was the addition of a section on the northeast corner of the building which facilitated moving of the kitchen and provided a meeting room on the second story.

Main area of the Black River church was built in 1887 with the steeple and bell added in 1907. Altar painting still in use was installed in 1914 and a basement was put under the building in 1920. Resisting moves toward consolidation in the 1950's, the congregation voted unanimously in 1958 to retain its own identity. An addition to the side of the building was built in 1964. Black River congregation presently has approximately 230 baptized members, most of whom were involved some way or another in the building project.

Tierney Named Young Career Woman By BPW

Carletta Tierney, director of dietary services at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls, was selected young career woman of the year by the Thief River Falls chapter of the Business and Professional Women club on Tuesday. Announcement was made at the club's regular dinner meeting at the Best Western inn.

Selected as alternate by judges Sally Ihne, Pat Ueland and Jeannine Windels was Deborah Ernst, director of social services at the hospital. Judges conducted personal interviews with the candidates and each candidate presented a five-minute talk on the topic "The Changing World of Working Women."

Carletta came to Thief River Falls in October of 1980 following a 10-month internship in St. Louis, MO. A native of Badger, she holds a BA degree in home economics with emphasis in foods and nutrition from Concordia

In a regular board meeting that lasted until midnight Monday, the Thief River Falls board of education approved closing of Knox elementary school and 25 other budget cuts for the 1983-84 school year. Cuts totaled approximately $776,512 with additional cuts to be discussed at a special meeting scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m. in the school district service center board room.

Also at the Monday meeting action is expected to be taken on elimination of specific positions, posting for newly created positions, termination of probationary staff and recommendation of staff members proposed for unrequested leave.

Two bids were received for sale of the St. Hilaire school facility and land — one from Doug Dehnert for $10,000 and one from the St. Hilaire city council for $1. A delegation from the St. Hilaire community action group, headed by Howard Dalager as chairman, presented rationale for the board to consider allowing the property to go to the city. Formal action on the sale was delayed to the March 28 meeting.

Sale of $1,533,070 in anticipation bonds at an effective interest rate of 5.285 per cent was approved with the First National bank of St. Paul as low bidder. Don Wyzyinski of the Evensen-Dodge bond consultant firm assisted with the bid opening and evaluation.

Vocational adjustment Vaughn Thorfinnson gave a report on activities of his office and what a proposed cut in that department would mean to students in the local high school and AVTI.

Approval was given to advertise for bids for computerized automated drafting equipment and software at the AVTI. A recommendation by the support services advisory committee that block grant money provide $5,000 to the basic skills program and $10,000 to the drug and alcohol abuse program was approved.

Request by band director Doug Engstrom for the band to take a spring trip to either Winnipeg or Minneapolis was approved provided there would be no cost to the school district. Redeemer Lutheran church was also granted bus rental for a trip to the White Earth Bible camp March 18-19.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, director of the area vocational-technical institute, presented a list of suggested members for a general advisory committee at the AVTI. Board members were asked to make additions, deletions or comments and return the list to the superintendent for compilation. A completed list will be presented for approval at the March 28 meeting.

The board decided to continue using the sealed bid process with no opportunity for oral raising of bids on sale of the AVTI carpentry project house.

Information on computerization of personnel records was presented to the board. Approval was given to posting for replacement AVTI electronics instructor to begin May 1, AVTI broadcasting instructor beginning June 1 through August 23, and a part-time secretary for up to 20 days to aid in preparation of materials for the five-year evaluation of the AVTI. The evaluation is scheduled for May 11 and 12.

Items approved for cutting from the budget and the estimated saving from each cut include the following:

(1) Closure of Knox elementary school for an approximate savings of $115,708.

(2) District contribution to DVR reduced by $8,275.

(3) CETA and work study contribution reduced by $5,300.

(4) Reduction of general instructional budget including supplies, curriculum and staff development totaling $4,867.

(5) Buildings and grounds budget including four custodial and one maintenance positions and towel service to students for a total of approximately $108,000.

(6) Reduction of approximately $52,712 in the food services budget including decreased labor costs, milk and food purchases.

(7) Reduce transportation budget by approximately $62,599.

(8) Reduction in elementary

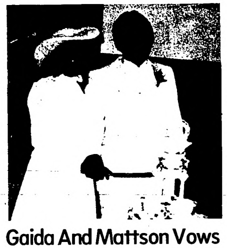
SOCIETY and CLUBS



Gaida And Mattson Vows Said In Thief River Falls

Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Mattson are at home in Roseville following an exchange of marriage vows at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city and a wedding trip to the East coast.

The bride, the former Michele Lynn Gaida, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gaida of Clifton, N.J. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Mattson of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Don Knudson officiated at the double ring ceremony witnessed by approximately 150 relatives and friends. Joyce Halbasch was the organist and Ruth Christensen sang, "God, A Woman and A Man," "Gift of Love," "Gentle Shepherd" and "Wedding Prayer."

In the chancel forming the background for the wedding party were candelabra with greenery and burgundy ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in an off-white moire taffeta two-piece gown featuring a long-sleeved jacket with looped button closure. Complementing the neckline was a chantilly lace ascot. Her floor-length skirt flowed back into a chapel-length train. To complete her attire, she wore a white derby hat with a cluster of silk flowers on one side. Attached in back by a large bow was a walking-length veil. She carried a cascade of white orchids with burgundy throats.

Maid of honor was Linda Mattson, Bemidji, a sister of the groom. Bridesmaids were Michelle and Stacey St. Claire, Stillwater, cousins of the bride. They wore burgundy taffeta gowns with a wide lace ruffle outlining the sheer inset at the high neckline, in caplet style. In their hair, they wore a cluster of flowers. They carried white carnations accented with silk flowers in shades of burgundy.

Attending the groom as best man was Greg Kraemer of St. Paul, a friend of the couple. Wayne Halbasch, Thief River Falls and Greg Heffner, St. Paul, friends of the couple, served as groomsmen and ushers. The groom wore an off-white tuxedo with a cluster of stephanotis pinned on his lapel. His attendants' boutonnieres were white carnations tipped in burgundy.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pale blue dress styled with long bishop sleeves and a cowl neckline. The groom's mother wore a dusty rose long-sleeved dress with a cowl draped bodice. Their corsages were of orchids.

Honor guests were Mrs. Agnes Mattson, Bemidji and Mrs. Anna S. Hanson, Lancaster, grandmothers of the groom.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. Host and hostess were Eldor and Bonnie Ornquist. Kim Sjostrand, a cousin of the groom, presided at the punch bowl and also served the kransekaka, the traditional Scandinavian wedding cake made by Alice Hanson.

On the bridal table were two wedding dolls featuring attire worn by the bride and groom. The dolls were created by the bride's mother.

The three-tiered wedding cake was also baked and decorated by Mrs. Hanson. It was complemented by burgundy roses and topped with a double wedding bell ornament backed by a lace trimmed heart. The cake was cut and served by LaVay Hickerson and Arlene Kain, friends of the couple. Helen Pearson, aunt of the groom, and Janice Dillon, a friend of the couple, presided at the coffee service.

Waitresses were Stephanie Dagen, Cindy Kain, Karen Dillon and Stacey Kruta. Kristi Dillon distributed the rice packets, and Mark Pearson, a cousin of the groom, was gift bearer.

Following the wedding rehearsal, the groom's parents hosted a dinner at their home for the wedding party. The day after the wedding, they also hosted a brunch at their home after the couple opened their gifts.

The couple is at home at 2735 Rice Street, Roseville. Both are employed by Target Stores, Inc., the bride in St. Paul, and the groom at Roseville.

Pearl Stewart Is Honored At Birthday Dinner

In spite of blustery weather, which included rain and freezing temperature, a large number of relatives and friends gathered on Sunday afternoon at Lon's to help Mrs. Pearl Stewart celebrate her birthday.

Hosting the celebration were her son and daughter-in-law, Douglas and Susie Stewart, assisted by their sons and daughters-in-law: Donald and Sharon Stewart and John and Bonnie Stewart, all of this city.

Also present were the great-grandchildren: Todd and Melanie Stewart, who were at the guest book, and Coleen Stewart, who presided at the punch bowl.

Potted crocus centered the tables for the buffet dinner. Centering the serving table was a pedestal arrangement of pink carnations with candles and babies' breath, accented with ribbon streamers that flowed to base, surrounded by flowering bridal wreath. Adding to the festive air were numerous floral arrangements, gifts from relatives and friends.

Of special interest was a display of pictures of the honored guest, portraying her life history. During the dinner, further information about her life was given by her oldest grandson, Don Stewart. He stated that Mrs. Stewart was born March 11, 1893 near Pierre, S.D. to Neil and Maggie Douglas McKecknie. At that time, her father was studying for the ministry in addition to serving a small congregation. Later they lived in Chicago, where her father furthered his education. Following graduation from high school at Cavalier, N.D., she studied voice and piano at Grand Forks at Wesley college. In 1916, she was married to George Stewart, who was teaching and farming in Gilby, N.D. They lived at various places in North Dakota, where her husband taught school and later served as county agent. Following his retirement in 1960, they spent the winters in California, Texas and Arizona. They moved to Grand Forks in 1968 and four years later, settled in this city. Her husband died in 1980.

Among the guests at the dinner were her sister-in-law Mrs. Erle McKechnie of this city, her brother-in-law, William Stewart of Gilby, Rev. Melvyn Budke of the United Methodist church, who gave the table prayer, the members of her East Side sewing club and the Naomi circle of the United Methodist church, and numerous nieces and nephews.

Unable to attend but sending special greetings were her grandson, Scott Stewart of Phoenix, Ariz., and her brother and sister-in-law Neil and Esther McKechnie of this city, who are vacationing in Homestead, Fla.

Wahlin and Sullivan To Wed at Bemidji

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wahlin of Bemidji announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sari Honor to Kenneth Sullivan of Thief River Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sullivan of Lima, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a student at Bemidji State university. Her fiance is manager of Godfathers Pizza in this city. The wedding will take place April 9 at Trinity Lutheran church in Bemidji.

Squarenaders to Dance At Crookston Friday

Crookston Squarenaders will dance Friday at 8:00 p.m., at the Lincoln school gymnasium at Crookston. Caller will be Dave Muir. Lunch will be se..ed.

Visitors and spectators are welcome to attend.

Richard Kelley, Carol Griffin Wed January 1

Richard Kelley and Gail Griffin were married January 1 at St. John's Lutheran church at Rockville, Md.

Attending the couple were Hal Kelley, brother of the groom, and Carol Griffin, sister of the bride.

Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kelley of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Griffin of Columbia, Md.

Moccasin Club Begins Planning Flower Show

February meeting of the Moccasin Garden club was held at the Inga Geving home with Olga Nelson, the club's new president, presiding.

The flower show to be held at the Goodridge school on August 20th was discussed and duties were designated to the members. Co-hosting the show, together with the Moccasin club will be the Deer Park club and the Forget-me-not club.

Announcement was also made that the spring workshop will be held March 26 at Williams. Those planning to attend are asked to announce their plans at the meeting to be held March 22 at the Marge Carlson home.

During the business session, the members voted to increase the club dues. The increase will partially cover the cost of the trophies to be given at the flower show.

The secretary's report was read by Eva Lendobeja. Roll call was answered by listing the new flower, vegetable or herb to be planted in 1983. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Attending the meeting, in addition to those mentioned, were Joan Nelson, Rhodella Tieman, Marge Carlson and Alice Lendobeja.

Roll call at the March 22 meeting at the Marge Carlson home will be wearing something green. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Viking Garden Club Celebrates 23rd Anniversary

Twenty-third anniversary of the Viking Town and County garden club was observed on March 6 with a potluck luncheon at the Viking Community Center.

Special guests were husbands and family members. A cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Earl Erickson centered the serving table.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Bert Kron, president of the club, presided at a brief business meeting. She also showed the slides "Minnesota Wild Flowers," and "Resident Birds of Minnesota" provided by the Minnesota Horticultural society.

ENOYING a visit with Mrs. R.W. (Anna) Nelson on her 92nd birthday is Mayor Bob Carlson of this city. He was among the guests at her birthday party at Valley Home, where she is now residing.

92nd Birthday Noted By Mrs. R. W. Nelson

Mrs. R.W. (Anna) Nelson of this city celebrated her 92nd birthday on February 17, at Valley Home.

The birthday observance began with her daughter, Nona Mackenroth, and great-grandson, Jeremy Breiland, as her dinner guests.

In the afternoon, a party at the Home was held in her honor. Among those who came to extend birthday greetings were Mayor Bob Carlson, whom she has known since he was an infant; Mrs. Constance Driscoll, president of the American Legion auxiliary, who stated that Mrs. Nelson is not only a life-member but is also the oldest Gold Star Mother in the Thief River Falls unit; and Madeleine and Owen Scramstad, who represented the Sons of Norway. It was noted that Mrs. Nelson is also a life-member of the Sons of Norway.

Also present were a granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Breiland, Stephanie, Jason and Jeremy, Mrs. Lou Espeseth and son Steven, and Lou Hendrickson.

Unable to attend was her son, Gerald Nelson, who sent a corsage; her grandchildren, Mary Solberg and Kelly of Brooklyn Park, Keith Mackenroth of Robbinsdale and Mr. and Mrs. Brock Nelson, Matthew and Eric of LaVerne, Calif.; and her daughter-in-law, Gen Nelson of Los Angeles, Calif.

Also sending greetings were her nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Martin Wasstrand of Oslo, Norway, the Joanna circle of Trinity Lutheran church, and the VFW auxiliary, who sent a card and gift to their charter member.

Lunch served to all the guests, as well as to the residents and staff at Valley Home, included two heart-shaped cakes, baked and decorated by her granddaughter, Vicky Breiland.

Free Church Hosts "Christ In Passover"

Jeff Millenson, staff evangelist with "Jews for Jesus," will present "Christ in the Passover" at the Evangelical Free church in Thief River Falls on Sunday at 7 p.m.

Ancient and modern Jewish customs will be discussed and described. A table will be set with traditional Jewish Passover items, including representative foods which are explained, but not eaten. Many of the elements of the Passover feast are observed by Orthodox Jews in the same manner they were centuries ago, excluding the eating of the Passover lamb which has not been consumed since the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem in 70 A.D.

Members of the "Jews for Jesus" group have given this demonstration in more than 1,000 different churches. Ordinarily the celebration takes about four hours to present in the Jewish home.

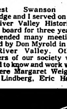
PIONEER TALES



from the Pennington County Historical Society

by Inga Geving

Pennington County Hostorical society was saddened and shocked by the recent sudden and untimely death of Professor Don Myrold of Fargo, ND.

During the time we reorganized our historical society in 1970, we called on Don for historical knowledge, advice and guidance. He always encouraged us to "have faith because history is important, and we must preserve our heritage and roots."

Ernest Swanson of Goodridge and I served on the Red River Valley Historical society board for three years. We attended many meetings planned by Don Myrold in the Red River Valley. Other members of our society who learned to know and work with Don were Margaret Weigel, Violet Lindberg, Eric Hamreshoy and Albert Koop. Art Rambeck and Emily Johnson of St. Hilaire, both now deceased, also served on the Pennington County Historical society board.

Our historical society entertained the Red River Valley annual meetings in 1972 and 1974. Over 100 delegates from North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Canada attended. These meetings were helpful and inspiring under Don Myrold's leadership.

He was 52 years old at the time of his death. He served his country during World War II, and when he returned he became active in community affairs. He attended St. Olaf college and was a graduate of U.N.D.

These were some of his projects: Managed the Red River Valley winter shows and was responsible for the new winter shows building, founded the Red River Valley Historical society in 1963, founded Pioneer Days at Crookston, and the beginning of the annual Crookston Fine Arts festival. Other community projects were founding the Red River Valley Heritage Press, helping start Red River Land, N.D., the North Dakota Business foundation, Comstock House society in Moorhead and developing the Red River and Northern Museum in Bonanzaville, West Fargo, ND.

Another great project that Don Myrold worked hard at was encouraging counties to collect information from pioneers and publish a book for the 200th anniversary of our country. After Don's convincing lectures about this important project, about 15 counties published a history of the pioneers. Don secured the help of Neil Kimmel to assist in this work. In 1976 "Pioneer Tales" was published. This book will be a great help in generations to come — thanks to Don Myrold!

His last project was to find a home for Robert Asp's Viking Ship, the Hjemkomst.

He was not reimbursed for most of the meetings he planned and attended. This was his contribution. What a dedicated man! He did not believe in wrong doings.

He had faith, dreams and great visions for mankind and his country. His love for history and knowledge, together with is guidance and leadership, will always be remembered by all who knew him.

We learned to know his lovely wife Marjorie, and his family, daughters, Jennifer, (Mrs. David Mortz) of Devils Lake, ND. and Karen (Mrs. Jamel Bermel) of Rochester, and his two sons, Paul and Brent of Fargo, ND.

Our deep and most sincere sympathy goes to this family. They lost a loved one and a father. We lost a leader knowledgable in history and a kind and true friend.

Personalities To Head 1983 Cancer Crusade

Television personalties John Forsythe and Nancy Walker are honorary chairman and honorary residential chairman of the American cancer society's 1983 crusade.

They will lead two million-plus volunteers who will go door-to-door in April distributing life-saving educational materials and seeking support for the society's program. Mrs. Larry Poole, the crusade chairman for the society's Pennington unit, explains that April is designated nationally as cancer control month and that volunteers are needed for the annual campaign.

"Our blockworkers distribute important cancer educational material to every household as well as ask for contributions to the Society's work," Poole said. Anyone interested in helping in the crusade may contact her at 681-2107.

NW Seniors To Meet Thursday

Northwest senior federation will hold its regular bi-monthly meeting at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. All delegates and interested seniors are urged to attend.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, are the people who have never heard the Gospel really lost? What happens to them? Please give Scripture.

A. Many people say, "How can we say God is fair if He sends people to hell who have never heard of Him?"

Whatever God does, it is going to be fair. But many people feel if that were true, then He would let everybody into heaven — or at least all the good people.

Genesis 18:25 (Living Bible) says, "Should not the Judge of all the earth be just and fair?"

Every person, no matter what his geographical location, has at least two sources of information about God to which he can respond.

Nature is one source. Everyone has the same natural wonders around him, and they point to a superior being beyond man whom anyone may choose to seek.

Romans 1:20 teaches, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are created, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse."

Psalms 19:1-3 says, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech ,nor language, where their voice is not heard."

But nature is not our only source of information about God. Another one is within ourselves — our conscience. Our conscience tells us about sin; the difference between the way we live and the way we know we ought to live.

Romans 2:15 teaches, "There is a law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts accusing or excusing one another".

When someone looking at nature and his own conscience wants to find the source of goodness and righteousness, God promises He will reveal Himself to that person.

Missionary records are filled with stories of people from isolated areas who had no exposure to the Bible or to anyone who knew the message of Christianity yet were seeking a good and loving God. God answered their search by leading some missionary to them to tell them about Christ.

God does not send people to eternal punishment. People send themselves there. God gives everyone a chance to receive Christ as their personal Saviour or to reject Christ and choose eternal punishment. John 3:18, John 3:16

The everlasting torment which anyone may endure will be simply the inevitable results of his own deliberate and persistent choice of sin.

If you have any questions that you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Wm. Dodds, 45, Farmers Ins., Dist. Mgr. Dies

William K. Dodds, 45, of rural Clearbrook, district manager for Farmers Insurance company, died Sunday at St. Luke's hospital in Fargo, N.D.

Funeral services for William K. Dodds are being held today (Wednesday) at 3:00 p.m., at the Cease Funeral home in Bagley with Rev. Paul Knutson officiating. Interment will be in the Oak Park cemetery in rural Clearbrook.

Dodds had lived for the past 10 years at Clearbrook.

He was married Feb. 20, 1971 at Hopkins to Christine Fawler. She survives together with two sisters: Barbara Olson, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Thomas (Harriet) Bosak, Coon Rapids.

Rites Thursday For Lester T. Chapman, 69

Funeral services for Lester Chapman, 69, of rural Thief River Falls, will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at the United Methodist church in this city. Chapman died Sunday morning at his home in Silverton township, Pennington county.

Rev. Melvyn Budke will officiate at the services. Tonny Ricci will be the organist and Calvin Lindstrom, the soloist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until Thursday noon, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Pallbearers will be Alvin Rondorf, Ronald Rondorf, Randy Steenerson, Allen Paulson, Kenton Christensen and Kenneth Habedank.

Lester T. Chapman, a son of the late Willis and Sarah L. Van Riper Chapman, was born Feb. 17, 1914 in Esplee township of Marsahll county. He attended the Dist. 109 East Esplee elementary school. In 1929, he moved with his family to the Goodridge area, living there until 1937, when they moved to Silverton township. Since then, he had made his home in Silverton township.

He was married on Nov. 14, 1942 at Thief River Falls to Dorothy Woolson. The couple engaged in farming until ill health forced his retirement. He had also been employed by Arctic Enterprises for seven years.

He was a member of the United Methodist church and the Eagles lodge, was assessor of Silverton township for four years, and an honorary member of the Sons of Norway.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Iris LuAnn, Hillsboro, Ore.; one brother, Ervin Chapman, St. Hilaire, three sisters: Mrs. Florence Bakke, Grand Forks, N.D.; Mrs. Flossie Johnson, Duluth; and Mrs. Melvin (Elva) Hanson, Fayetteville, N.D.; and 16 nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by five brothers: Earl, Ernest, Dallas, Harold and Clarence; two sisters: Hazel and Olive; and two nieces and two nephews.

Jerry Wedul Services Held Sat. At Zion

Funeral services for Jerry Wedul, 41, of this city were held Saturday at 1:30 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls. Wedul, district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood insurance since 1975, died unexpectedly on Thursday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Richard Larson officiated at the services. Representing the Northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church was Rev. Olaf Cartford, assistant to the bishop. Rev. Roger Hanson was soloist and Jerry Joringdal, the organist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Wayne Benson, Dr. James Terrian, Robert Hilligoss, Donald Barron, Rev. Donald Knudson, Orren Bendickson, Howard Tyberg and Jack Quinlivan.

Attending the services in body were fellow members of the Thief River Falls Lions club, the Evangelism committee of Zion church, and representatives of Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance and the Insurance Underwriters.

Jerry Lee Wedul was born in Thief River Falls on July 23, 1941 to Oscar and Helen Jacobson Wedul. He attended school here, graduating from Lincoln high school with the class of 1959. He then enrolled at Bemidji State college, graduating in 1964.

While attending Bemidji State college, he was married at St. Hilaire on Dec. 29, 1963 to Kay Wik.

Following his graduation from college, he taught for two years at International Falls and five years at Detroit Lakes, where he was an English and Russian instructor.

In 1971, the Weduls returned to Thief River Falls. He operated Christy's Vending for a time and since 1975 he had been district representative for Lutheran Brotherhood insurance.

Wedul was an active member of Zion Lutheran church, where he was baptized Aug. 19, 1941 and confirmed on May 29, 1955. He served as president of the congregation for three years, had been conference co-chairman of the district council of the American Lutheran church, and was currently working with the Northern Minnesota Development fund for the Lutheran church. He also taught Sunday school, was on the board of Evangelism for Zion and was chairman of the Zion Foundation committee.

Throughout his lifetime he was very active in the Boy Scout program. He was an Eagle Scout, received the Pro Deo award, the church's highest honor in scouting, and was the current scouting coordinator of pack 59.

In community affairs, he was a member of the Lions, past chairman of the City Planning commission and past chairman of the American cancer society.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Sara, and one son, Aaron, both at home; his mother and step-father, Helen and Ed Christensen, also of this city; two step-sisters: Mrs. Chester (Betty) Jorde, Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Lyle (Donna) Martinson, Fisher; and four step-brothers: Robert Christensen, Slidell, La.; Dale Christensen, Lodi, Wis., Jerry Christensen, Chicago, Ill., and Dean Christensen, Santa Maria, Calif.

He was preceded in death by his father, who died Oct. 1, 1949.

John Schalz Rites Held At St. Bernard's

Funeral services for John Schalz, 92, of this city were held Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church with Rev. Dave Super officiating. Schalz died Saturday at Riverview hospital in Crookston.

Music at the service was provided by Jane Mackenroth, song leader, and Mrs. Violet Barr, organist. Interment will be in the church cemetery. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Melvin Joppru, Lowell Collins, Earl Tripp, Ralph Stoffel, Harold Anderson and John Collins.

John Schalz, a son of the late John B. and Catherine Hoffman Schalz, was born Oct. 30, 1890 in Aurora, Ill. He attended school and grew to manhood at New Hampton, Iowa. In 1915, he was married to Georgena Louze.

In 1922, he came to this area, settling on a farm near St. Hilaire. He farmed there for several years before moving into Thief River Falls to work as a general laborer. He was also employed for several years by Joppru Meats. Since July of 1982, he had been a resident of the Riverview Nursing home in Crookston.

He is survived by one sister, Mary Louze, Wausau, Wis.; eight grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren, two great-great-grandchildren, and 10 nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife, and one son, Michael, who died in 1966.

Mrs. Alma Brousseau, 87, Dies Monday

Mrs. Alma Brousseau, 87, of rural Thief River Falls, died Monday afternoon at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Alma Brousseau will be held Friday at 11:00 a.m., at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. Paul Bortnem, chaplain at Northwestern hospital, officiating. Interment will be in St. Edward's cemetery at Drayton, N.D., in the spring.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from Thursday noon until time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in the Monday Times.

Services Set For Mrs. Carl Ekwall, 66

Mrs. Carl (Evelyn) Ekwall, 66, of rural Goodridge, died Monday morning at her home in Star township, Pennington county.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carl Ekwall will be held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Berton Hushagen will officiate. Interment will be in the Clearwater cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home, from Thursday noon until Friday noon, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Alfred "Pops" Nordlund Rites Held Friday

Funeral services for Alfred "Pops" Nordlund, 90, of Middle River, were held Thursday at 10:00 a.m., at the First Lutheran church in that city. Nordlund died Sunday afternoon, March 6, at the Karlstad Memorial hospital.

Rev. Donald Fredine officiated at the services. Two duets were sung by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Blom, accompanied by the organist Mrs. Danny Geer. Interment will be in the Spruce Valley cemetery. The Collins Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Military honors were accorded by fellow members of the Middle River American Legion post. Fellow Legionnaires also served as pallbearers.

Alfred Bror Nordlund, a son of the late Peter and Elana Nordlund, was born June 30, 1892 at Leaf Mountain. He attended school and grew to manhood there.

Nordlund was a veteran of World War One, serving in the U.S. Army. Following his discharge from service in July of 1919, he moved to Thief Lake township of Marshall county, near Middle River. In 1952, he moved to a farm in Spruce Valley township, where he lived until 1956, when he moved into Middle River. For the past three years, he had been a resident of the Heritage boarding home in Middle River.

He was a carpenter by trade, working in the area for many years.

He was a member of the Middle River Americcan Legion post.

Surviving are a brother, Roy Nordlund, Evansville, and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by three brothers and three sisters.

Teckla Toren Services Held Here Friday

Mrs. Teckla Toren, 89, of Middle River, died Tuesday evening, March 8, at Oakland Park nursing home where she had been a resident for the past five years.

Funeral services for Mrs. Teckla Toren were held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at the Assembly of God Tabernacle in Thief River Falls. Rev. Daniel Cole and Rev. Ray Reine officiated. Vocal selections were by Rev. and Mrs. Reine with Sandra Gjovik serving as organist. Interment will be in the Spruce Valley cemetery, with the Collins Funeral home, Middle River, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were grandsons: Gary Toren, John Toren, Jim Toren, Bob Lundquist and Mark Lundquist.

Mrs. Toren, the former Teckla Cecelia Smith, was born Jan. 20, 1894 in Holt township of Marshall county, near Middle River, to Charles and Emily Smith. She attended school in the Middle River community and as a young woman spent several years working in Alaska.

On Aug. 7, 1920, she was married at Warren to Arvid Toren. Following their marriage, the couple settled in Spruce Valley township, near Middle River, where they farmed for many years. After the death of her husband in October of 1972, Mrs. Toren continued living on the farm for a year. She then became a resident of Valley Home, Thief River Falls. She lived there for four years before becoming a resident of Oakland Park Nursing home.

She was a member of the Assembly of God Tabernacle, Thief River Falls, and the Spruce Valley Garden club.

She is survived by one son: Robert (Joe) Toren, Middle River; a daughter, Mrs. Myron (Gladys) Sorter, also of Middle River; nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are five brothers: Arthur Smith, Cle Elum, Wash.; Rudolph, Princeton; Clarence, Newfolden; Martin, Wisconsin Dells, Wis.; and John, Sutherlin, Ore.; and one sister, Mrs. Hans (Mabel) Langlie, McGregor.

She was preceded in death by her husband, two sons: Melvin and Paul, her parents, four brothers: Victor, George, William and Reuben; and one great-grandson.

Rites Held At Redlake For Mrs. Needham

Funeral services for Mrs. Dan (Jessie) Needham, 84, of rural Goodridge, were held Monday at 3:30 p.m., at St. Mary's Mission Catholic church inn Redlake. Mrs. Needham died Thursday at her home.

Rev. Meinrad Dindorf officiated at the services. Organist was Sister Patricia. Interment was on the family ranch, near Goodridge, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Judy Needham, Patrick Needham, Michael Needham, Ralph Cervin, Cindy Cervin and Sue Needham.

Mrs. Needham, the former Jessie Margaret Burnett, was born Jan. 28, 1899 in Brown's Valley to Alex and Annie Morouitz Burnett. In 1905, she moved with the family to Mora, where she attended school and grew to womanhood. She was married at Mora on Aug. 29, 1922 to Dan Needham. Following their marriage, the couple lived in Minneapolis until 1926, when they moved to Redby. There they operated a truck farm. Since 1937, they have lived in rural Goodridge.

She was a member of St. Mary's Mission church at Redlake.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, Edward Needham of Goodridge, and Dan, Jr., Redlake; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are three sisters: Sister Marie Eustelle, St. Cloud; Sister Ann, also of St. Cloud; and Mrs. Herbert (Katherine) Justen, Grand Rhonde, Ore., and one brother, Edward Burnett, Mora.

Her parents and three brothers: Joe, Conrad and Paul, preceded her in death.

H. Hallstrom Rites Held At Red Lake Falls

Funeral services for Harold L. Hallstrom, 82, of Red Lake Falls, were held today (Wednesday) at 11:00 a.m., at St. John's Lutheran church in that city. Hallstrom died Sunday at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls. He had been in failing health for the past five years.

Rev. Roger E. Raebel officiated at the services. Music included a duet by Mrs. Arnold Lehrer and Mrs. Ruben Lehrer. Mrs. Dale Baril was the organist. Interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery, Red Lake Falls, with the Peterson Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Harlen Hallstrom, Dennis Hallstrom, Wilbur Hallstrom, Donald Mosbeck and Veral Mosbeck.

Harold L. Hallstrom was born June 22, 1900 in Black River township, Pennington county, to P. A. and Mathilda Selberg Hallstrom. He grew to manhood in the Black River area, where he attended school. He also attended college in Crookston.

On Oct. 18, 1939, he was united in marriage to Marie Hinrichs at the Lutheran parsonage at Wylie. They farmed north of Red Lake Falls and later moved south of Red Lake Falls where they farmed for 23 years, retiring in 1962. During their retirement, they spent time in Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona and California. They settled in Akeley. Since September of last year, they have made their home in Red Lake Falls.

He was a former member of the Black River Lutheran church and St. John's Lutheran church at Akeley.

He is survived by his wife, a sister, Mrs. Edla Eghers, Seattle, Wash.; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two sisters: Mabel and Hulda; and three brothers: Alfred, Martin and Henry.

Conservation Corps Now Seeking Youth

Youth conservation corps (YCC) is recruiting applicants for the 1983 summer program. YCC is a work-education program designed to acquaint youth with the state's parks, forests and wildlife management.

The summer program provides summer employment for youth between 15 and 18 years of age. Youth are employed 35 hours per week at $3.35 per hour. In addition, they receive five hours of environmental education instruction each week.

The 1983 YCC program will be operated by the Minnesota department of natural resources and will have 40 residential camp openings. A residential camp is one where youth live at the camp and engage in conservation work on state lands nearby.

All youth who are residents of Minnesota and who meet the age criteria above are eligible to apply. Applications may be obtained from the job service office located at 318 Knight Avenue North, Thief River Falls. The recruiting period begins March 7, and ends on April 7, 1983. All applications must be returned to the job service office.

LEC Lists 23 Cases Mar. 15

Law Enforcement Center report dated Tuesday, March 15, listed 18 cases investigated by Thief River Falls police department and five cases investigated by Pennington County sheriff's department by reporting date.

Cases handled by Thief River Falls police department included the following:

March 3 — Karen Kreuter, Thief River Falls, reported that a hubcap, value $60, had been stolen from her vehicle while it was parked in the lot outside her apartment.

March 4 — Gunhild Evenson, Thief River Falls, reported that a window in her entry had been shot out, causing approximately $7 damage. Case is under investigation.

March 5 — Robert Bredeson, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a snowmobile from his garage. Investigation revealed that the snowmobile had been run out of gas and abandoned with about $50 damage. Case is under investigation.

March 6 — Robert J. Evans, Thief River Falls, was stopped for traffic on Highway 59 South, waiting to turn into Northland Plaza, when he was struck from behind by Curtis R. Bartz, McIntosh. Evans received a bump on the head, and Gail Tofstad, a passenger in the Bartz vehicle complained of a headache. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Evans vehicle and $400 to the Bartz vehicle.

March 7 — Thief River Falls police officer on patrol noticed a suspicious vehicle at a local service station. Investigation revealed that the vehicle had been involved in a March 6 burglary in the Grand Forks area. With assistance of a Pennington county sheriff's deputy the occupants were taken to the law enforcement center, where they were questioned and admitted involvement in the burglary. Booked and held in custody were: Melvin Wesley Wadsworth and Curtis Alan Hovet, East Grand Forks; Robert Ellsworth Rowley, Alvarado; and Thomas Alexander Brimm, address unknown. Later transferred to the Grand Forks County jail, all except Hovet were charged with burglary and are awaiting trail.

March 8 — Jerry Imgrund, Thief River Falls, reported that a window had been broken on his vehicle while it was parked at Lincoln high school, causing approximately $100 damage.

March 8 — John R. Jacobson, Thief River Falls, was driving east in the K-Mart parking lot when he apparently skidded on ice and struck a parked car owned by Harold D. Jonson, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $400 to the Jacobson vehicle and $150 to the Jonson vehicle.

March 8 — Pamela Robb, International Falls, was driving west on First Street, attempting a turn into an alley near State Avenue when she collided with Roger Hiller, Thief River Falls, who was attempting to pass her. Damages were estimated at $400 to the Robb vehicle and $200 to the Hiller vehicle.

March 8 — Dorothy J. Olson, rural Red Lake Falls, was driving south on Pennington Avenue when she left the roadway and struck a tree. Olson received bruised ribs, knees and a cut lip. Vehicle damages were estimated at $2,000;

March 9 — David Huber, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a tool box and tools, value $140, from his vehicle while it was parked on Atlantic Avenue.

March 9 — Thief River Falls resident reported theft of $30 from an unlocked strong box in her home. Case is under investigation.

March 10 — Harvey Hanson, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a battery, value $40, from a truck parked at his residence.

March 13 — Diane McKeever, rural Thief River Falls, was driving east on Highway 59, and Paul Wysoski, Thief River Falls, was driving south on Arnold Avenue when they collided. Damages were estimated at $1,500 to the McKeever vehicle and $400 to the Wysoski vehicle. McKeever received a bruise on her head.

March 13 — Vehicle owned by Jeffrey Forsberg, Thief River Falls, was reported to have been struck by another vehicle while parked outside the Red Carpet Apartments. Investigation revealed that the other vehicle, which had left the scene, was driven by Donald R. Wayne, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $100 to the Forsberg vehicle. Charges are pending.

March 14 — Karen Kreuter, Thief River Falls, reported that two hubcaps, value $60, had been stolen from her vehicle while it was parked at her residence.

March 14 — Harold Rasmussen, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a small camper trailer, value $1,400, from the Topco lot. Case is under investigation.

March 14 — Murray Melgaard, Thief River Falls, reported that his BMX dirt bike, value $100, had been stolen from his yard.

March 14 — Bonnie Elleson, Thief River Falls, was driving north on Merriam Avenue, and Elizabeth Hemmestvedt, rural Goodridge, was driving west on First Street when they collided. Hemmestvedt reported a bruised leg. Damages were estimated at $800 to the Elleson vehicle and $400 to the Hemmestvedt vehicle.

Cases handled by the Pennington county sheriff's office included the following:

February 12 — Donald Hoganson, Thief River Falls, was driving west on County Road 59 when he was sideswiped by Johnie J. Miller, rural Thief River Falls, who was driving east. Damages were estimated at $1,500 to the Hoganson vehicle and $300 to the Miller vehicle.

February 28 — Linda Tabor, Thief River Falls, reported that while her vehicle was parked behind El Ceritos in St. Hilare, an estimated $130 damage had been caused by vandals. Her gas cap, value $10, had also been stolen.

March 4 — Burglary of a River Falls Township residence was reported, with several buildings also reported damaged. Case is under investigation.

March 4 — Mrs. Nellie Tviet, Goodridge, reported theft of two cords of wood, value $130, from her residence.

March 8 — Amy Huseth, rural Thief River Falls, was driving south on County Road 63, under icy conditions, and was unable to stop when Timothy J. Palm, Warren, backed onto the road, resulting in a collision. Damages were estimated at $1,400 to the Huseth vehicle and $600 to the Palm vehicle.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Administration Raises White Flag on Spending

If you wished to help a friend with his diet, would you make him the following offer: If you gain 10 pounds or more in the next month, I will take you out for a big dinner and dessert?

Of course not.

Or if your son were constantly overspending his weekly allowance, would you solve the problem with the following ultimatum? Son, if you overspend your allowance again this week, I will be forced to raise it.

Certainly not. One doesn't get discipline — for appetites or personal budgets — by rewarding excess. No one would seriously act like the two examples mentioned above.

Well, if you think these two examples are silly, hold onto your hats (and your pocketbooks) because our federal government has just proposed something just as silly — but a great deal more expensive.

The federal government has a problem it assures us that it is trying to solve — runaway spending. The 1983 budget is $805 billion. This is up $77 billion from last year's budget, which was $71 billion higher than the year before, which was $80 billion above the year before that. And so on.

By anyone's reckoning, the federal government's spending is out of control and headed for disaster.

To solve the problem, the Reagan administration has decided to get tough. The President told Congress in the State of the Union address that if they continue their tax and spend policies of the past and the deficit continues to remain over 2.5 per cent of the gross national product in 1985, then he will. . . raise taxes. Some punishment.

The President calls this a "trigger tax" or a "stand-by tax." It should be called the white flag of surrender in the battle to control federal spending.

Our President is telling Congress: If you continue to spend billions upon billions of the taxpayers' money. . . If you continue to create rivers of red ink. . . Then we will give you more money to spend.

Now, who is being silly?

You don't help an alcoholic by giving him a bottle of scotch — because he might drink it.

And you don't give the politicians in Washington more money — because they will spend it. And more.

The only way to keep the bureaucrats and politicians from spending our money is to keep it out of their greedy little hands in the first place. We must force Congress to come to grips with the real problem — too much money being spent by Washington. (And as a result, not enough being spent by the people.)

But we cannot do this by showering them with more of the taxpayers' money any more than we can put out a fire by pouring gasoline on it.

Here We Go Again

Washington never tires of re-inventing the wheel. This much is obvious in the current "behind the scenes" debate over the administration's first budget blueprint for fiscal 1984.

Raise taxes or cut spending? The dilemma is remarkably similar to the one the country faced for much of 1982. And the backdrop is the same — a stubbornly long recession and a mammoth budget deficit.

There are those who say that there can be no recovery until the deficit is brought way down. Why? Because big deficits keep interest rates high by forcing the government to consume a large share of the funds available for borrowing. Therefore the top economic policy priority is to reduce deficits — and if that means raising taxes in a weak economy, so be it.

Such is the reasoning that currently has a grip on most of official Washington, including legislators of both parties and some members of the White House staff.

But there is another formula for recovery which goes like this:

High deficits are a symptom of the recession; not the cause. Deficits will not be brought down until more workers are working and businesses are doing more business. Therefore, the first priority — not only for the sake of the deficit but more importantly, for the well-being of our people and business — is to put more money in their hands to save, spend and invest. This requires tax cuts, spending reductions and removal of excessive regulations. These folks point out that attempting to reduce a deficit by raising taxes has no net effect on the funds available for borrowing and therefore no effect on interest rates.

In other words, if you face a $100 billion deficit and are worried that subsequent borrowing to cover that debt will dry up $100 billion in funds needed by the private sector, ask yourself: Doesn't a $100 billion tax increase have the same draining effect?

Regular readers of this column know on which side of this dialogue I stand. I'll match my abhorrence of deficits against anyone's. But if the choice today were only between a major tax increase or a large deficit, I would live with the latter.

Fortunately, there is another choice, one that has been staring our legislators right in the face — but they have turned and run every time. This choice is to cut spending. Federal spending as a share of our gross national product easily exceeded 24 per cent in 1982, the highest level in peacetime history. Except in a few particular programs, the drastic cuts that you hear so much about have simply not materialized.

No one is saying that cutting spending is an easy job. Needs and priorities must be carefully weighed. But the failure of our legislators to make progress on this agenda which the American people so clearly demanded in the 1980 election is thus far the major policy failure of this decase.

Finally, a reminder to those who suggest that we should accept higher taxes as a necessary price to pay for winning some spending cuts from the new Congress. This is the same naive theory on which the 1982 tax increase was sold. The problem is that Congress does not sit down and, at the same time, pass tax cuts and budget cuts. What happened in 1982, as it has so many times in recent years, is that Congress took those extra tax dollars to fund liberal programs and never delivered on the promised spending cuts.

Isn't it time we learned from our mistakes?

"FAITH WALKIN' PEOPLE", a Christian outreach team from Concordia college in Moorhead will appear at Nazareth Lutheran church, Holt at 8 p.m. on Saturday, March 19. 4H CLUB

Silverton

Silverton 4-H club met March 10 at the Silver Creek church. Meeting was called to order by president Mike Sparby. Roll call was taken. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved by both clubs. There was no old business.

New business: both clubs picked games and were reminded of the carnival, share the fun April 15, plays April 20, and reminded to check with leaders for camp applications that are due. Dairy day is June 14. Wayne Rausch gave a motion to adjourn the meeting and Dale Nelson seconded the meeting.

Demonstrations were given by Jerid Mostrom Ose on bicycle safety and Melissa Rausch on milk. Project talks were given by Mike Jorde on forestry and Lisa Anderson on safety in your house.

Recreation was led by Brenda Russell, Karla Rupprecht, Stacie Skibicki and Lisa Torgerson. A shoe relay and newspaper scavenger hunt were held.

Present were 43 members, 12 parents and ten visitors.

Marshall county Independent - Republican (IR) convention will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Newfolden community center, Newfolden.

Main business will be to elect officers for the Marshall county I-R committee. The convention will consist of delegates and alternates elected at precinct caucuses Feb. 23, 1982.

Congressman Arlan Stangeland will be the guest speaker. Meeting is open to the public.

Poole Named Local Cancer Crusade Leader

Mrs. Larry Poole will head the team of volunteers who will conduct the American cancer society's April fundraising and educational drive in Pennington county, according to Pennington county unit president Arnt Aune.

Mrs. Poole explained that in addition to requesting contributions to fund cancer research, education and service programs, the crusade volunteers will also be distributing a "self-test on cancer risks."

"The pamphlet is a short test that covers some important aspects of cancer risks or warnings," she said, "plus safeguards and explanations of some of these risks. Chances of developing cancer increase with age, depend on lifestyle and personal and family medical history. This self-test will be a valuable piece of information for every family in our community."

Volunteers are needed to help distribute the test and to solicit cancer-fighting donations, Poole added. "Planning has already begun for the April 'C-Days' crusade," she said, "and it is important that we are able to contact every household."

Anyone interested in helping with the American cancer society April crusade is invited to contact Mrs. Poole at 681-2107.

32,808 Take Part In 1982 Job Training

Total of 32,808 Minnesotans participated in federal job training programs in the 12-month period ending September 30, 1982, the Governor's job training office reported.

Expenditures for the period totaled $40.2 million.

During the same period in 1981, 46,697 people participated in job training programs whose total expenditures were $72 million.

In 1982, about one in three participants was under 22 years of age. Most of these young people worked in temporary summer jobs or in part-time jobs during the school term.

Of the 20,000 adult participants, 14,800 completed training and 53 per cent of them found full-time jobs.

Programs were authorized by the comprehensive employment and training act (CETA) which will be replaced by the job training partnership act on October 1.

Area Legislators Would Favor Dairy Compliance

Special To The Times
by Cathy Carsberg
Northern Star News Service

Everyone agrees that it's in Minnesota's best interest to assure the dairy industry here an export market. However, conforming to USDA guidelines could put a few small farmers out of business and many legislators are concerned about that.

Last month a New York dairy refused some Minnesota grade B manufactured milk. The incident has stepped up debate among state legislators. Grade B farms, now exempt from yearly inspection, would have to comply with milk house regulations and other health standards under legislation now considered in House and Senate committees.

A bill improving milk quality standards passed the Senate two years ago, but some legislators and farmers say the issue has been a problem for 10 or 20 years. The recent New York contract cancellation could bring some action this year.

"It is something that will have to happen this year," said Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer, explaining he intends to vote for state compliance to federal milk standards. "The handwriting is on the wall."

There are can milk producers in the senate district and Stumpf supports efforts to ease the burden of upgrading to come into compliance.

"Loan guarantees for farmers are possibly an added incentive to get it passed," Stumpf said. "That may be a good suggestion." Changes in the dairy inspection system should be as efficient as possible, Stumpf says, with all inspectors fully trained to inspect both grade A and B milk.

"I'd like to see it all coordinated so all inspectors are working together. That promotes efficiency," Stumpf said.

Rep. Wallace Sparby of Thief River Falls is likely to support the bill calling for full state compliance by mid-1987, including a loan fund.

"I think in fairness to those farmers, I'd like to see the loan program — paid back with interest," Sparby said. He would like the bill to permit can milk producers enough time to get their operations in compliance. "Then we would be up to standard, like other states," he said.

Sparby will be working on the bill in the House agriculture committee soon.

Rep. Steve Wenzel of Little Falls, House agriculture committee chairman, said the committee will hear milk quality bills "right away" this session so that some strong legislation can be voted on. He had been slow to hear earlier proposals.

One bill calls for USDA compliance on all dairy farms by mid-1987, although the state would go on record as complying immediately. Another bill calls for similar USDA compliance and a $750,000 loan program to help farmers upgrade and build their facilities. A third bill proposes yearly inspection for all farms, along with guidelines for a milk room. However, the bill does not call for full USDA compliance.

Central to the controversy among legislators and farmers is whether Minnesota needs to adopt USDA guidelines to satisfy out-of-state buyers that Minnesota milk is high quality.

Bill Coleman of the state agriculture department said lack of farm inspection was the "big concern" of the New York firm. "There was no one to verify the quality of the milk," Coleman said.

Inspection to insure milk quality is more important than an approved building, he said.

The Minnesota Farmer's Union "agrees that there's a desire and need for Minnesota to conform to recommended national standards," according to Mark McAfee, legislative lobbyist. However, Farmer's Union also represents 3,000 farmers who store milk in cans and these farmers are most likely to be hurt by USDA compliance requirements.

"Our position differs in that we have concern for canned producers," he said.

Ed Slettom of the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives (MAC) said the group supports USDA compliance.

Federal guidelines allow farmers to use cans as long as they are inspected and have a milk house, Slettom said. Wisconsin farmers use cans and that state is in compliance, he added.

Legislators and farmers also express mixed views about including a loan program with milk quality legislation.

Wenzel supports a loan program so "small farmers won't go out of business."

The Farmer's Union is neutral on the question of state funding. "We are not endorsing the loan program . . . but we're open to it," McAfee said.

MAC is "not opposed to a loan program if the legislature feels we can afford it," Slettom said.

The four states surrounding Minnesota all comply with USDA dairy guidelines.

DAIRY QUEEN owners, Odette and Orren Bendickson, were welcomed to the Thief River Falls business community recently, by Chamber Ambassador Rocky Ammerman, center, who presented the couple with their first dollar of clear profit. They purchased the business, located on Highway 32 South, from her parents, Walt and Minnie Thomas. Hours are currently 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and will be extended to 9:30 a.m. to midnight in midsummer. They employ up to nine people during the peak season.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hottis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

For the last two weeks we have been concentrating on our economic mess. Today let's look at inflation, part three in our series.

A big part of the inflation problem develops from the way our government can finance its operations. When government pays out cash and takes lots of what we produce you and I end up with lots of cash and little to buy. As in an auction, prices rise. Each time government spends more than it takes in, we are asking for more inflation (more bucks chasing fewer purchases).

Significant inflation periods have followed weak and stupid political decisions to spend without taxing. If taxes kept up with government needs, there would not be a lot of spare cash around inflating prices. Politicians who like to make promises do not like to use a "pay as you go" approach, because it makes us realize that we have to pay for what we get, and that the politicians have not given us anything for free, and we owe them nothing.

There are times in the life of a family when it has to use credit, when it buys such big-ticket items as a car, a home or children's educations. When a family arranges for these credit purchases, it also has to plan on repayment. Government spends lots of money that it doesn't have, but irresponsibly doesn't arrange for the payoff of that borrowed money, so that the dollar can get smaller and smaller in purchasing power.

We are now reducing interest rates and that together with other actions should increase employment allowing all Americans who want to work to get a job. Because of all of the things we want, there could be a big boom. Once our desires are coupled with dollars, they will become effective demand for goods and services. What will happen with recovery?

I believe that demand will exceed supply and that we could find prices and inflation skyrocketing, again. Individuals, recognizing that we will have approximately full employment, will make wage demands beyond improved productivity. Business, recognizing customer demands, will boost margins and prices. Once this starts, inflation could proceed past double digits to triple digits. This would doom our recovery and our whole civilization. Unrestrained greed could make everyone realize that individuals can not be left free.

Somehow we must use the same good judgment that can be the difference between life and death in a crowd. While we all believe in free speech, a scream of "fire" can terrorize a crowd scrambling to get out, and many could die. A calm announcement and calm people who understand the situation can exit without anyone being crushed to death.

There are two approaches to the problem of controlling inflation that are bound to come with an improved economic situation.

One requires individuals, businesses and governments to use good judgment in their pricing and buying, being socially responsive and concerned. Everyone must consider what their actions can mean in an improved standard of living with the exercise of self control. This approach requires the kind of economic and business understanding, in simplified form, that doesn't exist in most of our school and business environment. Most of our 50 states do not even require teachers to have any courses in "how the business system really works" or in "pocketbook economics". That is a boon for the "hot air" politician who assumes that we are stupid, makes lots of promises, builds up expectations and contributes to our problems.

The alternative is a simplified price and wage limitation policy, on the books, and easily put into operation when individuals, businesses or governments start "scrambling" for a fire exit instead of modifying their demands to what is not harmful. While I do not like this alternative, any more than I like having to spend so much of our money on defense, police and fire protection, just in case there is a need, I do not see any alternative unless our people better understand inflation and the business system.

If you honestly believe that our inflation problem has been licked, permanently, I suspect that I could sell you the Brooklyn bridge. Controlling inflation is a continuing job and is needed for a sound business recovery that will last. If inflation gets out of hand, again, you will see interest rates higher than ever, killing our business system and our individual freedom. All of the pain we have been experiencing in this terrible recession will have been felt for nothing.

That's Straight Talk!

Sunday afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Wayne Stromgren home were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nelson and family. They also attended the family Luther League at Bethesda.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boen and Chad of Karlstad were Sunday afternoon visitors and lunch guests at the Philip Boen home in observance of Yvonne and Philip's birthdays.

The family Luther League at Bethesda Sunday evening was well attended with chairs being set up in the isles to make room for all. Jim Sundby was the guest speaker who spoke on prophecy. He has studied this for 13 years and has always more to tell on the subject than time allows. We were also privileged to have John Peterson, a singing evangelist from North Branch, to sing and play both his guitar and banjo and give his testimony the same evening. One should never have both Jim and John on the same program, since they are both qualified to take care of an evening's program alone. So, this program lasted longer than most, but no one complained as it was so inspiring and interesting. Those who came received a blessing and those who didn't come will never know just how much they really missed — only those of us who were there will know.

Ruth Anderson visited recently with Alma Sjodin who had returned home from the Cities on Thursday.

REPORT

From The

Minnesota House of Representatives

by Rep. Wallace Sparby
District 1B

Last week I met with my task force and discussed a varity of issues of concern to the members. It was enlightening and informative for me. We discussed most major issues before the legislature. Our next meeting is scheduled for Friday, April 8.

A bill carrying a hefty price tag but some much needed measures for creating jobs in Minnesota was introduced in the House and Senate last week. The bill would establish the Minnesota emergency employment development art to create up to 60,000 jobs in both the public and private sectors.

This is not the bill we are expecting from the governor, but it does carry many of the recommendations offered by the governor's task forces on unemployment and job creation, and I would like to share those ideas with you.

The legislation recognizes that the prolonged recession has caused hardship for thousands of people in the state and has undermined the strength of Minnesota's economy, as we have heard so vividly at the Capitol, in Thief River Falls and elsewhere.

The Minnesota emergency employment development act would address the social consequences of unemployment and it would seek to create meaningful employment to provide workers with an income sufficient to meet their basic needs.

The bill places the responsibility for promoting job creation on the department of economic security. Its provisions would aid people in households where every possible wage earner is unemployed and not receiving any sort of benefits. Applicants would also have to be ineligible for any income maintenance public assistance, except general assistance.

Included in the legislation is a $312,000,000 appropriation, the bulk of which would cover the state's contribution for wages paid by eligible employers. Those wages would be a minimum of $4 an hour for a maximum of 1,040 hours over a period of 26 weeks. Employers would have the option to increase wages with funds from other sources.

This is an enormous amount of money, but when you consider the many thousands of people out of work in our state, you can appreciate the fact that the money would be well spent. Getting the unemployed back to work would stimulate the state's entire economy which is an additional benefit of this type of legislation.

The bill provides that 80 per cent of the job creation funds received by employers must go for wages. The other 20 per cent may be used to repay the department for administrative costs, to provide child care services, to assist with job searches, to provide workers' compensation or other employee fringe benefits, or to purchase supplies and materials for projects to improve public property.

In order to qualify as an eligible employer, a government or non-profit agency or private business would have to show that the job created and funded by the Minnesota emergency employment development act would result in employment opportunities that would otherwise not exist, would not displace current workers, including reducing hours of non-overtime work, wages or employee benefits, and that would not impair existing contracts for services.

This is a very well-thought-out bill that I am anxious to hear in committee. As I said earlier, it is not the governor's bill, but it does start our deliberation on several bills introduced. I hope we'll create a good jobs bill for the private and public sectors, because there are people hurting who can no longer wait for relief.

If you have questions on this or any other issues before the state government, please contact me at Room 263 State Office Building, St. Paul 55155, phone (612) 296-9918.

WE'RE LENDING A WHOLE NEW PERSONALITY TO BANKING.

THE PEOPLE LOAN.

We don't lend money to cars or boats, we lend it to people.
That's why we call our loan program people loans. Because we tailor loans that fit you, and your individual needs.
After all, everybody is different. What may be a good lending program for one person may not be ideal for you.
That's why our personal banker sits down with you and privately discusses how to fit a loan to your needs, comfortably. So it's right for you.
So the next time you're in the market for a new car or boat, want to invest in your IRA, get money for school or improve your home, come to us. For a people loan.
They're from people like us to some very important people, like you.

State Tournament Speculation

Thief River Falls came within one goal of reaching the 1983 Minnesota state high school hockey tournament, losing a tough 1-0 Section 8 championship game decision to Roseau, and coach Wendell Grand feels that if the Prowlers would have beaten the Rams, they could have made a solid state tournament showing.

"I certainly don't think we would have been over-matched on the ice by any of the teams down there," he said.

St. Paul Hill-Murray closed out an unbeaten 28-0 season Saturday with a 4-3 win over Burnsville in the state tournament finals. Roseau, after a 4-1 opening round loss to Henry Sibley, beat Bloomington Kennedy 3-2 in the consolation semifinals before losing to Edina 6-1 in the fifth place consolation championship game.

"I thought it was a very good tournament," said Grand. "I think the two best teams ended up in the finals. I was impressed with both of those teams."

Retracing the steps of Roseau, Grand feels Thief River Falls could have beaten Henry Sibley. "I feel we would have matched up very favorably with most of the teams down there," he noted. "I certainly think we would have stacked up well vs. Henry Sibley."

That would have produced a semifinal encounter with Hill-Murray. Like Burnsville, the other finalist, the Pioneers were big, strong and fast. Grand says the Prowlers could have matched them physically, but admitted speed-wise Hill-Murray would have had the edge. "There are ways to combat that, though," he pointed out, referring to a more physical checking game.

It's all speculation, of course, but Thief River Falls probably would have been a very good Section 8 state tournament representative in 1983. And already there's speculation about 1984.

Based upon the number of returning players from the just-completed 1982-83 season, Roseau, Fergus Falls and Thief River Falls will field very experienced hockey teams in 1983-84 and will undoubtedly begin the year as Section 8 favorites.

Thief River Falls, for example, will lose only four regulars off this year's Section 8 runner-up squad, same number as Roseau. Fergus Falls will graduate five seniors.

"We're going to have a very experienced hockey team next year," pointed out Grand. "If there's any value to the thought that experience is worth anything, then we can look forward to next year a lot."

Although the number of graduates will be low, Thief River Falls will obviously lose some top quality with the departure of players like Tim Bergland and Tom Kenville, two highly regarded centers, plus goalie Kerry Wollin who played very well in his first year of regular varsity duty. Jeff Storhaug was a season-long starter on defense, and seniors like Rod Harder, Chris Jorde and Mike Torgerson all stepped in and played well when called upon.

TRF Skaters Playing For NCAA Titles

Three Thief River Falls players may be on the ice Saturday when the NCAA Division II-III hockey championship game is played in Boston.

In semifinals Thursday, No. 2-seeded Bemidji State (29-5-1) plays Babson, Mass. (25-4-1) at 7:30 p.m. while No. 1-seeded Lowell, Mass. (28-2) meets Rochester, N.Y., Institute of Technology (23-7-1) in the second game that night. Winners will play Saturday for the national title.

Forward Bob Fitzgerald and defenseman Dave Geatz skate with Bemidji State, while defenseman Scott Wiebolt plays for Lowell, giving the tournament a definite Thief River Falls flavor.

Defending champion Lowell, scheduled to compete in the Division I ranks in 1983-84, is the pre-tournament favorite. Bemidji's 29 wins is the most ever for the highly successful BSU program.

While Fitzgerald, Geatz and Wiebolt complete for the NCAA Division II-III title, Scott Wiebolt of Wisconsin gives Thief River Falls connection in the NCAA Division I hockey ranks. The Badgers swept Minnesota in both ends of the WCHA playoffs over the weekend in Minneapolis, giving them the No. 1 seed in the West for the national tournament quarterfinals this weekend when 29-10-4 Wisconsin will host 23-8-1 St. Lawrence of Canton, N.Y., the No. 4 seed in the East.

Miscellaneous

Prowlers' Tim Bergland To Sign With Gophers

Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland, it was revealed Tuesday, has made a verbal commitment to accept a scholarship offer from University of Minnesota hockey coach Brad Buetow.

A senior center who led the Section 8 runner-up Prowlers in scoring this winter, Bergland is expected to formalize the agreement April 13, the national letter-of-intent signing date.

"We're excited," said Buetow about Bergland's announcement. Minnesota assistant coach Dean Talafous did most of the leg work in recruiting Bergland, and "he liked what he saw," according to Buetow. "I watched him in the past," said Buetow by telephone Tuesday. "We don't like to contact people until the end of the season. I was hoping to see him at the state tournament. Unfortunately you came up one game short."

Still, that didn't diminish Buetow's enthusiasm about the Thief River Falls recruit. "We're really impressed with his size and his hockey instinct. He's just starting (to develop). His potential is unlimited. We feel he's going to be a great one. We're very high on him."

So are the National Hockey League scouts. Central Scouting of the NHL had him rated the top 18-year-old hockey player in the state of Minnesota this winter.

Besides his hockey talents, Buetow said Bergland's No. 1 attraction was his character. "He's just a great person," he offered. The kind of player coaches love to recruit.

Buetow wouldn't reveal what amount of scholarship was made available to Bergland, but did say it was a "very substantial offer."

Bergland finished the recently-completed 1982-83 season with 30 goals, 23 assists and 53 points in 23 games for the 16-6-1 Prowlers. That's the sixth highest single season scoring total in Lincoln high school hockey history and represents the most goals scored in one year by a Thief River Falls player since Dale Wennberg scored 37 goals in the 1959-60 season, a year in which he established the Lincoln single season scoring record of 70 points. Only Wade Hoppe, who collected 62 points during the 1979-80 season, has had more points than Bergland in any season since Wennberg's 1959-60 totals.

"We feel he's had some excellent coaching there in Thief River," added Buetow. "It's a good hockey town. A good hockey program. We know Wendell Grand and the other coaches do a good job there."

Bergland will be the first Thief River Falls player on a hockey scholarship at Minnesota since Tony Dorn, Jr., who finished his high school hockey career in 1973-74.

Bergland, of course, confirmed that he was excited at the prospects of playing for the Gophers. He said he picked Minnesota over several other schools simply "because it was Minnesota; it's what I've been dreaming about," underlining the drawing power the Gophers have over the hockey talent in the state. Michigan and Clarkston of Potsdam, N.Y. also ranked high on Bergland's list of possible choices.

Like everyone else, Bergland has visions of stepping into the Minnesota starting line-up as a freshman. Buetow indicated it's an obtainable goal since the Gophers will be looking to replace two centers and two right-wingers off this year's squad, and Bergland, who has been contacted by Hartford and the New York Islanders of the National Hockey League, wouldn't mind shifting from his centerman's role to a winger if it meant playing regularly with the Gophers.

Tim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bergland. The family also includes brothers Scott, who played hockey at Northland community college and St. Thomas, and Todd, who was a freshman on this year's Northland squad, and sister Jodi.

Northwomen Finish Year 8-11

There could have been a few more wins, admitted Northland community college women's basketball coach Deb Jacobson, but all-in-all it was a pretty good year as the Northwomen closed out their 1982-83 season with an 8-11 record.

"It wasn't a bad season," said Jacobson. "Some of the games we lost we shouldn't have lost, but overall I was pretty happy with the progress of the group. It was a good group to work with."

If there was a disappointment it was Northland's 3-8 record within the Northwest Division.

"I was expecting a little more at the beginning of the year," acknowledged Jacobson. "I thought maybe we had a little more talent, and we had more height than we've had for a while. But we made a lot of freshman mistakes. Those freshmen matured, though, during the season."

Northland's roster included just two sophomores — Donna Stewart of Lancaster and Deb Koskela of Plummer.

Statistical leaders included Tara Nicholson (TRF), who led the team with a 14.8 scoring average and 19 blocked shots while pulling down 181 rebounds, second on the team; LeAnn Paetznick (TRF), who shot 40 per cent from the field (68-for-170) and pulled down a team-high 188 rebounds while averaging 10.2 points per game; Mary Kuznia (Stephen), who shot 80 per cent from the free throw line (16-for-20) and handed out 46 assists; and Koskela, who blocked 16 shots, just three behind Nicholson.

Northland's 1982-83 season included four wins over Itasca — 63-35, 48-44 and 57-38 on the court, plus a forfeit victory; along with decisions over Rainy River 53-48, Hibbing 61-54, Brainerd 63-37 and Red River community college of Winnipeg 53-34.

Losses came at the hands of Seneca community college of Toronto 81-48; Red River 51-47, 55-49; Rainy River 62-44; Vermilion 95-50; Mesabi 76-53; Brainerd 42-38; University of Minnesota-Crookston 56-44, 53-48; and Fergus Falls 85-67, 93-62.

Region 8A Games Are Set For UMC

Region 8A high school basketball tournament will be played Friday and Saturday at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

First round semifinals Friday will match District 29 champion Littlefork-Big Falls against District 31 winner Argyle at 7 p.m., with District 30 titlist Ada facing District 32 representative Tri-County of Karlstad at 8:45.

Third place game will be played Saturday at 6:30 p.m., with the title game scheduled for 8:45 that night. The winner will move on to the 1983 Minnesota Class A high school basketball tournament March 24-26.

Argyle is the only 1982 repeater in the 1983 Region 8A field. A year ago the Eagles earned a state meet trip against a field that included Northome of District 29, Erskine of District 30 and Marshall County Central of District 32.

Final Region 8A berth was settled Monday when Tri-County defeated Hallock 61-43 in the District 32 finals at Newfolden. Lancaster beat Kennedy 48-43 for third place honors in the once storm-delayed tournament. All other district champions were crowned last week.

Girls Start State Tourney Thursday

Two new state champions will be crowned this week when the annual Minnesota State High School League's state girls Class AA and Class A basketball tournament unfolds for an eighth time at the Met Center in Bloomington and the Minneapolis Auditorium.

Defending champions St. Cloud Apollo in Class AA and Moose Lake in Class A were sidelined in region and district playdowns, respectively, assuring new titlists. It marks only the second time in the event's seven-year history that winners from the previous year did not return to defend championships. Only other year was last year.

Another unique feature of this year's event will be a first since the first tournament in that all Class A school entrants will be making first time appearances in a state girls basketball tournament. In Class AA, however, there will be only two first timers, and five of the eight schools from last year's field are back to try and win again in 1983.

State tournament games will be played once again at the same two sites as a year ago. Thursday's Class AA quarterfinal games will be conducted at the Minneapolis Auditorium, while the Class A quarterfinal round will take place at the Met Center in Bloomington. Semifinal and championship games on Friday and Saturday are scheduled for the Met Center.

A change in the format of games will find Class A semifinal and finals being held Friday and Saturday afternoons, respectively, while Class AA semifinal and finals contests are slated for Friday and Saturday nights. Previously Class A games the last two days were played Friday night and Saturday afternoon, and Class AA contests were scheduled for Friday afternoon and Saturday evening.

Pairings in Class AA Thursday at the Minneapolis Auditorium will find Rochester John Marshall (22-0) meeting Chaska (20-2) at 1:15 p.m., followed by Derham Hall of St. Paul (15-6) opposing Albany (20-2). In the other bracket starting at 7:15 p.m., Spring Lake Park (18-4) meets Duluth East (17-5), followed by the game between Minneapolis Washburn (18-4) and Edina (17-4).

Only unbeaten team in Class AA, Rochester John Marshall, is considered the team to beat. Making their first ever state tourney appearance, the Rockets were rated by pollsters as the No. 2 team most all season-long. Top-rated for the majority of the regular season, Hill-Murray, was sidelined in region play 54-49 by state tournament entrant Spring Lake Park.

Five of the returning Class AA schools from last year's field include Chaska, Derham Hall, Duluth East, Minneapolis Washburn and Edina. In addition to Rochester John Marshall, another first time entrant is Spring Lake Park. Albany, which rounds out the field, has been classified in Class A until this season. The Huskies are the only school in the event to have ever won a state girls basketball title. Entered four times previously, Region 8AA representative Albany captured the first place Class A trophy in 1980.

Minneapolis Washburn, meanwhile, is making its third trip to a state tourney, all successive, and so is Edina, who was named Edina West in 1981. Chaska, Derham Hall, and Duluth East are all back for second times.

Meanwhile, in Class A, with all schools coming to the Twin Cities' area with girls basketball state tournament entries for the first time, three schools boast undefeated records, led by tournament favorite Chisholm, who has been rated second only to top-rated Staples most all season-long by the experts. Staples lost in region play to Starbuck, 49-44, who later was eliminated by Wheaton, one of the two other undefeated teams.

Class A state tournament first round quarterfinal pairings look like this: Upper bracket, 1:05 p.m. — Lake City (18-4) vs. Benson (17-6), followed by Janesville (20-2) against Wheaton (23-0). Lower brackets, 7:05 p.m. — Henderson (23-0) vs. Region 8A champion Waubun (18-6), followed by Eden Valley-Watkins (20-4) vs. Chisholm (23-0).

WTCN-TV, Minneapolis Channel 11, will televise the championship series once again in both classes.

Matt Fontes Is All-Region 13 Team Selection

Matt Fontes of Northland community college added another post-season honor to his collection when he was named to the five-state area All-Region 13 basketball team.

Fontes was earlier named to the all-Northwest Division; MCCC all-state and MCCC all-state tournament teams.

Lakers Play Tech For Title In Region 8AA

Detroit Lakes will play St. Cloud Tech Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Region 8AA boys high school basketball tournament championship game at Concordia College in Moorhead.

It'll be a rematch of the 1982 Region 8AA finals when the Tigers beat the Lakers 52-41 at Hallenbeck Hall on the St. Cloud State University campus.

Both teams were surprise finalists this year. Both were rated only fourth in their respective North and South Half Divisions, but enroute to the title game they turned back teams that were seeded No. 5, No. 1 and No. 2.

Detroit Lakes won the North Half crown Saturday with a come-from-behind 46-39 victory over Moorhead.

Moorhead led 23-12 at halftime, but Detroit Lakes out-scored the Spuds 34-16 over the final 16 minutes, cutting the Moorhead lead to just 27-26 at the end of the third quarter then pulling away in the fourth quarter.

Doug Imholte led the Lakers with 20 points while Dennis Priem got 11, all in the second half. Dennis Carlson had 13 to lead the Spuds, who finished the year 9-12.

Tech beat Cold Spring-Rocori 44-42 in the South Half finals.

Red Lake DU Banquet Is Sold-Out Event

First banquet of the newly-organized Red Lake county chapter of Ducks Unlimited is a sold-out affair, according to chapter publicist Marc E. Parenteau of Red Lake Falls. The banquet will be held Thursday, March 24, at the Third Base restaurant in Brooks.

Parenteau said that 110 tickets were made available and the last of these was sold last week. Social hour beginning at 6 p.m. will be followed by a prime rib dinner at 7:30 p.m. as well as auction of hunting and wildlife items and awarding of prizes.

"Although the name of the organization mentions only ducks," Parenteau said, "marshlands which Ducks Unlimited protects and restores provide homes and breeding grounds for many wildlife species which are not hunted. All proceeds from the banquet will go to the international organization for habitat preservation and improvement."

Junior Rifle Shoot Slated For Williams

Minnesota state junior gallery 1983 Region 4 rifle championship will be held Sat., March 26, at the Williams rifle and pistol range beginning at 8 a.m.

Shooting will be open to any boy or girl under 19 years of age. It is not necessary to be a member of NRA or an NRA affiliated club to participate in the shoot. Entry fee is $3.50 per individual and $2 per four-person team. Each competitor will receive a souvenir brassard and the match bulletin.

Any safe .22 ca. rimfire rifle may be used, with metallic sights only. Cartridges must be single loaded.

Plaques and trophies will be awarded to first place finishers in the four-position aggregate (prone, sitting, kneeling, standing); three-position aggregate (prone, sitting, kneeling); sub-junior three-position aggregate 13-under; three-position aggregate 14-15-year-olds; and three-position aggregate 16-17-year-olds. Awards will also be given to the top-finishing Boy Scout or Girl Scout; the high-placing girl; the top-finishing 4-H club member; first place standing and second place standing.

For additional information contact W.F. Dunham, Route 1, Box 109, Williams, MN 56686, telephone 783-2731.

GENE KALINOWSKI, owner of Kalinowski Construction, was welcomed to the Thief River Falls business community recently by Chamber Ambassadors Rocky Ammerman, left, and Bill Hogan, right, who extended their congratulations and a first dollar of clear profit to the new business. Kalinowski will be operating out of his home at 1204 Greenwood Street, offering all types of light commercial and domestic construction and remodeling. Number of employees will depend on how successful he is in bidding jobs for the coming season.

U.S. Senator

Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

Last month I sent out a newsletter to the entire state of Minnesota called, "When the farm economy hums, everything else in Minnesota does, too." It described exactly how important the farm economy is to our state, and why I take my committee assignment on the Senate Agriculture Committee so seriously.

The many letters, calls, and personal comments about that newsletter have been quite gratifying. But more than that, I've been encouraged by the great number of people who have responded by saying that we do need to pay more attention to our farmers.

My newsletter was centered around two facts:

—when farmers prosper, all around do too . . . when the farmer makes a profit and pays taxes, the State has no deficit; and —there has never been a time of prosperity in Minnesota (indeed, in the whole country) unless farmers prospered first — it's our state's most basic industry (largest too).

Unfortunately, many of us rarely think about farmers. Although we buy and eat or wear their products, we just don't consider how farmers and agriculture affect the economy of our state.

I didn't either much until I came to the Senate and became a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee. The four years I've spent learning (sometimes the hard way) have taught me a lot. I'd like to share some of my thoughts with you. If you read on, I think you'll come to understand why agriculture is so important to all of us and why I spend so much time on it out here in Washington.

And we are not just dealing with income taxes. Minnesota farmers are the state's largest consumers — of trucks, tires, machinery, seeds, fertilizer and on and on. They start a lot of money flowing through the State.

These input dollars then circulate from the farmer to the grain handlers to the truckers to the milling company to the grocery store. The dollars end up paying for the salaries and expenses of all the industries dependent on agriculture, and they spin off around Minnesota creating jobs, prosperity, schools, roads and all kinds of other good things in their wake. . .

—Minnesota farmers produce over $6 billion worth of farm products each year, and . . .

—the food processing industry spends over $5.5 billion in the state, plus . . .

—other agricultural industries spend another $4.2 billion.

Total ag-related spending is many billions more and is the largest factor in Minnesota's business-sector spending.

But remember, none of these dollars start moving unless the farmer starts the process.

Unfortunately, farming has become a very difficult business of late. Farmers are usually the first to tighten their belts in tough times. Farmers are looking at their third consecutive year of low prices. Some haven't been able to hang on. Others can't hang on much longer. Most have not bought machinery for the last two years and have no plans to do so. Just ask any International Harvester or John Deere dealer.

"But wait," you say. "How can you tell us farmers are hurting when food prices keep rising?"

It's simple, really.

First, farmers receive only 35 cents of each dollar spent on food. The rest goes for "market" costs: processing, retailing, wholesaling, transportation.

Second, food prices have actually risen at a rate slower than inflation over the past four years. This year is no exception.

What's more, the farmer's share of the dollar you spend at the supermarket keeps shrinking.

Public Notices

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to all friends and relatives for their acts of kindness and thoughtfulness during the long stay our dad, Oscar Lundeen, had at the hospital and also at the time of bereavement. A sincere thanks to Dr. Davidson and the staff at the C.N.C. unit at Northwestern Hospital for his care, the Oak Park Ladies Aid for serving dinner at the church, Pastor Fehr and Pastor Gunderson for their kind words and comfort, and the Peterson Funeral Home for their help. Special thanks to the Zion Lutheran Church congregation for the use of their church. We thank you all very much.

Notice of Mortgage
Foreclosure Sale

Notice Is Hereby Given, That default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 22nd day of June, 1977, executed by Wallace G. Heaton and Patricia L. Heaton, husband and wife, as mortgagors to First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Thief River Falls as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the County Recorder in and for the County of Pennington, and State of Minnesota, on the 28th day of June, 1977, at 10:15 o'clock A.M. and recorded in Book 145 of Records, page 78, as Document No. 104253 the original principal amount secured by said mortgage being $14,500.00; that no action or proceeding has been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, that there is due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage, including interest to date hereof, the sum of Twelve Thousand One Hundred Forty-nine and 80-100 ($12,149.80) dollars, and that pursuant to the power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lots Thirteen (13), Fourteen (14), Fifteen (15), Sixteen (16) and Seventeen (17) of Block Three (3) in Tessum's Addition to the City of Thief River Falls will be sold by the sheriff of said county at public auction on the 11th day of April, 1983, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., at the front lobby of the Law Enforcement Center in the City of Thief River Falls in said county and state, to pay the debt then secured by said mortgage and taxes, if any, on said premises and the costs and disbursements allowed by law. The time allowed by law for redemption by the mortgagors, their personal representatives or assigns is six (6) months from the date of said sale.

Notice of Opportunity For Public Review and of Request for Location and Design Approval

Pursuant to the provision of Title 23, United States Code, Section 128 and Executive Order 11988, Notice is hereby given that the County of Pennington is affording an opportunity to review the documents relating to the proposed nonsignificant encroachment in the 100 year base floodplain at Ditch J 18 for S.P. 57-622-04. The County is also requesting approval of the Location and Design of the above mentioned project from the Minnesota Department of Transportation, Office of State Aid, in accordance to regulation set forth by the Federal Highway Administration.

The proposed improvement consists of the replacement of Bridge LO244 on CSAH 22 and Ditch J 18 (½ mile south of the Marshall County line). Major items of work proposed are the installation of 2 lines of 169" span reinforced concrete culverts.

Maps, layouts, drawings, and other pertinent information, including a Project Development Report and a Location-Design Study Report, are available for public inspection and copying at the County Engineer's Office, County Courthouse, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, until April 6, 1983.

Kunde Guest At Legion's Dinner Sat.

Stewart R. Kunde

Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion and auxiliary will conduct the annual birthday dinner Saturday at 7 p.m. in the club rooms in Thief River Falls. The dinner is free to all paid-up members of the local post for the 1983 membership year.

Guest speaker will be Stewart R. Kunde, Brainered, who was elected Minnesota department commander of the American Legion in July at the annual convention in Duluth. A naval aviator during World War II, he retired in 1972 with the rank of commander in the naval reserve.

A member of Carl Sydney Hanson Post 255 at Brainerd since 1946, he served as post commander in 1959-60 and was post adjutant from 1961 through 1982. In 1977 he was presented with a life membership from the post for his service to the post and community.

Kunde was sixth district commander in 1976-77 and also served one year each as district adjutant and membership director. He has served on the department national defense committee. He was department vice commander for 1980-81.

PIK Program Transfer Grain Same As Crop

Any tax problems facing farmers participating in the government's new payment-in-kind (PIK) program were erased when the Senate passed a bill altering the internal revenue code to accommodate the program, according to Sen. Rudy Boschwitz.

The PIK program was designed to alleviate growing government stockpiles of commodities by paying farmers back with those commodities for producing less. "Until now there has been a question whether farmers would be liable for the tax on those commodities when received or when they were sold," Senator Boschwitz said. "Clearly, if it were when received, many farmers could not afford to join the program."

Under the new language, PIK commodities will be given the same tax treatment that applies to crops a farmer grows.

"Many farmers were wary to sign up for the PIK program for fear it would include the provision that taxes must be paid upon receipt of the commodities," Boschwitz said. "This change in the tax law was greatly needed, and much to the relief of the farmer," Boschwitz said.

Boschwitz was a co-sponsor of the bill that removed it. The Senate-passed version is identical to the House version that passed earlier this week. President Reagan had indicated he would sign the bill.

Pack 59 Cubs Held Awards Banquet Here

Cub Scout Pack 59, sponsored by Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, held its blue and gold banquet recently in the church fellowship hall.

Cubmaster Lowell Hoffard presided over the banquet. Assistant Cubmaster Ralph Warnecke gave the welcome, and invocation was led by Rev. Roger Hanson. Following the potluck supper, Bill Carlson introduced special guests, scouting coordinator Jerry Wedul gave the greeting, and a special message was given by Jim and Heidi Hoks. Mary Stengrim presented some humorous special awards.

Awards chairman Jan Hoffard, assisted by Lowell Hoffard and Ralph Warnecke, presented the following awards:

Den 1 (Leaders Linda Warnecke and Deb Blazek) — Brian Lehrer and Eugene Roller, bear badge and two red beads under the bear; Shawn Crowser, Kyle Evenson and Robert McCraw, one red bead under the bear; and Matthew Albert, three red beads under the bear and bear badge;

Den 2 (Leaders Linda and Steve Lehr) — Heath Unruh, four yellow beads under the wolf, wolf badge, one gold and two silver arrows; Kelly Lehr, two yellow beads under the wolf; Mat Steinert, two yellow beads under the wolf, wolf badge, one gold and three silver arrows; Cory Trickle, three yellow beads under the wolf, wolf badge and one gold arrow; Barry Dowers and Joey Blazek, silver arrow; and Eric Lindberg, four yellow beads under the wolf and wolf badge;

Den 5 (Leaders Mary Stengrim and Theresa Morneault) — Tim Stengrim, red bead under the bear; Cory Delap, Steve Sabo and Danny Hoffard, two red beads under the bear; Mike Sampson, four red beads under the bear; and Brian Bugge, three red beads under the bear. All of these Den 5 boys also received their bear badge;

Webelos Den 1 (Leaders Orris Stengrim and Bob Puetz) — Robbie Anderson, craftsman, scientist and sportsman badges; Shane Defreece, craftsman badge; Jeff Feragen, craftsman and geologist badges; Mike Puetz, athlete, craftsman, showman and sportsman badges; and David Stengrim, artist and craftsman badges. All of the boys in Webelos Den 1 also received their Webelos badge.

Webelos Den 2 (Leaders Ralph Warnecke and Dick Sculthorp) — John Olson, craftsman badge; Robert Solom, craftsman and Webelos badges; Jack Sculthorp, craftsman and artist badges; and Aaron Marshall, craftsman badge.

Cubmaster Hoffard presented honor unit pins to all of the Cub Scouts and Webelos along with leaders and committee people in Pack 59. Pack 59 and Troop 59 were among eight units qualifying for the honor unit award out of 57 units in the Northern Lights council.

Events scheduled for the pack during March include a meeting for all committee people and leaders at 8:30 p.m. Monday, March 21; and Pack Night at 7:15 p.m. Monday, March 28. Both meetings will be held at Zion Lutheran Church. Theme for March is "Energy."

Health Care For Voice Is Valuable

Coughing, shouting, overuse — all can damage your vocal cords if prolonged over a period of time. But the damage can be particularly devastating for people who depend on their voices to make a living.

Singers, of course, fall into that category, along with ministers and broadcasters. But so do many business professionals who have careers that depend on their ability to talk. Vocal problems can threaten their income as well as their health.

For people who depend on their voices to earn their livelihood, some hospitals now offer a special speech pathology program combining the skills of throat specialists on its medical staff and speech pathologists. An otolaryngologist diagnoses the patients and the speech pathologist teaches them more effective ways of using their voices.

According to Anita Kozan, a speech pathologist who has special training in the care of the professional voice from the Julliard school of music, the basic rules of good nutrition apply when taking care of the voice. Losing weight on a starvation diet can affect the voice and so can the lack of proper fluids (water and fruit juices) because a dehydrated voice is more prone to irritation.

Alcohol can cause special problems for people with vocal difficulties because it acts as an anesthetic. Performers who use alcohol to get through performances are probably pushing their voices beyond the health point, Kozan says.

People with voice problems need to listen to what their vocal cords are telling them and not use something that camouflages the feelings. For the same reason, Kozan cautions against using throat lozenges too frequently. Smoking is bad for the vocal cords because the heat produces constant irritation. Even "Second-hand" smoke can affect people with sensitive voices.

Everyday factors such as posture and stress also affect the voice. A tense voice is often higher or lower in tone and more nasal in quality than a relaxed voice. Kozan describes appropriate posture and breathing as "when your rib cage and stomach as both pushed out when you inhale. You shouldn't lift your shoulders to take a breath."

Beyond the basics of voice hygiene, Kozan also tailors breathing and voice exercises for patients based on their particular needs. She recommends that patients swallow when the urge to cough or clear their throats occurs.

"Clearing the throat is a very traumatic act. It bangs your vocal cords together. Swallowing, on the other hand, relaxes them," she says.

Some patients talk with minimal lip movement. It takes energy to hold your face tight. If you use more movement in your lips and face, the result will be a voice that sounds better and louder and is easier to understand.

Solving a voice problem usually requires some kind of lifestyle change. Patients often need to acquire a new awareness of their voice — for example, when to pause, when not to repeat, when to let their answering service pick up their calls. Others must become more sensitive to elements that affect them — smoke-filled rooms, chalk dust, even the fumes of a felt-tip pen.

The new sensitivities that clients develop toward their voices is Kozan's primary reward in her work. "The voice is a sensitive barometer of our health. People who are successful in this program end up with a greater awareness of their voices and what precious instruments they are," she concludes.

The Labor Department's Office of Workers' Compensation Programs (OWCP) administers benefits for federal employees and certain other groups who suffer job-related injuries, diseases and deaths.

☺Good News Department

A number of legistors are advocating the repeal of the financial interest and syndication rule that prohibits the three networks from receiving any profits from later broadcasts of their programs after their network viewing. If the networks are hampered in their ability to compete for programming with the new and growing pay television media of cable, pay cable and subscription television, experts say, the networks' affiliates will be hampered in their ability to provide high-quality programming to local television audiences. Viewers may increasingly find that particular television programming is available only on pay television.

If, however, these Federal Communications Commission regulations are repealed, a number of good things might happen.

For one thing, there may be more good programs available on free TV. Networks will be able to spend more to buy quality programs.

For another, repeal of these anti-competition rules will enable networks to finance the programming of new, small suppliers. That can help the economy and improve the quality of television programs.

Then these small firms can employ young people with ideas on creating better quality programming. That's something worth watching for.

Finally, getting rid of the anti-competition rules would mean that more major sports events, movies and series will stay on free TV.

People concerned about these issues are asking their legislators where they stand. They are writing to the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 and the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Climate Good For Business In Legislature

by Winston Borden
President, Minn. Ass'n. of Commerce and Industry

Some years ago, Robert Redford starred in a movie called "The Candidate," the story of a charismatic young man who surprisingly defeats an entrenched and crusty U.S. Senator. In the classic last scene of the picture, Redford, having just learned of his victory, turns to an aide and asks, "What do we do now?"

It's been several weeks since Minnesota voters made their decisions. But for business people, as well as for other voters, lobbyists, and even for victorious candidates the same nagging question persists: What, indeed, do we do now?

Before answering that question, at least from a business standpoint, three facts should be noted. First, the DFL controls state government. Aside from winning all but one constitutional office, the DFL holds 42 of 67 seats in the state house and 77 of 124 seats in the state senate.

Second, the legislature will convene on January 4 with 21 new members in the senate and 41 new members in the house. We have a new governor, a new lieutenant governor, a new treasurer and a new attorney general.

Third, Governor-elect Perpich and a great many Independent Republicans and DFL'ers alike who won on November 2 did so with campaigns cornerstoned on the need to revitalize Minnesota's business-jobs climate. Workers' compensation reform, tax reform and unemployment compensation reform took on a decidedly bipartisan look during the 1982 campaign. There is, of course, disagreement over the wheres and hows of implementing reform. But more than ever before, there is general agreement that changes must be made to stimulate business and generate jobs.

Most important conclusions to be drawn here are simply these: Minnesota's business and political communities must work together, and more closely than ever, if the state's economy is to be revitalized. Political climate is ripe for cooperation because both political parties are committed to pulling Minnesota out of its economic quagmire, and because 62 new legislators will hopefully be coming to the capitol on January 4 with open minds and a fresh outlook.

In short, Minnesota's business community has a tremendous opportunity to use the political process to help bring about dramatic and positive changes for business in 1983 and beyond. Over coming weeks and months, here's at least a partial answer to the "What do we do now" question for business.

(1) Write and congratulate the winners, even those you opposed in the general election. Politics aside, the winners will be your representatives. Establish a good relationship on which you can base future communications.

(2) Stay in touch with your representatives, by letter, by phone, and when possible, in person. In a factual and diplomatic way, continue to emphasize the need to create a climate in which people who desperately need jobs in Minnesota can find them. Remind them that creating an environment in which business can compete with identical businesses in our neighboring states must be a prime consideration.

(3) When you write to a legislator on a business-jobs related issue, send copies of those letters, and their responses, to us at MACI, (480 Cedar Street St. Paul, MN. 55101). These copies help MACI lobbyists immeasurably in their day to day dealings with lawmakers.

(4) If you are a MACI member, register now, for MACI's 1983 legislative reception, scheduled for the evening of January 4 in St. Paul. If you can, sponsor your local legislator and his or her spouse.

If you are not a MACI member, join us, and encourage other businesses in your community to join MACI. As our numbers grow, so does our influence and our ability to be effective.

Your participation in the public policy-making process will help make the difference for business in Minnesota in 1983.

Mysteries

The words themselves are mysteries to him — black "squiggles" against the white page — but Daddy makes them sound very interesting.

Later he will begin to read for himself and a vast new world will be opened.

In it, however, other mysteries will appear — other things that seem as impossible as the black words against the white page. But gradually these will become clearer.

One of these mysteries is religion. Understanding God's message, learning the meaning of faith — these vital subjects take a particular kind of education and special study. It will take the remainder of his lifetime, and yet more, to fully understand the spiritual universe.

But this little boy is lucky. Although he doesn't know it yet, his parents will see to it that he gets this "education" in the right place — in their house of worship.

There's a word to describe farmers who carry All-Risk Insurance.

Secure.

They're secure because they know All-Risk Insurance not only protects their farm income against total losses from natural disasters, it works to minimize your losses as well.

And that's good risk management. Because when you're protected against major losses, your basic net worth is more secure. And, when borrowing money, that's a more important consideration today than ever before.

All-Risk premiums are 100% tax deductible, too. And by marketing several insurance programs, PCA can also provide the flexibility farmers require.

All-Risk Insurance.

• It's like a security blanket for farmers. Except it's worth a lot more. Call your local PCA for more information.

This Recipe Offers A Lesson In Nutrition

Take a portion from the meat group, another from the grain group and add a serving from the fruits and vegetables group! Sound like a lesson in nutrition?

Well, Ripe Olive Stuffed Peppers all by itself is a good example of a balanced meal with ground beef, rice, tomatoes, onion and black ripe olives inside a green pepper. So you can feel confident of supplying sound nutrition when you present this tasty and easy to make dish dramatized with ripe olive garnish.

Ripe Olive Stuffed Peppers

3	large green peppers	1	tablespoon tomato paste
1/2	pound ground chuck	1/2	teaspoon basil
1/2	cup long grain rice		Dash pepper
1	teaspoon salt	1/4	teaspoon salt
1	cup water	1/4	cup grated Cheddar cheese
2/3	cup pitted California ripe olives	6	whole ripe olives for garnish
1/2	cup chopped onion
1	tablespoon oil
1-1/2	cups canned tomatoes

Cut peppers in halves lengthwise; remove seeds. Parboil for 5 minutes. Drain, and place in shallow baking dish. Brown beef lightly; stir in rice. Add 1 teaspoon salt and water; cover and cook 20 minutes over low heat. Meanwhile, preheat oven to 350°F. Chop ripe olives coarsely. Saute onion in 1 tablespoon oil. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, basil, pepper and 1/4 teaspoon salt; simmer 10 minutes. Set aside 1/2 cup of the sauce for tops of peppers. Combine ripe olives and remaining sauce with cooked rice mixture. Heap into peppers. Spoon the 1/2 cup sauce over tops of rice. Cover and bake for 20 minutes. Uncover, sprinkle with cheese, and bake 5 minutes longer. Garnish each stuffed pepper half with a whole ripe olive.

Makes 6 servings.

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad

Rural Education

"Rural students are getting an uptown education from school people who are trained to accept urban biases," claims Keigh Hubel, professor of education at Southwest state university at Marshall.

"Textbooks which are urban in orientation also contribute to the day-to-day classroom content where urban values are the dominant influence.

"The urbanization, standardization and centralization of education has led to the consolidation of many schools. These trends have resulted from well-meaning people who have accepted the urban model as the solution to many of rural problems," he adds, "but these urban models are not always right for rural students."

"These notions — which glorify life in the fast lane — have led to the deterioration of many rural communities."

"They promote equality through conformity and efficency through bigness and centralization. This promised economic efficency has not resulted. In fact, it can be documented that cost of police protection and welfare services increases greatly as rural communities disappear," Hubel explains. "In addition, no documented cost savings can be reported from consolidated schools."

Student participation in extra curricular activities, the family environments in small schools and the opportunity for individual help have all deteriorated through consolidation, Hubel adds. "Many students have also suffered from the alienation and adverse social pressures from negative cliques in larger schools," he said.

In an attempt to bring rural values back into rural education, Communicating for Agriculture and Southwest state have suggested eight policies which local boards can adopt. The policies are as follows:

(1) Develop "rural pride" through teaching of local history, customs, economics and geography and use of local citizens as resource instructors;

(2) Foster an appreciation of the value of small businesses, cottage industries, farming and cooperatives;

(3) Create youth leadership training and self-help programs as a way to promote responsibility, cooperation and decision making skills;

(4) Encourage teachers in urban schools to teach appreciation for the rural contribution to American life;

(5) Cultivate the creative arts in rural schools through use of local and regional artists and community volunteers;

(6) Promote the use of educational technology as a means of delivering educational services such as computers, interactive television and other appropriate technologies;

(7) Develop new ways to organize schools and group children; and

(8) Implement innovative educational delivery systems in sparsely populated areas, such as traveling scholars, mobile classrooms, shared services, flexible organizational structures and use of volunteers.

Hubel said the plan would counteract the "urbanization, standardization and centralization of education that reform movements of the past have fostered."

There may be some merit in the program, although it would have to be tempered with at least some exposure to urban situations. Whether we like it or not, many students from the rural areas will migrate to the urban area and they should have some preparation for that transfer.

"I believe school board members understand at a gut level what is needed in rural areas and have the power to act," Hubel said. "If implemented, these policies will go a long way in revitalizing rural education and helping build a better rural America."

Collecting Delinquent Tax

Following editorial is from the Fargo Forum:

The Minnesota Department of Revenue, which has been trying various ways to catch tax cheaters through a legislatively-mandated program called Project Fair Share, now has come up with a proposal to collect back taxes from bars and restaurants.

The state would require cities, counties and townships to check with the Revenue Department before renewing an establishment's license, when renewal is due. If the applicant is in arrears and has not agreed to a repayment schedule, the local government could not renew his license.

Liquor, license holders complain that the state is picking on them. The Revenue Department agrees that it might be, yet says it is justified in trying to collect back taxes on what is the largest single industry in arrears on taxes due in the state.

At present, the state is owed $115 million in back taxes and income taxes; bars and restaurants, which owe about $13 million of that, make up more than 10 per cent of the tax-delinquent businesses.

At one time in recent years, some 46 per cent of all liquor licensees were delinquent on state taxes. Several cities in the state, including Minneapolis, but excluding St. Paul, already have ordinances which require taxes to be current before a license can be renewed.

The Revenue Department's proposal is supported by Rep. John Tomlinson, DFL-St. Paul, who is chairman of the House Tax Committee. He points out that bars and restaurants collect sales and drink taxes, and withhold income taxes from their employees' paychecks, and should turn that money over to the state promptly.

The Revenue Department has had a hard time collecting the delinquent taxes from the liquor establishments. Its special enforcement unit is attempting to negotiate settlements with as many of the businesses as possible. It does file tax liens against many of the businesses which are delinquent and the liens legally bind owners to pay the state what they owe.

The economic recession, of course, is part of the problem for delinquent establishments. Bars and restaurants are taking it on the chin because people have less money to spend on entertainment. But we cannot see how businesses can justify using the state money they collect from customers on taxes, or the withholding taxes from employees' paychecks, to operate their businesses.

The state money is actually money which belongs to all Minnesotans, so everyone is hurt by delinquencies. The tax increases which citizens have paid and will be paying to put the state on a solvent footing would be less, if everyone paid up.

The Revenue Department says that if it had more tax examiners to follow up sooner on tax collections, the collections could be improved. But adding staff right now may not be the best answer in view of Minnesota's deficit. The department's proposal for local governments to withhold liquor license renewals, which does not take more staff, may be an effective way of collecting delinquencies in one kind of business at least.

Legal Language

Efforts are being made to create legal documents which are free of the complicated language which has been used in the past. It is probably necessary to be specific in writing law and formal agreements, but it also seems to have gotten out of hand.

Someone has pondered what the Lord's Prayer would be like if it was written by a former of legal documents. Consider the following example:

"We respectfully petition, request, and entreat that due and adequate provision be made, this day and the date herinafter subscribed, for the satisfying of these petitioners' nutritional requirements and for the organizing of such methods of allocation and distribution as may be deemed necessary and proper to assure the reception by and for said petitioners of such quantities of baked cereal products as shall, in the judgment of the aforesaid petitioners, constitute a sufficient supply thereof."

What did He say? He said: "Give us this day our daily bread."

Borrowed Nonsense:

Modern technology has developed a soft drink can which, when discarded, will last forever — and a $10,000 car which, when taken care of, will rust out in two years.

The pedestrian charged with ignorina a "Don't Walk" sign pled not guilty in court, explaining to the judge that he thought it was merely an advertisement for a taxi company.

Interesting Opinions:

"There is no question in my mind that the business and financial press in this country understands business far better than business understands the press."

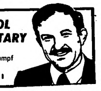
CAPITOL COMMENTARY



by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District 1

A proposal to make major changes in Minnesota's income tax system was unveiled in the DFL caucus meeting last week. While the proposal is still in the concept stage, I want to describe it to you since it would greatly affect all taxpayers.

Basically, the proposal seeks to simplify the way that state income taxes are calculated. Under the new plan, federal taxable income would be used as the base for that calculation and 14 modifications would be used to determine the state income tax.

Currently, 40 such modifications are allowed. One of those that would be eliminated is the deduction now permitted for federal income taxes.

The proposal would lower taxes for most one-wage-earner families. Minnesota now has the highest income taxes in the country in that category.

Taxes also would be reduced for most two-wage-earner families when the income earned by each worker is nearly equivalent. But if there is a large difference in the income earned by the two workers, state income taxes would probably increase.

The proposal would reduce the highest state tax rate from 16 per cent to 12 per cent. It also would eliminate the 10 per cent income tax surcharge now in effect.

The proposed system would result in $40 million more in tax revenues being raised during the next biennium compared to Governor Perpich's plan. If limitations were added for the amount of charitable contributions that could be deducted, an additional $11 million would be collected during the biennium.

I will be reviewing this proposal carefully in the days ahead to see how it would affect the residents of our district. I would appreciate hearing from you with your comments and questions. Please write to me at my office (306 Capitol Building, St. Paul, MN, 55155) or phone (612) 296-8660.

Looking Backward

1923 — 60 YEARS AGO

Farmers in the Thief River Falls area signed contracts to grow 800 acres of sugar beets this summer. — Girls Community Club entertained 75 guests at a housewarming in their new club rooms at Horace Avenue and Fourth Street.

1933 — 50 YEARS AGO

A tax delinquency of 20 per cent in Pennington county was reported for 1932 by state auditor Stafford King. — L.P. Lonson was elected to succeed E.M. Bennes as exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge. — Stuart McLeod was named second vice president of Land O' Lakes Creameries at its annual meeting in Minneapolis. —Local school board voted a reduction in teachers salaries ranging from 10 to 15 per cent. — Paul Roy resigned his position as manager of Hunt Bros. store in St. Hilaire.

Milton Larson was elected president of the Thief River Golf Club, succeeding S.R. Dahlen. — Eleven inches of snowfall was recorded here in the worst blizzard of the winter, with rail and bus traffic being tied up. — Bridgeman Creameries took over the business of the Hoel Quality Dairy. — K.T. Smith was reelected head of the local UCT council, with E.M. Bennes continuing as secretary. — Meat, cheese and butter will go on the list of rationed commodities March 29.

John Brandt, co-founder and president of Land O' Lakes Creameries, died at the age of 67 while attending a District 17 LOL meeting in Middle River. — Voters in Rocksbury and the town of North voted decisively to cooperate in the purchase of a fire truck.

1963 — 20 YEARS AGO

Bud Grant, former University of Minnesota football, basketball and baseball star and currently coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers football team in the Canadian Football League, will headline the annual Lincoln high school athletic banquet. — Thirty-five head of holstein cattle perished in a fire which destroyed a barn on the Roger L. Barnes farm ten miles south of Thief River Falls on Highway 59. — Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Landman of St. Hilaire celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary March 10. — Bemidji beat Thief River Falls 73-57 in the Region 8 basketball tournament championship game played at the University of North Dakota Fieldhouse in Grand Forks.

1973 — 10 YEARS AGO

Brian Phelps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phelps of Thief River Falls, was promoted to the rank of Eagle Scout at a court of honor held at St. Bernard's church. — Pennington county board of commissioners passed a resolution permitting alterations of county Highway 17 (airport road) to conform to plans for future expansion of the Thief River Falls airport. — Mrs. Leonard DuChamp was the first person in this community to report seeing a robin this spring.

It is estimated that over 300 children are killed playing in their own driveways each year.

Rudy Boschwitz

reports to Minnesota

Imagine this. You are a police officer. You watch as a car breezes through an intersection, past a stop sign. After you pull the car over, the driver gets out, smelling of alcohol. He staggers and falls against the side of the car.

He has no license, he says, because it has been revoked for driving-while-intoxicated.

He can neither touch his nose nor walk a straight line upon request. So you arrest him, read him his Miranda rights, and ask him to submit to a blood-alcohol test, explaining that if he refuses, he could lose his license.

He refuses anyway, saying "I'm too drunk; I won't pass the test.

You ask again. Again, he refuses. After taking him to the police station you ask him a final time. And for a third time, he refuses, repeating again that he was too drunk to pass.

To someone not trained in the law, this might seem like an open-and-shut case, but those close to South Dakota v. Neville, a very similar case, the verdict was anything but clearly or easily determined.

The Supreme Court finally decided on this case in late February, and the ruling will, I hope, prove quite constructive to those of us interested in helping keep the drunk driver off the road.

At issue was this: The defendant in the case sought to have his refusal to take a blood alcohol test removed as evidence in the case, saying that it violated the state and federal privilege against self-incrimination. The state in this case relied on a law that specifically declares that refusal to submit to such a test may be admissible evidence.

States have disagreed about the admissibility of such evidence. In the first two trials, the court agreed with the driver and would not allow the refusal as evidence. Finally, in a 7-2 decision, the Supreme Court held that the adminision into evidence of a defendant's refusal to submit to a blood-alcohol test does not offend his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination. This means there can be no more quibbling in state courts about what is admissible as evidence. Police won't have to wonder whether or not something can be used or not.

I believe this to be good news. It will certainly aid in the efforts to crack down on drunken driving. I am proud to say that Minnesota was the first state to pass what is called an "implied consent" law, which provides for the administrative revocation of a driver's license for those who refuse to take a blood alcohol concentration test.

What's most encouraging, this ruling by the Supreme Court doubles the risk of driving drunk. It now not only can lead to license revocation, but also to jail or fine because refusal to submit to the blood alcohol test can be admitted as evidence at trial.

As Justice O'Connor points out in her opinion for the majority, the choice to submit or refuse to take a blood-alcohol test will not be an easy one for a suspect to make. But nothing in the Consititution prevents suspects or defendants from having to make difficult choices.

The importance of this decision harkens back to what I've been saying all along; that more efficient enforcement of the laws is as much a part of the solution as more and better laws.

Once someone is caught, we must do everything in our power to prosecute. Research by the National Highway Safety Administration shows that a driver would have to commit over 200 drunk driving violations to have a statistical likelihood of being apprehended. Even then, there is only a 50-50 chance that the driver would receive more than mild punishment.

In Minnesota alone, it has been estimated that only one out of 300 drunken drivers is arrested.

Frankly, I've become impatient with judges and prosecutors who do not seek strict punishment for drunken drivers. Somebody driving while drunk should be severely punished. If a drunken driver is an alcoholic, he should be treated for the disease, but not excused from punishment.

Statistics already show that drunken drivers are not likely to be apprehended. If we remove the threat of punishment from that, the carnage on our roads will continue.

Fortunately, this recent Court decision is a step in the right direction.

For A Lunch Box Treat . . .

Bake Up Almond Bars

Pack some crunchy almond and chewy prune goodness into the day with Almond Prune Bars.

Those seemingly insatiable student appetites will delight in these crunchy, chewy Almond-Prune Bars. And when you pack a lunch with these tempting treats, you're packing plenty of wholesome, natural goodness. Almonds are a good source of vitamins and minerals, often lacking in diets today. Plus, they are rich in nutritious, energy-producing carbohydrates, which are especially important for growing children.

Almonds are available in so many convenient forms they make baking a breeze. Almond-Prune Bars are no exception—they're a quick and simple one-pan cookie treat. A durable, easy-to-pack dessert, they weather the rigors of lunch box transport well. The real question will be whether kids will wait until lunch to taste these delicious cookie bars.

For another crunchy almond lunch box special, mix the versatile almond with dried fruits and coconut flakes.

ALMOND-PRUNE BARS

- 1 cup pitted prunes, chopped coarsely
- ½ cup water
- ¾ cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 cup chopped natural almonds
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon

Combine prunes, water and ¼ cup brown sugar in saucepan. Bring to boil and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes until soft and spreadable. In mixer bowl, beat butter with flour, almonds, baking soda, salt, orange rind, cinnamon and remaining ½ cup brown sugar until mixed and crumbly. Pat ⅔ of the almond mixture into 9-inch square baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Gently spread prune mixture into pan. Sprinkle with remaining almond mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes longer or until baked in center. Cut into squares or bars. Makes 16 (2-inch) squares.

'U'M Releases Early-Maturing Rice Variety

Voyager, a variety of wild rice that matures earlier than other paddy-grown varieties, has been released by the university of Minnesota agricultural experiment station. It is the second variety with some shattering resistance to be released from the station's wild rice breeding program, which began in 1972.

Although seed of Voyager will not be available to growers this spring, the new variety was released now to allow growers to plan for paddy preparation and seed orders. Minnesota crop improvement association has contracted to have the production from 30 acres of Voyager available for sale to growers this fall.

Robert Stucker, who is in charge of the breeding program, says, "The significant advantages of Voyager are its earliness and high yield. It is as early or earlier than the earliest variety now available with some shattering resistance and it has the yield potential of the high-yielding, later-maturing varieties."

Extension agronomist Ervin Oelke says, "Wild rice growers will now have the opportunity to plant an early variety without sacrificing yield." He adds that growers can make more efficient use of their combines by planting part of their acreage to an early variety such as Voyager. Also, the earlier a wild rice variety matures, the less likely growers are to suffer preharvest losses from high winds, storms and blackbird predation or a complete loss of the crop from an early frost.

One of Stucker's objectives is to modify the shatter mechanism that wild-type rice has for seed dispersal. Voyager and an earlier university release, Netum, have some shattering resistance and can be harvested by running a combine once through the paddy. In contrast, unimproved wild types require a pass through the paddy every other day for 10 days because the plants drop the grain as it matures.

Voyager was developed by two cycles of mass selection for early flowering from the variety K2. It was tested as K2E(2).

Early flowering is desirable in a wild rice variety, Stucker says. "The earlier a variety blooms, the earlier its seed matures and can be harvested," he explains.

Voyager flowers about a week earlier and matures four to six days earlier than K2. Compared to Netum, it is one to three days earlier flowering and one day earlier maturing.

In 1982, Voyager's combined yield average at four Minnesota test sites — Rosemount, Grand Rapids, Waskish and Excelsior — surpassed that of K2, Netum and M3, all popular varieties among Minnesota growers. "The short growing season last year seemed to favor the earlier varieties such as Voyager," Stucker says, "but most years I expect the yield of Voyager will at least equal that of K2."

In height, Voyager is about six inches shorter than K2 and four inches shorter than Netum. No differences have been observed in disease reaction between Voyager and its parent variety.

Stucker says its degree of shattering resistance is probably the same as that of K2 although roguing in 1982 should have decreased the percentage of shattering plants.

Minnesota was the leading wild rice producing state last year, with 16,000 acres or 82 per cent of the United States acreage.

Breeder Should Vaccinate Cows For Brucellosis

Need for 100 per cent participation of livestock breeders in a program of Brucellosis vaccination for female dairy and beef breeding heifers is here, states Conrad Kvamme, Little Falls, president of the Minnesota livestock breeders' association. Kvamme says late spring and summer heifers soon will be too old for vaccination.

First reason given by Kvamme is that several states surrounding Minnesota now require that any dairy or beef breeding females shipped into their states past the ages of six months for dairy heifers, and eight months for beef heifers be officially Brucellosis vaccinated. Age of vaccination for Brucellosis in Minnesota is two through five months for dairy and two through seven months for beef heifers.

Economic impact of vaccination has recently begun to show. Vaccinated grade dairy bred heifers have brought a price of from $200-$300 more per head than comparable non-vaccinates. Registered dairy heifers or cows can range from $300-$500 more per head if they are vaccinated. Many herds within the state now purchase only vaccinated cattle.

Second reason is concern by livestock breeders and organizations that there has been an increase during the past few months in Minnesota of the incidence of Brucellosis. In most cases these isolated herd infections have been traced to importation of non-vaccinated cattle from states with high incidence of infection.

Third concern, states Kvamme, is the realization that the federal government is attempting to reduce the Brucellosis eradication programs budget for 1983 and years following into a very minor program. Communication exchanged between leaders of the state's several livestock organizations and U.S. congressmen and senators with regard to the future budget has appealed for continued eradication efforts by a national program. "The National program needs to be continued until we have convinced livestock breeders that total vaccination participation programs are essential to help insure a strong and viable livestock industry of the future in the entire U.S.", stated Kvamme.

Persons who wish to express concern about the national Brucellosis eradication program should write their U.S. congressmen and senators. For further information regarding other national government leaders to contact, Kvamme suggests writing to Lyle Lamphere, secretary-treasurer, Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association, 112 10th. Avenue North, South St. Paul, MN. 55075.

Questions with regard to vaccination procedures should be referred to local veterinarians.

Further information on Brucellosis (Bangs disease) may be obtained by writing the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, Attention Dr. G.E. Keller, Metro Square Bldg., 7th & Robert Street, St. Paul, MN. 55101.

Study Released On Reason For State Troubles

Comprehensive study of Minnesota's fiscal crisis — how it developed and how changing state and federal policies have contributed to it in the past two years — was given to the governor and the legislature January 31 as they continued to grapple with the problem.

Written by two researchers at the University of Minnesota center for urban and regional affairs (CURA), the report concludes that new economic conditions and two years of changing state and federal policies have severely challenged Minnesota's governmental systems. It also suggests that state officials must now re-examine Minnesota's revenue system and state-local relationships.

Study is the first in a series of CURA reports that will examine the impact of new fiscal constraints on Minnesota and explore policy responses. An analysis of suggested alternative responses to Minnesota's fiscal trouble is excepted in March.

Current study illustrates that the "Minnesota Miracle" approach to state-local relations has been substantially undermined during the past two years by the state's reactions to revenue shortfalls. What caused this undermining is a combination of state reductions in school and local government aids and property tax relief, as well as expansion of revenue-raising authority for school districts and the increased use of that authority by school districts, the study says.

"With this weakening of the state's financial commitment to the Minnesota Miracle comes significantly higher local property taxes and increased disparities in local tax burden and public service levels," said CURA's Tom Peek, co-author of the study. "This is particularly pronounced in education where the state's portion of state-local funding for school districts dropped from 73.1 per cent in school year 1981-82 to 57.2 per cent in school year 1982-83."

Report also suggests that Minnesota's fiscal situation in 1983, and perhaps beyond, will probably be as severe as in 1981 and 1982. Legislature will have to deal with the implications of the shifts, sunset taxes and other actions taken in the past two years, which represent more than $1.5 billion in revenue and shifts that were available for the 1981-82 biennial budget, but are not available for the current budget.

"Dispite the importance of the economic situation and the widespread concern among analysts and citizens that these problems may exist for some time, there is little evidence that state officials have as yet developed policy options to deal with those growing problems should the economic situation persist," said report co-author Douglas Wilson. "Legislature's reliance on temporary taxes and numerous shifts to deal with state revenue shortfalls illustrates that problem."

Report also summarizes recent federal actions that contributed to Minnesota's fiscal problem and identifies the impact these have had on Minnesota. The initial responses of Minnesota schools, counties and cities to the new fiscal constraints and state and federal actions are also outlined.

Study will be issued to about 700 persons — primarily state and local officials — many of whom participated in CURA workshops, interviews and surveys during the preparation of the study.

Copies of the report can be obtained from the center for urban and regional affairs, 313 Walter Library, 117 Pleasant st. S.E., University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

The national pedestrian death rate in 1981 was 3.4 per 100,000 population and the national injury rate was 56 per 100,000 population. These rates vary in different parts of the country, as they were affected by many factors, including the number and size of cities and their relative population densities; per capita vehicle ownership; deviation of population age groups from the national proportions of accident-prone age groups (senior citizens, for example); ethnic compositions; and importantly, the effectiveness of pedestrian safety programs.

The Clayton Act, approved in 1914, limited the use of injunctions in labor-management disputes and provided that picketing and other union activities not be considered unlawful, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Newspaper advertising originated in 1525 in a German news pamphlet. This particular pamphlet lacked the last minute news that makes up much of today's papers. The 1525 paper contained news items dating back three years.

PIK Program To Be Offered Again In '84

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will in all likelihood offer a payment-in-kind (PIK) program for a number of farm commodities again in 1984. According to USDA, the surpluses of feed grains, wheat, cotton and rice are so large that a one-year PIK program probably will not correct the supply and demand imbalance currently depressing farm prices.

Impact of the PIK program is one of several topics discussed in a story entitled, "How USDA stands on key farm issues" which appears in the March-April issue of PCA Farming magazine. Publication is sent to area farmers as a service of their local Production Credit Association. Editors of PCA Farming met privately with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block and other ranking USDA officials to obtain information farmers can use in their financial planning for the next several years.

Regarding the influence of PIK on the corn supply situation, USDA is currently projecting a 6.7 billion bushel crop in 1983, based on a 60 per cent program sign-up and good crop growing weather this summer. This compares with an 8.3 billion bushel crop in 1982, which represents a substantial drop. However, if continuing demand problems limit domestic and export utilization to little more than 7 billion bushels, the short crop of 1983 will hardly dent the 3.5 billion bushel carryover projected for next fall. "We probably need to reduce corn carryover alone by a billion bushels," according to Dawson Ahalt, deputy undersecretary of agriculture for commodity programs.

Secretary Block cautioned against a let-your-neighbor-do-it attitude toward participating in the PIK program. "If we don't get a good sign-up, prices will be lower rather than higher, storage will be shorter and producers will run the great risk of running into bad weather. It's been pretty good for two years now, but who's to say this year will be as good. My message is that there is lot of risk in the decision not to participate," Block stated.

Editors of PCA Farming summed up their findings at USDA this way: "USDA actions will help to bolster farm income in time. But don't expect any miracle cures. . . overproduction plus weak demand have created a mountain of surpluses that won't go away overnight. That means it's still largely up to farmers and their good management to pull them through the next several years."

Operation ID Is Protection From Burglary

Despite a drop in reported home burglaries, the fear of being burglarized remains widespread. Minnesotans can protect themselves from home burglary by joining operation identification, said Paul Tschida, commissioner of the department of public safety.

Operation identification is a free property marking program available through Minnesota law enforcement agencies, Tschida said. Persons joining the program mark property with a permanent identification number, prepare an inventory sheet of marked property and place stickers on doors and windows to warn thieves that property is marked. Inventory sheet should be kept in a safe place and a copy should be given to the police or sheriff.

Minnesotans can join operation I.D. by contacting their local police or sheriff department which will supply an identification number, marking tool and stickers.

Nationally recognized identification number discourages burglaries because it is court evidence of guilt if found on property in the possession of a suspected burglar. Number also helps return marked property to the owner.

Operation I.D. has helped reduce burglaries. In one Minnesota community during 1982, the likelihood of a burglary at a home not enrolled in operation I.D. was over three times greater than at homes in the program. The 79 law enforcement agencies responding to a recent public safety survey said only 1.6 per cent (28) of the 1,727 reported home buglaries during March, 1980, occurred at homes enrolled in the program.

Minnesota State chiefs of police association has reaffirmed its support of the Minnesota operation identification because it is a good program and it is free.

In addition to joining Operation I.D., Tschida recommends Minnesotans help reduce crime by locking doors and windows, watching their neighbor's home and reporting unusual activity to the police or sheriff department.

State Develops Programs To Manage Wastes

Growing controversy surrounding the U.S. environmental protection agency (EPA) and the apparent general ineffectiveness of federal programs for hazardous waste regulation and cleanup emphasizes the need for Minnesota and other states to develop their own standards and programs to manage hazardous wastes, according to Robert Dunn, chairman of the waste management board.

"Various charges and allegations concerning the EPA have created a perception of ineffective leadership and a suspicion of poor management in the federal government's role in dealing with hazardous waste problems," Dunn stated.

Actions occuring in Minnesota include:

— Development of a comprehensive state hazardous waste management plan, to be issued by the waste management board by early-1984;

— Development of effective programs of enforcement by the Minnesota pollution control agency and regulation of the generators, transporters and disposers of hazardous wastes.

— Consideration by the 1983 legislature of a bill to set strong standards for liability for hazardous wastes and provide for a state "Superfund" to clean up existing hazardous waste problem areas.

Minnesota is well into the development of a management plan. The plan will prescribe the measures and facilities to deal with hazardous wastes for the remainder of this century. It will not only address the need for effective enforcement, but will include recommendations for reduced hazardous waste generation by industry, new state policies to foster the processing of hazardous wastes by industry, and include as a primary goal a reduced state dependence on the land-disposal of hazardous wastes.

This plan will be the subject of a special "Public Conference" in May, and will later be discussed and debated by Minnesotans at local meetings around the state this summer.

"While we plan for future proper hazardous waste management, we must also clean up old hazardous waste 'dumps' and improper storage sites in Minnesota. The legislature must also set strong, clear standards for liability for the generation, handling and disposal of hazardous wastes," Dunn commented.

Standards and the establishment of a state "Superfund," are provided under a bill now before the legislature.

If you have any questions on the site's hazardous waste problem and what the Minnesota waste management board is doing about it, write the Board at 7323 58th Avenue North, Crystal, MN 55428; or call (612) 536-0816 (outstate 1-800-652-9747).

Sheepmen Hear Information On Production

Sixth annual Northwest sheep day was held at the University of Minnesota's Northwest experiment station November 30. Freezing rain in some sectors kept some sheepmen home but 50 registered for the annual update on the latest recommendations for sheep producers.

Roger Haugen, state extension sheep specialist, NDSU, Fargo spoke to the group on farm production testing. Haugen covered a detailed method that farmers could use to accomplish production testing and stated that such records and practices would result in the sheep producer knowing exactly what his flock consists of and allow him to make changes for more profit.

Roger Green, Greenbush, sheep raiser, shared the details of his family's operation and related to the management system which has enabled them to make money in the sheep business. Green noted that his father purchased the farm in 1964 and he and his brother were introduced to the sheep business after purchasing ewes at the Red River Valley winter shows sale in 1970. In 1974 they added Hampshire blood lines which they purchased from a neighbor and have built on that ever since.

They now manage both a purebred flock and a commercial flock in their Greenbush operations. Roger purchased his own farm in 1976 which was only three miles from the home farm and this arrangement enabled him to help at either farm when needed. Starting with 100 ewes in 1976, he has expanded that number to 375 animals. Green showed colored slide pictures of his operation while explaining the details.

The essential element of his success seemed to be based on careful planning and organizing as lambing season approaches, almost individual feeding of ewes in the first stages of milking and in general adequate but rather plain equipment all around. Attention to detail and special concerns for health and nutrition seem to stand out in his recommendations throughout his presentation.

At one phase, Green feeds free-choice molasses which is 32 per cent protein as well as vitamin supplements. He feeds his market lambs in self-feeders and moves them out as quickly as possible.

Carroll Rock from the University of Minnesota, agricultural statistics department, St. Paul, encouraged farmers to answer surveys and questionnaires sent them for information can well be the most reliable information that both commercial agricultural enterprise and university researchers can utilize.

Dr. Steve Dille, who is a veterinarian as well as a sheep producer from Dassel, reported on sheep health. He emphasized problems with foot rot, internal parasites, pneumonia and lamb scours. Dille emphasized the tremendous economic impact of a disease such as foot rot at the outset of his talk, showing that the incidence of foot rot may affect breeding, lamb numbers and lamb production efficiency because the ewe cannot move about properly.

Dille stated that there is a lesser strain of foot rot that creates minor problems but that the fulminating strain is very serious and infects an entire flock in a short time, particularly on soft ground. Dille said that the foot rot organism is actually short-lived in various feedlots and area of the farm and can be cleaned up by merely keeping the sheep off the area for a matter of two or three weeks. The organism does live continuously in the sheep's foot if it is not treated and therefore can contaminate the ground time after time.

Fly maggots in advanced lesions on the sheep's foot complicate the matter and advance the contamination to serious proportions. He said that the first step in eradicating the disease is to accomplish radical foot trimming. The second step is to use antibody materials and Dille listed several chemicals and explained their application in treatment. Most foot bath treatments are not as effective as they should be because the sheep needs to stand in the bath for a period of time instead of merely passing through it.

Dr. Robert Jordan, animal science department, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, told the group how to grow 100 pounds of lamb in 100 days. Jordan explained in detail the nutritional needs of growing lambs and the several combinations of feed that might result in this fast growth.

Sheep research plans for the Northwest experiment station were outlined by Dr. Harvey Windels, animal scientist at the station. Windels indicated that future projects will investigate factors that may improve the ability of ewes lambing in winter in a cold climate to produce and raise two or more healthy lambs per ewe exposed.

Some of the factors are: fall and spring shearing versus winter shearing, competition among breed groups for feed the last month of gestation, energy concentration of the diet the last month of gestation, energy level during lactation and genetic make up. They will also investigate the effect of growth rate of ewe lambs on milk production and reproduction and compare the performance and economics of feedlot lambs fed haylage-grain diets versus self-fed alfalfa pellet-whole grain diets.

"Unplug It" Cautions The AHAM And UL

Always unplug any small electrical product after using it, cautions the Association of home appliance manufacturers (AHAM) and Underwriters Laboratories (UL).

Don't assume that if the switch is "off," there's no danger of electrocution. This may not be true if the product comes into contact with water. Electrocutions may occur in kitchens, bathrooms or outdoors — anywhere near water sources.

Never use any electrical product while bathing or put it where it can drop or be pulled into the tub or sink. If the appliance accidentally falls into the water, don't reach into the water for it. Unplug it immediately at the wall outlet.

Never leave a small portable electrical appliance within the reach of small children. Children left unattended could pull the plugged-in, but switched-off appliance into the tub or sink and risk being electrocuted.

Test Tornado Warning Sirens On Wednesday

Tornado awareness week is being observed this week and a test of the siren warning system has been scheduled for Wednesday at 1:45 p.m., according to Pennington county sheriff Charles Richards.

Sirens will sound a single long blast at that time as a test and procedures to be followed in an actual alert will be carried out by local schools, hospitals, nursing homes and emergency services personnel.

Sheriff Richards said there were 16 verified tornadoes in the state last year and that a warning system can save lives and injuries. He also noted that a tornado and weather watch training session has been scheduled for 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 7, at the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls. Meteorologist Herb Monson from the U.S. weather service at Fargo, ND, will conduct the training exercises.

Amateur Photo Contest Being Run By Library

Northwest regional library and the Agassiz regional environmental council have announced plans to sponsor the fourth annual Northland nature photography contest.

Contest is open to the amateur photographer, and includes a black and white division and color division. Each division includes two categories: wildlife and scenic. Scenic pictures can include people in the photography incidentally, but no portraits will be accepted.

Contest rules are as follows:

(1) All entries must be representative of northern Minnesota.

(2) Photographs must be no smaller than 5x7, and no larger than 16x20. They must be mounted, (preferably no glass mounts) and ready for display.

(3) Photographs previously submitted in this contest will not be accepted. Photos preferably should have been taken in this past year. Limit is three entries per category.

(4) All entries must be received by May 15. Entries received after this date will be disqualified.

(5) Entries, except for contest winners, may be picked up at the Northwest regional library after June 30. Entries not picked up will not be returned. Contest winners may be picked up after they have been exhibited in all counties that form the Northwest regional library.

(6) Contest sponsors will not be responsible for loss or damage of any entries submitted.

Entries may be delivered to Northwest Regional Library Headquarters, 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, or branches in Hallock, Warren, Greenbush, Roseau, Warroad or Red Lake Falls.

Ribbons will be awarded to the top three photographs in each category. One grand prize ribbon and $25 will be awarded to the best photo of the contest. First place winners of each category will receive a book as a prize.

All photographs submitted will be displayed at Northwest regional library headquarters. Winning photos will also be displayed on the bookmobile visiting county fairs, and all branch libraries.

Krause To Direct SCS Office Here

Gerald Krause, a veteran of 15 years of service with the U.S. soil conservation service (SCS), has been appointed district director for northwest Minnesota and will serve 14 field offices in 12 counties out of the area office in Thief River Falls. He began serving in the local position last week.

Krause succeeds Don Barron of Thief River Falls who served nearly 30 years with the SCS in Thief River Falls as soil scientist, area soil scientist and as district director since Jan. 12, 1981.

A native of Pound, WI, a small town near Green Bay, Krause came to Thief River Falls with his family from the state of Maine where he served the past two years as conservation agronomist. He had previously served as district conservation agronomist in Kansas City, KA, and at two SCS offices in Wisconsin. He holds a BS degree in agronomy from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

As head of the area office he is responsible for the broad and active soil and water conservation program being carried out by the U.S. department of agriculture in Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington, Clearwater, Norman, Mahnomen and Hubbard counties. There area separate offices for east and west Polk counties and a combined Marshall-Beltrami office for east Marshall and western Beltrami counties.

Gerald and his wife Pamela have a daughter Wendy, 14 and son Davy, age six. The family has been involved in foster care programs in the past, having cared for 17 foster children from infants to age 17 in their home.

The Krauses enjoy cross-country skiing, fishing and hunting, photography and other outdoor activites. Gerald is a member of the Wildlife society and the Soil Conservation society of America and is a past Rotarian. The family also served as sponsor for a 12-year-old girl in Haiti.

During Barron's service with SCS in Thief River Falls, the district office has had five different locations, including the present facilities next to Prichard Bros. at 216 Pennington av. S. With credit for two and a quarter years for military service in World War II and the Korean war, he had nearly 32 years of service with SCS. He will continue his association with Clearwater Rice, Inc., an operation which

Tax Assistance Available For Area Residents

Assistance in completing the 1982 Minnesota property tax refund will be provided for senior citizens and low income individuals who live in Goodridge and St. Hilaire by Mary Lou Rindahl, outreach aide of Inter-County community council.

Rindahl will be in St. Hilaire on Tuesday, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the city council chambers and in Goodridge on Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the senior center.

Homeowners are asked to bring their current property tax statement issued from the county treasurer's office. Renters requesting a refund on rent paid must receive and bring with them a certificate of rent paid (CRP) which is to be completed by the landlord.

For further information or questions, please contact Mary Lou Rindahl at 681-8111.

Pennington Co. SWCD Slates Annual Banquet

Pennington soil and water conservation district is having its annual cooperator and affiliate membership banquet on Tuesday, March 29 at 6:30 p.m. at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls.

A Swiss steak dinner will be followed by Mel Scholin giving a slide presentation on his trip to Australia.

Awards will be given to the conservation farm winners, Swanson brothers; the farm beautification winners, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Koropatnicki; and the fifth and sixth grade conservation poster contest winners.

Tickets are $6 and may be purchased at the door. However, anyone planning to attend should notify the Pennington SWCD at 681-3348 before Monday, March 28.

City Council Meets Tuesday On Retirement

Thief River Falls city council will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, Tuesday, in council chambers at city auditorium. Topics on the agenda include early retirement incentives for city employees, retirees' group health insurance, right of way agreement with the state for the Highway 59 South frontage road project, bids on transformers and wire, Ed Fisher's annexation and sewer and water hook-up, drainage in Kleinvachter's addition, Star Cities program costs, support of Senator Durenberger's proposal on revenue sharing for states, and cost sharing agreement with Pennington county for signals on CSAH 17.

School Board To Air More Budget Cuts

Budget cuts for 1984 affecting central office, foreign language, elementary language arts and other areas will be among agenda items when the Thief River Falls board of education meets tonight (Monday) at 7 p.m.

Other items to be considered include discontinuance of positions and posting for newly created positions.

TRF Police Report Says Crime Down

Annual report of activities of the Thief River Falls police department shows a decline in the number of tickets issued for most types of violations, a situation which Police Chief Ken Froschheiser attributes largely to the state of the economy.

With the number of tickets issued for moving traffic violations down to 339 from 511 in 1981, Froschheiser commented that the change reflected the decreased traffic in the city. Most common moving violation was speeding, with 178 tickets issued, compared to 240 in 1981. Second most common moving violation was driving while intoxicated, with 56 tickets issued, compared to 127 in 1981.

Decrease in the number of DWI violations was attributed to a number of factors, including awareness of stricter enforcement and stiffer penalties, as well as the decrease in traffic. Froschheiser ventured an opinion that as a result of economic difficulties, more people were staying home rather than going drinking in the bars and clubs, adding that he felt club records would back that theory.

In contrast, he noted that registration violations had increased from 76 in 1981 to 87 in 1982. Of those, 49 tickets were issued for expired license plates, compared to zero in 1981. Froschheiser stated that he felt this reflected an attempt by people to wait as long as they could before spending the money required to be in compliance with the law.

Other traffic violations for which tickets were issued included 51 driver's license violations, compared to 73 in 1981. More than half of the license violations were for driving after suspension, revocation or cancellation of license.

Non-moving violations totalled 85, compared to 140 in 1981. Of those, 37 were for having an open container of alcoholic beverage in a motor vehicle, followed by 27 for failure to have insurance.

Total traffic violation tickets issued was 565, compared to 800 in 1981. Of those, 528 were filed against adults, 10 against juveniles in adult traffic court, and 25 filed in juvenile court. Twenty of those tickets were filed in connection with an accident.

Number of parking tickets issued decreased from 4,801 in 1981, to 4,289 in 1982. Of these, 2,627 were issued for overtime parking; 466 for calendar parking in residential areas and 120 for night parking violations. Froschheiser noted that a new law allowed city police to write tickets on private property for unauthorized parking in areas designated for the handicapped, and 114 tickets for that offense were issued in 1982.

Number of persons charged with various non-traffic offense in 1982 included 263 adults and 160 juveniles. This was a decline in the number of adults, from 357 in 1981. Number of juveniles increased from 139 in 1981. Most common charge against juveniles was possession or consumption of liquor, with 51 charged, compared to 73 in 1981. Twenty-seven adults (age 18) were charged with that crime, compared to 50 in 1981.

Other drug offenses also showed declines in the number of persons charged, with nine adults and two juveniles charged with possession of marijuana in 1982, compared to 23 adults and three juveniles in 1981; four adults and no juveniles charged with possession of other drugs, compared to eight adults and 10 juveniles in 1981; and no adults and one juvenile charged with sale of drugs and possessinon to sell, compared to 10 adults and one juvenile in 1981.

Chief Froschheiser said the decline in the number of drug related arrests reflected both a decrease in the amount of drug experimentation and a decline in enforcement due to budget cuts. "We just can't afford the kind of costs and manpower involved in surveilance for drug arrests" he commented, noting that most of the arrests reflected in the annual report were made as a result of searches made on other charges.

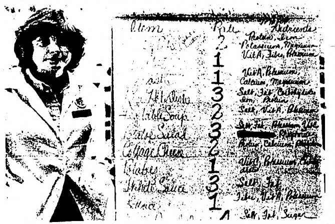
Photos of a number of local skating participants will be published in the Wednesday edition of the Times.



EMPHASIZING NUTRITION during national nutrition month, Carletta Tierney designed a poster to help remind Northwestern hospital staff members to "Say Yes to Less." Carletta charted the salt, fat and sugar contents of foods served at the hospital.

BPW Young Career Woman . . .

Personality Aids Carletta Tierney

by Julie Easton
Times Reporter

Bubbling! It's the best word to describe Carletta Tierney, the 1983 recipient of young career woman of the year award from the Thief River Falls chapter of Business and Professional Women.

From the time the recent Times interview began to its conclusion, Carletta showed that personality is an important asset for one in her position as director of dietary services at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

Three phases were involved in the actual young career woman competition. The first involved the submission of an updated resume showing qualifications, experiences and long range goals. Then each candidate was interviewed concerning the role of young women in society. Finally, a five-minute speech on the topic of "The Changing World of Working Women" was required.

When selected at the regular BPW dinner meeting last Tuesday, Carletta said she was pleased. She commented that she wasn't that confident because Deborah Ernst, who was selected as alternate, was a very good candidate. Carletta now advances to district competition in Detroit Lakes this weekend.

Carletta focused on the new occupations and responsibilities open to women in her interview and speech. She says that more women are entering law school, choosing medical careers and becoming architects. Citing one occupation that does not require an extensive amount of training, Carletta commented, "Well, take welding for example; there is no reason why women can't do it."

"Economically, women have to work," Carletta continued, "More women are single family breadwinners; they have to take care of the family."

Carletta lists her own field as "a real traditional woman's field. Women are typically

Ken Yutrzenka will be toastmaster of the morning.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

GREEN CARNATIONS were presented by Northwest regional library staff members to older workers (left to right) Virginia Carriere, Vi Lindberg and Doris Eisbrener, at a tea in their honor on Wednesday. Celebration was held in recognition of Employ the older worker week. Lunch was served in the staff lounge at the library. Virginia is a Green Thumb worker and Doris and Vi volunteer their time.

RIPLEY SHELTER for battered women held an open house on Thursday in celebration of its third anniversary in Thief River Falls, with about 25 people attending. Visitors included local political figures, board members, agency representatives, alliance members and community representatives. Tours were conducted through the facilities which are licensed for occupancy by up to 10 women and their children, and refreshments were served. Pouring a glass of punch above, is Linda Wallerich, director of the shelter, as Deb Modahl, one of the women's advocates, looks on.

History Of Dolls Is Studied At Zehlian Meet

Dorothy Hanson of this city presented the program, "All About Dolls" at the meeting of the Zehlian art group of the General Federation of Women's clubs held March 2 at the Mary Evans home.

In her presentation, Mrs. Hanson displayed dolls of china, bisque, celluloid, tin, copper, wood and composition, as well as pin cushion dolls, baby dolls, Indian and Chinese dolls, and some modern collectibles.

In tracing the history of dolls, Mrs. Hanson stated that they are a form of art and also reveal the history of that country or period of time.

She said that the first semblance of dolls was found in the tombs of Egypt. The small figures were made of stone, wood or clay and resembled little mummies. They were used as substitutes for human sacrifice and were not considered playthings.

In pre-Roman times, dolls were handled only by priests as it was believed that the figures had mystical powers. The Greeks changed the concept from religious symbols to play dolls. In the 14th century, before newspapers, the "fashion dolls" appeared. They were sent to the various courts in Europe as samples of the latest fashions and hair styles. Fifteenth century paintings portray children and dolls in identical costumes. Mrs. Hanson noted that only the wealthy children had their portraits painted.

Between 1700 and 1800, as the attitude toward children changed, dolls became playthings, and countries competed in producing the finest dolls. German toy makers created dolls using paper mache, wax and china. The heads were formed in molds, painted and fired. Bodies were often made of leather. Dolls of this period were made by Simeon Halbig, Armand Marsaille, Kammer Reinhart, Kestner and Heuback. Mrs. Hanson stated that many of those dolls are in existence today and are displayed by collectors.

Following the program, the members had an opportunity of viewing the dolls.

Co. Homemakers Spring Tea Set At Goodridge

Pennington County Homemakers spring tea will be held Thursday at 8:00 p.m., at St. Anne's Catholic church in Goodridge.

Guest speaker will be Sister Margaret Mary of Crookston.

The program will also include skits, demonstrations, a craft display, and an Easter bonnet contest, featuring the most original, funniest and prettiest hats.

Everyone is welcome to attend and to participate in the activities.

Companionates Studied By Deer Park Gardeners

"Companionates in Gardening," was the topic discussed at the monthly meeting of the Deer Park garden club held at the home of Dorothy Svanford.

Leading the lesson study was Norma Hanson. She listed the common garden vegetables and flowers, stating which are companions, dispelling insects or helping growth, and those that are antagonists.

Lavonne Radniecki presided at the meeting in the absence of president Helen Chervestad. Correspondence included a letter from District President Beverly Carlson, Roseau, giving information on the activities for 1983; and a news release on the spring workshop set for March 26 at Williams. Hosting the workshop will be the Williams Gardeners and the North Star Garden club. The theme will be "Garden Chit Chat."

Of special interest was the information that a new horticulture award "Outstanding Gardener," will be given on district level. Selected as candidate for this award from the Deer Park club was Ethel Wiseth. The entry form was completed.

A report on the tree seminar at Crookston was given by Lois Swanson.

Members answered roll call by naming plant varieties resistant to insects and diseases.

The April meeting of the Deer Park garden club will be held at the Luella Peterson home. The program will be based on the effects of insects and worms on gardening. Members are to bring an arrangement for display and an article for the silent auction.

Food Production Discussed By Wyandotte Club

"Food production and preparation" was the topic studied at the meeting of the Wyandotte Homemakers club held February 23 at the Linda Ulrich home. Leading the lesson study were Audrey Donarski and Marie Gustafson.

To correspond with the lesson, lunch featured a variety of fruits and vegetables.

Members present were Naomi Peterson, Marlo Solberg, Evelyn Erickson, Doris Nelson, Linda Ulrich, Audrey Donarski, Marie Gustafson and Donna Mossestad.

The next meeting of the Wyandotte homemakers club will be held March 24 at 2:00 p.m., at the Emilee Skjerven home. The lesson will be "Parenting and family communication." Members are reminded to bring an item for the market basket. Members are also asked to note that the Homemakers Achievement day has been scheduled for May 6.

VFW Auxiliary Initiates Nine New Members

Nine new members were initiated into the VFW auxiliary at the meeting of the unit held Monday, March 14, at the Post club room.

Welcomed into the auxiliary were Maude Wilberg, Janet Schneider, Alice Seaverson, Margaret Seaverson, Christine Anenson, Olga Lerol, Grace Stigen, Donna Alby and Helen Forsberg.

During the business session, a donation was made to a recent fire victim; and it was announced that the auxiliary will be in charge of delivering Meals-on-Wheels from April 11 to 22nd. Those willing to assist in delivering the meals were asked to contact Mardella Sabo.

Members were also urged to attend the April 11 meeting as officers will be elected at that time.

Lunch was served by Millie Rux and Clara Olson. Willia Prestegaard won the attendance prize and Ruby Huseth, the door prize.

Horticultural Workshop Set At Williams

Annual spring workshop of the 13th District Horticultural society will be held Saturday, March 26, at St. Joseph's Catholic church at Williams. The event will begin at 12:00 noon with registration.

The theme of the workshop will be "Garden Chit Chat". Included will be a round table discussion covering information on growing and preservation of foods and flowers.

Host clubs will be the Williams Gardeners and the North Star garden club. A coffee hour will follow the program.

Anyone interested in gardening is welcome to attend, according to District President Beverly Carlson. She also stated that the Country Store will open at noon.

Active Women Photo Exhibit Opens April 5

"Women in Action: North Dakota Photographs," an exhibit of contemporary and historical photographs will open April 5 at Northern state bank, Thief River Falls, and be shown through April.

Coffee and bars will be served by the GFWC Zehlian women's club from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the lobby of the bank on opening day. The exhibition is jointly sponsored by the Zehlian club and the bank.

In conjunction with the exhibit, there will also be an exhibit of local photographs depicting women in action. Anyone in the area who has photographs, old or new, of women engaged in an activity, is asked to bring the photos to Northern state bank before April 1. Contact Rosie Fournier at the bank to enter photographs.

The exhibition, "Women in Action: North Dakota Photographs", is sponsored by Plainswoman, Inc. in Grand Forks, and is funded by a grant from the North Dakota humanities council, an affiliate of the national endowment for the humanities.

The 49 photographs in the exhibition, both historical and contemporary, show women not only hard at work, hoeing the fields, working on a sawmill crew, milking cows and working a telephone switchboard, but also dancing, fishing and having fun.

Historical photographs in the exhibition were selected from the archives of the Orin G. Libby manuscript collection, Chester Fritz library, University of North Dakota; the state historical society of North Dakota, Bismarck, ND; the Fred Hulstrand history of pictures collection, institute for regional studies, North Dakota state university, Fargo, ND; and Myra museum collection, Grand Forks, and the Flaten and Wange glass negative collection, Clay county historical society, Moorhead. Exhibition was curated and researched by Krista Bosford, Susan Koprince, and Marilyn Fundingsland, all from Grand Forks.

Contemporary photographs selected for the exhibition are by Grand Forks photographers Sherman Hayes, John Stennes, Harley Straus and Vickie Kettlewell. Also chosen were photographs by Cheryl Overby, Fargo, ND and Teresa Wald, Minot, ND.

Viking Mission Conference Set March 24 To 27

Missionary conference at the Viking Covenant church will be conducted Thursday through Sunday with five missionary speakers included in the schedule of weekday evening and Sunday morning and evening services. Public attendance is invited to any or all of the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Grahn, former residents of northwestern Minnesota and now missionaries to Senegal, West Africa under the Worldwide Evangelism crusade, will be featured speakers at the opening session Thursday at 7:30 p.m. They will participate throughout the entire conference.

On Friday at 7:30 p.m. Miss Barbara Johnson will discuss her work as a teacher and administrator in the Karawa hospital nursing school in Zaire, Africa. She is a missionary for the Evangelical Covenant church.

Following a 6:30 p.m. dinner at the church Saturday, Marlan Enns will speak on mission work with Spanish-speaking people. He has served in Ecuador and Mexico and recently has been working with the Evangelical Covenant church in church organization and other work on the U.S.-Mexico border.

Sunday at 11 a.m. Miss Donna Larson, principal and teacher in a senior high school in Zaire will discuss her work. She is affiliated with the Evangelical Covenant church and previously worked with the U.S. department of agriculture and spent two years with the Peace Corps.

At the concluding session Sunday, Miss Marilyn Niewoehner will present the medical missionary work of the Evangelical Alliance mission in Al Ain, United Arab Emirates. She will explain why many women would bypass deluxe government facilities to come to the small, crowded building on the outskirts of town where she is a nurse.

Evan and Bea Grahn

Former farmers near Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Grahn have been serving as missionaries in Senegal under the Worldwide Evangelism crusade for many years.

They were trained in missionary work at the Bethany Fellowship in Minneapolis, received language training in Canada and are presently home on furlough. They have been staying at the WEC headquarters in Fort Washington, PA, and their son Matthew is engaged in mission work and training in France.

The Grahns will return to Senegal in May, an area which still has occasional tribal warfare which poses special problems for the Christian church there.

Marilyn Niewoehner

A native of North Dakota, Miss Niewoehner is a staff member of the Oasis hospital, a ministry of the Evangelical Alliance mission in the desert town of Al Ain, United Arab Emirates. She has been a nurse in the hospital there since 1979.

"This town in the desert is fascinating," she says, "because the living conditions of the people are undergoing such rapid change. Here we mingle almost equally with illiterate and literate. Although traditionally one sits on the floor and eats with his hands from a common dish, we are now seeing a trend toward elegant furnishings — even in the dining room. The ultra-modern and primitive can both be found."

In the United States for a year of rest and study, she plans to return to the hospital where her services are needed. She is associated with TEAM, an evangelical agency without denominational affliction, sponsoring over 1,000 missionaries in such varying ministries as evangelism, church planting, education, medicine, communications and translating in 27 world areas.

Local Pianists Receive MMTA State Awards

Ten piano students of Marcia Knuttila were winners in the Minnesota music teachers association (MNTA) state piano contest, and will perform in the 48th annual state honor student concert. Concert will be held at Northrop auditorium on June 4 at 7 p.m.. Philip Brunelle, music director of the Minnesota opera and the Plymouth music series will conduct the 700 winning students in 32 different compositions for ensemble piano. This year the students will be performing on 20 Kawai grand pianos provided by Schmitt music company.

Students throughout the state competed in the contest preliminaries held in February. From 4,650 competitors, 1,860 competed at Normandale community college in the contest finals held on March 12. There were eight categories set up according to age level. In some categories, a designated theory test level was a requirement. This is part of the MMTA curriculum which integrates theory and performance.

Winners in the junior A division were Nathan Dyrud, grade five, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Dyrud of Middle River and John Wallberg, grade 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallberg of Thief River Falls. This is Wallberg's third year as a state winner; he performed "Chimes" by Tcherepnin and received a score of 96. Dyrud performed "The Piper" by Sue Shannon and received a score of 97.

Alternate winner in junior B was Nicole Brang, grade 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Brang of Thief River Falls. She played "Little Fairy Tale" by Samuel Maykapar and her score was 95. Brang is a two time state winner.

Winning in the intermediate A category was Jennifer Cyr, grade 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Cyr of Oklee. She performed "Polonaise in G Minor" by Chopin and her score was 96. Alternate winner in intermediate was Brenda Ode, grade 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marv Ode of Thief River Falls. She performed "Six Variations on a Swiss Song" by Ludwig van Beethoven and received a score of 95. Ode has been a state winner for three years.

Winning in the intermediate B division was Andrea Ault, grade 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ev Ault of Thief River Falls. This was Ault's fifth year as a state winner. She performed "Sonata in C Major, L104" by Scarlatti and received a score of 96. Alternate winner in intermediate B was Lana Jorgenson, grade 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Jorgenson of Thief River Falls. A second year winner, she performed "Sonata, Op. 79, First Movement — Presto alla tedesco" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

Winners in the senior A division were Pam Finney, grade 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Finney of Thief River Falls and Sandra Rustan, grade 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rustan of Oklee. This was Rustan's fifth year as a state winner. This year she performed "Impromptu in A Flat Major, Op. 90, No. 4" by Franz Schubert and received a score of 96. Finney performed "Sonata, K330, Third Movement — Allegretto" by Wolfgang A. Mozart and her score was 96.

Alternate winner in senior B was Gretchen McEwen, grade 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McEwen of Thief River Falls. This was McEwen's second year as a state winner. She performed "Sonata in E Flat Major, Op. 31, No. 3, Movement IV — Presto con fuoco" by Ludwig van Beethoven.

he helped start in 1968 in Clearwater county and which now involved 1,700 acres in paddy wild rice production.

Don and his wife Gladys have three children, Mrs. Mark (Cathy) Hagen of Thief River Falls; Lee, a student at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks; and Darby, married to the former Jean Kappes of Thief River Falls and employed at Tony Dorn, Inc.

Krause was selected for the district directorship by Don Ferren, state conservationist for the SCS, from among applicants interviewed for the position. The district office has an annual operational budget of approximately $700,000 to conduct the activities here and in the 14 field offices.

Police Report Shows Drop In TRF Crime

allowing a dog to run at large declined nearly 50 per cent from 1981, and Froschheiser credited enforcement of the animal ordinance and publication of the court report with the decrease. "People are being more careful about keeping their animals tied up now" he said. "They don't like paying the fine and they don't like seeing their name in the paper in connection with it."

Animal control officer's report shows that 217 dogs, 127 cats and one parakeet were impounded in 1982. This is a decline in dogs from 282, and an increase in cats, from 104, in 1981. Froschheiser commented that officer Tim Miller was now using better equipment and techniques to deal with the cat problem in the city.

Decline in number of arrests is reflected in the amount of fine money brought in for citations issued by the city police. Pennington County Court collected $44,318.90 in 1982, compared to $67,485.92 in 1981, for violations brought by city police. They also collected $670 on warrants for parking violations. Half of this amount was paid to the city by the court, for a total of $22,494.45.

City keeps 100 per cent of fine money collected by the parking violations bureau. At $8,822.02, this is nearly the same amount as was collected in 1981. Fine revenues brought in by the police department totaled $31,316.47, compared to $43,098.13 in 1981.

Mileage driven by patrol units increased to 116,219 from 113,576 in 1981. Froschheiser explained that the increase was due to the department's using a patrol unit to transport officers to training sessions rather than paying mileage for the use of their own vehicles. This was changed as a cost cutting move.

Requests from the public for assistance totaled 798, Froschheiser noted that a lot of these calls were from people who had locked their keys in their cars. Officers carry special tools for opening car doors in their squad cars, and perform the service at no charge. Although city council has discussed the possibility of charging for the service, Froschheiser noted that it has been good public relations for the department, and he would prefer to continue to do it free.

Other services which the department rendered in 1982 included 197 attempts to locate people; 116 business checks, 46 disburbance calls, 66 reports of family trouble; 58 fire calls, 55 funeral escorts, 20 illness and death notices, 55 messages delivered, 62 public health checks, 225 residence checks, 122 reports of suspicious persons, 85 trespassers or prowlers, 51 traffic hazards, and 50 traffic sign repair calls.

Reports of persons, animals or property either lost or found totaled 325; motor vehicle accidents totaled 415; reported incidents of mental cases, public accidents, animal bites, suicide attempts, and sick cared for totaled 67;

413 false alarms were answered. Although most of the false alarms were caused by either equipment malfunctions or people forgetting to shut them off before entering the building, Froschheiser commented that he still felt the alarms made the police department's job easier, and said he was opposed to charging for responses to false alarms.

Froschheiser concluded that although number of arrests and revenues have decreased, public service responses have remained relatively stable or increased. "When it comes right down to it," he commented, "that's really the kind of work we'd rather be doing."

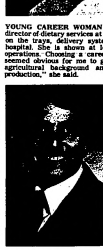
YOUNG CAREER WOMAN of the year Carletta Tierney, director of dietary services at Northwestern hospital, checks up on the trays, delivery system of meal preparation at the hospital. She is shown at left in the photo overseeing the operations. Choosing a career was easy, says Carletta. "It seemed obvious for me to go into dietetics. I am from an agricultural background and I was influenced by food production," she said.



WES PLUMMER, the Seventh district commissioner for the Minnesota commission on small business, will speak to the Golden K Kiwanis Tuesday at the Best Western inn, Thief River Falls. Plummer is editor and publisher of the Crookston Daily Times and has lived in Minnesota for nine years. His speech will cover jobs creation, worker compensation, unemployment compensation, taxation and views on what is needed to recruit new industry and jobs to Minnesota.

AVTI Workshop Topic Is Work And Family

"Balancing Work and Family . . . A Health and Wellness Perspective," a one-day workshop sponsored by the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI), will be held on Thursday, April 14 from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls. Workshop leader is Ellen Leger, RN, St. Louis Park. Fee of $35 includes coffee, rolls, materials and noon lunch.

Participants will assess their personal and job related life-styles to assist their development in a personal program of fitness, exercise, nutrition and stress management.

This workshop meets the requirements for seven contact hours on continuing education for nurses. Pre-registration is required by April 7 by contacting adult education, AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 681-5424.

Homemaker Leader Meet Set Thursday

Public is invited to attend the homemaker leader training for April entitled "Understanding the Grocery Store." Session will be held Thursday with a 10 a.m. gathering at the Holt community center and a 2 p.m. workshop in the courthouse basement meeting room.

Training will cover the understanding of the grocery store layout, advertising and coupons. All leaders are encouraged to attend. This training is being sponsored by the Marshall county agricultural extension service.

Meteorology Is Subject Of AVTI Workshop

Fred Wagner, chief meteorologist and manager of the Great Lakes weather service of Wausau, WI, will conduct a meteorology workshop at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) on Tuesday, April 12. Workshop will run from 1 to 4 p.m. in room 116 at the AVTI, Highway One East. Fee of $6 will be charged.

Wagner will discuss weather systems and terminology including background on how forecasts are prepared. He will also concentrate on severe weather identification through use of the National weather service film and slides he has personally taken.

This workshop is open to the public but should be of special interest to radio and television, law enforcement and county highway department personnel.

Pre-registration is required by April 5 by contacting adult education, Thief River Falls AVTI; 681-5424.

Airline Boards 387 Passengers During Feb.

Republic Airlines, Thief River Falls, reported that 387 passengers boarded in February, compared to 492 in February of 1982. The last time Republic carried less than 400 passengers during February was in 1968. For the first two months of this year, 825 passengers have flown on the airline.

Nationally, Republic Airlines reported at 16 per cent increase in revenue passenger miles for February, reaching 779.4 million from 670.1 million.

Republic boarded 1,449,489 passengers in February, up nine per cent from 1,335,241 and the airline's biggest percentage gain in five months. Passenger load factor rose to 57 per cent from 52 per cent a year ago. Cargo ton miles jumped 31 per cent to 5.9 million from 4.5 million.

Older Library Workers Feted At Tea Party

In recognition of "Employ the older worker week", Northwest regional library honored its older workers by holding a tea party in the staff lounge. Honored guests were Virginia Carriere, Doris Eisbrener and Vi Lindberg. Lunch was served and each of the ladies was presented with a green carnation.

Virginia Carriere has been with the library for about a year, under the Green Thumb program. She helps with dusting and straightening up the library, as well as book mending and magazine inventory. Staff members noted that her enthusiasm and careful attention to details have been a delight.

Doris Eisbrener has been with the library over five months, and volunteers her time to type card replacements, paperback book cards, interlibrary loan lists and whatever else needs to be done. Staff members noted that she has become nearly indispensable.

Vi Lindberg has been with the library the longest, having volunteered her services for nearly 12 years. He main duties include working with the shut-in program and the senior citizens program. She also covers the circulation desk when necessary, and staff members noted that she seems to be able to do anything, including the "impossible."

Praise flows freely from the library staff about their older workers. As Director Barb Jauquet commented, "the older workers really balance our staff. Their wisdom and experience in life are enlightening to us, and it is always refreshing to get their point of view."

AVTI Course On Motorcycles Starts April 11

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) will offer a 14-hour motorcycle training course starting on April 11. Class will include eight hours of classroom training and six hours on-bike instruction. Participants must be 16 years of age and have a valid Minnesota driver's license. Street bikes (125 cc) will be furnished for all participants. Students will not use their own bikes, as in the past.

Class will meet on April 11, 12, 13, 14 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the AVTI, room 114, for the classroom instruction. On-bike instruction will be scheduled in groups at the first class session. Mike Lehrer is the instructor. Tuition is $30 per person.

Pre-registration is required by contacting adult education, AVTI; 681-5424.

concerned with nurturing and feeding." As an interesting addition, Carletta said that in the health care field, 80 per cent of the workers are women. The cooks, maintenance workers, aides and nurses may not be visible, but they make up the backbone of the field.

"It seems obvious for me to go into dietetics. I am from an agricultural background and I was influenced by food production," Carletta commented. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tierney, have a dairy farm near Badger.

"In our family there is a big emphasis on meals. Dairy farms are run on a very regular schedule and when the men are hungry the meal has to be ready," Carletta stated.

Complementing the influence of her upbringing, Carletta said she always enjoyed 4-H projects. "And society is much more concerned with health now. We are questioning what we eat, and obesity is a fear of both women and men," she said.

Carletta has a bachelor's degree in home economics with an emphasis on foods and nutrition and a biology minor from Concordia college, Moorhead. She also had a 10-month internship at Barnes hospital, St. Louis, MO, in preparation for her current position as a registered dietician. She assumed her duties at Northwestern hospital in October, 1980.

Administrative functions, staff work and inservices take up most of Carletta's time. As an administrator, she works with the goals, budget and new equipment in her department.

"I also work on diet instructions with patients one to one. I help them develop a diet related to their disease," Carletta explained. Her enthusiasm makes the patient more comfortable as was evidenced when she gave a salt restricted menu to patient James Todroff of Fourtown. "He is adorable," she said, and both Todroff and another patient were quick to congratulate her on her selection as young career woman.

In weight reduction clinics, Carletta focuses on "teaching people appropriate lifestyle habits." She believes that is the most important element for a healthy life.

Carletta also plans the 700 to 800 meals a day served at Northwestern hospital. Because this month is national nutrition time, she has concentrated on making people aware of dietetics and nutrition. "The amazing thing is that many people without training call themselves 'dietitians.' Those who are registered with the American Dietetics association are trying to make people aware of who we are and what we are doing," she said.

Carletta is involved with the Ripley Shelter, American association of University Women, Toastmasters, the northwest district of the Minnesota dietetic asssociation and Zion Lutheran church.

She also enjoys many hobbies, particularly those involving the Scandinavian culture. She spent one year in Norway working in a small hotel and she speaks Norwegian. The music, art and sporting activities of Scandinavia, including cross-country skiing, are favorites with Carletta.

"People have said to me, 'Carletta you can't do all this.' But, I can't sit around; I like to be busy and involved."

Carletta concluded, "Because I am single I'm able to do so many things." One gets the impression that, in her case, it wouldn't matter how many responsibilities she had because her energy can handle them all.

Dear Readers,
While the experience of grief is difficult, slow and wearing, it is also enriching and fulfilling. The most beautiful people we have known are those who have known defeat, known suffering, known stuggle and loss, and have found their way out of the depths. They have a sensitivity and an understanding of life that fills them with compassion, gentleness, and a deep loving concern. Beautiful people do not just happen.

Dairymen To Elect Council On Promotion

On March 29 dairy farmers will elect 11 of their fellow producers to represent them in the Minnesota dairy promotion council. County extension offices will serve as polling places and be open from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Minnesota dairy promotion council is responsible for the dollars dairy farmers throughout Minnesota invest for dairy product promotion through the American Dairy association of Minnesota, and nutrition education and research through the dairy, food and nutrition council of Minnesota.

Cliff Markuson, general manager of the American Dairy association of Minnesota, said the promotion concept is a positive way for dairy farmers to help themselves as a group in a way they couldn't as individuals.

"The Minnesota dairy promotion council becomes especially important in light of our current problems of surplus production and underconsumption," Markuson said. "We encourage all dairy farmers to take part in this important election."

Counties included in the MDPC District One are: Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wadena.

Candidates for the board from District One are Lloyd Seter Jr. of Glyndon and George Koch of Puposky.

Mn Experiences 4.9 Per Cent Crime Decrease

According to figures released by the bureau of criminal apprehension, a division of the state department of public safety, crime in Minnesota decreased by 4.9 per cent in 1982 from the previous year. A total of 185,319 offenses were reported in 1982 compared to 194,933 in 1981.

Violent crime (murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault) decreased three per cent, crimes involving property (burglary, larceny and vehicle theft) decreased five per cent and arson offenses decreased 20,8 per cent.

There was a 12.2 per cent decrease in rural areas and a 3.6 per cent decrease in urban areas. Duluth and Minneapolis recorded decreases of 16 and 2.6 per cent, respectively. St. Paul recorded an increase of 6.9 per cent.

Comparing the 10-year period of 1972 to 1982, there has been an increase of 42 per cent in the offenses reported. During this same time period, the population has increased approximately seven per cent.

There were 95 murders reported during 1982, only 49 of which were the result of a gunshot. The victim was murdered by a family member or friend in 72 of the 95 murders (75.7 per cent). The 4,190 robbery offenses reported included 56 bank robberies, a decrease of 34.1 per cent compared with 85 reported in 1981. The value of losses due to bank robberies was $41,468.

During the year, 48,899 burglaries were reported and 30,659 involved forcible entry. Of the 34,850 residential burglaries, 13,962 were committed at night and 9,107 during the day; the times of the remainder are unknown. Of the 14,049 non-residential burglaries, 8,946 were committed at night, 780 during the day and the remainder unknown.

There were 9,810 vehicles reported stolen in 1982. The recovered vehicles totaled only 3,445 or 35 per cent. Of those vehicles recovered, 2,240 or 65 per cent were found in the same area in which they were stolen.

There were 1,151 arson offenses reported with a property value of over $7.5 million. These included 213 mobile arson offenses totaling $311,571 and 726 structural arson offenses with a property value of $7,164,989.

Clearance rate for offenses reported was 20 per cent for the state. Sheriffs recorded 19 per cent of the incidents cleared and police departments recorded 20 per cent cleared. Minneapolis had a clearance rate of 16 per cent, St. Paul 17.7 per cent and Duluth 18.5 per cent

Lawmakers Say EPA Problem Is Not Director

By focusing primarily on the conflicts which presently embroil the people and policies of the Environmental Protection agency with Congress, the media has disregarded the agency's real problem, according to Sen. Rudy Boschwitz and Congressman Vin Weber.

It is not Anne (Gorsuch) Burford, Rita Lavalle or anyone else in the cadre of agency officials who parade across our television screens and newspapers every day, it is the structure of the agency itself. And that fact is being lost on the public, the lawmakers said.

"Yes, we called for the replacement of administrator Anne Burford in a letter to the President last week. But that was only a small detail of our message. We alleged no wrongdoing. In fact, we made no comment at all about the present leadership of EPA, other than to say that it has become bogged down in politics and controversy beyond workable proportions," Boschwitz and Weber said in a joint statement.

"As we see it, Congress is now faced with two opportunities. First, it should do whatever possible to allow the agency to rise above the current controversy and carry on the business of policing the nation's environment. Second, it should realize that this unfortunate controversy only highlights and aggravates inherent shortcomings in the structure of the agency, and act to remedy that. Further, the heightened public awareness presents us with an unusual window of opportunity to instill swift changes.

"For the short term, we feel Mrs. Burford should be replaced immediately. Her successor, who should be named as soon as possible, should be a person independent of politics and known nationally for his or her qualifications in environmental science."

They added that Mrs. Burford's successor reasonably should not be forced to contend with the present controversy. The administrator can easily absorb much of the pressure by appointing a short-term special assistant to the President to manage relations with Congress over the current toxic waste problem, they said. Only in this way can the new administrator and his or her staff get about the business of restructuring the agency.

The structure needs changing, they added. "The EPA is apparently without a well-defined chain of command, without a coherent guiding or operational policy and, frankly, without the means to implement effective environmental protection. Toward that end, we have proposed three ideas: "First, that the original independent charter of the EPA as an independent research and enforcement agency, free from political constraints and able to pursue autonomous scientific evaluations of our nation's environmental problems, be restored.

"Second, that appointees for administrator be limited to persons of scientific background with substantive prior experience in environmental research, who possess independent credentials that are respected by their peers in the scientific community. We recommend the term of administrator be lengthened to a minimum of six years, to avoid the political problems of coinciding with tenure in the executive branch at large.

"Third, that regional administrators, too, should be further insulated from political pressures or consideration. Further, we recommend that these appointees be career positions drawn from a scientific or technical background comparable with that of the administrator."

Recommendations of this size and scope are not made lightly, Boschwitz and Weber said. "The acute problems at the EPA likely will continue throughout this Congress unless substantive and immediate action is taken. Morale at the EPA is low, we are losing valuable time to shape effective environmental policies and the resolution of countless critical environmental problems — particularly on the toxic waste issue — has been needlessly delayed by the continuation of congressional investigations and internal controversy."

Seminar Is Set For Ultralight Aircraft Pilot

Bryan Allen, Albuquerque, NM, first pilot to fly across the English Channel in a human-powered aircraft, will be the featured speaker at an ultralight aircraft safety seminar sponsored by the Minnesota department of transportation (MnDOT) aeronautics division. Seminar will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, April 9, in Kennedy senior high school, 9701 Nichollet Avenue, Bloomington.

Allen made history on June 12, 1979, when he piloted the experimental Gossamer Albatross across the channel.

Among other speakers at the seminar will be former Thief River Falls resident Roger Worth, president of Cuyuna Engine Company, Crosby; John Moody, Kansasville, WI, pioneer ultralight pilot; Peter Strombom, Hales Corners, WI, executive vice president of the experimental aircraft association; John Ballantyne, Bethesda, MD, director of ultralight programs for the aircraft owners and pilots association air safety foundation; and Matt Wiederkehr, St. Paul, president of Wiederkehr Balloons International Inc.

Co-sponsored by the federal aviation administration and the Minnesota ultralight association, the third annual seminar is presented in the interest of safety to both the aviation community and the public, according to Richard Keinz, assistant commissioner of MnDOT's aeronautics division. Noting that a pilot's license is not required to fly an ultralight, Keinz commented that with their increasing number and popularity, safety is a growing concern.

Pre-registration for the seminar is requested by April 5. Cost, which includes lunch, is $10. For further information and registration forms call MnDOT aeronautics division (612)296-6666.

Youth Studies Center At 'U'M Established

Center for studies in youth policy is being established at the University of Minnesota Hubert H. Humphrey institute of public affairs to serve as a major national resource for policymakers and decision-makers interested in youth.

Center was funded by a $205,000 three-year grant from the northwest area foundation of St. Paul.

Idea for the center grew out of work conducted over the past two years by Ira Schwartz, research fellow at the Humphrey institute. Schwartz will serve as director.

"The purpose of the center," Schwartz said, "will be to study and to recommend policies related to youth and to continue to build an integrated national juvenile justice data base."

Last year Schwartz completed two studies on juvenile justice. One, "Rethinking Juvenile Justice," detailed juvenile crime rates in all 50 states and showed a drop in the rates in all but about six states. The other, "Youth and Confinement: Justice by Geography," indicated disparities between and within states on how juveniles were treated in the juvenile justice system.

"What started as a specific focus on the juvenile justice system has led our staff into a tangled web of youth control systems," Schwartz said. "We found that young people were caught up not only in the juvenile justice system, but also in the child welfare, mental health and chemical dependency systems."

Schwartz will work with Barry Krisberg, senior vice president of the national council on crime and delinquency, to conduct an extensive analysis of the 1982 census survey of youth in institutions. He also hopes to initiate a study on the care and treatment of juveniles placed in residential psychiatric and chemical dependency programs. He believes it would be the first such study. Faculty and staff from the university's center for youth development and research in the college of home economics also will assist in work at the new center.

John Taylor, president of the northwest area foundation, said the work is being funded because it deals not only with the problems of youth, but also with issues involving "the rights of all people to live and move about freely without fear." The foundation also funded Schwartz's earlier studies.

Schwartz, who headed the office of juvenile justice and delinquency prevention in the U.S. department of justice under President Carter, joined the Humphrey institute in April of 1981. His juvenile justice studies received considerable national attention when they were made public.

State Patrol Makes Record DWI Arrests

Minnesota state patrol, a division of the state department of public safety, announces that 1982 was a record year for driving while intoxicated (DWI) enforcement depiste fewer troopers patrolling Minnesota's highways. In 1982, 7,174 motorists were arrested for DWI, up from 7,122 offenders in the previous year.

"In spite of being down 35 troopers during most of 1982 and the termination of Project 20 which emphasized speed compliance, state patrol troopers were just as busy on the highways helping motorists and enforcing traffic laws," said Chief Roger Ledding.

In addition, 103,725 motorists were arrested for speeding, 141,034 motorists were aided and in 370 incidents, assistance to other law enforcement agencies was provided by the air patrol. This includes 122 searches for missing persons or fugitives and 248 incidences requiring emergency blood runs or air surveillance for security reasons. The patrol made a total of 167,368 arrests, wrote 251,053 warnings and investigated 13,212 accidents.

Troopers logged 593,906 patrol hours worked and traveled 12,106,508 miles.

Currently there are 505 troopers, down slightly from the full complement of 511. Of those troopers, 50 are supervisors, 12 are safety education officers, 14 are civil weight officers and 11 are portable scale officers. There are 160 troopers assigned to the Twin Cities metro area and 258 who patrol highways in the rest of the state.

"We're proud to be part of the reason that the state is experiencing the lowest traffic death total in 32 years," said Ledding. In 1982 traffic fatality total for the state was 578 compared to 763 fatalities in 1981. This was the first time since 1950 that the fatality rate dropped below 600.

It is even more noteworthy that the death rate per 100 million miles of travel in the state in 1982 will be just slightly over two. This will be the lowest ever in Minnesota and among the lowest in the nation. For years safety experts considered three deaths per 100 million miles of travel would be the pinnacle of success. In 1950 the rate per miles traveled was 5.7.

Softball Aids Easter Seals Fund Raising

Each summer millions of Americans venture out to their favorite recreation areas to play softball.

Many of these enthusiasts participate simply for the exercise while others use the sport to showcase their athletic skills.

Although the dominant purpose for most softball participation is that of having a good time, there remains a serious side to the competition.

Last summer more than 5,234 softball teams participated in marathons for Easter Seals Societies raising more than $1.2 million.

Outside of the organization's annual telethon, the softball event is the next largest fundraising activity.

"What began as a local event for one of our brewery's to assist the Easter Seal Society has developed into a program of national importance," said Kevin Wulff of the Miller Brewing Company.

Miller's participation in softball marathons to benefit the Easter Seal Society started in 1977 in New York State. The company has a brewery located in Fulton, just north of Syracuse.

"At that time the marathons were primarily local and being used by the society to raise funds so that a multitude of services could be provided to area residents," Wulff said.

"In 1979 the marathons were expanded into Georgia and $38,000 was raised for the society.

"This summer we plan to increase our involvement with the softball marathons by offering promotional incentives to participating teams and organizations," he added.

Marathons have been expanded to 32 states with competition beginning in June and continuing through September.

Log Building Workshops Set Near Isabella

Minnesota Trailbound has announced its schedule of log building workshops for spring and summer, 1983.

Ten-day sessions on scribe-fit or Scandinavian log construction will begin April 1 and June 17; two-week courses are scheduled to begin July 16 and August 13; and a special session for women only, co-sponsored by Woodswomen of Minneapolis, is April 15 to 24. Five-day course in fireplace building with fieldstone starts June 17.

All workshops are taught at Minnesota Trailbound's base camp on the edge of the boundary waters canoe area in the Superior national forest near Isabella. Courses are open to men and women of all ages, with special rates for married couples and senior citizens. Topics covered include tree felling, chainsaw safety, log handling, wood characteristics and selection, hand tool skills, log scribing, notching and grooving, pegging, preservation, hoisting methods and many other operations involved in this style of building.

Besides practical work on log buildings, sessions feature slide lectures dealing with economics, furniture, toolmaking, heaters, and log building history, as well as field trips in the local area.

Tuition includes lodging and some tools. Advance registration is necessary. For more information, write Minnesota Trailbound, 3544½ Grand Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55408 or phone (612) 822-5955.

Dog Training Classes Slated

Agassiz kennel club will hold dog obedience and hunting dog training classes this April. More detailed information concerning dates and times will be available at a later date.

Sports Injuries To Children Are Studied By PTA

Children run a special risk of sports injuries not shared by adults, reports an article in the March issue of the National PTA's magazine, PTA Today.

Because much of their tissue has not yet turned into bone, children sustain injuries which older athletes of adults never encounter, but which can result in permanent damage, says Lyle J. Micheli, M.D. director, Division of Sports Medicine, Children's Hospital, Boston, and author of the article.

"Perhaps the easiest, yet most frequently neglected, way of preventing serious injury to the young athlete is to pay early attention to complaints of pain or loss of motion, particularly about the major joints," Micheli says. Parents should be suspicious of injuries and make sure their children receive prompt, appropriate treatment.

What sport should a child play? According to Micheli, loose-jointed children lacking in strength need exercise designed to strengthen their extremities before playing contact sports, while children with tight ligaments, muscles, and tendons require stretching programs to prepare for gymnastics, diving, or ballet. In general, parents, coaches, and physicians must exercise a great deal of judgment in recommending sports activities for children.

Because every organized sport in the United States was originally designed for adults, duration of play, play tactics, field size, and equipment also need careful attention, Micheli says.

Preventing or reducing children's sports injuries depend largely on coaching and conditioning techniques, according to Micheli. He discourages face blocking, sliding into bases, heavy weight lifting, and ballistic or "bouncing" stretching, and encourages "sport specific" training, long-term conditioning, slow, gradual stretching and moderate weight lifting.

Protective equipment plays an important role in preventing children's sports injuries, Micheli believes, but use of such equipment does not necessarily mean that children can participate in adult-style games. A high level of preparation for the demands of the game is much more important, he says. Micheli also condemns techniques of athletic preparation that violate basic health principles, such as rapid weight loss through fluid or caloric deprivation.

"Perhaps the most effective technique for preventing injuries in young athletes is to encourage a relaxed attitude toward sports. Children must be able to enjoy sports participation without being excessively pressured to win at all costs by adults who are heedless of the developmental stage of children's bones, joints and emotions," Micheli concludes.

Copies of the March issue of PTA Today are available for $1 each by sending a check or money order (made payable to National PTA) to National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611 (312) 787-0977.

FACTUAL NEWS REPORTING EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

Second Opinion

Many school districts are in similar circumstances to those being experienced in Thief River Falls where budget cutting and dollar stretching are primary activities of the board and administration. Bemidji is among those districts and the following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

It is as if everyone wants to get their two cents worth in, but no one wants to listen.

The two public hearings on possible cuts (up to $1.5 million) for District 31 have had dozens of people speaking out on why extra-curricular, community education, and sports programs should not be cut from the 1983-84 budget. There was no difficulty in understanding the message to the board: the programs are bare-bones now, and any further cutbacks or diminishing of the current level of quality would not be acceptable.

But the directors are not proposing cuts just for something to do; the budget trimming is forced by the uncertainty over state aid for the next two years. There are two basic ways to meet the cuts, paring personnel from the payroll or dropping or reducing programs. The lobbying for specific interests, as parents and others feel compelled to cite the benefits of certain program(s), unfortunately sounds a bit too accusatory for our tastes. Members of the board are not taking arbitrary and unreasoned action when they attempt to put the proposed cuts down on paper. As one director said Thursday, "We have nothing to gain (by making these cuts)."

That is true, and neither does the community have anything to gain when the hearings become popularity contests as parents, students, and educators speak out for particular areas of concern.

What must evolve from this, as other communities have learned from the same tragic financial experience, is a "ways and means" type of auxiliary group, representing a cross section of all concerned, that will constructively work to maintain the best level of education that money will allow. Tax dollars cannot be raised, and when the state aid money bottoms out as it has in Minnesota, there has to be other means of maintaining art, music, sports, community education, and other vital programs.

The ingenuity, to a great degree, can be constructively researched by such a group, giving action to what is often too intangible a suggestion as adopting a "spirit of cooperation."

And if there is no means to save funding or generate money through some other source than tax dollars, and programs do go under the knife, we will at least know that there was a second opinion before surgery was ordered.

They Never Come Back

The following article has been around for some time, but it bears repeating because the message is so true and should be clear to anyone who is involved in meeting the public during the transaction of business:

I'm a nice customer. You all know me. I'm the one who never complains, no matter what kind of service I get.

I'll go in a restaurant and I'll sit while the waitress gossips with her boyfriend and never bothers to look and see if my hamburger is ready to go. Sometimes a party who came in after I did gets my hamburger, but I don't say a word in complaint when the girl tells me, "Oh, I'm sorry. I'll order another one for you." I just wait.

It's the same when I go to a store to buy something. I don't throw my weight around. I try to be thoughtful of the other person. If I get a snooty salesgirl who gets nettled because I want to look at several things before I make up my mind, I'm polite as can be. I don't believe rudeness in return is the answer.

The other day I stopped in at the neighborhood gas station. I waited for almost five minutes before the attendant took care of me. And when he did, he spilled gas and wiped the car windows with an oily rag. I didn't expect him to thank me for stopping by — and he didn't. Naturally, I didn't complain about the service. Next time I'll drive several miles out of my way to find a new station.

I never kick. I never nag. I never criticize and I wouldn't dream of making a scene, as I've seen people doing in public places. I think that's uncalled for. No, I'm the nice customer. And I'll tell you what else I am.

I'm the customer who never comes back!

That's my way of doing for getting pushed around too much. That's why I take whatever you hand out, because I know I'm not coming back. It's true this doesn't relieve my feelings right off, as telling you what I think of you could, but in the long run it's far more deadly than blowing my top.

In fact — a nice customer like myself, multiplied by others of my kind, can just about ruin your business. There are a lot of nice people in the world, just like me. When we get pushed far enough, we go on down the street to another store, and eat hamburgers and buy goods in places where they are smart enough to hire help who appreciate nice customers.

He laughs best, they say, who laughs last. I laugh when I see you frantically spending your money on expensive advertising to get me back, when you could have had me in the first place for a few kind words and a smile.

I don't care what business you're in. Maybe you live in a different town; maybe I've never heard of you. But if you're going broke or your business is bad, maybe there are enough people like me, who do know you. I'm your customer who never came back.

Minority Affects Majority

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

It is no great surprise to learn that "top Hollywood creators of the entertainment fare on television are predominantly secular in outlook, politically liberal and shun religion."

A report published in Public Opinion, a magazine of the American Enterprise Institute for Policy Research in Washington, further declares that "their value orientation is fundamentally different from that of the general public." Ninety-three per cent of the professionals who turn out the main entertainment for TV seldom or never attend religious services. Forty-one per cent of all Americans attend religious services once a week or more.

Detailed interviews were held with 104 key people who make TV shows. They were chosen on the basis of their prominence in the industry. Each is associated with two or more successful prime-time series. "This group has had a major role in shaping the shows whose themes and stars have become staples in our culture," the researchers explain.

A conclusion of the study is that the group "seeks to reform society toward its views."

Previous studies have concluded that key professionals in the news media are "far less religious than the general public." But those making TV entertainment were found to differ even more drastically with most Americans in attitudes toward religion and social and moral issues.

Fifty-one per cent of the T.V. people interviewed do not regard adultery as wrong, for example. Yet 85 per cent of all Americans find it wrong. Many other standards parents try to persuade their children to follow are regularly ridiculed in television programs.

This is not to suggest that anyone allowed to develop T.V. programs must faithfully attend church and believe in the standards of most of the viewers. In effect, however, those who prepare the programs are exercising the very censorship they so vigorously resist from those who do not approve. They are determining what will be available on the T.V. screens, and they are striving to influence us.

Another significant by-product of this non-religious, non-family effort is that television has virtually halted any serious broadcasting toward children. With a few notable exceptions like public television's Sesame Street and the Electric Copmany, and Captain Kangaroo on some networks, there are virtually no daily network programs for preschoolers or young children. There is an endless stream of cartoons to baby-sit the youngsters. But who would call that educational.

Network television continues to turn its back on a high percentage of adults and children as it expands a steady diet of sex and violence. It's a good example of what a minority can impose upon a majority.

PROJECT 120 participants who met recently with Rep. Wally Sparby, District 1B, were Marshall county high school senior Bruce McKenzie and Lincoln high school senior Kirsten Pollick. During the week long Project 120 program, the students studied legislative process through attendance at committee hearings, sessions of the House of Representatives and Supreme Court and lectures by legislators, staff, political leaders and lobbyists. Bruce is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKenzie, Newfolden and Kirsten is the daughter of Alyce Pollick, St. Hilaire.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Public Law 94:142, the "special education" bill passed in the 94th Congress several years ago, calls for the "Least Restrictive Alternative" (LRA) in educating all students four years to 21 years old. The least restrictive alternative is for the good of handicapped children that in the past were pushed aside into "special class", often outside the school environment. These students are now often "mainstreamed" in the regular class to help round out their schooling and give them the least restrictive alternative.

Consider the situation next year in School District 564, especially Franklin middle school, where the administration is predicting 31-34 students per class. This average can fluctuate four or five students so the class size could be as high as 35-40. How can a classroom teacher in a lab class effectively and safely teach that many?

Including the regular student and the mainstreamed handicapped or impaired child, how can I, or my replacement, effectively teach a lab in dissection or microscopes or geology? How safe is a crowded classroom when we use equipment (now used to the maximum) if we put five or 10 more students in it?

Relating back to P.L.94-142 and the LRA, I feel deeply that S.D. 564 is applying the MRA, "most restrictive alternative," when they cut staff and increase the class size. The large classes will continue to hinder and thwart the teacher's ability to give the young student a strong and necessary background in the increasing scientific age we live in by doing away with invaluable 'hands-on' experience and replacing it with paper and pencil labs.

The sheer number of students predicted will put such a strain on the equipment we have that we will either have to spend a large sum of money to supplement the equipment such as microscopes and basic supplies or forego the experience. My experience hints at the latter of the choices. This is just one example of how larger than needed class sizes is an application of the 'most restrictive alternative' in S.D. 564.

Another point is the child's interest in a subject. When we do away with exciting or motivating and often 'expected' things and replace them with tedious or less than expected things, the interest wanes accordingly. Do you feel this is right for your child? Do you want a less than expected education from the schools?

Support me in my view that cuts have gone too deep into education and have become the focus of our school district. Instead of educating the children, balancing the checkbook has become our obsession. What will our schools do if we can't teach our future taxpayers the things needed to get and keep a job in our age of computers and technology? Any comments are welcome.

Sincerely,
Randy Johnson
Science Instructor
Franklin Middle School

To The Editor:

In times when a shortage of economic resources is occurring across the state, a healthy dialogue is an absolute necessity when a school board is establishing priorities. I would like to commend the board of education of District 564 for their reasoned deliberation at the last board meeting. The concern shown for the needs of children was appreciated, and their willingness to consider all the evidence was a sign that the public interest is well represented by a sensitive elected body with a desire to promote the role and function of education across all grades from kindergarten to high school.

The openness to input which they showed gives me a feeling of confidence that, even though we have differing opinions on some issues, the board is interested in establishing a budget which serves the students in the most effective and efficient manner.

Seminar To Study Business And Economics

For the third year Minnesota business venture and the state's business community are offering 300 selected high school sophomores, juniors and teachers scholarships to explore business and economics this summer. An intensive week-long seminar will be conducted at St. Olaf college, Northfield, from July 10 to 16.

Minnesota business venture is coordinated through, and sponsored by, the business economics education foundation of Minnesota (BEEF) in cooperation with the Minnesota state department of education, the Minnesota association of commerce and industry (MACI), the Minnesota agri-growth council and St. Olaf college.

Minnesota business venture is designed to introduce secondary students and teachers to the concepts of the private enterprise system and the economics of Minnesota.

Participation in the seminar will be limited to 300 students and teachers who must apply for the program by April 15 through their high school principals or school coordinators. Those accepted to the program will receive $225 scholarships covering the majority of the program costs. Students will be required to pay $45 that will be applied to their room and board expenses and will cover the remainder of program costs.

Scholarships will be funded by Minnesota businesses, financial institutions, trade associations, cooperatives, service clubs, chambers of commerce, and individuals across the state.

During the week-long program, students will learn about the private enterprise system by exploring small business operations; corporations; labor, government and business relationships; the impact of foreign trade; and Minnesota's special needs and career opportunities. Student "companies," guided and counseled by business representatives, will compete in the marketplace to organize, manage, manufacture and market products with the aid of a computer game.

Students and teachers interested in applying should see their principal or write directly to Minnesota Business Venture, c-o BEEF, S-927 Griggs Midway Building, 1821 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55104.

Marshall Co. Slates Farm Safety Courses

"Farm Safety for Women" course has been slated for Tuesday and Wednesday at several locations throughout Marshall county.

Workshops are conducted by Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension director. Sponsored by the Minnesota agricultural extension service, the workshops are open to the public.

Dates, time and location are as follows: Tuesday, 10 a.m., Grygla community center; Tuesday, 1:30 p.m., Newfolden community center; Wednesday, 10 a.m., Stephen filtration plant; and Wednesday, 1:30 p.m., Warren, First American bank.

Topics include farm accidents — reducing the odds; noise — the invisible hazard; safe storage and handling of grain; safe use of farm machninery on public roads, anhydrous ammonia application; pesticide application safety; and farm machinery repair and maintenance.

Rock Climbing Course Offered By BSU Center

Basic skills of rock climbing, including rappelling, belaying and handling the ropes and hardware, are the subject of a one-credit course offered this spring through the Bemidji state university bald eagle center.

Available the weekends of April 15-17 and 22-24, the course may be taken for undergraduate or graduate credit at respective costs of $39 and $43.85.

All climbing and camping equipment is provided but participants are responsible for their own food for the weekend.

For more information or registration materials, contact Ron DeValk, Bald Eagle Center, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN, 56601; phone (218-755-3996).

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

In my letter of March 14, apparently I did not express myself in the way I had intended. It seems as though I have been misunderstood. I wish to clarify my opinions because that's what they are.

First of all, the "case" or "cases" I mentioned were "none in point". They were hypothetical cases only. As for the "action" I thought the judge should "use", I did not mean that literally. It was a bad choice of words, for which I apologize. What I was trying to stress was that I would hope that before a couple takes that first step that opens their divorce proceedings, the judge would ask them, and they both would ask themselves once more, "Is this really the only alternative to our problem? Have we overlooked some avenue, that could change things for us and our children?"

To help them with this, I feel they ought to have their problems reviewed before a family arbitrator. I understand one judge said he thought that was a good idea. It still is my feeling that there maybe are or could be times when either parent should have custody, even though the judge had to make that decision (which no doubt is a tremendous task) and did so in what he believed was the best interest of the children. There sometimes still can be a tug-of-war between the parents for the affections of the children which may cause the children great difficulties (this often occurs over visitation rights). But the choice had to be made and hopefully peace shall prevail!

I wonder if people realize what a task it is for one person as a judge to be expected to make those decisions that concern the lives of so many people! As one person said, "I don't envy him for one moment, for the great responsibility he has to bear." I sincerely hope this clarifies my meaning of the March 14 letter. The opinions were mine, no one else's. They were not meant for anyone in particular.

Remarks have been made towards me by some of the "Pro-Divorce Society" that, in view of the fact that I am not married, I have no right to be concerned, I have no sensitivity or understanding of the problems that may come up in a marriage. I do know what marriage is, I do know who instituted it, and I do know what it's supposed to be!

I happen to come from a home where our parents were married for over 65 years. Such a marriage takes understanding, love and God! Does (or did) yours have that? Also in view of the fact that I don't have any children, should I have no right to care, to love children or be concerned for their feelings or future? It seems strange that such remarks would come from those who have been married numerous times and had no children! Where is their wisdom about children?

Yes, I do understand the above-mentioned issues. They are important to me. I base all my feelings on Scripture, I Corinthians, Chapter 7, and Malachi 2:16 (Living Bible). I suggest you read it; it may help you too.

Thank you,
Rubert L. Wolfgram

To The Editor:

This is a "first" for me, writing a letter to the editor of a newspaper, but I do want to take time out to express a heartfelt "Thank You" to whoever the person (or persons) was that was responsible for the excellent television coverage of the state high school hockey tournament in our area.

I think that too often we all have a tendency to just sit back and accept these things as they unfold in our lives without giving too much thought as to how they came about or who was really responsible for the fact that they did come about.

The tournament is history now and even though our representative did not win, the television coverage was, by far, the greatest and most professional that I have ever witnessed. I will add, too, that having just recently moved back into this area after living in the Metro area for 25 years, I have witnessed them all.

WCCO TV, to be sure, were the ones responsible for the quality of the television coverage but I am equally sure that they were not the ones responsible for bringing it into the living rooms of the hockey fans from Thief River Falls. Whoever that person (or persons) was, I would like to extend a sincere "Thank You". It was appreciated.

Klosterman Is Early Member Of MSU Group

Kurt Klosterman, son of Mrs. Ruth Klosterman of Thief River Falls and a senior at Moorhead state university, is a charter member of the newly formed MSU construction management society — a student chapter of the American institute of contractors.

Klosterman is a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school and is pursuing a major in construction management and minor in business management in studying toward a career in construction management.

Franklund, Graft Attend Sales Session

Larry Graft, Thief River Falls and Ray Franklund, Plummer, sales representatives of K & D Enterprises, recently attended a special sales workshop in Alexandria. The workshop was conducted by a grain drying equipment dealer and was offered as an on-going educational service.

Beich On SSU Honors List

Terry D. Beich, Thief River Falls, was honored for academic achievement at Southwest state university, Marshall, during the winter quarter.

Students gain the distinction by earning a 3.5 to 3.99 grade point average while carrying a minimum total course load of 12 completed credits with at least eight of those credits with A-N grades.

Crop Insurance Program Offers More Coverage

High yields and good records can pay off in increased crop insurance protection for many Northwest Minnesota farmers, according to Ray Eggleston, district director of federal crop insurance corporation.

Eggleston reports that a major change in the method of calculating insurance yield guarantee makes it possible for qualifying farmers to obtain additional coverage at no additional cost.

"Our goal is to offer each farmer a guaranteed yield that reflects his own yield experience. Thus, if a farmer can prove that his yields during the past three or more years have been above the average for his area, we'll also give him credit for above-average yields in any years for which he doesn't have the necessary records. Specifically, Eggleston explains, "we'll assume his yields in those years were above average by the same percentage as his recent yields."

The insurance official states that the improved individual yield coverage program, as it is called, will make Federal crop insurance policies significantly more attractive than in the past to those farmers who have a history of high yields. "The fact that there's no increase in cost for the increased protection should also provide an incentive to carry insurance," he adds.

The ASCS office in your county can provide interested farmers with information about the procedure for verifying above average yields. In addition, the ASCS office can provide a list of local private insurance agents who have obtained the required FCIC certification to sell and service Federal crop insurance policies.

For 1983, the individual yield coverage program is open to Northwest Minnesota farmers who produce wheat, barley, oats and sunflowers. Insurance agents can explain exactly what coverage is available and what the protection would cost. To make the insurance affordable as possible, the Federal government pays up to 30 per cent of the premium cost.

Chris Kays Cast As Lead In "Snoopy!"

Chris Kays, Thief River Falls, has been cast as Snoopy in the Moorhead state university (MSU) musical comedy "Snoopy!"

The new musical is based on Charles Schulz's famous comic strip, "Peanuts," and it has been selected as the final mainstage production of the current theatre season at MSU.

"Snoopy!" will premiere for six performances in the thrust stage theatre of the center for the arts on the MSU campus on two consecutive weekends, April 7, 8 and 9 and April 14, 15 and 16. All performances begin at 8:15 p.m.

Recently opened off-Broadway and still running, "Snoopy!" has been critically acclaimed as "a sparkling, captivating show which is even more artful and beguiling than its predecessor 'You're a Good Man Charlie Brown.' This time, however, the ubiquitous beagle from the Daisy hill puppy farm is the central focus of the production as his human friends, Charlie Brown and company view the world from the perspective of the little people."

Soil Erosion Concerns More U.S. People

More and more groups and individuals are becoming concerned about soil conservation and are joining with the soil conservation service in promoting programs to prevent erosion and other soil wasting practices.

Ralph Rundell, soil conservation technician for the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district, has been particularly concerned about wind erosion which is a major problem in northwestern Minnesota.

"In our area of northwestern Minnesota, there are quite a few of our soils that have a moderate to severe wind erosion hazard," Rundell said. "When these soils are left unprotected, they require a wind of only 10 to 15 miles per hour above the surface to cause erosion. We often have winds in excess of 10 miles per hour during the months of March, April and May before crops are grown enough to provide protection."

He adds that the American Farm Bureau federation has paid attention to wind erosion in its 1983 conservation tillage action plan. Goals of the program are to: (1) Reduce soil movement from sheet, rill and wind erosion; (2) improve farmincomethroughincreased use of conservation tillage practices; (3) enhance the image of farmers at all levels as being leaders in conservation tillage and concerned about soil resources; and (4) have a conservation tillage equipment loan, lease or rental demonstration program in operation during 1983 or planned for 1984 in every county that has more than 5,000 acres of row crops and small grains combined.

Practices that can be used alone or in combination to reduce wind erosion are listed by Rundell as follows:

Plant field windbreaks across the prevailing wind to reduce the distance or length of the field the wind can blow across;

Use crop residue management or conservation tillage, making fewer trips across the fields and keeping 25 per cent of the surface covered by crop residue;

Use rough tillage across the wind to provide surface irregularity and reduce wind velocity at the soil surface; and

Plant a cover crop in the fall to provide a growing crop which protects the soil surface.

Rundell points out that rough tillage usually means making the last trip across the field with a chisel plow or other tillage tool that leaves a definite ridge. These ridges should be in a northeast to southwest direction so as to be across the prevailing northwest wind in this area.

The SWCD technician also points out the Farm Bureau federation statement on conservation tillage. "Don't hesitate," the statement says, "the base of your livelihood is poised and ready to leave your farm if you don't act to gain some hands-on experience to help yourself and your neighbors learn how to keep more soil and profits at home."

"That's a vital statement," Rundell added. "We all need to take a look at how we are treating our soil because it is the basis of this country's future."

Community Band Concert At Crookston

Band concert will be presented by the UMC community band at 8 p.m. Monday, March 28, in Kiehle auditorium at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC). Traditional band music from marches to Broadway show tunes will be played by the 25 member band under the direction of George French, UMC music director.

Public is invited, and there is no charge. Refreshments will follow the concert.

February Milk Production Up From Last Year

February milk production totaled 859 million pounds in Minnesota, up two per cent from the 842 million pounds for February of 1982. Production per cow averaged 965 pounds, up 40 pounds from a year earlier. Total milk cows averaged 890,000 head, down 20,000 since last year.

U.S. milk production during February of 1983 totaled 10.6 billion pounds, two per cent more than February of 1982 and five per cent above February of 1981.

February production per cow averaged 962/pounds, 19 pounds above a year earlier and 28 pounds above February of 1981. Total milk cows averaged 11.1 million head, up fractionally from a year earlier and two per cent more than February of 1981.

LOL Chairman Stresses Unity For Farmers

"There is a serious need for greater unity within and among farmer cooperatives and farm organizations if American agriculture's position is to be strengthened nationally and internationally," according to Claire Sandness, chairman of the board of Land O'Lakes, Inc., Arden Hills.

Speaking at the Land O'Lakes annual meeting in Minneapolis, Sandness said, "Pretty rivalries, selfishness, provincialism, misplaced pride and other human shortcomings are roadblocks to true unity."

Sandness noted that farming involves many different interests and therefore the farmers' voice is often the voice of discord. "The discord," he said, "is confusing to all who hear us, especially to the people in Washington and other centers of government."

The initial focus in bringing farm groups together should be directed toward more positive attitudes regarding unity, according to Sandness. "We must build bridges and repair roads with tools that never become dull or obsoltete — mutual trust, helpfulness and cooperation," he said.

"Farmers and their cooperatives do have a commonality and unity of purpose that comfortably bridges any differences and any competitiveness that may exist," he said. "Through coalitions and joint committees and through organizations such as the national council of farmer cooperatives and the national milk producers federation, our many different voices can be brought together so that we speak in unison on legislative issues that are important to all of us."

Turning to international involvement, Sandness said that Land O'Lakes made significant progress last year, citing the following activities:

+ Formation of a joint venture company with the Jamaica livestock association for the purpose of building and operating a feed manufacturing plant in Jamaica,

+ Addition to the cooperative's sales staff in London, England,

+ Completion of arrangements in Egypt for a joint venture dairy operation financed by the Egyptians,

+ Establishment of a relationship with cooperatives in Korea and Colombia,

+ Investigation of technical assistance opportunities through management contracts in Tunisia and several other countries.

Cooperative leader noted that Land O'Lakes is building an international presence in the Pacific and Caribbean basins, Europe, Africa, South America, Central America and other areas as well. "The future growth of our nation, and particularly that of our farmers and their cooperatives," he said, "is highly dependent on our commercial involvement overseas. Land O'Lakes is positioning itself for full participation in overseas markets that heretofore did not exist or that were inaccessible to our farmer-owners," Sandness said.

Fisher Enrolls At Local AVTI

According to information received from the admissions office of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, Molly Fisher has been accepted for admission in the sales, marketing and management program beginning August 22.

She will be a 1983 graduate of Lincoln high school and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fisher of Thief River Falls.

Minnesota State High School League is scheduled to address the question of realignment of the two-class system, and among the changes, East Grand Forks and Crookston are expected to be shifted from Class AA to Class A status, leaving Thief River Falls as the only Class AA school in northwestern Minnesota.

Lincoln high school principal Frank Hamerlinck addressed the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club Thursday and discussed the situation that would isolate the Prowlers in such sports as basketball, baseball, tennis and golf.

Currently the MSHSL calls for eight regions of 16 schools, or a total of 128 schools, to compete in Class AA. The rest are Class A. Under a new proposal, though, the Class A-AA line-up will be based upon enrollment figures instead of a set number of schools. And that enrollment figure cut-off is expected to be 500 for grades 9-10-11.

There is also some talk concerning the implementation of a three-class plan — AA, A and B. Those figures would likely have schools with 800 or more students in Class AA; schools with between 250 to 799 students in Class A; and schools with less than 250 students in Class B. Thief River Falls would obviously benefit the most from a three-class plan. However, revision of the two-class format is expected to be favored over the three-class idea.

Football would still be played in five classes — AA, A, B, C and Nine-Man.

Minnesota operated under a one-class format until the 1970-71 school year when the largest 64 schools were placed in Class AA and the rest were in Class A. That was expanded to 128 in the 1975-76 school year. Now there is some thought, too into once again going back to that 64 figure.

Peterson Has Narrow Misses

Larry Peterson, the Lincoln high school graduate whose coaching helped turn losing high school basketball programs into winners, first at Roseau and now at Appleton, directed his Aces into the District 11 championship game for the third straight year last week only to fail again by the narrowest margin in a bid for a berth in the Region 3A tournament.

Ortonville edged Appleton 45-44 in the 1983 District 11 finals. A year earlier the Trojans got by the Aces 47-44 in overtime, with Ortonville moving on to the Minnesota Class A state tournament. Peterson's three losses in the last three District 11 finals have been by a combined total of five points.

It was a particularly frustrating loss this time around. The two teams shared the regular season Little Sioux Conference title by splitting home-and-home decisions. The Trojans won the District 11 showdown by hitting a basket with eight seconds left. Appleton still had a chance to tie or win it with a free throw opportunity with one second left, but missed the front end of the 1-1 situation. That was just part of a head-shaking 8-for-24 night at the line for the losers.

Miscellaneous

+ Steve Olson of Thief River Falls, a freshman defenseman on the St. Thomas College hockey team this winter, was named as an MIAC honorable mention all-conference selection. First-year St. Thomas coach Terry Abram, the former Roseau high school mentor, was named MIAC coach of the year for 1982-83 after guiding the Toms to their first conference hockey title since 1974 with a 14-2 mark, 19-9 overall.

+ When St. Cloud Tech upset top-seeded Little Falls 46-44 in eight overtimes in the South Half Region 8AA basketball tournament earlier this month at Halenback Hall on the St. Cloud State University campus, it marked the longest game in the history of Minnesota high school basketball, according to Larry Larson, director of information and publications for the Minnesota State High School League. The Marathon struggle lasted two hours, 47 minutes.

+ Andy Odegaard and David Larson, both juniors from Roseau, were elected co-captains of the 1983-84 Concordia College hockey team. Odegaard was voted the most valuable player for the Cobbers this past season and the leading goal-scorer in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic conference was an all-MIAC selection.

+ Freshman left-hander Bryan Hickerson of Bemidji, a very familiar name to Thief River Falls baseball followers the past few years, is scheduled to make his college baseball debut Tuesday when he'll be the University of Minnesota starting pitcher against Texas A&M at Houston. The Gophers opened a scheduled 12-game, seven-day southern baseball swing to start the 1983 season Saturday.

Northland Hockey Program Able To Continue Its Winning Ways

In 1981-82 the Northland community college hockey team snapped a string of eight consecutive losing seasons when the Tom Goddard-coached Northmen finished 11-10-3 overall.

This year, with a new coach and an almost entirely new roster, Northland was able to avoid a losing record with a 10-10 finish under Tony Dorn, Jr.

That was only the fourth non-losing season in 13 years of intercollegiate hockey for the Northmen. And those success stories came in exactly a ten-year interval as Northland went 13-11 and 14-9-1 in back-to-back campaigns under Swede Lund in 1971-72 and 1972-73.

Northland was 10-8 during the Minnesota Community College Conference regular season schedule, a third place MCCC finisher. In state tournament play the Northmen dropped to .500 overall with losses to Rochester 5-2 and Rainy River 4-2.

"I'm pleased we had a winning record, but I'm not completely satisfied," reported Dorn. "Overall, though, the kids played well. They improved as the year went along. I think we had a pretty good year."

Only four sophomores who played regularly were on hand from a year ago when Dorn took over as coach — forwards Murray Jorde (TRF), Todd Gregoire (EGF) and Tony Loeffler (TRF), along with defenseman Keith Huerd (Warroad). Goalie Greg Harder (TRF) played as a back-up, with defenseman Trent Peabody (EGF) seeing spot duty.

The others were freshmen, including Tom Ose, Todd Bergland, Jim Dillon and Jeff Imgrund of Thief River Falls; Bill Bye, Bob Rockwood, Ladd Bjugson, Scott Trana, Tom Raymond and Todd Graalum, all from Fargo North; plus Vic Evavold and Scott Steinbach of Fergus Falls.

All those freshmen are expected to be on hand in 1983-84, making Dorn's job a lot simplier the second time around.

"This was definitely a learning experience for me," acknowledged Dorn after his first shot at coaching. "It was a very enjoyable season because of the quality of people I worked with both off the ice and on the ice. I think the program is coming around. We should have a tremendous nucleus to work with next year. We're just a forward and two defensemen away from being a real good hockey team. I hope the area (high school) seniors will give us a look."

During the course of the 1982-83 regular season the Northmen began the season with five wins in seven starts. Then came a frustrating five-game, mid-season losing streak that dropped the Northmen below .500 for the year, but they rebounded to win five of their final six starts to make the MCCC state tournament field as the No. 3-seeded team.

Regular season wins came against Rainy River 5-4 (ot), 7-4; Hibbing 6-5, 9-5; Mesabi 6-3, 10-9 (ot), 3-0, 9-5; University of Minnesota-Crookston 6-4; and Rochester 6-4.

Losses came at the hands of Rainy River 6-5, 4-3; UMC 7-6 (ot), 9-3, 8-3; Hibbing 15-2, 5-2; and Rochester 7-6 (ot).

Two Northmen Are All-Region Hockey Picks

Gregoire led the Northmen in scoring this winter, collecting 17 goals and 24 assists for 41 points in 20 games. Bye worked 13½ games in the Northland nets, kicking out 462 shots and finishing with a 6.3 goals-against average.

Rest of the All-Region 13 selections were from NSDU-Bottineau — Barry Martin, defense; Mesabi — Greg Hyppa, forward; Hibbing — Scott Bellefy, forward; Rochester — Brad Johnson, forward, Paul Flynn, goalie; Rainy River — Gerald Bolstad, forward, Dean Armstrong, forward; University of Minnesota-Crookston — Erick Grafstrom, forward, Dan Hoff, forward, and Jeff Strandell, forward.

Jim Clauson of UMC was named Region 13 coach-of-the-year.

FRESHMAN FORWARD Jeff Larson of Tri-County put up this shot against Littlefork-Big Falls Friday in the Region 8A high school basketball tournament semifinals played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Watching him on the play were Duane Burmeister (40), Jack Larson (10) and Jon Anderson (32) of the Vikings. Larson scored 11 points, but Burmeister and Anderson had 21 apiece to lead Littlefork-Big Falls to a 69-56 victory over Tri-County. The Vikings added a 65-64 win over Ada in Saturday's finals in five overtimes.

Region Titles Won By Vikings, Tigers

Littlefork-Big Falls and St. Cloud Tech will be representing Region 8A and 8AA respectively, this week at the 1983 Minnesota state high school basketball tournament.

St. Cloud Tech repeated as Region 8AA champion Saturday with a 46-39 victory over Detroit Lakes at Concordia college in Moorhead. Tech was the South Half Region 8AA winner and Detroit Lakes was the North Half Region 8AA champion.

The Tigers will face Coon Rapids Thursday at 9 p.m. in opening round Class AA state tournament play at the St. Paul Civic Center. Coon Rapids defeated Forest Lake 56-37 in the Region 4AA finals last week.

Region 8A tournament was played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. In Friday's semifinals before an overflow crowd, District 29 champion Littlefork-Big Falls knocked off District 32 winner Tri-County of Karlstad 69-56 and District 30 representative Ada downed defending Region 8A champion Argyle of District 32 by a 54-45 score.

Saturday's match-ups produced a couple of close basketball games as Littlefork-Big Falls outlasted Ada 65-64 for the title in five overtimes while Tri-County shaded Argyle 66-63 for third place in two overtimes.

Littlefork-Big Falls, whose only previous state tournament appearances came in back-to-back trips in 1972 and 1973, will meet Clara City Thursday in the 1:15 p.m. Class A state tournament opener at Williams Arena on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis. Clara City edged Belview 49-47 for the Region 3A title last week.

Former Prowlers Play For Eagles

A pair of Lincoln high school graduates — Steve Enderlein and Ann Goodrich — were members of the men's and women's basketball teams, respectively, at Northwestern College in the Twin Cities suburb of Roseville this winter.

Enderlein and the men's team just returned from the National Christian College tournament at Springfield, Mo. where the Eagles lost to Baptist Bible College of Arlington, Texas 63-61 in overtime in the finals.

A reserve guard, Enderlein was a key figure when the Eagles would often go into their late-game ball-control offense, according to school officials. In the national tournament semifinals against Central Bible of Springfield, Mo., Enderlein came up with a stellar performance that saw him hit 10 of 11 free throws to insure a 75-66 Northwestern victory to move the Eagles into the finals. They finished the year 22-10.

Steve was a WCCO radio all-state basketball player for the Prowlers as a senior in 1978-79.

Goodrich completed her second year as a member of the Northwestern women's team this winter.

The 5-5 sophomore guard held down a starting position for the Eagles the entire 1982-83 season, finishing as the team's third leading scorer with 170 points to go along with 100 rebounds.

DNR NEWS

DNR Arrests

Personnel of the Department of Natural Resources made 10,604 arrests last year for violations of the state's conservation laws.

Except for 232 arrests made by employees of the divisions of parks and wildlife, all of the arrests were made by DNR Conservation officers.

Arrests resulted in 10,314 convictions in court. Only 2.4 per cent of the cases were dismissed.

Fishing violations led the list of arrest categories with 4,408. Arrests for hunting violations totaled 1,760 and there were 1,513 for violating the state's watercraft laws.

Illegal transportation of a firearm or bow and arrow resulted in 991 arrests and 722 snowmobilers were arrested during the year.

In addition to arrests made by DNR personnel, arrests by county sheriffs resulted in 167 convictions for watercraft violations and four for snowmobile infractions.

Violations of Minnesota's trespassing laws resulted in 41 arrests and 22 hunters were arrested for failing to use steel shot in areas where it is required by law.

Abuse of various other conservation laws accounted for the balance of arrests during the year.

Illegal Deer Kills

Number of deer taken illegally in Minnesota in 1982 nearly doubled the figure of the previous year, according to a report issued by the Department of Natural Resources.

Figure for deer confiscated by the DNR Enforcement Division after being "illegally taken, shined or poached" last year reached 815 compared to 489 the previous year.

Also showing a sharp increase was the number of deer listed as being killed by dogs or wolves. The figure for 1982 is 270 compared to 59 for 1981. However, the 1981 figure only included dog kills with no figure given for those taken by wolves.

Number of deer killed in auto collisions dropped slightly in 1982 — 11,471 compared to 11,749 the previous year.

There were also 65 moose killed by autos last year, down slightly from a figure of 72 in 1981.

Number of bear confiscated last year as a result of auto accidents and other causes dropped to 175 compared to 320 in 1981.

DNR Burning Permit Procedure Is Initiated In NW Minnesota

Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry, will initiate a new burning permit procedure, according to area forest supervisor Robert Wennerstrand of Warroad. The new procedure is designed to better faciliate issurance of burning permits for the purpose of field burning.

Regular permits, issued for burning of vegetative materials, are valid for a three-day period with burning allowed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. These permits are available from township fire wardens and forestry offices. A special permit can be issued by Forestry personnel for 24-hour burning and can also be written for several days duration. This special permit is designed primarily for burning of dozed windrows or other land clearing situations.

New procedure will enable residents to obtain a permit up to 30 days in advance from a township fire warden. However, like the special permit, this can also be written for day time burning. In order to validate this permit, the permittee must call the Forestry office listed on the permit, prior to burning, on the day(s) you wished to burn. This permit will be restricted to burning of straw (when spread out in a field), stubble, bluegrass, etc. No permits will be issued for fuels that are expected to burn longer than four hours.

A typical situation where this new procedure can be used is as follows: John Doe has a bluegrass field that he expects to harvest during the second week of July. Knowing that he would like to burn the field as soon after harvest as possible, John obtains a burning permit from the nearest township fire warden. John picks the permit up on July 7 and requests it be written for 30 days. On July 13, John is nearly finished with the harvest and calls the Forestry office listed on his permit to notify them of his intention to burn. The forester will check his list, which he received from the township fire warden, and finding John's name, will tell him to go ahead. John's permit is now legal and he can accomplish his burning without the last minute struggle to obtain a burning permit as was frequently encountered in the past.

The new agricultural burning permit is available in extreme northwestern Minnesota — Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington and that part of Beltrami county lying north of the Red Lake Indian Reservation comprise the area of availability.

Most agricultural burning has not caused a problem with fire control in the past, it does, however, require that Forestry personnel devote time and attention to confirm the safety of the fire. This may distract their attention from a potentially dangerous situation. State law requires that all persons engaged in outdoor burning obtain a written burning permit prior to burning and keep the permit on their person while burning. All unauthorized burning is a misdemeanor and will result in a court appearance for persons in violation.

Hopefully, through the use of this new procedure the farmers in northwestern Minnesota will be able to burn legally and with much less time constraint than in the past. Likewise, the Division of Forestry's fire-fighting forces will be able to key their attention to those situations where problems may occur. Anyone having questions concerning this new procedure or any burning regulations are encouraged to contact the nearest Forestry office.

ADA SENIOR Marty Kappes went to the basket Friday against Argyle in the Region 8A high school basketball tournament semifinals played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Shawn Hunstad (45) and David Dufault (right) couldn't stop Kappes on the play. Kappes was the game's leading scorer with 16 points as the Vikings defeated the defending champion Eagles 54-45. Ada's state tournament dreams came up short Saturday in the finals, though, when Littlefork-Big Falls won 65-64 in five overtimes.

National Wildlife Federation News Release

S. David Freeman, Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and U.S. Senator Dale Bumpers of Arkansas have been selected to receive the top conservation awards given by the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest citizen conservation organization.

Freeman will be presented the "Conservationist of the Year" award and Bumpers will receive the "Legislator of the Year" honor at the Federation's 47th annual meeting, March 17-20 in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Actor and conservationist Lorne Greene, a popular television star and host of a new conservation series, "The New Wilderness," will serve as master of ceremonies at the awards banquet at Albuquerque's Convention Center on Saturday, March 19.

Other award winners are "Communicator of the Year: Lawrence Mosher, National Journal; "Educator of the Year": Dr. Eugene P. Odum, University of Georgia; "International Award": Dr. Salim Abdul Ali, Bombay, India; special awards: Governor Bruce Babbit of Arizona; Dr. Joseph J. Hickey, University of Wisconsin; Robert L. Morris, Transportation Attorney, Potomac, Md.; Remington Farms wildlife management demonstration area, Chestertown, Maryland; Pennzoil Company, Houston, Texas; Senator John W. Vogt, Florida State Senate; Representative Henry Waxman, U.S. House of Representatives; John G. Wellman, Johnsonville, S.C. and "Outstanding Federation Affiliate": National Resources Council of Maine.

"The distinguished people being honored with our awards have shown outstanding leadership in the conservation field," said Jay D. Hair, Executive Vice Presideent of the National Wildlife Federation. "Their work is being accomplished from Bombay, India, to the Tennessee Valley and states in every region of the country. In state legislatures, courtrooms, and the U.S. Senate, important decisions are being influenced by the dedication of those the Federation is proud to honor."

At the National Wildlife Federation's annual meeting, delegates of the Federation's affiliates in all 50 states and three territories meet to adopt resolutions setting the Federation's conservation policy for the upcoming year.

The theme of this year's National Wildlife Week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, is "This Is Your Land: Public Lands Belong to All of Us," which will also be the theme of the annual meeting.

Master of Ceremonies Lorne Greene was Chairman of National Wildlife Week in 1975, when the theme was "We Care About Wildlife Habitat."

National Wildlife Federation conservation award winners:

"Conservationist of the Year": Under the direction of Chairman S. David Freeman, the Tennessee Valley Authority has been transformed to a utility that now boasts unique achievements in natural resources conservation and environmental protection. He has brought the TVA back to its roots, working with the people of the valley to improve their environment and economic well-being.

"Legislator of the Year": Senator Dale Bumpers of Arkansas has promoted responsible resource stewardship by land managers, public and private. He was responsible for a law which reduces the risk that important environmental values will be jeopardized by the hasty sale of public lands, and has been a leader in restoring funds for energy conservation and the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

"Communicator of the Year": Lawrence Mosher of the "National Journal" has illuminated the environmental policy changes of the Reagan Administration with an exceptional insight and analysis that make his reporting an effective, influential and significant voice. He has written about topics ranging from acid rain and vanishing wetlands, to the effects of federal water policy on the Southwest.

"Educator of the Year": Teaching the "ecosystem" approach to our environment was pioneered by Dr. Eugene Odum in his textbooks "Ecology" and "Fundamentals of Ecology", which continues to be the most widely used guide to ecological principles for both students and concerned citizens.

"International Award": Under the leadership of Dr. Salim Ali, the Bombay Natural History Society in India has grown substantially, become a home for the dedicated scientists of that country, and sustained its commitment to conservation education and wildlife research.

"Special award": Governor Bruce Babbitt of Arizona has been responsible for a code which allows continued development while preserving groundwater reserves, and a program to allow development of certain lands while maintaining the natural integrity of others.

"Special award": It was the research of Dr. Joseph Hickey that helped force the national ban on DDT — a pesticide that was wiping out the bald eagle and the peregrine falcon. He has also written "A Guide to Bird Watching" and a book on waterfowl banding analysis.

"Special award": With expert testimony and free legal assistance, Robert Morris has led the revolution in national transportation policy away from new construction to a focus on improvements that promote conservation of cities and the environment.

"Special award": The Pennzoil Company donated 100,000 acres of its famous Vermejo Park Ranch to the U.S. Forest Service — the largest and most valuable gift of private land ever presented to the people of the United States.

"Special award": Remington farms wildlife management demonstration area in Maryland carries out an excellent habitat improvement program, a cooperative education program, and an annual national hunting and fishing day for about 1,500 people.

"Special award": Florida State Senator John Vogt has provided the leadership for the passage of the conservation and recreation lands act and the save our rivers act, both of which provide funds to protect and preserve Florida's remaining natural areas, wildlife habitat, and recreational areas for present and future generations.

Sportshow Is Scheduled To Start Mar. 25

Fifty-one years ago a dream became a reality that was to revolutionize the entertainment and sporting words when the Northwest Sportshow opened its doors for the first time in the spring of 1933.

That same Sportshow, bigger and better than ever, opens for a ten-day run March 25 through April 3 at the Minneapolis Auditiroium.

This year's 51st annual Northwest Sportshow opens at 6 p.m. with the largest display of fishing tackle and equipment in the history of the show. Four floors of the Auditorium will be packed with the newest in fishing and sporting products and equipment, recreational vehicles, camping gear and a preview of the 1983 line of boats and marine accessories from all the major manufacturers and midwest dealers. Over 200 travel and vacation booths representing nine states, six Canadian provinces and the Northwest Territories will feature the latest information on lodging and accommodations for anyone planning a camping, fishing or family vacation nationally as well as in their own back yards.

Opening night the first 2,000 children accompanied by a paying adult will receive a free tackle box filled with soft drinks. That same evening will feature a one-hour fishing seminar entitled "Basic Pan Fishing" with professional fisherman Tom Zenanko at 7 p.m. in the Auditorium arena. Additional fishing seminars will be held Monday, March 28 through Thursday, March 31 at the same time. Scheduled topics are: Monday, Muskie Madness; Tuesday, Fishing the Great Lakes; Wednesday, Northern and Northern Pike Fishing; and Thursday, Walleye and Walleye Fishing.

Included in the price of admission is an all new stage show that the whole family will enjoy. The one-hour variety show offers comedy impersonations, two world-wide thrill acts, Sparky the Seal, a high-riding unicycle act, a comedy diving routine and upland and water retrieving by trained sporting dogs.

Special added features of the Sportshow this year include the Birds of Prey, a stunning exhibit of live eagles, hawks, owls and falcons with lectures and demonstrations by owner and trainer, Ryan Walden. Other features include the Catch 'Em and Keep 'Em live trout pond, ecology and environmental exhibits, the Minnesota Taxidermy guild, an archery range and dog obedience training demonstrations.

This year the Sportshow will again honor outstanding individuals for their contributions toward conservation and sportsmanship. Awards for the outstanding champion farmer-sportsman, builder of youth, Frank Blair junior conservationist and outstanding editorial-conservationist will be made throughout the ten-day run of the show.

Sportshow hours are 6-11 p.m. opening night, Friday, March 25; 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Saturday, March 26 and April 2; noon - 7 p.m. Sunday, March 27 and April 3; 1 p.m. - 11 p.m. weekdays, Monday, March 28 through Friday, April 1. Stage show hours are 9:30 p.m. opening night; 3:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 3:30 and 6 p.m. Sundays.

Admission to all exhibits, special features and the stage show is a one time charge at the door of $4 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Tickets are available only at the Auditorium ticket office during regular show hours.

Minnesota State High School League is scheduled to address the question of realignment of the two-class system, and among the changes, East Grand Forks and Crookston are expected to be shifted from Class AA to Class A status, leaving Thief River Falls as the only Class AA school in northwestern Minnesota.

Lincoln high school principal Frank Hamerlinck addressed the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club Thursday and discussed the situation that would isolate the Prowlers in such sports as basketball, baseball, tennis and golf.

Currently the MSHSL calls for eight regions of 16 schools, or a total of 128 schools, to compete in Class AA. The rest are Class A. Under a new proposal, though, the Class A-AA line-up will be based upon enrollment figures instead of a set number of schools. And that enrollment figure cut-off is expected to be 500 for grades 9-10-11.

There is also some talk concerning the implementation of a three-class plan — AA, A and B. Those figures would likely have schools with 800 or more students in Class AA; schools with between 250 to 799 students in Class A; and schools with less than 250 students in Class B. Thief River Falls would obviously benefit the most from a three-class plan. However, revision of the two-class format is expected to be favored over the three-class idea.

Football would still be played in five classes — AA, A, B, C and Nine-Man.

Minnesota operated under a one-class format until the 1970-71 school year when the largest 64 schools were placed in Class AA and the rest were in Class A. That was expanded to 128 in the 1975-76 school year. Now there is some thought, too into once again going back to that 64 figure.

Peterson Has Narrow Misses

Larry Peterson, the Lincoln high school graduate whose coaching helped turn losing high school basketball programs into winners, first at Roseau and now at Appleton, directed his Aces into the District 11 championship game for the third straight year last week only to fail again by the narrowest margin in a bid for a berth in the Region 3A tournament.

Ortonville edged Appleton 45-44 in the 1983 District 11 finals. A year earlier the Trojans got by the Aces 47-44 in overtime, with Ortonville moving on to the Minnesota Class A state tournament. Peterson's three losses in the last three District 11 finals have been by a combined total of five points.

It was a particularly frustrating loss this time around. The two teams shared the regular season Little Sioux Conference title by splitting home-and-home decisions. The Trojans won the District 11 showdown by hitting a basket with eight seconds left. Appleton still had a chance to tie or win it with a free throw opportunity with one second left, but missed the front end of the 1-1 situation. That was just part of a head-shaking 8-for-24 night at the line for the losers.

Miscellaneous

+ Steve Olson of Thief River Falls, a freshman defenseman on the St. Thomas College hockey team this winter, was named as an MIAC honorable mention all-conference selection. First-year St. Thomas coach Terry Abram, the former Roseau high school mentor, was named MIAC coach of the year for 1982-83 after guiding the Toms to their first conference hockey title since 1974 with a 14-2 mark, 19-9 overall.

+ When St. Cloud Tech upset top-seeded Little Falls 46-44 in eight overtimes in the South Half Region 8AA basketball tournament earlier this month at Halenback Hall on the St. Cloud State University campus, it marked the longest game in the history of Minnesota high school basketball, according to Larry Larson, director of information and publications for the Minnesota State High School League. The Marathon struggle lasted two hours, 47 minutes.

+ Andy Odegaard and David Larson, both juniors from Roseau, were elected co-captains of the 1983-84 Concordia College hockey team. Odegaard was voted the most valuable player for the Cobbers this past season and the leading goal-scorer in the Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic conference was an all-MIAC selection.

+ Freshman left-hander Bryan Hickerson of Bemidji, a very familiar name to Thief River Falls baseball followers the past few years, is scheduled to make his college baseball debut Tuesday when he'll be the University of Minnesota starting pitcher against Texas A&M at Houston. The Gophers opened a scheduled 12-game, seven-day southern baseball swing to start the 1983 season Saturday.

Northland Hockey Program Able To Continue Its Winning Ways

In 1981-82 the Northland community college hockey team snapped a string of eight consecutive losing seasons when the Tom Goddard-coached Northmen finished 11-10-3 overall.

This year, with a new coach and an almost entirely new roster, Northland was able to avoid a losing record with a 10-10 finish under Tony Dorn, Jr.

That was only the fourth non-losing season in 13 years of intercollegiate hockey for the Northmen. And those success stories came in exactly a ten-year interval as Northland went 13-11 and 14-9-1 in back-to-back campaigns under Swede Lund in 1971-72 and 1972-73.

Northland was 10-8 during the Minnesota Community College Conference regular season schedule, a third place MCCC finisher. In state tournament play the Northmen dropped to .500 overall with losses to Rochester 5-2 and Rainy River 4-2.

"I'm pleased we had a winning record, but I'm not completely satisfied," reported Dorn. "Overall, though, the kids played well. They improved as the year went along. I think we had a pretty good year."

Only four sophomores who played regularly were on hand from a year ago when Dorn took over as coach — forwards Murray Jorde (TRF), Todd Gregoire (EGF) and Tony Loeffler (TRF), along with defenseman Keith Huerd (Warroad). Goalie Greg Harder (TRF) played as a back-up, with defenseman Trent Peabody (EGF) seeing spot duty.

The others were freshmen, including Tom Ose, Todd Bergland, Jim Dillon and Jeff Imgrund of Thief River Falls; Bill Bye, Bob Rockwood, Ladd Bjugson, Scott Trana, Tom Raymond and Todd Graalum, all from Fargo North; plus Vic Evavold and Scott Steinbach of Fergus Falls.

All those freshmen are expected to be on hand in 1983-84, making Dorn's job a lot simplier the second time around.

"This was definitely a learning experience for me," acknowledged Dorn after his first shot at coaching. "It was a very enjoyable season because of the quality of people I worked with both off the ice and on the ice. I think the program is coming around. We should have a tremendous nucleus to work with next year. We're just a forward and two defensemen away from being a real good hockey team. I hope the area (high school) seniors will give us a look."

During the course of the 1982-83 regular season the Northmen began the season with five wins in seven starts. Then came a frustrating five-game, mid-season losing streak that dropped the Northmen below .500 for the year, but they rebounded to win five of their final six starts to make the MCCC state tournament field as the No. 3-seeded team.

Regular season wins came against Rainy River 5-4 (ot), 7-4; Hibbing 6-5, 9-5; Mesabi 6-3, 10-9 (ot), 3-0, 9-5; University of Minnesota-Crookston 6-4; and Rochester 6-4.

Losses came at the hands of Rainy River 6-5, 4-3; UMC 7-6 (ot), 9-3, 8-3; Hibbing 15-2, 5-2; and Rochester 7-6 (ot).

Two Northmen Are All-Region Hockey Picks

Gregoire led the Northmen in scoring this winter, collecting 17 goals and 24 assists for 41 points in 20 games. Bye worked 13½ games in the Northland nets, kicking out 462 shots and finishing with a 6.3 goals-against average.

Rest of the All-Region 13 selections were from NSDU-Bottineau — Barry Martin, defense; Mesabi — Greg Hyppa, forward; Hibbing — Scott Bellefy, forward; Rochester — Brad Johnson, forward, Paul Flynn, goalie; Rainy River — Gerald Bolstad, forward, Dean Armstrong, forward; University of Minnesota-Crookston — Erick Grafstrom, forward, Dan Hoff, forward, and Jeff Strandell, forward.

Jim Clauson of UMC was named Region 13 coach-of-the-year.

Region Titles Won By Vikings, Tigers

Littlefork-Big Falls and St. Cloud Tech will be representing Region 8A and 8AA respectively, this week at the 1983 Minnesota state high school basketball tournament.

St. Cloud Tech repeated as Region 8AA champion Saturday with a 46-39 victory over Detroit Lakes at Concordia college in Moorhead. Tech was the South Half Region 8AA winner and Detroit Lakes was the North Half Region 8AA champion.

The Tigers will face Coon Rapids Thursday at 9 p.m. in opening round Class AA state tournament play at the St. Paul Civic Center. Coon Rapids defeated Forest Lake 56-37 in the Region 4AA finals last week.

Region 8A tournament was played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. In Friday's semifinals before an overflow crowd, District 29 champion Littlefork-Big Falls knocked off District 32 winner Tri-County of Karlstad 69-56 and District 30 representative Ada downed defending Region 8A champion Argyle of District 32 by a 54-45 score.

Saturday's match-ups produced a couple of close basketball games as Littlefork-Big Falls outlasted Ada 65-64 for the title in five overtimes while Tri-County shaded Argyle 66-63 for third place in two overtimes.

Littlefork-Big Falls, whose only previous state tournament appearances came in back-to-back trips in 1972 and 1973, will meet Clara City Thursday in the 1:15 p.m. Class A state tournament opener at Williams Arena on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis. Clara City edged Belview 49-47 for the Region 3A title last week.

Steve Enderlein

Ann Goodrich

Enderlein, Goodrich . . .

Former Prowlers Play For Eagles

A pair of Lincoln high school graduates — Steve Enderlein and Ann Goodrich — were members of the men's and women's basketball teams, respectively, at Northwestern College in the Twin Cities suburb of Roseville this winter.

Enderlein and the men's team just returned from the National Christian College tournament at Springfield, Mo. where the Eagles lost to Baptist Bible College of Arlington, Texas 63-61 in overtime in the finals.

A reserve guard, Enderlein was a key figure when the Eagles would often go into their late-game ball-control offense, according to school officials. In the national tournament semifinals against Central Bible of Springfield, Mo., Enderlein came up with a stellar performance that saw him hit 10 of 11 free throws to insure a 75-66 Northwestern victory to move the Eagles into the finals. They finished the year 22-10.

Steve was a WCCO radio all-state basketball player for the Prowlers as a senior in 1978-79.

Goodrich completed her second year as a member of the Northwestern women's team this winter.

The 5-5 sophomore guard held down a starting position for the Eagles the entire 1982-83 season, finishing as the team's third leading scorer with 170 points to go along with 100 rebounds.

DNR NEWS

DNR Arrests

Personnel of the Department of Natural Resources made 10,604 arrests last year for violations of the state's conservation laws.

Except for 232 arrests made by employees of the divisions of parks and wildlife, all of the arrests were made by DNR Conservation officers.

Arrests resulted in 10,314 convictions in court. Only 2.4 per cent of the cases were dismissed.

Fishing violations led the list of arrest categories with 4,408. Arrests for hunting violations totaled 1,760 and there were 1,513 for violating the state's watercraft laws.

Illegal transportation of a firearm or bow and arrow resulted in 991 arrests and 722 snowmobilers were arrested during the year.

In addition to arrests made by DNR personnel, arrests by county sheriffs resulted in 167 convictions for watercraft violations and four for snowmobile infractions.

Violations of Minnesota's trespassing laws resulted in 41 arrests and 22 hunters were arrested for failing to use steel shot in areas where it is required by law.

Abuse of various other conservation laws accounted for the balance of arrests during the year.

Illegal Deer Kills

Number of deer taken illegally in Minnesota in 1982 nearly doubled the figure of the previous year, according to a report issued by the Department of Natural Resources.

Figure for deer confiscated by the DNR Enforcement Division after being "illegally taken, shined or poached" last year reached 815 compared to 489 the previous year.

Also showing a sharp increase was the number of deer listed as being killed by dogs or wolves. The figure for 1982 is 270 compared to 59 for 1981. However, the 1981 figure only included dog kills with no figure given for those taken by wolves.

Number of deer killed in auto collisions dropped slightly in 1982 — 11,471 compared to 11,749 the previous year.

There were also 65 moose killed by autos last year, down slightly from a figure of 72 in 1981.

Number of bear confiscated last year as a result of auto accidents and other causes dropped to 175 compared to 320 in 1981.

DNR Burning Permit Procedure Is Initiated In NW Minnesota

Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry, will initiate a new burning permit procedure, according to area forest supervisor Robert Wennerstrand of Warroad. The new procedure is designed to better faciliate issurance of burning permits for the purpose of field burning.

Regular permits, issued for burning of vegetative materials, are valid for a three-day period with burning allowed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. These permits are available from township fire wardens and forestry offices. A special permit can be issued by Forestry personnel for 24-hour burning and can also be written for several days duration. This special permit is designed primarily for burning of dozed windrows or other land clearing situations.

New procedure will enable residents to obtain a permit up to 30 days in advance from a township fire warden. However, like the special permit, this can also be written for day time burning. In order to validate this permit, the permittee must call the Forestry office listed on the permit, prior to burning, on the day(s) you wished to burn. This permit will be restricted to burning of straw (when spread out in a field), stubble, bluegrass, etc. No permits will be issued for fuels that are expected to burn longer than four hours.

A typical situation where this new procedure can be used is as follows: John Doe has a bluegrass field that he expects to harvest during the second week of July. Knowing that he would like to burn the field as soon after harvest as possible, John obtains a burning permit from the nearest township fire warden. John picks the permit up on July 7 and requests it be written for 30 days. On July 13, John is nearly finished with the harvest and calls the Forestry office listed on his permit to notify them of his intention to burn. The forester will check his list, which he received from the township fire warden, and finding John's name, will tell him to go ahead. John's permit is now legal and he can accomplish his burning without the last minute struggle to obtain a burning permit as was frequently encountered in the past.

The new agricultural burning permit is available in extreme northwestern Minnesota — Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington and that part of Beltrami county lying north of the Red Lake Indian Reservation comprise the area of availability.

Most agricultural burning has not caused a problem with fire control in the past, it does, however, require that Forestry personnel devote time and attention to confirm the safety of the fire. This may distract their attention from a potentially dangerous situation. State law requires that all persons engaged in outdoor burning obtain a written burning permit prior to burning and keep the permit on their person while burning. All unauthorized burning is a misdemeanor and will result in a court appearance for persons in violation.

Hopefully, through the use of this new procedure the farmers in northwestern Minnesota will be able to burn legally and with much less time constraint than in the past. Likewise, the Division of Forestry's fire-fighting forces will be able to key their attention to those situations where problems may occur. Anyone having questions concerning this new procedure or any burning regulations are encouraged to contact the nearest Forestry office.

ADA SENIOR Marty Kappes went to the basket Friday against Argyle in the Region 8A high school basketball tournament semifinals played at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Shawn Hunstad (45) and David Dufault (right) couldn't stop Kappes on the play. Kappes was the game's leading scorer with 16 points as the Vikings defeated the defending champion Eagles 54-45. Ada's state tournament dreams came up short Saturday in the finals, though, when Littlefork-Big Falls won 65-64 in five overtimes.

National Wildlife Federation News Release

S. David Freeman, Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and U.S. Senator Dale Bumpers of Arkansas have been selected to receive the top conservation awards given by the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest citizen conservation organization.

Freeman will be presented the "Conservationist of the Year" award and Bumpers will receive the "Legislator of the Year" honor at the Federation's 47th annual meeting, March 17-20 in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Actor and conservationist Lorne Greene, a popular television star and host of a new conservation series, "The New Wilderness," will serve as master of ceremonies at the awards banquet at Albuquerque's Convention Center on Saturday, March 19.

Other award winners are "Communicator of the Year: Lawrence Mosher, National Journal; "Educator of the Year": Dr. Eugene P. Odum, University of Georgia; "International Award": Dr. Salim Abdul Ali, Bombay, India; special awards: Governor Bruce Babbit of Arizona; Dr. Joseph J. Hickey, University of Wisconsin; Robert L. Morris, Transportation Attorney, Potomac, Md.; Remington Farms wildlife management demonstration area, Chestertown, Maryland; Pennzoil Company, Houston, Texas; Senator John W. Vogt, Florida State Senate; Representative Henry Waxman, U.S. House of Representatives; John G. Wellman, Johnsonville, S.C. and "Outstanding Federation Affiliate": National Resources Council of Maine.

"The distinguished people being honored with our awards have shown outstanding leadership in the conservation field," said Jay D. Hair, Executive Vice Presideent of the National Wildlife Federation. "Their work is being accomplished from Bombay, India, to the Tennessee Valley and states in every region of the country. In state legislatures, courtrooms, and the U.S. Senate, important decisions are being influenced by the dedication of those the Federation is proud to honor."

At the National Wildlife Federation's annual meeting, delegates of the Federation's affiliates in all 50 states and three territories meet to adopt resolutions setting the Federation's conservation policy for the upcoming year.

The theme of this year's National Wildlife Week, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, is "This Is Your Land: Public Lands Belong to All of Us," which will also be the theme of the annual meeting.

Master of Ceremonies Lorne Greene was Chairman of National Wildlife Week in 1975, when the theme was "We Care About Wildlife Habitat."

National Wildlife Federation conservation award winners:

"Conservationist of the Year": Under the direction of Chairman S. David Freeman, the Tennessee Valley Authority has been transformed to a utility that now boasts unique achievements in natural resources conservation and environmental protection. He has brought the TVA back to its roots, working with the people of the valley to improve their environment and economic well-being.

"Legislator of the Year": Senator Dale Bumpers of Arkansas has promoted responsible resource stewardship by land managers, public and private. He was responsible for a law which reduces the risk that important environmental values will be jeopardized by the hasty sale of public lands, and has been a leader in restoring funds for energy conservation and the Land and Water Conservation Fund.

"Communicator of the Year": Lawrence Mosher of the "National Journal" has illuminated the environmental policy changes of the Reagan Administration with an exceptional insight and analysis that make his reporting an effective, influential and significant voice. He has written about topics ranging from acid rain and vanishing wetlands, to the effects of federal water policy on the Southwest.

"Educator of the Year": Teaching the "ecosystem" approach to our environment was pioneered by Dr. Eugene Odum in his textbooks "Ecology" and "Fundamentals of Ecology", which continues to be the most widely used guide to ecological principles for both students and concerned citizens.

"International Award": Under the leadership of Dr. Salim Ali, the Bombay Natural History Society in India has grown substantially, become a home for the dedicated scientists of that country, and sustained its commitment to conservation education and wildlife research.

"Special award": Governor Bruce Babbitt of Arizona has been responsible for a code which allows continued development while preserving groundwater reserves, and a program to allow development of certain lands while maintaining the natural integrity of others.

"Special award": It was the research of Dr. Joseph Hickey that helped force the national ban on DDT — a pesticide that was wiping out the bald eagle and the peregrine falcon. He has also written "A Guide to Bird Watching" and a book on waterfowl banding analysis.

"Special award": With expert testimony and free legal assistance, Robert Morris has led the revolution in national transportation policy away from new construction to a focus on improvements that promote conservation of cities and the environment.

"Special award": The Pennzoil Company donated 100,000 acres of its famous Vermejo Park Ranch to the U.S. Forest Service — the largest and most valuable gift of private land ever presented to the people of the United States.

"Special award": Remington farms wildlife management demonstration area in Maryland carries out an excellent habitat improvement program, a cooperative education program, and an annual national hunting and fishing day for about 1,500 people.

"Special award": Florida State Senator John Vogt has provided the leadership for the passage of the conservation and recreation lands act and the save our rivers act, both of which provide funds to protect and preserve Florida's remaining natural areas, wildlife habitat, and recreational areas for present and future generations.

Sportshow Is Scheduled To Start Mar. 25

Fifty-one years ago a dream became a reality that was to revolutionize the entertainment and sporting words when the Northwest Sportshow opened its doors for the first time in the spring of 1933.

That same Sportshow, bigger and better than ever, opens for a ten-day run March 25 through April 3 at the Minneapolis Auditiroium.

This year's 51st annual Northwest Sportshow opens at 6 p.m. with the largest display of fishing tackle and equipment in the history of the show. Four floors of the Auditorium will be packed with the newest in fishing and sporting products and equipment, recreational vehicles, camping gear and a preview of the 1983 line of boats and marine accessories from all the major manufacturers and midwest dealers. Over 200 travel and vacation booths representing nine states, six Canadian provinces and the Northwest Territories will feature the latest information on lodging and accommodations for anyone planning a camping, fishing or family vacation nationally as well as in their own back yards.

Opening night the first 2,000 children accompanied by a paying adult will receive a free tackle box filled with soft drinks. That same evening will feature a one-hour fishing seminar entitled "Basic Pan Fishing" with professional fisherman Tom Zenanko at 7 p.m. in the Auditorium arena. Additional fishing seminars will be held Monday, March 28 through Thursday, March 31 at the same time. Scheduled topics are: Monday, Muskie Madness; Tuesday, Fishing the Great Lakes; Wednesday, Northern and Northern Pike Fishing; and Thursday, Walleye and Walleye Fishing.

Included in the price of admission is an all new stage show that the whole family will enjoy. The one-hour variety show offers comedy impersonations, two world-wide thrill acts, Sparky the Seal, a high-riding unicycle act, a comedy diving routine and upland and water retrieving by trained sporting dogs.

Special added features of the Sportshow this year include the Birds of Prey, a stunning exhibit of live eagles, hawks, owls and falcons with lectures and demonstrations by owner and trainer, Ryan Walden. Other features include the Catch 'Em and Keep 'Em live trout pond, ecology and environmental exhibits, the Minnesota Taxidermy guild, an archery range and dog obedience training demonstrations.

This year the Sportshow will again honor outstanding individuals for their contributions toward conservation and sportsmanship. Awards for the outstanding champion farmer-sportsman, builder of youth, Frank Blair junior conservationist and outstanding editorial-conservationist will be made throughout the ten-day run of the show.

Sportshow hours are 6-11 p.m. opening night, Friday, March 25; 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Saturday, March 26 and April 2; noon - 7 p.m. Sunday, March 27 and April 3; 1 p.m. - 11 p.m. weekdays, Monday, March 28 through Friday, April 1. Stage show hours are 9:30 p.m. opening night; 3:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 3:30 and 6 p.m. Sundays.

Admission to all exhibits, special features and the stage show is a one time charge at the door of $4 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Tickets are available only at the Auditorium ticket office during regular show hours.

200 Attended Dairymen's Day Held Recently

Over 200 dairymen attended the annual dairymen's day held at the University of Minnesota, northwest experiment station agricultural research center, Crookston, on March 15. The general theme of the program was cost-effective management in dairying.

Dr. Charles Young, University of Minnesota dairy cattle geneticist, emphasized how to make dollars with genetics by using artificial insemination, sire selection, computer use as a tool, and using proven techniques. DHIA records, breed information, production indexes and taking corrective action when necessary were indicated as further means to successful management.

Dr. George Marx, northwest experiment station animal scientist, discussed current projects at the Crookston station. Comparisons of high-moisture ear corn versus high-moisture shelled corn for milking cows was one feature. Marx found that ear corn takes 20 per cent more space to store, is 1.5 percentage points lower in protein, but yields more per acre. This work will be summarized by another trial this fall. Work continues at the northwest experiment station with large versus small cows. Cows similar in feed efficiency and milk production were tested. Calf work was again a high priority for Marx. Soybean meal versus sunflower meal was tested and sunflower meal fed animals resulted in less cholesterol in the blood of cows in the trial.

Dr. Donald Otterby, University of Minnesota nutritionist, St. Paul, emphasized profitable feed rations balanced for fiber, energy, protein, minerals, vitamins, fats and carbohydrates. He advised not to feed over sixty per cent grain in ration in order to reduce nutritional disorders and decrease the cost of the ration. He warned not to overfeed expensive nutrients which might not be necessary and he cautioned about high-priced additives. "Beta carotene and niacin are new and being promoted in dairy feeding but are not necessary in 99 per cent of Minnesota herds. They're only necessary if quality of forage is very poor," Otterby stated. He advised keeping feed costs down by using a ration balancer program to determine least cost feed available.

Mrs. Arlene Stansfield, director of consumer affairs for Land O'Lakes, inc., gave information on wise grocery shopping and the importance of dairy foods in our diets. She gave further evidence of the need to promote dairy products, special sections in grocery stores and said, "Don't fill up the dairy case with nondairy foods." She spoke of a new dairy milk, ultra-high temperature, which will be marketed in the near future with various flavors available such as banana, strawberry, pineapple and others. These milks will have a shelf life of six months without refrigeration.

Murl Nord, dairyman from Blackduck, spoke on the breeding and management of his successful dairy herd. Murl has 110 cows in partnership with his brother, a new type of barn with a milking parlor, and uses alfalfa as his main forage and major feed component. His farm further features liquid manure systems irrigation with the manure through a trailer gun and this enables him to raise excellent crops of barley which he uses further in his rations. He has a special calf nursery.

Day concluded with a tour of dairy facilities at the Northwest Experiment Station with Marlyn Jacobson, assistant scientist, and Alex Johnson, Senior Animal Technician, showing various animal and research areas. This event is sponsored annually by the northwest experiment station, agricultural extension service, department of animal science, University of Minnesota, Land O'Lakes, inc., Minnesota American dairy association, and the Red River Valley dairymen's association.

Jaycees Plan Carnival Sat. In Newfolden

Newfolden Jaycees will be sponsoring a carnival in the old gymnasium of the Newfolden school starting at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 26.

Entertainment will include a talent show and coronation of a king and queen, plus games and prizes. Lunch will be served by the Marshall county central parent teacher organization.

Candidates for the king and queen contest have been selected from grades seven through 12 at Marshall county central high school. They include: seventh graders Ellen Boe and Denae Mjelde, eighth graders Jon Kragness and Tracy Olson, ninth graders Patty Odberg and Daren Stokke, sophomores Jodi Nelson and Jay Nelson, juniors Randy Lindemoen and Paula Gustafson, and seniors Trisha Van Camp and James Garthus. Coronation will be held at 10:30 p.m.

Hanson Farm Is Top January Dairy Producer

Top ten herds in the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association for the month of January were named recently by Jerry Hamre, supervisor for the association.

Top producers are listed by average pounds of milk produced per cow and average pounds of butter fat produced per cow: Hanson Heritage, 57.7 pounds milk and 1.93 pounds butterfat; Mylo Carlson, 57.4 and 2.26; Don Fulton, 54.0 and 2.07; Duane Krohn, 49.6 and 1.92; Darrow Lundeen and sons, 47.5 and 1.90; Duane Vatsaas, 46.6 and 1.73; Arden Lundeen, 46.2 and 1.72; Lyle Swanson, 44.7 and 1.71; Walter brothers farm, 44.2 and 1.86 and Marvin Koop, 43.1 and 1.67.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. Averages give the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low, even though the cow which is milking produces a lot of milk.

There were 26 DHIA herds and two OS herds on test in January. Fourteen cows were recorded with records over 625 pounds of fat in 305 days or less.

Career Center Offers Aid In Job Decisions

Have you just been laid off from your job? Are you uncertain about your future? Have you been forced to reenter the job market after being a homemaker for many years?

You can get help determining your career direction at the Region I Career Education Center located at the University of Minnesota technical college in Crookston. Since its founding in 1978 the center has helped over 5,000 people in Northwest Minnesota solve career related problems.

Target group receiving Career Center services are the 38 high schools of Region I. Center also works with displaced homemakers, handicapped, adults in career transition, public offenders, and school dropouts.

Services available through the center include interest and aptitude testing, individual counseling, resource library, computerized career information, and educational presentations. It also provides a link between business and education in Northwest Minnesota.

For further information, contact: Region I Career Education Center, UMC, Bede Hall, Crookston, MN 56716; phone 281-6510, extension 366.

Survey On Technical Need Is Completed

Minnesota high technology council (MHTC) recently completed a major survey to identify technical personnel needs for Minnesota high technology industry.

Compiled from responses by some 330 companies, the survey identifies the crucial needs, short and long term, for increasing numbers of technical professionals and technicians.

Survey is the first of its kind that allows for statewide (10 year) projections for technical personnel. Findings have dramatic implications if existing state firms are to meet their projected growth rates — and certainly for the future new high technology growth and job creation in Minnesota.

Minnesota high technology council was formed in 1982 in response to a growing concern among key executives in Minnesota's high tech industries that the state's educational resources were not preparing enough technically trained people to meet the needs of their companies. The group, which also consists of representatives of state government and schools, is focusing its initial efforts on improving the quality of state education — at all levels — and is working to promote public awareness of the favorable contributions that high technology industries can make to Minnesota's economy.

Bids For Area Trunk Hwys. Now Accepted

Bids on three area trunk highway improvements will be received until 9:30 a.m., Friday by the Minnesota department of transportation (MN-DOT) at the state transportation building in St. Paul.

In Clearwater county on trunk highway 200 the work entails bituminous surfacing on 6.7 miles between 0.8 mile south of Zerkel and Lake Itasca. Work is scheduled to begin May 23 and be completed within 15 working days.

Project in Marshall county includes production and stockpiling of mineral aggregate for trunk highway 32 at a pit one mile southwest of Strathcona. Beginning May 23, work is to be completed within 30 working days.

Improvements in Beltrami county call for bituminous surfacing on 9.1 miles of trunk highway 89 between Fourtown and a point 9.1 miles south. Work will begin May 23 and be completed within 20 working days.

Volunteer caretaker Brian "Tony" Lozon, a Vietnam veteran, examines sea shells along the shoreline of a 50-acre wildlife refuge bordering the Bay Pines, Fla., Veterans Administration Medical Center. This area, declared a wildlife sanctuary under the protection of the Veterans Administration in 1982, shelters a variety of birds, plants and animals, including some endangered or rare species. The sanctuary is estimated to be in as natural a state as when the Timucuan Indians lived there in 4500 B.C.

School Board Proceedings

March 21, 1983
Regular Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
February 28, 1983

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held at 8:00 p.m. on February 28, 1983 in the Board Room of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Archie Cameron, Myrle Carlson, Hank Hallstrom, Larry McDowell and Greg Pribula. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Vice Chairman Larry McDowell called the meeting to order in the absence of Chairman Harry Sjulson and Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the Minutes of the February 10, 1983 Special Board Meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve the Minutes of the February 14, 1983 Regular Board Meeting as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the Minutes of the February 22, 1983 General Board Meeting as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Don Wyzyinski and Myron Knutson of the Evensen-Dodge bond consultant firm were present and discussed with the Board the district's probable cash flow problems.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the retention of the Evensen-Dodge firm for the purpose of financial consulting services. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by G. Pribula to approve a resolution on file in the Superintendent's Office relating to $1,540,000 general obligation tax anticipation certificates of indebtedness of 1983, determining the expendiency of issuing, and providing for the sale thereof. Motion carried unanimously.

The 1982-83 expenditures budget was discussed. The Superintendent suggested that a number of budget areas be frozen with exceptions authorized only through the Superintendent. Budget line item adjustments will be submitted to the Board for approval at a future meeting with no increase in the total expenditure budget.

A number of the proposed budget reductions for 1983-84 were discussed with additional information concerning these cuts distributed to Board members. These included an alternative to moving all 5th grade sections to Mark Twain by instead offering double sections of each grade level and the ramifications of the proposed cut in DVR. The proposed reductions will again be discussed at the General Meeting to be held on March 8 following the hearing concerning possible closure of Knox.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the following resolution:

The Thief River Falls Board of Education re-affirms its commitment to local control for each AVTI in the State AVTI system. We believe any weaknesses or shortcomings in the present system can be effectively addressed through the present partnership we have with the State Board of Education. Together we have developed the finest program of vocational education in the United States.

We strongly urge the continuation of local governance through the local Board of Education in partnership with the State of Minnesota even if the Legislature should create a new State Board for Vocational Education as called for in the Governor's budget address.

A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: A. Aune - yes; A. Cameron - no; M. Carlson - yes; H. Hallstrom - yes; L. McDowell - yes; and G. Pribula - no. Motion carried.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by M. Carlson to approve the use of the Franklin Swimming Pool by the TRF Swim Club for the summer of 1983 with the stipulation that they provide their own supervision and do their own maintenance of the area; pool to be available after approximately May 7 to allow for cleaning. Following discussion, the motion was withdrawn. Action was delayed until information can be obtained as to what the program costs the district and it is determined whether or not the Swim Club could defray these costs.

The Basic Skills Co-Directors position descriptions were discussed and will be brought back at a later date after further review.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by M. Carlson to approve a maternity leave of absence for Becky Rogalla from approximately May 16 through July 29, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve a contractual settlement with Kay Fleegel, past Food Services Supervisor, subject to her signing necessary disclaimer statements and authorizing the Chairman and Clerk to sign such an agreement. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by H. Hallstrom to accept the resignation of Marla Jensen, Clerical Aide at Washington, effective March 1, 1983. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Carlson and seconded by A. Cameron to authorize the posting for the equivalent of a one-third time or 2 one-sixth-time SLD positions at Franklin. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by H. Hallstrom to accept the American Family Life Assurance Company's offer to revise the life premium to .22 per thousand in order to extend coverage to people who are on disability. Motion carried unanimously.

The next meeting is the Hearing concerning possible closure of Knox Elementary School on Tuesday, March 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln Cafeteria. A General Meeting will be held following that hearing to discuss the proposed budget cuts. The next Regular Meeting will be held on Monday, March 14.

Meeting adjourned at 10:25 p.m.

CPA's Say Not To Worry About Being Audited

News of a tax audit is commonly met with some alarm, but an audit is not necessarily something to worry about, advises the Minnesota society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs). IRS action doesn't mean you've done anything wrong, or that you will wind up owing more tax.

In fact, in about one out of four cases an IRS audit ends up with no changes being made in the tax bill. If there are complete records to back up expenses and deductions, and all income is properly listed there should be no problems with the audit. Even after an audit, if there are valid grounds to bring the case to tax court, there is a 50-50 chance of winning.

While anyone might be audited, some are more likely than others, CPAs point out. What often triggers audits are deduction claims which may be larger than the average for a taxpayer's income level, certain tax shelter activity (especially with large losses), as well as heavy travel and entertainment expenses, home office deductions or casualty losses.

Any of these "triggers" could be the start of an audit or a person may be part of a "target" group selected by the IRS for close tax scrutiny. It may also have been that information filed by bank or employer didn't match what was put on the return; an informant may have provided a tip concerning the income or return; or the return contained confusing or misleading wording or deductions. Another possibility is being selected at random in a special audit survey the IRS conducts approximately every three years.

Generally the audit notification letter contains some indication of areas that are in question. Some items may be resolved by mail. Otherwise an appointment with an IRS examiner or appeals officer has to be made.

In preparing for an audit, gather as much back-up material as possible to support your return. Be prepared to justify deductions with sales receipts, paid bills and cancelled checks.

For business expenses present a diary of persons entertained, phone calls made and reasons for certain expenditures. CPAs strongly suggest maintaining records year-round, bearing in mind you could eventually be audited.

At the same time CPAs have some suggestions that could help you avoid being audited. If you have unusually large deductions in a specific area, be sure to include extra disclosures with your return to support this claim. For example, you may have a larger than average deduction for sales tax because you bought a car or boat. In that case, be sure to list the property bought and actual sales tax paid on "schedule A - itemized deductions" with your Form 1040. Also, hold on to the sales receipt.

If you claim a large charitable deduction, you are required to attach copies of descriptions of the gift and appraisals of the property you donated. Be careful to describe a deduction accurately. For example, certain legal expenses such as tax planning are deductible, while other legal expenses, like a personal lawsuit, are not.

Keep proper records. When claiming a deduction, be precise. Confusion over a few deduction explanations may lead the IRS to audit your entire return, so keep explanations simple.

Keep in mind that the higher your income, the greater your chance of being audited. A shade under two per cent of individual tax returns are audited, while eight per cent of returns reporting over $50,000 in income are audited.

There are over 100 changes in this year's tax laws and forms.

H&R Block preparers have received special training to help you this year. Did you know there are two different short forms, increased deductions for an IRA, and increased child care credits ... and many more changes? We've done our homework on the new tax laws, so you don't have to.

Study State's Forest Land For Possible Sale

Over 237,000 acres of national forest land in Minnesota may be studied for possible sale as part of the federal asset management program, according to Chippewa national forest supervisor Jim Brewer and Superior national forest supervisor Clay Beal.

Acreage includes 103,291 acres of the Chippewa national forest and 133,853 acres of the Superio national forest.

However, legislation is necessary before national forest land can be sold.

Asset management program is designed to improve management of federal property and identify unneeded property so that it can be put to more productive use.

In the first phase of the program, national forest system lands were placed in one of three categories — lands to be retained, lands meeting criteria for sale, and lands requiring further study before deciding whether to retain or sell them.

Just completed, the program's second phase applied criteria to acreage slated for further study to identify the majority of lands to be retained.

Of 661,181 acres in the Chippewa national forest, 557,890 acres will be retained as national forest land. In the Superior national forest, 2,004,747 acres of a total 2,138,600 acres will be retained.

Until the necessary legislation is enacted, additional analysis for possible sale of those lands identified for further study is not planned. In the interim, those lands will be managed according to current direction.

Maps of those areas identified for further study are available at Supervisors' offices and ranger stations in the Chippewa and Superior national forests. For more information, contact: Forest Supervisor, Chippewa National Forest, Route 1 - Box 25, Cass Lake, MN 56633, phone (218) 335-2226 or Forest Supervisor, Superior National Forest, P.O. Box 338, Duluth, MN 55801, phone (218) 727-6692.

STATE PIANO CONTEST award recipients included (left to right) Brenda Ode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marv Ode of Thief River Falls; Nicole Brang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Brang of Thief River Falls; and Jennifer Cyr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Cyr of Oklee. Cyr was the winner in the intermediate A division (13 to 14 years old) and Ode was the alternate winner in that category. Brang was the alternate winner in junior B (11 to 12 years old). The students are taught by Marcia Knuttila.

WINNERS IN JUNIOR A (nine to 10 years old) competition of the Minnesota music teachers association state piano contest were John Wallberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallberg of Thief River Falls (left) and Nathan Dyrud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Dyrud of Middle River. Both are piano students of Marcia Knuttila.

UND Honor Roll Announced For Fall Semester

Thomas J. Clifford, president of the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, has announced that 242 students have been named to the president's roll of honor for fall semester.

President's roll of honor recognizes outstanding academic achievement over the course of the student's complete academic career. To quality, a student must have a cumulative grade points average of 3.8 or higher (4.0 equals straight A), have earned a cumulative minimum of 30 semester hours, and have earned a minimum of 12 hours at the close of the semester.

Students named to the UND president's roll of honor from this area include: Michele Bachand, Brooks; Jody Spencer, Gonvick; Timothy Beyer, Red Lake Falls; and Kathy Achenbach and Karl Schuemann, Thief River Falls.

President's roll of honor is one of three major academic honors announced at the end of each semester. Others are the dean's list, honoring academic achievement for the semester, and the D.J. Robertson award, for freshmen earning straight A averages for the semester.

Computer Meet Hosted By MSU This Friday

Using microcomputers in education is the focus of a full-day regional conference for teachers and students this Friday at Moorhead state university (MSU) from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the university and the Minnesota education computer consortium, the event is free and includes more than 30 small group training sessions on using computers in the schools. Subjects will range from word processing and classroom learning games to how microcomputers can be used in administration and in music, art, reading, math and other classes.

For more information about the conference, contact the MSU computer science office at 236-2603.

Tree Pruning Workshop To Be In Warren

Homeowners and interested persons are invited to attend a tree pruning workshop Monday, March 28th. Workshop will be held in Warren at the First American Bank community room beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Curtis Nyegaard, County Extension Agent from Kittson County, will serve as resource person and will discuss and demonstrate proper pruning techniques.

Pruning trees is quite important to maintain the health and quality of existing trees; to improve the appearance of foliage and flower quality; and to protect people and property. Workshop will cover the reasons for pruning, proper pruning times, tools and methods for proper pruning.

Pruning workshop is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service and is open to the public.

PCA's Praised For Helping In Earning Slump

Production credit associations (PCA's) received praise last week from Agriculture Secretary John Block for "going the extra mile" to help keep farmers in business during the current slump in the economy. "You have proven that you can be there when agriculture needs you," Block said in a speech before a national convention of PCA's in Kansas City recently.

Members of the boards of directors of the PCA of Thief River Falls who attended the meeting were Lenord Swanson, Dona Rock, Ronald Haugen, Edward Moe and Glen Hammer. PCA President Harlow C. Johnson also attended. Meeting was held to mark the 50th anniversary of the organization of the nation's 423 PCA's.

Block commended the PCAs for their loan servicing work and indicated that out of more than one million loans carried by PCAs and Federal land bank associations nationally, there were only about 1,200 foreclosures completed in 1982. That amounts to .001 per cent of the loans in their books.

Block added, however, that the situation could worsen if net farm income does not improve in the coming years.

During the convention, PCA released a newly completed study on the future of agriculture. It shows that during the next 20 years, farm income will be influenced more by efficient use of resources and effective marketing of products than by total farm production. The study, which was conducted by Batelle Memorial Institute, an independent research organization, also indicates that the trend toward larger farms and increased use of debt financing by farmers will continue during the next two decades.

Michael Contos Awarded MSU Scholarship

Michael J. Contos, a graduate of Lincoln high school and a transfer student from Northland community college, has been awarded a community college scholarship by Moorhead state university.

Established by the Moorhead state faculty, foundation and alumni association, the scholarships, equivalent to about a half year's tuition, are reserved for students demonstrating high academic ability.

Slow Down and Live

Special Needs Student Career Plan Is Topic

Career planning for special needs learners is the topic of a weekend course offered April 29-30 at Bemidji State University through the center for extended learning.

Course reviews major components of the individualized career planning system, such as intake, assessment of student interests or abilities, plus development and evaluation of career plans. Special emphasis is placed on practical application of the theories and research involved in career planning.

Taught by Dr. David Kingsbury, the class is available for one undergraduate or graduate credit at respective costs of $17.65 and $22.60.

Course meets from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in Deputy 113.

For registration materials or more information, contact Ed Gersich, Center for Extended Learning, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601; phone 218-755-2068.

'U'M Campuses Faced With Budget Cuts

University of Minnesota schools and colleges must find ways to cut an average of nine per cent from their 1983-85 budgets, the board of regents was told March 11.

Over the next several months internal budget-cutting negotiations will continue and will culminate in a budget for 1983-84, expected to be up for regents' approval in August.

The money cut from collegiate budgets will be used to avoid further mid-year budget cuts that can result from external events, said university President C. Peter Magrath. Since 1980 the university has suffered four "retrenchments," mid-year cuts made because of the state's money troubles.

"Fiscal circumstances are going to continue to be difficult," Magrath said. He called mid-year retrenchments "devastating," and said that across-the-board cuts mandated by cuts in the middle of a funding year "represent an abandonment of choice and priorities and guarantee mediocrity."

Under the current plan, an $18 million retrenchment and reallocation pool of money will be built for 1983-84 with an additional $9 million for 1984-85. Funds for the pool will come from cuts in college budgets and from tuition increases.

That money will also be used to strengthen certain programs in hard-hit units and to increase quality, Magrath said.

Current round of internal cuts is part of the university's ongoing planning process that began several years ago and "has literally saved us," Magrath said.

Each outstate campus and Twin Cities college has been given a range to shoot for in cutting its budget, with the lowest zero to three per cent and the highest nine to 12 per cent. Those in the lowest range include the school of management, the institute of technology and the college of veterinary medicine, all on the Twin Cities campus. Those in the highest range include the colleges of agriculture, biological sciences, pharmacy and education and the school of dentistry.

Cuts for the university's campuses at Crookston, Duluth, Morris and Waseca all fall between three and nine per cent.

Kenneth Keller, vice president for academic affairs, said the percentages assigned to each college are not a measure of the relative importance of each unit to the university. Rather, the decisions were based on the potential each unit has for making cuts within a certain time frame.

Colleges and campuses are expected to submit their plans for meeting the budget targets by April 15. The regents will see the first draft of next year's budget in May.

Workshop For Parents Slated For March 29

Terry Pankow of Northwestern mental health center will present a workshop Tuesday, March 29 at 1 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and repeat at 7:30 p.m. at the Day Activity Center in Fosston.

Workshop will be held to provide ideas to parents on ways they can promote positive relations with their children. Effective communication, understanding and dealing with children's feelings of fear, anger, love and dependence, as well as ways of guiding young children's behavior will be discussed.

Workshop is sponsored by the head start program and any interested persons are invited and welcome to attend. Lunch will be served.

BSU Extension Course In Hot Air Ballooning

A course in hot air ballooning will be offered through the Bemidji state university center for extended learning March 25 to 27.

Participants explore flight preparation and maneuvers, weather and federal regulations as well as emergency procedures.

Cost for the class is $60 and, weather permitting, a cross-country flight will be included. Course instructor if Greg Paul. There is a maximum enrollment of 15, so early registration is encouraged.

The class is scheduled to meet in Hagg-Sauer, room 104 on the BSU campus. For registration materials or more information, contact the Center for Extended Learning, Deputy Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601; phone 218-755-2068.

Reeve Earns Meritorious Service Medal

Air Force Capt. David C. Reeve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Reeve of Thief River Falls, has been decorated with the meritorious service medal at Vandenberg air force base, Calif.

Meritorious service medal is awarded specifically for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.

Reeve is a missile operations officer with the 1st strategic aerospace division.

P. Mortenson In Cast Of NDSU Opera

Paul Mortenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Mortenson, St. Petersburg Beach, FL, is a cast member of "The Beggar's Opera," which will be presented by North Dakota state university students at 8:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 8 and 9, in Festival concert hall at NDSU. Mortenson is a 1969 graduate of Lincoln high school.

Mortenson, a senior in music, will play the part of Mac Heath. In addition to this part, Mortenson was also involved in the opera workshop production of "Don Giovanni," St. Petersburg opera company's production of "The Marriage of Figaro," and "An Evening of Operetta." At Eckerd college of St. Petersburg he acted in the chorus of "Two Gentlemen of Verona."

Helping Child With Reading Math Is Topic

President of the national council of learning disabilities, Dr. Virginia Brown, will speak at the third annual meeting of the Red River reading association at 7 p.m. Thursday in Moorhead state university's King biology hall auditorium.

Brown will speak on helping children who are having difficulty with reading or math in a two-hour program that's free and open to the public. Reception will follow in Owens hall lounge.

Nationally noted reading consultant and author, Dr. Brown is a professor at the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She's a specialist in behavioral and learning disabilities and emotional disturbances.

Sponsored by the Red River reading council and MSU, the program is aimed at teachers and parents. It will be held in conjunction with a two-day workshop on "Understanding and promoting reading comprehension" that meets from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 26 and April 23. One-credit workshop will also be taught by Brown.

For more information about Brown's lecture or the workshop, call the MSU special education department at 236-2297.

Lincoln Musical Opens On Friday

Lincoln high school students in Thief River Falls will be performing the musical "Little Mary Sunshine" on Friday, Saturday, Monday and Tuesday in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at Larson Music company for $3. Senior citizens will be admitted free on Friday evening.

"Little Mary Sunshine" was one of the most successful off-Broadway stage shows ever produced in New York. It played to full houses in Manhattan's Greenwich Village for almost three years which was a record time for an original musical.

Billed as "a musical about an old operatta," the production is a spoof of old time favorites like "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta." With its deliberately corny songs and naive situations, it pokes fun at all the cliches of the innocent 1920's and 1930's musicals. Overearnest heroes and heroines and the dastardly villains are also satirically handled. The musical has become something of an American institution.

Cast of characters includes: Susie Waale as Little Mary Sunshine, Craig Goodrich as Captain "Big Jim" Warington, Todd Wing as Captain Billy Jester, Barb Laidley as Nancy Twinkle, Kerry Wollin as Chief Brown Bear, Tami Eckstein as Mademoiselle Earnestine Von Liebedich, Steward Sandstrom as General Oscar Fairfax, Ret., Lee Genereux as Fleet Foot and Ryan Bakke as Yellow Feather.

Young ladies from the Eastchester finishing school are Teresa Nelson as Cora, Becca Pluth as Henrietta, Collette Thune as Gwendolyn, Pam Finney as Blanche, Julie Peres as Maud and Christy Stromlund as Mabel.

Young gentlemen of the United States Forest Rangers are Gary Cornell as Pete, Jeff Hamerlinck as Slim, Ken Kompelein as Tex, Ryan Bakke as Buster, Brian Barth as Hank and Alan Mosbeck as Tom.

Chorus members are from the concert choir. These include Doug Amiot, Cheryl Amundson, Denice Anderson, Sue Anderson, Bill Benedict, Pam Bjerken, Brenda Blazek, Melissa Bondy, Jana Budke, Nancy Carlson, Amy Colby, Rayton Dargon, Collette Desrocher, Fella Drevlow, Lori Dusek and Daun Engelstad;

Also Shawn Fremstad, Lisa Glass, Stacy Gustafson, Joni Hanson, Teri Haugen, Beth Jensen, Kirk Jensen, Coreen Larson, Mike Laufman, Peggy Mehrkens, Joni Mosbeck, Kirsten Myrold, Alan Ness, Mary Ness and David Olson;

Also Lynette Olson, Mona Pederson, Roger Rivera, Leon Rogalla, Curt Rude, Mike Sorum, Randy Swenson, Bruce Tranby, Renelle Twistol, Paula Wilkens and Janelle Williamson.

Lincoln high school orchestra, under the direction of James Solsten, will play the music.

Chairing the various committees are: Ticket sales — Denise Anderson and Jana Budke; costumes — Renelle Twistol and Collette Thune; set construction — Curt Rude and Doug Amiot; publicity — Dawn Engelstad; programs — Jeff Hamerlinck; choreography — Mary Ness, Pam Finney and Teri Haugen; properties — Amy Colby and Joni Mosbeck; set lighting and decoration — Coreen Larson and Paula Wilkens; make-up — Pam Bjerken; and pictures — Lisa Stocks.

"LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE" opens Friday at the Lincoln high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Barb Laidley as Nancy Twinkle and Todd Wing as Captain Billy Jester are included in the cast of characters. Billed as "a musical about an old operetta," the production is a spoof of old time favorites like "Rose Marie" and "Naughty Marietta." Performances are also set Saturday, Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Tickets for $3 can be purchased at Larson music company.

PARTICIPATING in her final Fantasy on Ice skating show this season will be Lincoln high school senior Stephanie LeMoine. She will skate in the Bali Hai number at the "Seven Seas Adventure" Saturday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Thief River Falls sports arena.

First Court Appearance Set For Peterson

First appearance by Darrell Peterson, former director of the Northwest regional inter-district council (NWRIC) at Newfolden, in Marshall county court has been scheduled for Tuesday of next week, according to the Marshall county attorney's office.

Charges of embezzlement of public funds, presenting false claims to a public body and permitting false claims against the government were filed against Peterson in Marshall county early last week. Judge Larry Jorgenson set the appearance date for April 29 and ordered the Marshall county sheriff's department to notify Peterson.

A former resident of Thief River Falls, Peterson is now working in Kansas City, MO. Assistant county attorney Michael Williams said charges of theft which had been contemplated were not filed. He said the charges filed included five counts of embezzlement, one count of presenting false claims and four counts of permitting false claims.

Marshall county deputy sheriff Herb Maurstad personally notified Peterson by phone of the order for his court appearance in Warren on Tuesday, according to the sheriff's office. Voluntary compliance will make it unnecessary for the sheriff's department to initiate arrest and extradition proceedings.

Annual Scout Exposition Here On April 24th

Annual Voyageur Trails district Boy Scout exposition will be held Sunday, April 24, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Thief River Falls sports arena, according to Dave Olin, chairman of the show and member of the Thief River Falls Elks, which is the organization arranging this year's show.

Participation chairman John Nicholson of Thief River Falls indicates that all scouting packs, troops and Explorer posts in the district have been invited to participate in the exposition and reponses from several scouting groups have already been received.

Theme of the exposition is "Catch the Scouting Spirit." The purpose of an exposition is to give all scouts an opportunity to demonstrate to the public some of the scouting skills they have learned. The show is an opportunity to see scouting in action as the arena will be filled with action booths and other displays of scout activity.

In addition to the local and area scouts, there will be participating Beaver scouts, Cub scouts and Boy scouts from the Seven Oaks and St. Boniface districts of the greater Winnipeg regional Manitoba provincial council, Boy Scouts of Canada.

Admission to the exposition is $1 per adult with children under 18 admitted free. Tickets will be available from Cub scouts, Boy scouts and Explorers throughout the district after March 26. Thief River Falls scouters are reminded to be at Zion Lutheran church to pick up their tickets on March 26 between 10 a.m. and 12 noon. Scouters in other towns in the district will receive their tickets by mail on that date, according to Tim Loeffler, ticket chairman.

Show chairman Olin urges the public to buy a ticket and see scouting in action on April 24. He also thanks the United Way, sustaining membership enrollment and the communities of the Voyageur Trails district for their continued support of scouting on behalf of the boys of the district.

Hazardous Waste Group Meets Monday

Northern area fact finding committee on hazardous waste will meet on Monday, March 28, at 8 p.m. in the meeting room of the city auditorum in Thief River Falls.

Meeting will include information from the waste management board on their last board meeting, responses to letters mailed out from the last committee meeting, and additional information on the project review committee.

Pennington joined other northwestern Minnesota counties in overwhelming participation in the PIK program and other acreage diversion for wheat in the coming crop year, according to Phil Bergland, director of the county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS).

Bergland said that 581 of the 637 Pennington county farmers who have an eligible wheat base on their farm signed up to participate in the program. A total of 114,968 of the 116,821 base acres were included in the sign-up which Bergland said went amazingly smooth, especially considering that the program wasn't announced until early January.

"On the first of February I would have bet a pretty good steak dinner that the program wasn't going to go," the county director said. "But then everything seemed to come together, the farmers seemed to come in and sign up in a steady flow and we didn't even have a real rush at deadline time March 11."

Rodney Soderstrom of Warren, ASCS District 7 director who supervises offices in 13 northwestern Minnesota counties, said the participation was extremely heavy in all counties. Only in West Polk, Clearwater and Mahnomen counties was there an opportunity for anyone to bid a whole farm base into the program, and the acreages were only 13,865 in West Polk, 1,347 in Clearwater and 1,528 in Mahnomen.

Participation in the acreage reduction and PIK program was restricted to 50 per cent of the total acreage base for the crop in the county. Of the total, 20 per cent had to be in the 1983 acreage reduction and paid land diversion program. From 10 to 30 per cent, at the discretion of the farmer, could be placed in the PIK (payment in kind) program.

Bergland said he could count on one hand the number of farmers who didn't elect to place the full 30 per cent available to them in the PIK program, and then mostly to keep large fields intact as crop production units.

Program participation holds a number of advantages for farmers as it encourages reduction of production to reduce existing surpluses. In explaining the advantages, Bergland used the example of a Pennington county farmer with a 100 acre wheat base and a production history of 35 bushels per acre.

Under the acreage reduction program, the farmer would divert 20 per cent (20 acres) of his base from wheat production. He would then receive from ASCS a payment of $2.70 per bushel times the base yield of 35 bushels for five per cent (five acres) of the wheat base. This would give him $94.50 per acre for five acres or $472.50.

Under the PIK program, the farmer could divert another 30 acres, for which he will receive payment in wheat equal to 95 per cent of the historical yield. On 30 acres at 35 bushels per acre, this would be 996 bushels of wheat. It is estimated market price will be about $3.50 per bushel, or a total of $3,486 for the 30 acres.

In addition, the farmer has 50 acres of his wheat base available to him for planting. He may plant this acreage and harvest it, and the government will pay a "deficiency" payment of 65 cents per bushel, based on the 35-bushel yield history, or $22.75 per acre. This would total $1,137.50 for the 50 acres planted to wheat. The crop may be sold as the farmer wishes.

In the 13 counties comprising District 7 in northwestern Minnesota, there will be approximately 870,000 acres diverted from wheat production this year. These "idle" acres can be handled by the farmer in several ways.

A farmer may elect to work the land during the summer, then seed a cover crop such as winter wheat in the fall to provide protection against wind erosion. If he plants winter wheat, he may harvest it as a crop in 1984.

Or he may elect to seed the acreage to grass or legumes in the spring, let it grow during the summer, then rough till it to leave 30 per cent of the surface covered with residue for wind erosion protection. Rather than fall till the acreage, the farmer can let it

Our Saviour's Academy Plans Pre-Enrollment

Students at Our Saviour's Christian academy will pre-enroll for the 1983-84 school year on Thursday at 7 p.m. Enrollment will begin with a short program and registration fee will be $15.

Students who are entering kindergarten for 1983-84 will also be given the opportunity to register.

Stevens Joins Administrative Hospital Staff

Robert Stevens of Granite Falls has accepted the position of associate administrator at Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls and assumed his duties in that position effective February 28, according to Richard Spyhalski, hospital president and chief executive officer.

Stevens has been chief executive officer at the Granite Falls municipal hospital and nursing home for the past four years. The 37-bed hospital and 58-bed nursing home also have an attached medical office building.

A native of Minneapolis, Stevens holds a master of hospital administration (MHA) degree from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. He served his residency at Sacred Heart hospital at Yankton, SD, and in his first administrative position was chief executive officer of the hospital at Sisseton, SD.

Stevens' wife Cindy is special education director with the Minnesota Valley cooperative center at Granite Falls and will move here at the end of the school year. Stevens enjoys fishing, basketball and other team sports. While in Granite Falls he was a member of the Jaycees, president of the Kiwanis club and a member of the chamber of commerce board of directors.

Spyhalski said the hiring of Stevens to replace Raymond Bergroos, who accepted a CEO position at the hospital in Algoma, WI, completes the local hospital management team.

ASSOCIATE ADMINISTRATOR at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls is Robert Stevens who arrived here recently from Granite Falls. He had served as chief executive officer of the Granite Falls municipal hospital for four years and will succeed Raymond Bergroos who left here to become chief executive officer of the hospital at Algoma, WI.

School Board Acts On More Budget Cutting

Continuing the effort to reduce costs and balance the 1983-84 budget, the Thief River Falls board of education approved lists of positions to be discontinued and created, terminated contracts for 13 probationary teachers and proposed 26 certified staff members for unrequested leave.

The actions followed presentations by several people in attendance at the meeting to express concerns regarding the budget cuts and make suggestions to the board. Al Finney, representing the band boosters organization, discussed the possibility of retaining another music teaching position if money could be raised by the organization.

Randy Johnson, science instructor at Franklin middle school, expressed his concern over increase in science class sizes as a result of the cuts. Jane Miller, president of the Thief River Falls education association, suggested that legal costs could be decreased if the TRFEA and board would negotiate without legal counsel. She also indicated the TRFEA supports a bond election to raise money for present programs and construction of new facilities when deemed necessary.

Additional cuts approved by the board included $20,453 in legal services, printing and reduction of confidential employees contract time in the central office, and $9,547 by additional reduction in the foreign language program.

FIRST PLACE in the Minnesota prepared speech competition conducted by the post-high group of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) last weekend in Minneapolis was won by Charlotte Maruska, a student in the broadcasting course at the Thief River Falls AVTI. The daughter of Mrs. Loretta Maruska of Lengby, she is now eligible to compete at the national contest this summer in Louisville, KY. Twenty-two students from the local AVTI entered competition in welding, drafting, auto body, auto mechanics and broadcasting in the VICA skill olympics.

Susan LaVerne Spengeler, Bryan Thomas Wed Here

Susan LaVerne Spengler and Bryan David Thomas exchanged marriage vows at a four o'clock wedding on December 18, at the United Methodist church in this city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Verne Spengler of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thomas of Minot, N.D.

Rev. Melvyn Budke officiated at the double ring ceremony using I John 4:19 "We love because God first loved us," as the theme for the meditation. Organist was Jeanne Harger, playing "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," and "God of Our Fathers," as the processional. Dave Thomas, a brother of the groom, sang "Only a Shadow," and "The Lord's Prayer," and Tammy Kezar, a friend, sang "God Has Given you to Me." During the lighting of the unity candle they joined in singing "Make Us One," and "Take Our Love." Following Holy Communion, they sang, "We Are the Reason." Pianist was Sandy Hoff. Accolytes were the bride's cousins: Michelle Moen and Tammy Spengler; and distributing the wedding programs were Patty Langlie and Karyn Richards, friends of the bride.

Forming the chancel setting were a candelabra tree with white candles and red bows and seven-branch candlelabra with white bows and tapers. The altar railing was entwined with a pine garland. On the altar was the unity candle surrounded by a pine wreath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white organza over bridal satin gown made by the bride and her mother. The fitted bodice with point d'esprit lace yoke and bishop sleeves, featured Alencon lace trim complementing the yoke, cuffs and standing collar. Matching lace motifs were appliqued on the back of the gathered skirt that flowed from the natural waistline into a chapel-length train, edged with corresponding lace. Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to an Alencon lace headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white silk roses, and fresh holly from Oregon.

Melodee Rupprecht, Galveston, Texas and formerly of Thief River Falls, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ann Burger of this city and Cindy Keener, Grand Forks, N.D., friends of the couple, and Loreejane Thomas, Minot, N.D., a sister of the groom. All wore red georgette gowns styled with sheer yokes, jewel necklines, full sheer sleeves, and gathered cummerbunds. Their jewelry were silver necklaces and bracelets, gifts from the bride. In their hair, they wore silk flowers matching the red and white silk roses in their round hand bouquets.

Wearing a similar gown and jewelry, and carrying a white satin soft basket filled with silk flowers was the flower girl, Traci Lindberg. Ring bearer was Eric Lindberg, who like the men of the wedding party wore a dove gray tuxedo with a red rose boutonniere. He carried the rings on a counted cross-stitch pillow made by the bride. Both are children of Mr. and Mrs. Cal Lindberg of this city.

Attending the groom were his brother, Bradley Thomas, as best man; his friends: Mark Tollefson, Minot, N.D.; Paul Olson, Burnsville, and the bride's brother, Dave Spengler. Ushers were Dave Thomas, Minot, brother of the groom, and Pete Jacobson, Grand Forks, a friend of the couple.

The bride's personal attendant was Carol Allert, Grand Forks, a friend.

The mother of the bride wore a long-sleeved, floor-length, red polyester gown encircled at the waistline by a tucked cummerbund. The groom's mother was attired in a long-sleeved, floor-length gown of green lace accented with a ribbon sash. Their corsages were of red and white roses and carnations.

Honor guests were Mrs. Verne Spengler, Sr., Grand Forks and Mrs. Roy Muir, Inkster, N.D., grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. R.J. Thomas, Minot, N.D., grandmother of the groom.

Approximately 225 relatives and friends attended the ceremony and the reception that followed in the church parlors. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Green, friends of the bride's family. Kathleen Moen, a cousin of the bride, was at the guest book.

At the punch bowl were Julie Kolsrud and Beth Tollerud. Gift bearers were Vicki Dupont and Eddie Christian, flower attendant was Lori Beiswenger of Fisher, and the waitresses were Tammy Backer, Wendy Wyun, Cathy Isom and Kris Siems. All are friends of the couple.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake with a flowing water fountain under arched Roman pillars. On one side, connected by a red velvet ribbon, was an open Bible cake inscribed with the theme of the wedding. On the other was a pedestal stairway with a miniature replica of the bridal party. Topping the cake was a cluster of roses and a white cross with golden wedding rings.

The cake, baked and decorated by Margaret Rupprecht, was cut and served by Mrs. Curt Moen, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Billy Poe, aunt of the groom. Coffee pourers were Mrs. George Spengler and Mrs. Peter Allferis, also aunts of the bride and groom.

The groom's dinner was hosted at Lon's for 37 guests by the groom's parents.

Later another reception was held at the First Presbyterian church fellowship hall at Minot, for 175 guests.

Following a wedding trip to the Twin Cities, the couple is now at home at 580 Carleton Court, Grand Forks, N.D.

The bride is a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school and will graduate in May from the University of North Dakota. The groom is a 1978 graduate of Minot high school and a December 1982 graduate of UND. He is employed at Regency Inn in East Grand Forks and International Telephone and Telgraph, Grand Forks. Services Set At Trinity For Mabel Rude, 83

Mrs. Mabel Rude, 83, of North township, Pennington county, died Monday at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mabel Rude will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Berton Hushagen officiating. LeRoy Aasland will be the soloist and Mrs. LaVonne Master, the organist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Roy Jablinske, Jim Rude, Richard Rude, Joe Rude, Bill Rude and Roger Jablinske.

The body is reposing at the Green Funeral home and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Rude, the former Mable T. Olson, was born May 23, 1899 at Granite Falls to Knute and Julia Holme Olson. She grew to womanhood at Granite Falls.

On Dec. 31, 1919, she was united in marriage to Roy Rude at Granite Falls. They moved to Roseau in 1922 and were engaged in farming there. Two years later, they came to Thief River Falls, settling in North township where they farmed. Since 1980, she had been a resident of the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church and the Golden Years group. She was also Past Noble Grand of the Rebekah lodge, past president and past Mother of the Year of the Eagles auxiliary, and a former member of the Vaarblomsten lodge and the Daughters of Norway.

She is survived by three sons: Rudolph Rude, Thief River Falls; Jerold, East Grand Forks, and Ernest, Wadena; a daughter, Mrs. Wilbert (Myrtle) Jablinske, Thief River Falls; 21 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren, two sisters: Mrs. Clara Aarvig, Granite Falls and Mrs. Mildred Wilde, Thief River Falls; and four brothers: Frank Olson, Thief River Falls; Merold, St. Paul; Bert, Everett, Wash.; and LeRoy, Granite Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died May 29, 1971; a son, James, on June 9, 1949; a daughter Margaret Kelleher, Dec. 5, 1972; a brother, Ted, one sister, Edith, four grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

Production opens on Friday with performances also scheduled Saturday, Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Tickets are on sale at Larson music company for $3.

Mrs. Florence Stennes, 87, Dies March 14

Mrs. Florence Stennes, 87, of Stephen and formerly of Strandquist, died Monday morning, March 14, at the Karlstad Memorial hospital.

Funeral services for Florence Stennes were held Wednesday at 10:00 a.m., at the Bethesda Lutheran church in Strandquist with Rev. Henry Moyer and Rev. John A. Riveness officiating. Mrs. Wayne Jacobson was the soloist and Mrs. Terry Johnson, the organist. Interment was in the English Lutheran cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Michael Mills, Donald McKenzie, Bryce Thibodo, Douglas Thibodo, Merrill Stennes and Marvin Boen.

Mrs. Stennes, the former Florence Constance Bergh, was born June 16, 1895 at Halstad to Carl and Anna Bergh. As a child, she moved with her parents to Larimore, N.D., and later, following the death of her mother, returned to Halstad.

On June 1, 1916, she was married at Hendrum to Edwin O. Stennes. After their marriage, they lived at Neillsville for two years and then moved to Great Falls, Mont. Later they returned to Minnesota. In 1920, they moved to Strandquist and from 1927 until 1931, they lived at Crookston. They then returned to Strandquist where she continued living until moving to Stephen four years ago.

She was a member of the Bethesda Lutheran church at Strandquist, and the American Legion auxiliary.

She is survived by one son, Larry Stennes, Louisville, Colo.; two daughters: Mrs. Cameron (Vernice) Thibodo, Stephen; and Mrs. Gene (Caroline) Farmer, North Ridge, Calif.; 14 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren, two brothers: Guy Bergh, Portland, Maine, and Floyd, Packwood, Wash.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in February of 1972, two sons, her parents and a half-brother.

Harold Johnson Dies March 11 In Washington

Harold W. Johnson, 64, of Arlington, Wash., and formerly of Goodridge, died March 11 at a hospital in Everett, Wash.

Military services for Harold Johnson were held March 15 at the Wellers Funeral home at Arlington with Rev. Dennis Bixler officiating. Interment was in the Haynie cemetery at Blaine, Wash.

Honorary pallbearers were Gil Gilbertson, Lloyd Johnson, Bob Snow, Marvin Evans, Roy Johnson and Glen Haye.

Serving as active pallbearers were Howard Johnson, Dale Johnson, Gary Nelson, Gary Johnson, David Nelson and Lee Johnson.

Harold W. Johnson was born July 6, 1917 in Thief River Falls and had resided in Seattle, Wash., for many years. For the past six years, he had lived in the Arlington area. He was a retired employee of the Seattle City Engineering department.

He was a veteran of World War II, a member of the Arlington post 76 of the American Legion and a charter member of the Benevolent Paternal Order of the Elks, Victorville, Calif.

He was preceded in death by his father, who died in 1952, and his mother, who died in 1980.

L. W. Hoefer Rites Held In Red Lake Falls

Mass of Christian Burial for Lawrence W. Hoefer, 73, of Red Lake Falls, was offered on Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls. Hoefer died Friday evening at the Hillcrest Nursing home in that city where he had been a resident since April 18, 1980.

Rev. Jerome Fellon was the celebrant. Music was provided by St. Joseph's adult choir with Carl Kankel as organist. Interment will be today (Wednesday) at 4:00 p.m., at St. John's Catholic cemetery at Harrold, S.D. The Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, is in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Gerald, Earl and Donald Hoefer, Delbert and Dan Schmitz, and Ronald Kees.

Lawrence W. Hoefer, a son of the late John and Gertrude Ventlecher Hoefer, was born May 14, 1909 at Blunt, S.D. He attended school and grew to manhood in South Dakota. In 1938 his father and sisters moved to Minnesota, settling on a farm in Lake Pleasant township of Red Lake county in 1943. During that time, Hoefer was working in the Texas oil fields.

He served in the U.S. Army, under General Douglas McArthur, during World War II. Following his discharge, he came to Red Lake county and farmed with his father. He retired from farming in 1979.

He was a member of the Red Lake Falls American Legion, Crookston Eagles club and had served on the Credit Union board.

Surviving are three brothers: Andrew Hoefer, Thief River Falls; Martin, San Jose, Calif.; and Leo, Red Lake Falls; five sisters: Mrs. Godfrey (Bernardine) Loebach, Humbolt, Iowa; Mrs. Walter (Rose) Kirsh, Blunt, S.D.: Mrs. Rudolph (Regina) Hageman, Highmore, S.D.; and Mrs. Lawrence (Philomena) Kees and Mrs. Leona Schmitz, both of Red Lake Falls and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by one sister, Helen.

Nora Haugen Rites Held At Thief Lake

Mrs. Nora Haugen, 89, of Middle River, died unexpectedly on Sunday afternoon, March 13, while visiting at Monticello.

Funeral services for Mrs. Haugen were held Thursday, March 17, at 2:00 p.m., at Our Saviors Lutheran church at Thief Lake, rural Middle River, with Rev. Robert Amundson officiating. Barb Geer was the soloist and Lois Peterson, the organist. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Ronald Haugen, Loris Danielson, Dwight Myhrer, Dennis Haugen, Gerald Anderson and Roger Kilen.

Devotional services were held at Monticello Tuesday, March 15, at the Peterson-Grimsmo chapel with Rev. Bruce Miller officiating. Music there was provided by Mrs. Joan Ilstrup, soloist, and Mrs. Richard Brooks, Sr., as organist.

Mrs. Haugen, the former Nora Rikkarda Nesset, was born Dec. 9, 1893 at Decorah, Iowa to Thorsten and Ranvie Nesset. She attended school and grew to womanhood at Decorah. As a young woman, she came to the Middle River community.

On June 15, 1921, she was married at Decorah, Iowa to Rupert Haugen. Following their marriage, they lived and farmed in Thief Lake township of Marshall county, near Middle River. In the fall of 1961, they moved into Middle River where she had since made her home.

She was an active member of Our Saviors Lutheran church of Thief Lake, was a member of its Ladies Aid, taught Sunday school and for a time served as Sunday school superintendent.

She is survived by two sons: Arnold Haugen, Middle River; and Lester, Gillette, Wyo.; two daughters: Mrs. Jerry (Corrine) Lanigan, Osseo, and Mrs. Henry (Helen) Wettestad, Monticello; 14 grandchildren, 38 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-granddaughter.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in October of 1969, her parents, four sisters and two brothers.

Henry Larson Services To Be Held At Oklee

Funeral services for Henry Larson, 74, of rural Oklee will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at the Salem Lutheran church, rural Oklee.

Larson died Friday at the Beverly Manor Convalescent center in Sun City, Ariz. He and his wife were spending the winter in Phoenix, Ariz.

Rev. Charles L. Gunderson will officiate at the service. Soloist will be Rev. Lloyd Wallace. Mrs. Alice Skreland will be the organist. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

A family service will be held at the church at 12:30 p.m., Thursday.

The body is reposing at the Petterson Funeral home, Oklee, and will repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

Pallbearers will be Donald Stenberg, Edward G. Larson, Ronald Hegge, John Kolstoe, Engvald Larson and Leonard Johnson.

Henry Larson, a son of the late Thor and Engeborg Larson, was born Dec. 16, 1908 in Oklee and was a lifetime resident of Red Lake county. He was married Oct. 28, 1938 in Oklee to Stella Sorenson Tande. They farmed in Garnes township of Red Lake county, until retiring in 1981.

He had also served as director of the Pioneer Memorial Care center at Erskine.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter Linda and her husband, Rev. Lloyd Wallace, Glendale, Ariz.; four grandchildren: Mary Ellen, Mark, Carol and Paul Wallace; one brother, Elmer Larson, rural Oklee; four sisters: Mrs. Alvin (Hilda) Linder, rural Plummer; Mrs. Marvin (Clara) Wardner, Fisher; Mrs. John (Thea) Howe, Grand Forks, N.D.; and Mrs. Myles (Bertine) Swanson, rural Thief River Falls; and numerous nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a son, Tommie; a step-son, one sister and two brothers.

BSU Lecture Covers Tactics In Job Market

Everyone talks about how tough it is to get a job these days, but Tom Jackson provides some possible solutions in a presentation he calls "Guerrila Tactics in the Job Market." Jackson will speak at 8 p.m. April 5 in room 100 of Hagg-Sauer hall on the Bemidji state university (BSU) campus.

One of the nation's top manpower and employment experts, Jackson boasts experience and achievements encompassing a wide spectrum of activities with corporations, schools and government agencies. He has worked with students and counselors in job finding and career development for the past four years, opening new insights in the areas of career planning and placement.

Jackson's discussion covers important topics including hot jobs in the 80's, getting inside any company, increasing salary offers and penetrating the "hidden job market."

Cost for the presentation is $2 with a BSU ID and $4 without.

For more information, contact Linda Blanchard, Hobson memorial student union, Bemidji state university, Bemidji, MN 56601 (218-755-3760).

U'M' Grant To Create Iron Range Jobs

A $7 million grant for the expansion of a University of Minnesota physics laboratory searching for proof that the universe will end has been approved by the U.S. department of energy.

At least $1.5 million of the grant will be spent to expand the underground laboratory in Soudan, and will mean jobs for several dozen construction workers and skilled tradespeople from the economically depressed Iron Range of northern Minnesota.

Another $1 million will be used for operating the facility. Construction should begin in October, but University of Minnesota physicist Marvin Marshak stressed that applications for those jobs will not taken for some time.

Marshak, project director, announced the grant, which is to be awarded over three years, at a meeting recently with Minnesota Governor Rudy Perpich and university officials.

Physics experiement is an attempt to find evidence of the decay of the proton, an essential building block in all matter. If proof of proton decay is found, proof that all matter eventually decays will also have been found.

Two-year-old laboratory was build in a mineshaft 2,000 feet deep so that most extraneous earithy and cosmic signals would be screened out. Expansion of the project will allow physicists to extend their search to even rarer forms of decay, Marshak said.

Scientific team includes physicists from the University of Minnesota, Oxford university, Agonne national laboratory, the Rutherford national laboratory in England and Tufts university.

Higher Tax Credits For Child Care

Taxpayers eligible for the child and dependent care credit may claim higher credits on the 1982 tax returns for amounts they spent for child care in 1982, the internal revenue service said. Amount of work related expenses that taxpayers can use to figure the credit is increased to a maximum of $2,400 for one dependent, instead of $2,000 under the old law, and $4,800 for two or more dependents, instead of the previous $4,000.

Rate of the credit is 30 per cent of qualifying child care expenses if the person claiming the credit had an adjusted gross income of $10,000 a year or less. This rate then drops by one percentage point for each $2,000 of income above $10,000, until it reaches a rate of 20 per cent for taxpayers with incomes above $28,000.

Taxpayers may claim the credit for care of a dependent child under 15 years old, or a disabled spouse, or disabled dependent. IRS said that these expenses must be for the well-being and protection of a qualifying person and must allow the person claiming the credit to work.

Taxpayers requiring additional information on the child care credit benefits may obtain a free copy of IRS Publication 503, "Child and Disabled Dependent Care," by using the order blank in the tax package.

'82 Has Drop In Dollars Lost From Accidents

Total economic loss resulting from motor vehicle crashes in Minnesota decreased by over $32 million during 1982, due to reduction of motor vehicle deaths, injuries and property damage accidents, reports the Minnesota department of public safety.

Using estimates of motor vehicle crash related wage losses, medical expenses, insurance costs and property damage developed by the National safety council, traffic crashes cost Minnesota $365,833,300 in 1982. That is down from $397,977,510 in 1981.

Inflationary factors kept this cost reduction from being even greater. For example, the cost of a motor vehicle related death in 1981 was $170,000 while the estimate used in 1982 went up to $190,000.

"Of course, the main reason we would like to decrease the number of crashes is to reduce the suffering and emotional anguish they cause. However, the economic loss caused by crashes is an eye-opening statistic and may help focus attention on this tremendous problem," said Minnesota Department of public safety commissioner Paul Tschida.

Total dollar value of motor vehicle crashes in Minnesota is based on these figures: 578 deaths at $190,000 — $109,820,000; 5,776 incapacitating injuries at 15,400 — 88,950,400; 15,578 non-incapacitating injuries at 4,700 — 73,216,600; 17,325 possible injuries at 1,100 — 19,057,500; 62,324 property damage accidents at 1,200 — 74,788,800; total — $365,833,300.

Seek Input On Proposed Job Training Areas

Governor's job training council is seeking public comment on its proposed plan to divide the state into service delivery areas (SDAs) for the purpose of administering job training programs under the federal job training partnership act.

Comments must be received by 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 12, and should be directed to Dixie Diehl, Governor's Job Training Office, 690 American Center Building, 150 E. Kellogg, St. Paul, MN 55101.

SDA will develop a plan to administer the job training program for its geographic area. Some possible comments of a plan are on-the-job and classroom training and basic work experience. Every area in the state must be included in an SDA.

Thirteen service delivery areas are proposed with Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties included under the northwest area.

Free Guides to Restaurants, Resorts Given

Three free directories, designed to guide the public to over 800 Minnesota resorts, restaurants and hotels, are now available. The 1983 guides were published by the Minnesota restaurant, hotel and resort associations.

Minnesota resort association's director is a 52-page guide containing information about more than 170 resorts in the state. Descriptions of the features and facilities of each resort, reservation numbers and resort addresses are included and a special section in the directory tells which resorts offer meeting and convention facilities and the number of people which can be accommodated.

More than 440 dining establishments throughout Minnesota, ranging from supper clubs to family and fast food facilities, are listed in the Minnesota restaurant and foodservice association's dining guide. The 100-page guide includes the restaurant's address, phone number, hours open, type of menu offered and price range.

A traveler's guidebook of the Minnesota motel and motor hotel association is a 52-page guide listing more than 120 lodging properties and includes the current rates for most properties listed. Phone numbers and addresses of local chambers of commerce are provided in the Lodging Guide.

For free copies of the guides, call (612) 647-1384 or write to the Minnesota restaurant, hotel and resort associations, Suite 101, 2001 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55104. Please indicate which guide you are requesting.

Inspection Of School Buses Is Broadened

In an effort to keep more of Minnesota's school buses in top condition, the state patrol, a division of the Minnesota department of public safety, has put into effect a new phase of inspection which includes surprise safety checks of vehicles that have previously been rejected or placed on temporary status.

According to John Harbinson, assistant patrol chief, the new system makes "better utilization of our time and places emphasis on vehicles that need attention."

Using a computer record of buses that failed initial inspections or received temporary stickers (allowing them to be used for 14 days), the patrol is selecting at random about 15 per cent for subsequent inspections without prior notice. Additional inspection would be conducted after the rejected buses have been brought back into service.

At present the regular patrol bus inspection is done annually. Buses which have less than five points off are passed, those that have from five to 20 points off receive a temporary sticker and the remainder fail.

There are 16 categories used for inspections which cover an expanded list of more than 80 things that inspectors check. In 1982, Minnesota bus inspection records show that 13,259 buses were inspected. Of that number 9,526 (72.6 per cent) were allowed to continue in operation and the other 3,733 (27.3 per cent) had to be fixed before being allowed to continue in service. Most of the problems found were with body, brakes, other required lamps and chassis.

Records also show that there are relatively few failures for stop arms systems (96), tires (345) and the eight-light warning system (180). Patrol inspection form lists all items that are being checked. For instance, under the "body" category, there are nine listings including: Loose objects, loose seats, seat condition, interior cleanliness, carbon monoxide, hazardous protuberance (sharp edge), defrosters, general body condition and entrance doors out of adjustment. In the brake category, foot brakes, hose blisters and emergency brakes are listed.

In the 1982 records, the model year of buses is recorded. Last year there were vehicles as old as 19 years checked and as new as the 1983 model.

BASIC SWEET ROLL DOUGH

5 to 6 cups all purpose flour
2 pkgs. instant blend dry yeast
1½ cups milk
½ cup butter (or margarine)
½ cup sugar
1½ tsp. salt
2 eggs

In a large mixing bowl, combine 2 cups flour with the yeast. In a 1 quart saucepan, combine milk, butter, sugar, and salt. Heat until warm (120 to 130 degrees). Add to flour. Add eggs. Beat a half minute at low speed, scraping bowl constantly, then three more minutes at high speed.

Add 1 cup flour and beat one minute longer. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured board. Knead 5 to 10 minutes or until smooth and satiny. Put back into greased bowl and let rise until double in bulk.

64th Birthday Celebrated By Legion Post 117

Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 of the American Legion celebrated their 64th anniversary on Saturday, with a dinner and program at the Legion Club in Thief River Falls.

Master of ceremonies was Ward Aas, who opened the program with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Invocation and benediction were given by Father C.J. Cloutier of St. Bernard's Catholic church. Members and guests were welcomed by Auxiliary unit president Constance Driscoll and Post Commander Clair Larson.

Special music was furnished by the Lincoln high school boys chorus, accompanied by Mrs. David Morken. Also entertaining was a mixed group of singers from Northland community college.

World War I veterans, past post commanders and past unit presidents were introduced. Carl Gulrud was given special recognition as the oldest living commander present. He served in that position in 1938.

Guest speaker, Department Vice Commander Lloyd Ricker of Dawson, addressed the group, emphasizing the importance of individual members to the goals and programs of the American Legion.

Special presentations included a gift of money presented to the post from the auxiliary unit. Post Commander Clair Larson accepted the gifts from Unit President Connie Driscoll. Commander Larson recognized Vernon Lee's outstanding work with the post by presenting him with a life membership.

Ninth District Commander Bill Barbknecht of Barnsville spoke briefly, thanking the post for its hard work on membership and other programs, such as the Legion baseball tournament held here last summer. He also thanked the post for presenting Bob Reeve to run as department commander in 1985.

IRS Reduces The Marriage Tax Penalty

Married couples who both work may deduct up to $1,500 from gross income on their 1982 tax returns, the international revenue service said, reducing the so-called "marriage tax penalty.".

Working couples may deduct five per cent of the lower paid spouses' earnings, up to a maximum deduction of $1,500. In 1983, the deduction will rise to 10 per cent with a ceiling of $3,000.

To claim the exclusion, the couple must file a joint return. Complete instructions are in the 1982 Form 1040 and Form 1040A tax package.

JUDGE'S TROPHY was awarded to Steven Wigand in Minneapolis Sunday for his working in judging hair cutting, styling and total appearance during the 35th annual hair show sponsored by the Midwest chapter of the American Master Barbers and Beauticians of America (AMBBA). Winner of a number of other awards in hairstyling competition, Wigand is owner of The Barbers in Thief River Falls. Competing in the event judged by Wigand and others were barbers and cosmetologists from a five-state area. Competition was in separate divisions for styling men's, women's and children's hair.

Camp Spaces Open For Kids With Asthma

Registration is now open for camp Superkids, the camp for children with asthma, the American lung association of Minnesota has announced. Two six day sessions for boys and girls seven to nine years old and one twelve day session for ages eight to 14 will be held July 11 to 22.

At camp Superkids, children with asthma learn how to live with and control their disease. Under the supervision of a team of nurses, physicians, and camp counselors, Superkids campers take part in a variety of activities including swimming, canoeing, sailing, fishing, horseback riding, arts, crafts and sports. They also practice breathing exercises and learn about medication and other treatments for asthma.

"First of all, camp Superkids is fun," commented Pat Kasell, regional program manager for the American lung association of Minnesota. "And the kids really learn how to keep their disease, asthma, under control."

Purath Angus Farm Joins In Test Center

Purath Angus farm operated by Willard and Gary Purath of rural Red Lake Falls is participating in a joint Minnesota-Wisconsin bull test center being operated near River Falls, WI. Twenty-two breeders from each state have bulls on test at the center where the animals are fed a corn silage and high moisture cob corn ration.

Top performance bulls indexing with the highest ratios for weight per day of age and average daily gain will be offered for sale on June 4 at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls campus farm. Breeds represented in the test include Red Poll, Polled Hereford, Angus, South Devon, Maine Anjou, Penzquer, Markeys, Charolais, Ankinia and Simmental.

Woman Injured In One-Car Mishap Tues.

One-car accident about 11:45 a.m. Tuesday on highway 59 four miles south of Thief River Falls resulted in hospitalization of a Humboldt woman at Northwestern hospital here.

Violet Ramona Bakken was driving north on highway 59 when her car crossed the roadway and struck a driveway approach to the David Lee residence. The vehicle continued across the approach and ditch and into brush beyond the ditch.

Minnesota highway patrol, which is investigating the mishap, said Mrs. Bakken received back injuries and remains hospitalized today. Passengers in the car were Mrs. Bakken's son and daughter. Fourteen-year-old Rodney received bruises and was treated and released. Twelve-year-old Robin was not injured.

Viking Mission Series To Start

Missionaries representing mission service in Zaire and Mexico will participate in the missionary conference which begins Thursday and will conclude Sunday at the Viking Covenant church.

Miss Barbara Johnson, missionary to Zaire, will speak at the 7:30 p.m. Friday service. Rev. Marlan Enns, who spearheaded Covenant church formation in Mexico City, will speak at the Saturday evening service following a 6:30 p.m. dinner. Miss Donna Larson, Missionary to the Republic of Zaire, will speak at the Sunday service at 11 a.m. and show slides of her work in Africa.

Miss Johnson has served at Karawa hospital since July of 1964 where her main work is in teaching and administration in the nursing school. She has supervised public health students in practical field experience in villages around the area and from 1967 to 1979 she was in charge of the central pharmacy for all outlying dispensaries and hospitals.

"Zaire is a very difficult country to work in," she says. "The economy is in shambles and high prices, together with very poor people, create some extremely difficult situations. Perhaps the biggest challenge for us is to look for ways to help develop a discipleship program so that the vast numbers being baptized into the church can learn to grow in the faith and develop strong foundations."

Rev. Marlan Enns

Barbara Johnson

Rev. Enns and his wife serve as missionaries under the Evangelical Covenant church and prior to beginning their work in Mexico in 1974 had served 16 years as missionaries to Ecuador. In Mexico they worked with Bible classes and establishment of church congregations.

In July of 1980 they moved to Mission, TX, working on the U.S. side of the border, assisting in the LaVilla church as well as helping in an outreach program to establish new Spanish-speaking congregations in that area.

Miss Donna Larson has served as a missionary under the Evangelical Covenant church in Zaire since 1967 where her primary area of responsibility is to serve as principal of Lycee Mobonga, a senior high school for girls. The school serves about 80 students in grades 7-12 with the basic studies intended for teacher training. A full-time teacher as well as principal, she is also in charge of the boarding school as a counselor.

Donna Larson

Prior to going to Zaire as a missionary teacher, she served two years with the extension service of the U.S. department of agriculture as a home demonstration agent and two years teaching home economics with the Peace Corps in the Ivory Coast, Africa.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, would you please explain what the term "The Sovereignty of God" means. I hear this term used every once in a while, but truly don't understand it.

A. The word "sovereign" means chief or highest, the supreme one or someone supreme in power, superior in position to all others, or someone who is independent of and unlimited by any other. Used in connection with God, it means that He is entirely independent of any person or power, He is unlimited in His authority, and is the only one who has the right to do as He pleases.

God is said to be absolutely free because no one and no thing can hinder Him or compel Him or stop Him. He is able to do as He pleases always, everywhere, forever. To be thus free means also that He possesses universal authority.

Psalms 135:6 says, "Whatsoever the Lord pleased, that did He in heaven, and in earth, in the seas, and all deep places."

Psalms 115:3 says, "but our God is in the heavens: He hath done whatsoever He hath pleased."

Daniel 4:35 says, "He doeth according to His will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth: and none can stay His hand, or say unto Him, what doest thou?"

Can we imagine the Lord God of Hosts having to request permission of anyone or to apply for anything to a higher body? To whom would God go for permission? Who is higher than the Highest? Who is mightier than the Almighty?

Hebrews 6:13 says, "For when God made a promise to Abraham, because He could swear by no greater, He swore by Himself."

We know that God will fulfill every promise made to the prophets; we know that all sinners will some day be cleansed from the earth; we know that a redeemed company will enter into the joy of the Lord and that the righteous will shine forth in the Kingdom of God; we know that God's perfections will yet receive universal acclamation, that all created intelligences will admit that Jesus Christ is Lord to the Glory of God the Father, that the present imperfect order will be done away, and a new heaven and a new earth will be established forever.

Toward all this God is moving with infinite wisdom and perfect precision of action. As He is sovereign, there can be no countermanded orders, no breakdown in authority; and as He is omnipotent, there can be no want of power to achieve His chosen ends. God is sufficient unto Himself for all these things.

If you have any questions that you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

PIK Program Popular With NW Farmers

remain over winter and cut a hay crop the following year.

Another option is the planting of strips of grass 12 feet wide with 25 feet of cultivated ground between them, or strips 320 feet wide with an equal amount of cultivated ground between them. Where field shelter-belts or wooded areas exist on the north and west sides of diverted acres, no cover crop need be planted on area equal in width to 10 times the height of the trees. Further compliance information is available at the county ASCS office.

Farmers enrolled in the program who are found to be in non-compliance can be in big trouble, Bergland pointed out. Not only will they forfeit their entitlement under the diversion and PIK programs, they will be penalized at the rate of 86 cents per bushel for each bushel in their contract.

"This year in particular we can not over-emphasize the importance of knowing what is allowed and following the contract," Bergland said. "If a farmer is not certain of his field acreage, we will be happy to provide measurement service for him. If we can do this from our aerial slides, the fee will be $5 for each additional field. If a farmer is in doubt, the measurement is well worth the cost."

Bergland said fields can be measured and over-planting corrected until July 15. After that date the county office will begin spot-checking for compliance and those found to have planting in excess of their allowable acreage will be subject to the penalty. "Instead of a payment, they'll get a bill," the county director said.

District director Soderstrom said the measuring service exists in all counties in his district and that the fee schedule is the same. He also emphasized the necessity of farmers understanding what they can and can not do and abiding by the terms of their contracts.

"I'm sure we will have some difficulties as we go along," Soderstrom said, "but I'm also confident that any problems can be worked out to make the program effective as it is intended to be. There are many variables to be considered in regard to the future of the PIK program, but I would look for it to be extended into 1984."

Bergland estimated that the diversion program for wheat, barley and oats, PIK program for wheat and corn and deficiency payments on planted wheat, barley and oats would bring $7,180,052 into Pennington county for the 1983 crop year.

His estimates included 1,066,611 bushels of PIK wheat at $3.60 per bushel for $3,839,800 and 84,782 bushels of PIK corn at $2.35 per bushel for $199,237 for a PIK total of $4,039,037. This would be in return of corn and wheat already owned by the government and as such would not be an additional cost to the taxpayer, he said.

He also estimated 5,748 acres of wheat diversion times 35 bushels per acre at $2.70 per bushel for $543,186; 4,290 acres of barley diversion times 45 bushels per acre at $1.50 per bushel for $289,575; and 2,860 diverted acres of oats times 55 bushels per acre at $1 for $157,300. Total diversion payment would be $990,061.

Deficiency payment on planted wheat would be $1,344,434 based on 59,098 acres times 35 bushels per acre at 65 cents per bushel; on planted barley would be $617,760 based on 34,320 acres times 45 bushels per acre at 40 cents; and on planted oats would be $188,760 based on 22,880 acres times 55 bushels per acre at 15 cents per bushel. Total deficiency payment would be $2,150,954.

The earliest authenticated strike of workers in the United States in a single trade occurred when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week in 1786, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978," a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

No Penalty For Seniors Who Underpay Taxes

Persons over 65 and disabled persons who find they owe additional Minnesota income taxes this year because they no longer can claim the property tax refund on the income tax return will receive an exemption from any penalty charged for underpaying their estimated tax to the extent of the property tax refund. This is the result of legislation which directs the revenue department not to make the assessment.

Arthur C. Roemer, Minnesota's commissioner of revenue, explained the circumstances leading up to this directive. He said the problem occurred in the 1982 legislative session which eliminated the option for senior citizens and disabled persons to claim the property tax refund on their income tax return. According to Roemer, the homeowners who were not over 65 or disabled never had this option. For renters, the legislation was passed in time so that they were aware that the option was no longer available when they made their 1982 estimate.

"By the time the option was taken away by the 1982 legislature, the estimated tax forms had been printed," Roemer said. "This meant that many of the persons over 65 or disabled were not aware of the change in law until they prepared this year's return."

According to Roemer, department would have been required to make the assessment in all cases where the prepaid taxes were substantially underpaid and then rule on a case by case basis if this directive was not passed.

ARNIE MAURSTAD, Secretary
Dated March 21, 1983

"Be Prepared To Save Life" Is March Theme

Nineteen eighty-two is the year that will be remembered for poisonings. Minnesota poison control system (MPCS) wants 1983 to be remembered as the year for preventing such tragedies.

To accomplish this goal, the MPCS will conduct a statewide education program during National poison prevention week, which is March 20-26, using the theme: "Be Prepared To Save A Life".

Poison prevention is important because it is estimated that most poisoning incidents could be prevented. Each year in the U.S. five million poisonings occur. In Minnesota 100,000 people require poison information and-or treatment annually, according to Dr. Sam Hall, MPCS medical director. Hall also added that about 80 per cent of those poisonings occur in children and only about five per cent of all Minnesota households are poison proof.

MPCS's main focus during poison prevention week will be to get "Syrup of Ipecac into every home," said Dr. Richard Kingston, MPCS managing director. Syrup of Ipecac program will be reinforced with MPCS's other education programs: E.C., (extra careful) a puppet show for pre-school, will be given in nursery schools and day care centers throughout Minnesota and "poison-proof your home" programs will be taught in elementary schools, throughout the state. This program was developed cooperatively among MPCS, Minnesota department of education, FDA and consumer product safety commission.

Syrup of Ipecac is a drug extracted from the Ipecacuana plant of South America and is available without a prescription. It is a natural irritant to the stomach which safely induces vomiting. However, Syrup of Ipecac should never be used without first consulting the poison control center of a physician.

"Syrup of Ipecac is the single most important substance to have in the home," Kingston said. "When used with the advice of a physician or the poison center, Ipecac can be effective in treating an accidental poisoning at home." This, Kingston added, can help to keep patients at home while avoiding hospitalization.

Paddock laboratories, a Minnesota drug manufacturer, is supporting MPCS's program by producing bottles of Syrup of Ipecac with special labels showing the MPCS logo and 24-hour information telephone numbers. This product will be sold in pharmacies throughout Minnesota.

Minnesotans should ask their pharmacist for the Syrup of Ipecac free poison-prevention brochure and MPCS telephone stickers.

MPCS is the state-designated poison information center based at St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center. MPCS provides around the clock poison telephone information and emergency assistance to the public as well as health care professionals. Numbers to call are: Twin Cities - 221-2113; outstate (toll free) - 1-800-222-1222.

Council Offers Incentives To Retire Early

Thief River Falls city council approved a program to encourage early retirement of full-time city employees at its regular meeting last night in council chambers at city auditorium.

Program was developed by the finance committee as a method of cutting costs. City is faced with budget deficits due to cuts in state aids, as Governor Rudy Perpich attempts to balance the state budget, including a possible [illegible],000 cut in 1984.

Alderman James Womack, chairman of the finance committee, emphasized that the success of the program was dependent on not hiring replacements for the retiring employees, or hiring on a part-time basis if necessary. He estimated that the city could save $22,000 to $27,000 in 1984, if the retiring employees were replaced on a part time basis.

Alderman Bill Penning questioned whether personnel could be cut without cutting services. "The onus will fall on the department heads to get more productivity out of the employees they have," said Womack. He noted that there were five employees in the general fund who would be eligible for the early retirement. City Clerk Gerald Wigness stated that they had talked to all but one of the employees, and three had expressed interest at this point.

Womack emphasized that the incentives were being offered as a one-time deal this year, and would not be setting a precedent for the future. Employees eligible for early retirement would have to notify the city of their intentions to participate by June 30. Employment would have to be severed by no later than December 31, with September 30 retirement preferred.

Employees qualified for the incentives would have to be: age 55 with 20 years of service in police and fire; age 58 or more with at least 20 years of service for public employees retirement association (PERA); age 62 or more with at least 10 years of service for PERA; age 65 with at least one or more years of service with the city; or have their age plus years of service total 90.

Incentives offered the retiring employees would be a lump-sum payment of $10 for each month of full-time employment with the city; the opportunity to join a sub-group of the employees' group health insurance plan, at the same rate; and eligibility for $3,000 of term life insurance at the group rate offered to the city.

Motion to approve the plan was carried unanimously.

In a separate action, council approved a resolution to create a retiree sub-group for group health insurance.

In other business, the council:

— Approved an agreement between the city and county relating to sharing of costs for maintenance, repair and electrical power for signal lights on CSAH 17. Each are to share 50 per cent of the cost.

— Authorized the mayor and clerk to sign over deeds for certain parcels of land needed for right of way on the Highway 59 frontage road project, to the Minnesota department of transportation. Properties involved include the right of way areas in front of K-Mart, McDonalds and the city storage yard.

Note was made that due to a replatting of the area which had never been filed, the area in front of McDonalds had only 54 and a half feet of right of way instead of 60. Possible legal difficulties were felt to be the problem of the state department of transportation.

Alderman Bill Penning voted against approving the deed transfer, claiming he had been unaware of changes made to the frontage road plan near the city storage yard when the plan was approved by council last spring. Project is scheduled for bids in June.

— Discussed possible annexation of property owned by Ed Fisher, north of Sixth Street, to allow him to hook up to city water and sewer at his own expense. Matter was referred to the planning commission for their April 4 agenda, to allow them to study the possibility of annexing a larger area;

— Approved paying expenses for printing and distribution of a booklet and pamphlet under the "Star Cities" program. Materials are to be distributed to prospective businesses expressing interest in locating in the city, and were prepared jointly by the city planner's office and the chamber of commerce. Cost was estimated to be between $130 and $180.

— Referred a request from Raymond Ptacek for assistance in draining a field outside the city limits to the street committee. Committee is to study whether development in the Allwood Acres area is responsible for the drainage problem.

— Heard that the league of Minnesota cities generally supported a proposal made by Senator Dave Durenberger to restore general revenue sharing for states.

— Heard that the sanitation department would resume twice weekly garbage pickups on April 4. Pickup will continue on boulevards until alleys are usable.

— Approved a second horse auction to be held by Duane Olson at the fairgrounds on April 17.

— Passed a resolution opposing Governor Perpich's proposed cuts of state aid to cities.

"CLEOPATRA" is the title for the skating routine to be performed by Jennifer Anderson (left) and Kim Kenville during the "Seven Seas Adventure" presented by the Thief River Falls recreational skating committee ice show Saturday and Sunday. Shows are scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday in the sports arena.

Students Must Furnish Towels After April 4

Beginning April 5, all students in physical education classes at Lincoln senior high school and Franklin middle school will be required to furnish and launder their own towels instead of having towels supplied by the school. The change involves students in grades six through 10.

"Showers will still be required and are a part of the daily grade given in physical education," state Lincoln high school principal Frank Hamerlinck and Franklin principal Dr. Milton Hoff. "We encourage parents to stress to their sons or daughters that sharing a towel is not a good idea and that towels should be laundered on a regular basis."

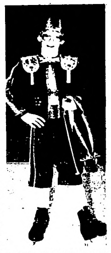
Change in the procedure is part of the district's cost-cutting program and cooperation by parents and students is requested to make the transition operate successfully.

Library Sets Two Films For Seniors' Day

"Tutankhamum" and "Jackson Hole" are the two films that will be shown at the library's senior citizen's day on Thursday at the Northwest regional library.

"Tutankhamum" provides a unique photographic inspection of objects found in the Pharoah's tomb; and "Jackson Hole" is a film of what happens when 16,000 hungry elk come to town, and the town of Jackson puts them on winter relief.

Program is free of charge and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.



JARED ELLINGSON will skate his first solo in local ice revue performances Saturday and Sunday at the Thief River Falls sports arena. He will be presented in the role of "El Toro".

BECKY LEANDER will skate the role of "My Fair Lady" in the Thief River Falls parks and recreation association skating show Saturday and Sunday at the sports arena. It will be her first solo performance in local Fantasy on Ice productions.

Jobless Given Extension Of Insurance Pay

Approximately 26,000 persons who have exhausted their regular unemployment compensation benefits may be eligible for up to 13 additional weeks of payments, the Minnesota department of economic security announced recently.

Federal-state extended benefit program, which provides additional unemployment insurance benefits in time of high unemployment, began in Minnesota on Sunday. Additional unemployment benefits may be available to persons whose regular claims were filed effective March 25, 1982, or later, and who have exhausted those benefits. Of that 26,000 total, 20,000 persons currently are receiving federal supplemental benefits which will be replaced by the extended benefits. Those individuals who previously filed for federal supplemental benefits and who were denied those benefits due to insufficient earnings will not be entitled to extended benefits.

Persons who potentially are eligible for extended benefits will be notified by mail as to the dates and times they are to report to their local unemployment insurance offices to file claims. Those persons who will be notified should receive the notice by Thursday, March 24. However, persons who do not receive notices or who have any questions about the program should contact their local offices.

To be eligible for extended benefits, an individual must be actively seeking and willing to accept suitable work. "Suitable work" is defined as any work a claimant can do; work that pays gross weekly wages that exceed the claimant's weekly benefit amount, plus any supplemental unemployment benefits; and work that pays wages equal to or in excess of the legal minimum wage for the job.

To be eligible for benefits, unemployed persons must seek work on their own for each week they claim benefits and provide a written report of their employment contacts. They must also be registered for work with the state Job Service.

$4,027,000 Granted In SBA Loans

Celso C. Moreno, district director of the Minnesota district office of the small business administration (SBA), announced recently that $4,027,000 in SBA guaranteed loans had been approved for 21 Minnesota companies and one economic development loan in the amount of $49,000 in the month of February 1983. The projected additional employment created as a result of these loans is 367 jobs.

Direct management assistance was provided by 81 Minnesota firms through the SBA's in-house counselors or through support groups like the service corps of retired executives and the twelve colleges participating in the small business institute program.

Fifty-five loans were paid-in-full during the month of February.

Back Behind The Barn Boys Win Contest

"Back Behind the Barn Boys", a country western band from the Grygla-Gatzke area, won top honors at the regional country showdown held last Monday at Dallas North in Grand Forks.

Band's performance of "Don't Wait on Me" and "I've Been Everywhere" earned them the top prize of $1,000 and a trip to the state contest in Fargo on July 10, where they will be competing for a trip to Nashville, TN. Last year the group was the Minnesota state winner in this contest.

Members of the group are Terry Ruud, Dan Schulz, Randy McMillin, Mike Sistad, Randy Larson, Tom Bernstein, Gene Lunsetter and Tom Monson, who runs the sound board.

State Cerebral Palsy Games Set For May

Cub Pack 199 Held Blue And Gold Banquet

Cub Scout Pack 199 held its monthly meeting at St. John's Lutheran Church on February 28, highlighted by the blue and gold banquet.

Lavonne Masters gave the invocation followed by a potluck supper.

Webelos presented the colors for flag ceremonies, which were followed by group singing. Mayor Bob Carlson, representing the national council, presented the pack with their Boy Scout charter. Don Wentzel accepted the charter on behalf of the pack.

Greg Gangler was recognized for having made a welcome banner for the newly organized Tiger Cubs. He also did art work on the stage and a poster for the program. Nail pounding competition between parents and scouts was won by the scouts. Webelos presented a program of skits using puppets which they had made.

Awards were presented to the following scouts:

Den 2 (Wolf) — Scott Carlson, one gold and two silver arrows, and fourth red bead; Jeremy Gagner, one gold and two silver arrows; Cory Gustafson, two silver arrows; Lance Hendrickson, gold and silver arrow; Tom Upham, one gold and two silver arrows;

Den 3 (Bear) — Joel Fremstad, silver arrow; Jamie Thomton, four red beads;

Den 5 (Bear) — Ryan Bakken, bear badge, third and fourth red bead; Ricky Beir, bear badge, third and fourth red bead; Steven Engestrom, bear badge, second, third and fourth red bead; Troy Mattson, first red bead; Chris Melbye, second, third and fourth red bead;

Scott Vedbratten and Mick Fisher were presented den chief awards.

Webelos retired the colors and the meeting was ended with the singing of "Good Night Cub Scouts."

Parents were asked to take a newsletter so they could be aware of upcoming events. Scouts will be delivering circulars in March to earn money for day camp in June. March pack meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 28.

MEA To Serve Watchdog Role On Class Size

Head of the Minnesota Eduation association promises to work with the Minnesota department of education in policing SDE rules and regulations — especially those pertaining to class size — to "develop a better learning climate."

President Donald C. Hill, lauding education commissioner John Feda's recent action in tightening enforcement of class size regulations, explains that the MEA will perform a watchdog function "to assure that the SDE will adhere to its own rules and regulations regarding class size, which would improve eduation and help develop a better learning climate."

Hill adds that the lawsuit being planned by MEA to force enforcement of the pertinent SDE rules and regulations will not be filed, pending satisfactory performance by the department.

Hill appeared before the Minnesota board of education last November with data pinpointing violations of SDE rules and regulations pertaining to class size. When no action resulted, he appeared before the board again earlier this month, with additional date concerning violations and alerted the board and SDE that MEA planned to sue for enforcement of those regulations.

Last week, in a letter to Hill, Feda "set forth the efforts of the department to respond" to the MEA's concern. "I personally called the superintendent of each district for which the department had information, supplied by you, suggesting a violation of Edu 46 relating to pupil loads," Feda said. He also seeks information from superintendents regarding violations — what caused them, what action was taken and what precautions are being taken to prevent recurrence — and that he has alerted SDE staff as to the need for current information from department computers pertaining to class sizes and teacher loads.

"MEA," Hill concludes, "is pleased with commissioner Feda's response and his actions in expediting a solution to the problem.

"We will, however, maintain a watchdog posture, especially with respect to exemptions from the regulations. It's foolish to belittle those regulations by pointing to exemptions.

"We anticipate that the state department of education will develop objective standards for exemptions so that they are not granted at someone's whim."

Sportshow Has Wide Variety Of Entertainers

Annual Northwest Sportshow presents an all new stage show with acts that have performed the world over as a special "show within the show" March 25 - April 3 at the Minneapolis Auditorium.

In addition to previewing the newest in boats, fishing, camping and sporting equipment, winter-weary outdoor lovers can escape into a fantasy land of thrills and entertainment at the one-hour stage show that opens with Sparky the Seal recreating stage and water tricks that have made him a favorite of Sportshow visitors for 25 years.

Next comes television and film star, Bill Kirchenbauer, incorporating physical comedy with a unique talent of impersonating almost anything imaginable including garbage trucks, typewriters and copy machines. The wild and crazy Kirchenbauer has been featured on The Tonight Show, Fernwood 2-Nite and in many movies including Airplane and G.O.R.P.

Volantes, direct from Las Vegas, next present a fast-paced variety act astride high-riding unicyces intesturing music and humor with novelty unicycle riding that will amaze everyone.

Tom Dokken is back with his trained dogs providing an astonishing demonstration of upland and water retrieving at its finest.

Hollywood stuntman and actor, Joe Gilbride, performs a water-diving act that will leave the crowd breathless with laughter and surprise.

Staneks next recreate the "senatational pole act" that they recently executed on "That's Incredible". You have to see it to believe it.

Stage show concludes with the heart-stopping aerial thrill act of the Sensational Leighs on the "Giant Space Wheel". The internationally acclaimed aerialists propel the enormous wheel with their own movements and actions without the aid of motors, gimmicks or safety devices of any kind. The Leighs conclude their act with a hair-raising, death-defying "run in space" that will leave the strong as well as weak-hearted trembling.

Opening night stage show is at 9:30 p.m. There will be two shows on Saturdays and Monday through Friday at 3:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the auditorium arena. Sunday performance times are 3:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the auditorium arena. 20,000 Protest Withholding On Interest

"Over 20,000 of our neighbors have written to Washington to protest the tax provision which will force banks to withhold 10 per cent of the interest people earn on their savings and investments," states Congressman Arlan Stangeland.

"That is the heaviest flood of mail into my office during my six years in congress. I couldn't agree more with these people. It is a terrible idea.

"I opposed and voted against the 10 per cent withholding tax last August," Congressman Stangeland said. "On the first day of the new Congress, I introduced a bill to repeal this misguided provision. Over 300 Representatives have now cosponsored my bill or similar legislation.

The 10 per cent withholding plan is scheduled to begin on July 1, 1983. It was passed as a part of the tax equity and fiscal responsibility act of 1982. "The 10 per cent tax is neither equitable nor fiscally responsible," Congressman Stangeland said.

"It's not fair to begin withholding taxes on interest income up to a year before the tax is due," he said. "Depositors stand to lose money because they'll have less principal in their accounts to compound interest."

Congressman Stangeland noted that this provision will hurt almost everyone. "There will be less money to lend, so fewer jobs will be created," he said. "Poeple who need to borrow for their education or to build a home will lose out. And all consumers will have to pay for the cost of extra paperwork for the banks."

He noted that the tax code already requires financial institutions to report interest income on the IRS Form 1099. "We've recently learned that the IRS doesn't do anything with Form 1099," Congressman Stangeland said. "It doesn't even put the information on its computers. If the IRS used this data, we would have no need for the 10 per cent withholding tax."

"This is just more paperwork for everyone," he said. "The tax code already discourages saving and investment," the Barnesville farmer said. "This new plan will just worsen the situation. I'll continue to work for repeal of this misguided plan. It should have never happened in the first place."

Four area youth hockey teams were busy in Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association (MAHA) state tournament play over the weekend, with Crookston emerging as a state champion in the Pee-Wee A ranks at Austin. Bemidji and Warroad, meanwhile, were involved in the Bantam A state tournament at Bemidji and Roseau was in the Pee-Wee A event at Austin.

It was a strange turn of events that enabled Crookston to win a state title.

Trailing Rochester 4-3 in opening round play, Crookston's Jeff Perreault, one of the team's top players, was given a 10-minute misconduct penalty for not wearing a mouth guard. Crookston protested the call, coming with 3:23 remaining in the game. After Rochester had apparently won by that 4-3 score, state MAHA personnel were contacted and tournament officials ruled that the final 3:23 had to be replayed, based on the ruling that Pee-Wees wearing facemasks are not required to wear mouth guards.

So, after Crookston beat East St. Paul 6-1 in a second round game, they resumed the Rochester encounter. Almost immediately Perreault himself scored the tying goal, then with six seconds left, Steve Habstritt scored to make Crookston a dramatic 5-4 winner.

Crookston then added a 9-0 win over Austin, outshooting the host team 54-7, and finished with a 2-1 championship game decision over Coleraine, a team that had beaten them 10-2 earlier this year in a tournament at Bemidji. Crookston, only the No. 3 team of both district and regional play, finished the year 32-5, including a 2-1 loss to Seven Oaks of Winnipeg in the finals of the McDonald's Pee-Wee A Invitational tournament played here in late February. The group was 21-5 as Squirts last year.

Coach Dick Johnson's Roseau Pee-Wees lost a 7-0 first round decision to Edina, a 45-3 team that Roseau defeated 4-2 earlier in the year in an invitational tournament at Fergus Falls. Roseau bounced back to beat Crystal 5-4 but then lost a tough 5-4 decision to defending state champion and No. 1-rated Coleraine. Roseau is 35-5-1 for the year.

Meanwhile at Bemidji, in a match-up of the state's top two-rated Bantam A teams, No. 1 St. Paul Johnson came back from a 3-0 first period deficit to beat the No. 2 Duluth Stewarts 4-3 in the finals. Johnson ran its record to 69-4 for the year with the state title.

Coached by Lincoln high school graduate John Wangberg, host Bemidji, a winner in the McDonald's Invitational and the Ninth District VFW tournaments, both played in Thief River Falls, was 37-2 coming into the state meet, but lost three times — to St. Paul Johnson 5-3, Hibbing 2-0 and Spring Lake Park 5-1.

They still have a shot at a state title in the VFW state tournament this weekend in St. Cloud.

Warroad, coached by Billy Christian, brought a 31-9 record into the state Bantam tournament, but lost to Bloomington Kennedy 6-3 and the Duluth Stewarts 8-1 while skating to a 6-6 tie with New Hope.

Miscellaneous

+ Section 8 high school hockey coaches have voted in favor of returning to Thief River Falls for the 1983-84 preseason Section 8 hockey jamboree Nov. 26 in the sports arena.

+ Because of prohibitive costs, the 1983 Minnesota state high school basketball tournament this week will not be televised in northwestern Minnesota, according to Sjoberg's Cable TV officials.

+ Bemidji State University, with Thief River Falls' Bob Fitzgerald and Dave Geatz in the lineup, reached the NCAA Division II hockey tournament finals before losing to surprising Rochester (N.Y.) Tech 4-2 Saturday. Bemidji beat Babson (Mass.) 3-1 Thursday in the semifinals, with defending champion and host Lowell (Mass.) dropping a 4-1 semifinal game to Rochester. Thief River Falls' Scott Wiebolt plays for Lowell, a 5-3 winner over Babson in the third place game.

+ Lincoln high school girls track team is scheduled to open its 1983 season Fri., April 8, at the Crookston Indoor in the Winter Shows Building, with the Lincoln boys opening their track schedule at the same site Thurs., April 14. Meanwhile, a decision is expected Monday from School District 564 officials concerning the Lincoln baseball and golf programs, earmarked for possible discontinuation because of budget cutbacks.

Clarkson Lands Thief River Falls' Tom Kenville

Tom Kenville became the second Lincoln high school hockey player within a week's span to announce that he has accepted a scholarship offer from an NCAA Division I school Tuesday when he named Clarkson College of Potsdam, N.Y. as his choice from among some 20 schools who have been in contact with the Thief River Falls senior.

Earlier, teammate Tim Bergland said he would accept a scholarship offer from the University of Minnesota.

Kenville, a versatile performer who sometimes was switched from his normal center position to help out on defense, finished the 1982-83 season with five goals, 23 assists and 28 points for the 16-6-1 Prowlers, who reached the 1983 Section 8 tournament finals before losing to Roseau 1-0.

His point totals maybe weren't as impressive as some of the other top recruits in Section 8, but his hockey skills nevertheless caught the scouts' eye.

Bob Richardson, a Clarkson assistant coach, has been watching Kenville for three years. "I saw Tom as a sophomore and I thought he was a pretty complete hockey player then. He has the skills to do the things he has to do to get the job done. He has good vision on the ice; he can see what's happening and he knows what he has to do. He's the type of player that makes things happen."

Tom Kenville

Richardson feels Kenville fits the mold of an Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference (ECAC) hockey player and thinks he has a chance to see some playing time as a freshman, although he's quick to say that nothing is guaranteed.

"Any school, if they're honest, shouldn't promise anything," he said. But unlike the 40-or-so players that Minnesota might have on hand, Clarkson will carry only 17-to-22 hockey players, so the opportunity for ice time will certainly be there, Richardson points out.

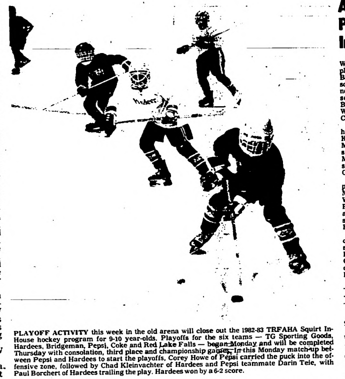
Clarkson was 19-11-1 this year, making the ECAC postseason playoffs (where 8 of 17 teams qualify each year) for the 21st time in the last 22 years — the best mark of any ECAC school, Richardson explained. Bill O'Flaherty completed his fourth year as coach of the Golden Knights this winter with a 92-38-7 won-lost mark at the school. "We're traditionally one of the top four or five in the East and I can't see that changing next year," Richardson said.

Clarkson, a school of about 3,800 students in the St. Lawrence River Valley of northern New York, will lose four hockey players to graduation this year — three forwards and a defenseman — along with an underclassman who has elected to try professional hockey. The school will give out few scholarships for hockey this year. Unlike schools such as Minnesota that traditionally divide those grants and offer partial scholarships to attract more players, Clarkson's offer is a full-ride, four-year deal.

Chad Johnson of Roseau and Ron Smith of Bemidji are two other Section 8 players Clarkson is interested in. Johnson seems interested in Clarkson, noted Richardson, but Smith has indicated he may elect to stay closer to home.

Kenville, meanwhile, looks forward to the challenge and opportunity that college hockey in the ECAC offers. His goal, like all in-coming freshmen, is to land a starting position. He has his eyes fixed on one of the two center positions that will open up with graduation losses.

His final decision came between Clarkson and Lowell, said Kenville, who also seriously considered Minnesota, North Dakota and Michigan. Clarkson and Lowell were willing to guarantee him scholarships while the others said they'd give him aid, but not until after they saw what their losses would be to the pros and Olympic teams. In the end, a more rural atmosphere at Clarkson won out over the urban surroundings of Lowell.



PLAYOFF ACTIVITY this week in the old arena will close out the 1982-83 TRFAHA Squirt In-House hockey program for 9-10 year-olds. Playoffs for the six teams — TG Sporting Goods, Hardees, Bridgeman, Pepsi, Coke and Red Lake Falls — began Monday and will be completed Thursday with consolation, third place and championship games. In this Monday match-up between Pepsi and Hardees to start the playoffs, Corey Howe of Pepsi carried the puck into the offensive zone, followed by Chad Kleinvachter of Hardees and Pepsi teammate Darin Teie, with Paul Borchert of Hardees trailing the play. Hardees won by a 6-2 score.

TRF Community Has Four Division I Hockey Players

by Mike Lundgren,
Times Sports Editor

With the announcement that Lincoln high school seniors Tim Bergland and Tom Kenville have accepted scholarship offers at the University of Minnesota and Clarkson, respectively, Thief River Falls can boast of having four players in NCAA Division I hockey, a real salute to the city's hockey program.

Bergland and Kenville will join Scott Wiebolt and Scott Sabo as Thief River Falls Division I hockey players. Sabo is a junior on the University of Wisconsin team that will face Providence Thursday in the NCAA Division I hockey semifinals in Grand Forks. Wiebolt was a sophomore defenseman on the University of Lowell squad that reached the NCAA Division II tournament semifinals last week, with Lowell now moving into Division I ranks for the 1983-84 season.

Neither Sabo or Wiebolt went right into their college programs out of high school. Sabo spent a year with the Warroad Lakers before joining the Badgers and Wiebolt played as a freshman at Northland community college before heading to Lowell. Sabo scored two goals Sunday in a 7-1 Wisconsin win over St. Lawrence that helped the Badger complete a 13-3 two-game, total-goal NCAA tournament quarterfinal sweep. As soon as the hockey tournament is completed Saturday, Sabo will join the Wisconsin baseball team as a left-handed pitcher.

Clarkson assistant coach Bob Richardson, who recruited Kenville, was very familiar with Wiebolt during a Tuesday telephone conversation. He tried to land Wiebolt in his previous role as recruiting coordinator at Yale.

"I just could not believe other Division I schools weren't all over him," Richardson said. "We were shaking our heads." When Richardson found out Wiebolt was playing at a two-year community college program, he convinced Boston University, his ala mater, to go after him. But he would have had to sit out a year as a transfer student going into the Division I program, so he elected to attend Division II Lowell, where he was elegible immediately, knowing that they had Division I aspirations.

Clarkson and Lowell will be facing each other next winter.

"I've been to Thief River a number of times, particularly for the (preseason Section 8) jamboree," explained Richardson. "It's certainly obvious the community takes a great deal of pride and does a good job with its hockey program. You have some really nice kids there, including some underclassmen we can hopefully interest in giving us a look in the future."

In addition to Bergland, Kenville, Wiebolt and Sabo in the Division I ranks, Thief River Falls also has four players in Division II programs, including Bob Fitzgerald and Dave Geatz, who helped lead Bemidji State University to a runner-up finish in the recently completed Division II tournament; Steve Olson, who was a member of the MIAC Conference champion St. Thomas squad; and Mark Harder, who was at Hamline this winter.

Seven other Lincoln graduates played hockey at Northland this winter: Greg Harder, Tom Ose, Todd Bergland, Murray Jorde, Tony Loeffler, Jim Dillon and Jeff Imgrund.

Coach Wendell Grand of the Prowlers, along with the rest of the community, takes pride in the list of Thief River Falls products in the college ranks.

"As high school, coach of course I'm extremely happy with the kids. We're proud of the accomplishments of all of them," he said. "It speaks well for the youth hockey program. It's got to be encouraging for everyone in the program."

Grand still resents the fact that major college coaches didn't put more of an effort into recruiting Sabo and Wiebolt out of high school, but is more than happy with the interest drawn by Bergland and Kenville this year.

"We feel we've had some Division I players who didn't have the opportunity immediately. This is certainly a very pleasant way to cap off our season for our two captains — who are quality kids — to have that kind of opportunity."

It's also kind of exciting, he said, to have four Thief River Falls products involved in the case for NCAA national titles like they were this year.

DARREN SHELDON of Red Lake Falls, who earlier won on the local level here in Thief River Falls, also won at the district, state and regional levels to earn a spot in the national finals of the Elks Hoop Shoot basketball free throw shooting contest, scheduled to be held April 22-24 in Indianapolis, Ind. Frank Womack of Thief River Falls Elks Lodge 1308 (left), coordinator of the area program, reports this is the first time in the ten-year history of the program a local winner has reached the national finals.

Elks Hoop Shoot Contest . . .

Local Winner Is National Finalist

Northwestern Minnesota will be represented by Darren Sheldon of Red Lake Falls at the national finals of the Elks Hoop Shoot free throw shooting contest April 22-24 in Indianapolis, Ind.

Sheldon, competing in the boys' 12-13-year-old division, earned a spot in the national finals with a winning effort in regional competition over the weekend at Iowa City, Iowa.

His climb up the ladder began at the local level in Thief River Falls and carried him to the Northern District event at Hibbing and the state shoot at Hutchinson before the trip to Iowa City where he was matched against state champions from Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin. Twelve regional winners in each age group will be at the national finals.

Frank Womack of Thief River Falls Elks Lodge 1308 reports this is the first time in the 10 years of the event here that a local winner has reached the national finals. Some 35,000 youngsters took part in the program state-wide.

Darren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sheldon of Red Lake Falls, made 24 of 25 free throws to win the regional title. Earlier he had identical 22-for-25 showings at the district and state levels after advancing locally with a 17-for-25 showing.

Basketball Hot Shot Contest Held At LHS

Second Hot-Shot basketball shooting contest, sponsored by the Lincoln high school basketball team, was held Saturday with a high school and junior high division.

Kevin Nelson won the high school division by scoring 222 points on three rounds of 72, 77 and 73 points as individuals race against the clock by shooting from various spots on the court that are worth varying amount of points. Robert Vanyo was second with 167 points and Dean Koropatnicki was third with 158.

Matt Reynolds repeated as junior high winner with 166 points on rounds of 58-44-64. Chris Nelson was second with 158 points and Chris Bjorgaard was third with 136.

Another round of competition will be held Saturday in the Lincoln gym, with junior high shooters on the court from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and high school competitors taking over from 10:30 to 12-noon.

State Tournament Starts On Thursday

Seventy-first annual Minnesota State High School League state basketball tournament will begin its three-day run on Thursday with quarterfinal round games being played at Williams Arena in Minneapolis and at the St. Paul Civic Center.

All semifinal and championship games will take place on Friday and Saturday at the St. Paul Civic Center. Class A games will commence beginning at 1:05 p.m. Friday with Class AA games set to start at 7:05 p.m. The title games Saturday are 3 p.m. in Class A and 9 p.m. in Class AA.

Thursday's activity in Williams Arena will involve eight Class A qualifiers, with the Class AA eight teams set to play that day in the St. Paul Civic Center.

Pairings in Class A are as follows: 1:15 p.m. — Region 3A Clara City (22-1) vs. Region 8A Littlefork-Big Falls (22-1); 3:15 p.m. — Region 1A Lake City (15-8) vs. Region 2A Luverne (17-6). In the other bracket beginning at 7:15 p.m. — Region 5A Minneapolis De La Salle (17-6) vs. Region 6A Staples (16-7); 9:15 p.m. — Region 4A Brooklyn Center (19-4) vs. Region 7A Barnum (23-0).

In Class AA the parings look like this: 1:05 p.m. — Region 5AA Minneapolis North (17-4) vs. Region 7AA Chisago Lakes (20-2); 3:05 p.m. — Region 1AA New Prague (16-6) vs. Region 3AA Woodbury (21-0). In the other bracket starting at 7:05 p.m. — Region 2AA Willmar (20-2) vs. Region 6AA Edina (21-0); 9:05 P.M. — Region 4AA Coon Rapids (22-0) vs. Region 8AA St. Cloud Tech (14-8).

Experts like Minneapolis De La Salle as the favorite in Class A with Brooklyn Center rated a darkhorse, while in Class AA top-rated Coon Rapids is the pick of many, although Edina, Woodbury and Willmar are given good chances to win top honors.

This year's field has three schools which have never had basketball teams in a state boys tourney before. Chisago Lakes and Coon Rapids are first-timers in Class AA while Barnum, a Class A school, is making its first trip.

The tournament has four undefeated teams, only three repeaters from a year ago, and will name new state titlists as both Bloomington Jefferson in Class AA and Winona Cotter in Class A lost in region and district playdowns, respectively.

Four unbeatens include three from Class AA. They are Coon Rapids, Edina and Woodbury. Woodbury is in the opposite bracket of the other two, so the championship game could be between two undefeated squads. In Class A only Barnum is unbeaten.

Making return trips to the tournament are Minneapolis North and St. Cloud Tech in Class AA and Staples in Class A. Minneapolis North is back for a fourth straight time; St. Cloud Tech has been entered three of the last four years; and Staples is returning for a third consecutive time.

Schools in the tournament who have won previous state championships include Luverne and Lake City in Class A, and Edina and Minneapolis North in Class AA. Luverne won in 1964, while Lake City won back-to-back Class A titles in 1978 and 1979 behind 7-1 center Randy Breuer. Edina has captured three state championships — all in successive years — 1966 through 1968 — when the tournament had one class. In fact, those teams won 68 straight games before losing once in 1968. Their three-year record was 79-1. Minneapolis North, meanwhile, captured top honors in 1980 in Class AA.

School in the tournament with most previous appearances is Willmar. The Cardinals are making their tenth state trip. Close behind is Luverne, who will be back for a ninth time. St. Cloud Tech is in an eighth time and Minneapolis North seven. The only other school with more than five appearances is New Prague, who is making their sixth appearance this year. All other 11 schools have been in five or less years.

Archery Club Banquet Set Friday Night

Annual Thief River Falls Archery Club spring awards banquet will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in the National Guard Armory.

Guest speaker will be Jon Cole, area game manager of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

For additional information contact Dana Kloe, 681-7128.

Minnesota Twins hold the American League record for team home runs in one month, slugging 55 in May of 1964.

Area Hunters May Display At Deer Classic

Minnesota deer classic, which will include display of several hundred mounted trophy deer heads and a number of seminars, will be conducted April 23 and 24 at the Minneapolis national guard armory.

Area hunters may participate in the event by having their trophy mounts on display. North Country taxidermy of route 2, Thief River Falls, will be attending the show and has offered to transport deer head mounts to be placed on display. Entry forms may be obtained by calling 681-4924.

Clinics at the deer classic cover such topics as archery, stalking, scents, biology, camouflage, hunting the rut, outdoor photography, wild game cooking, stand selection and field dressing.

Squirts In-House

Finals will be played Thursday at the old arena in the Thief River Falls Squirts In-House playoffs.

First round games were played Monday when No. 4-seeded Hardees defeated No. 5 Pepsi 6-2 and No. 6-seeded Red Lake Falls upset No. 3 Coke 6-1.

In Tuesday's semifinals No. 1-seeded TG Sporting Goods got by Hardees 4-2 and No. 2-seeded Bridgeman doubled Red Lake Falls 8-4.

Thursday's schedule will feature Pepsi vs. Coke in the 3:45 p.m. consolation game; Hardees vs. Red Lake Falls in the 5 p.m. third place game; and TG Sporting Goods vs. Bridgeman in the 6:30 p.m. championship game.

Bantam A

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team came up with a championship performance at the Brainerd Invitational over the weekend, racking up 6-0 wins over both Alexandria and Brainered, then beating Austin 4-2 in the finals.

Steve Fellman, Bob Geatz and Al Erickson scored two goals each against Alexandria in first round play, with all the scoring done in the final two periods to back up the 18-save shutout goaltending of Shayne Anderson. Erickson also had two assists, as did Bob Breiland.

Geatz had a three-goal hat trick vs. Brainerd, with Erickson, Breiland and Scott Novak scoring single goals, again all the scoring coming after a scoreless first period. Mike Anderson had a 17-save shutout.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 3-1 first period lead in the finals against Austin behind goals by Erickson, Blair Lund and Brian Maki. After a scoreless second period Austin cut the gap to 3-2, but Erickson got the final goal to insure the victory. Shayne Anderson was in goal for the winners, who out-shot Austin 45-17.

Coached by Rory Anderson and Jeff Tunberg, Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team will close out its 1982-83 season this weekend with an invitational tournament appearance at International Falls, playing Proctor Friday in opening round play.

TRF Rink Wins Stephen 'Spiel

Jerry Ulferts rink of Thief River Falls defeated the Paul Halfman rink of Stephen Sunday in the finals of the Stephen mixed curling bonspiel.

Members of the championship Thief River Falls rink were Jerry Ulferts, skip; Marge Corliss, third; Bill Corliss, second; and Judy Charlebois, lead.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVern Hamre and Kirby of Sanders were Sunday after church coffee guests at the Duane Olson home, together with Mrs. Larry Haug, Lara, Kelsey and Tyler of Fisher. That afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Haug and the children, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Nelson and Dana of Sanders and Mrs. Vern Kleven, Leah and Ross of Silverton were coffee guests of Mrs. Lydia Olson in Thief River Falls.

Karla, Teresa and Debbie Nygard of Fargo, N.D. arrived at their parental Alvin Nygard home Friday evening and spent until Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mike Leach and Jason visited Wednesday evening at her parental Leonard Waswick home in Numedal.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Christofferson of Thief River Falls were Thursday visitors at the Pete Bradley home.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Farbo, Robby and Cari, and Mr. and Mrs. David Farbo of Thief River Falls visited Sunday at the Jim Englund home at Karlstad. That evening they all visited at the Wallace Roppe home at Newfolden.

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Erickson, Oliver and Andrew left Friday to spend until the following Sunday at his parental Lennart Erickson home in St. Paul. Lois also visited briefly with her sister Dianne Guessford, in St. Paul.

Gilmer Bakken of Numedal was a Sunday visitor at the Melvin Bakken home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Collins of Park River, N.D. were Thursday dinner guests at the Frank Armstrong home. Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson were callers late in the afternoon.

Wilma Olson was a Sunday dinner guest at her parental Emil Zavoral home in Thief River Falls.

Announce Rules For 1983 Bear Hunting Season

Minnesota bear hunters will have until May 2 to sign up for a computerized drawing that will allocate 3,550 licenses for the 1983 season.

Wildlife officials at the Department of Natural Resources said application blanks for the drawing are available at license agents.

Bear hunting season will run from Sept. 1 to Oct. 16 and the limit will be one adult bear per licensed hunter.

Either firearms or bow and arrow may be used and bait stations may be set out starting August 19.

License fee will be $15 for resident and $100 for non-residents, plus an issuing fee of 75 cents.

This will be the second year that a limit has been placed on the number of persons legally allowed to hunt bear. Officials said the current status of the bear population allows an increase in the number of licenses from the 1,960 permitted last year.

Bear hunting season is also being opened earlier this year to increase opportunities to take nuisance bears causing property damage. Officials said this is preferable to having DNR personnel shoot or trap bears causing damage.

For the drawing, applicants must apply for one of the five permit areas that will be open to hunting this fall. Those who wish to hunt as a party must place all the applications in one envelope and it will be treated as one application for purposes of the drawing. No more than four persons may apply in any one party.

Preference in the drawing will be given to those who applied unsuccessfully last year, providing they have submitted their driver's license number or public safety ID number.

Officials explained that the use of the numbering system is the only means the DNR has of keeping track of those who applied last year.

Those who wish to enter the drawing for a bear license but do not have a driver's license are urged to apply for an ID card at a driver's license office immediately in order to get their ID number before the May 2 deadline.

Plummer School Board

March 23, 1983
Regular Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 628
Plummer, Minnesota
February 28, 1983

The regular School Board meeting of Dist. No. 628, Plummer, MN was called to order by Chairman Franklund at 8:00 P.M. Monday, February 28, 1983 in the school library.

Present were Franklund, Gallant, Gerardy, Fossell and Freitag. Absent: Myhre. Also present Superintendent Johnson and Adm. Asst. Krueger. There were no visitors.

Motion by Freitag seconded by Fossell to approve the February 28, 1983 agenda. Motion carried.

Motion by Gallant seconded by Gerardy to approve the minutes of the February 14, 1983 meeting as read. Motion carried.

Old Business: Motion by Freitag seconded by Gallant to discontinue sharing a Social Worker with Oklee and Red Lake Falls school districts, due to economics, effective end of 1982-83 school year. Motion carried.

Superintendent Johnson will check into hiring a management aide for the remainder of 1982-83 school year. Hiring will be made at the March 14, 1983 meeting.

Evaluation of non-tenured school personnel was reviewed.

Principal's Report: Mrs. Krueger gave report of estimated cost of additional electives proposed for the 1983-84 school year.

Discussion was held on English Curriculum Rationale which may be implemented in 1983-84 school year. Further discussion will be held on this at the March 14, 1983 meeting in order to give the Board members a chance to review the handout material on the matter.

Mrs. Krueger reported that the Senior Class Trip is tentatively scheduled for May 11-12, 1983.

Superintendent's Report: Mr. Johnson reported that the table saw in shop is burned out and needs to be replaced. Also a letter was received from the Lettermen's Club stating they would like to buy jerseys for some sports programs. Mr. Johnson will check into these matters and report back to the Board at a later date.

Other New Business: Approval was given for the 4-H Club to use gym for a style show June 30, 1983. Head Start Program was granted use of gym and kitchen on the evening of April 7, 1983.

The shop area was checked by Board members as scheduled. Next meeting will be March 14, 1983 at 8:00 P.M.

Meeting was adjourned by Chairman Franklund at 11:00 P.M.

Card of Thanks

I want to thank all my relatives and friends for the visits, cards, flowers, gifts and prayers while I was a patient at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls and St. Luke's hospital in Fargo. Special thanks to Pastors Rick and Nancy Lund for prayers and visits. God bless you all.
Edgar Horien

Card of Thanks

I want to thank all the nurses, nurse's aides and student nurses at Northwestern hospital for the wonderful consideration and extra good care in watching over me while a patient. Also, to the kitchen staff, laboratory and x-ray people who helped me. Thank you to Rev. Hushagen, Father Patnode and Pastor Bortnem for calling on me.

I want to thank Dr. Davidson and Dr. Herber for their excellent care. Thank you to my roommate, Joe Jaranson, for his help and moral support.

Special thanks to all my friends and those who prayed for my recovery, for all the nice cards and beautiful flowers I received. I appreciated all the visits, help and favors I'm receiving at home while I'm recovering. Thanks again.

CARD OF THANKS

Because of the numerous amount of cards, flowers and memorials given in memory of Joanne Carver, this thank you is meant for each one of you individually.

To Pastor Johnshoy and Pastor Ose, a special thank you for their words of comfort. To Pioneer Memorial home and the Immanuel ladies aid for the delicious dinner. To Charles Svalen and Doug Johnson who sang her favorite songs and to Dolores Narveson for playing the piano. To Carlin Funeral home for taking care of the arrangements. To the overwhelming amount of friends and relatives who brought food to the families and to each and every special person who attended the funeral.

Joanne was a very special person in all of our hearts. We will always remember her ready smile and eagerness to help out. We all have individual memories of her which will help ease the pain.

May God bless each one of you for all your acts of kindness. It was sincerely appreciated.

A special thank you to the one person for the generous, unsigned memorial.

The family of Joanne Carver

Card of Thanks

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

March 23, 1983
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minn.
January 28, 1983

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Meeting room of the Courthouse in Thief River Falls on Thursday, January 28, at 1:30 p.m.

Members present: Hoffman, Koop and Tasa. Members absent: Grabanski and Stenberg.

Sheriff Richards discussed the squad car which had had the engine seize up on it. Board suggested that Sheriff Richards see if the car has any value and if it can be fixed. Sheriff Richards also discussed the alcohol counselor. No action taken.

County Attorney Olin introduced to the Board the new Ass't. County Attorney, Kevin Duffy. Mr. Duffy is from Bemidji.

Attorney Olin gave an update on the contract negotiations with the Law Enforcement Center Union.

Rudy Rude was in to discuss the progress of the group ditch along section line of Sections 8 & 17, North Twp., and the possibility of getting a lock on the culvert on the northwest corner of Section 17. The Board suggested Mr. Rude go to the Township Board for approval before proceeding with the lock on the culvert.

Moved by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Tasa to adjourn the meeting to reconvene on Tuesday, February 8 at 10:00 a.m. Motion unanimously carried.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Board of County Commissioners,
Pennington County, MN.
February 8, 1983

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Courthouse meeting room on Tuesday, February 8 at 10:00 a.m. in Thief River Falls.

Members present: Koop, Hoffman, Tasa and Grabanski. Member absent: Stenberg.

Upon motion by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Tasa to approve the State Auditor's services in examining Pennington County's financial statement for year ending December 31, 1982. Motion unanimously carried.

Head Custodian Greg Sandahl appeared before the Board to discuss his department. The Board denied the request of Janitor Terry Fayette for tuition to attend boiler school. This schooling is not required for his duties. Custodian Sandahl requested more wages or more hours for part-time custodian Carl Hallquist. Board authorized Sandahl to allow Hallquist to come in for extra hours on emergencies. Discussion was held on Sandahl's salary with no action being taken.

Motor Vehicle Department Head Allan Morkrid appeared before the Board to discuss adjustments on his salary and the salary of his deputy. No action taken.

Upon motion by Commissioner Tasa, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski, the following resolution was introduced:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners authorize the Chairman, Sheriff and Auditor to enter into an annual County Boat and Water Safety Agreement with Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for the term of July 1, 1983 through September 30, 1984, in accordance with the provisions of M.S. Sec. 361.01 to 361.29.

Resolution was unanimously adopted.

Discussion was held on the alcohol counselor position. No action taken.

County Weed Inspector Norman Boucher was in to report that John Campbell's budget has been cut by the State so John will not be able to help with the work as he has in the past. Norman is to meet with the Board on February 22 when he has more information as to how this cutback is going to effect his program.

Norris Thune, Thune Upham & Assoc., was in on the County insurance package. Upon motion by Commissioner Tasa, seconded by Commissioner Koop, the insurance package was accepted with the Umbrella coverage being increased to $3,000,000. Motion unanimously carried. Mr. Thune and the Auditor will establish replacement values on the contents of the county buildings for insurance coverage purposes.

Leon Heath, Northwest Regional Development Committee, was before the Board to explain the New Job Training Partnership Act (replaces the old CETA program.) Commissioner Koop presented the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the Job Training Partnership Act of 1982 establishes a partnership between the public and private sectors to provide job training and job seeking skills to prepare disadvantaged persons for entering the labor market, and

WHEREAS, the legislature requires that local elected officials participate in many of the major decision making roles in the Act, and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of local units of government to form a partnership with the private sector based on geographic boundaries which include an area of proven effectiveness.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the County Board of Pennington County petitions Governor Perpich of the State of Minnesota to include its political jurisdiction as part of a service delivery area under the Job Training Partnership Act which includes the following counties in Northwestern Minnesota: Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that once the Governor designates the aforementioned area as a Service Delivery Area the Northwest Regional Development Commission, which is a representative body of local elected officials and citizens, will function in the roles designated in the Job Training Partnership Act for local elected officials and,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Northwest Regional Development Commission shall then appoint a Northwest Private Industry Council based upon the recommendations of County Boards from nominations by local Chamber of Commerce and similar business associations, for such Councils to perform all the duties designated to Private Industry Council in the Job Training Partnership Act.

THIS resolution is intended to be valid for the duration of the Job Training Partnership Act and is intended to be submitted as part of a joint request for Service Delivery Area designation by local units of government in the aforementioned area.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Grabanski and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

Pat Rood, Northwest Regional Development Commission, appeared before the Board to discuss the long term care proposal (McKnight Proposal) which is a multi-county unit project for long-term care. Mr. Rood was inviting comments from the Board on their feelings concerning the proposal. No action was taken. This proposal will be taken up by the Welfare Board at their next meeting.

Wes Gjovik, County Engineer, appeared before the Board to review his department.

Rudy Rude has received favorable comments from the Township Board concerning the County placing a trap on the culvert — the County Highway Department will do the work with the Township paying for it.

Upon motion by Commissioner Tasa, seconded by Commissioner Koop, Engineer Gjovik was instructed to write Governor Perpich encouraging him to appoint Braun as Highway Commissioner. Motion unanimously carried.

Wes reminded the Board that bids will be let at 1:30 on February 22 for fuel; 2:00 for oil and equipment rental bids will be let at 1:30 on March 8.

Discussed County Ditch No. 1 by the Holiday Station.

Discussion was held on Bridge L0273 — sufficiency 51.9 — complaints for widening needed by farmers. Board recommended to hold widening until replacement was needed.

Preliminary plans on the widening of First Street bridge are being reviewed by the State.

The following resolution was made by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Tasa:

WHEREAS the following contracts — SAP 57-613-01; SAP 56-612-03; SAP 57-607-04; SAP 57-607-05; — have in all things been completed and the County Board being fully advised in the premises: NOW THEN BE IT RESOLVED that we do hereby accept said completed projects for and in behalf of the County of Pennington and authorize final payment as specified herein. Resolution passed by unanimous vote.

Commissioner Tasa presented the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS Various requirements must be met for projects to be eligible for certain bridge replacement funds, and

WHEREAS, Deer Park Township has requested the inclusion of the following bridge in the bridge replacement program, and

WHEREAS, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners held a public hearing on February 8, 1983, to hear input and said input was considered in including the following bridge in the replacement program,

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby adopt the following bridge into the bridge replacement program — BR No L0287 Twp Road T-93 and CD 55.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Koop and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

The following resolution requested by the Pennington County Highway Engineer, was offered by Commissioner Koop:

BE IT RESOLVED that the County Highway Engineer proceed to perform the required tasks for replacement of the following bridges and the necessary approach work:

BR No. L0286 — Twp Rd 066 and JD 13; BR L 2493 Twp Rd 083 and JD 13; BR L0288 Twp Rd 94 and JD 13; BR L0279 Co. Rd 97 and JD 13; BR L0282 Twp Rd T-24 and CD 43; BR L0298 Twp Rd T-153 and CD 21; BR 92788 FM Ent. Co. Rd 57 and CD 21; BR 92789 FM Ent. Co Rd 55 and CD 16; BR L 0287 Twp Rd T-93 and CD 55.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Grabanski and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

Engineer Gjovik advised the Board, that because of the time factor, he will need to have Houston Engineering design 8 hydraulic designs at a cost of $260 per design. Upon motion by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Tasa, the Engineer was instructed to engage Houston Engineering to design the 8 hydraulic designs at a cost of $260 per design. Motion unanimously carried.

Engineer Gjovik gave an update on the 5 year road program. Construction balance in the SA Fund of $378,000. after the bond payment. This is enough money to do an overlay on SA 12 south in addition to the scheduled work for 1984.

Discussion was held on Grader-Operator Klockman's salary. Present salary of $5.03 is below salary of part-time employees. Has been on full time for over 8 months and has passed his probationary period.

Commissioner Koop moved to increase Klockman's salary from $5.03 to $5.50 per hour on the basis that he has completed his probationary period. Motion failed for lack of second.

Commissioner Koop moved that Klockman's salary be increased from $5.03 to $5.37 per hour on the basis that he has completed his probationary period. Motion failed for lack of second. No further action taken.

Discussion was held on the replacement of the Highway Department Office Manager. No action taken.

Discussion was held on the sale of the County shed site in Mavie. Upon motion by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Tasa, the County will advertise for bids for the purchase of the County Shed Site in Mavie, legally described as Lots 1-5, Block 2, Mavie. Bids will be let on March 22, 1983 at 1:30 p.m. Motion unanimously carried.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
Tuesday, February 22, 1983

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the meeting room of the Courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, February 22, 1983, at 10:00 a.m.

Members present: Koop, Tasa, Stenberg and Grabanski. Members absent: Hoffman. In the absence of the Chairman Vice Chairman Tasa chaired the meeting.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Koop:

WHEREAS MS 325F.732 and 325F733 requires that precious metal dealers be licensed with the County they do business in and

WHEREAS the Board of County Commissioners are to determine the amount charged for said precious metal dealers license;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that said precious metal dealers licenses for Pennington County be set at $50.00 per year.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Grabanski and unanimously approved.

City Planner Jack Quinlavin appeared before the Board with a request that the building located on tax forfeited Lots 7 & 8, Block 23 Original Townsite of Thief River Falls be taxed either by the County or the City. This building has been condemned for the last three years. Upon motion by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Koop permission was given to the City to tear down the building at Lots 7 & 8, Block 23 Original Townsite of Thief River Falls. Motion unanimously carried.

LeRoy Ose and Geraldine Mostrom appeared before the Board along with Head Custodian Greg Sandahl to demonstrate cleaning of the acoustical ceilings in the courthouse. Quoted a price of 22 cents per sq. ft. Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg to allow Ose & Mostrom to clean the ceilings in the Board room and the south entry ways to be inspected prior to approval for the rest of the courthouse. Motion unanimously carried.

Sheriff Richards was in to review his department. He has $4,100.00 in his budget for a scrambler unit for the radio. Board approved Sheriff Richards checking into the price of these units.

At 1:30 p.m. the Board proceeded to open bids for the seasons supply of petroleum products as advertised and called for. The following bids were opened and read (dis):

Sorvig Mobil, Regular Gas 1.19, (dis) .02, Unleaded Gas 1.23, (dis) .02, No. 1 Diesel & Heating 1.10 (dis) .02, No. 2 Diesel & Heating 1.01, (dis) .02.

Farmers Union (delivered) 1.15, .06, 1.19, .06, 1.05, .06, 1.00, .06.

Farmers Union (pump) 1.179, .06, 1.219, .06, 1.27, .06.

Middle River Coop 1.17, .055, 1.21, .055, 1.075, .055, 1.04, .055.

Shumway Oil (delivered) 1.16, .05, 1.21, .06, 1.10, .10, 1.04, .11.

Shumway Oil (pump) 1.19, .05, 1.24, .06, 1.10, .10, 1.04, .09.

Gene's Mobil 1.229, .068, 1.279, .07, 1.299, .07.

Upon motion by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg, the bid of Farmers Union Oil for regular and unleaded gasoline was accepted as the lowest and best bids and the bid of Shumway Oil Co. for No. 1 diesel and Heating and No. 2 diesel and heating was accepted as the lowest and best bid but due to the fact that no firm quotes were received, the Board maintains the right to purchase fuel elsewhere at any time if a better price can be obtained from another dealer. Motion declared unanimously adopted.

Upon motion by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski, all bids for oil were rejected due to the uncertain price of oil. Motion carried.

Clarence Drewes Construction of Detroit Lakes, was in to discuss the undercut or sub-cut on grading job. Engineer figured we paid for the extra sub-cutting on County Roads 12 & 13. Nothing was in writing for extra excavation. Clarence feels that he was not paid for all of sub-cut completed. This amounts to approximately $[illegible],000.00. County Board suggested County Engineer check sub-cuts that Drewes claims done to what he paid him already and then report back to them.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner K[illegible]: WHEREAS, the following contract SAP 57-624-04 — has in all things been completed and the County Board being fully advised in the premises: NOW THEN BE IT RESOLVED that we do hereby accept said completed project for and in behalf of the County of Pennington and authorize final payment as specified. The foregoing resolution was adopted by unanimous vote.

The County Engineer presented the list of bridge replacements for 1983 consisting of four county bridges and seven township bridges.

A reminder was given to the Board by the Engineer that bids will be opened for the county land for sale in Mavie on March 22 at 1:30 p.m. This property consists of Lots 1-5 Mavie Townsite.

Discussion was held on the replacement for the County Highway Department Accountant position.

Norman Boucher, County Agriculture Inspector, advised the Board that the State will continue with seed sampling.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Koop to adjourn to reconvene at 10:00 a.m. on March 8. Motion unanimously carried.

INVITATION TO BID

NOTICE TO BIDDERS — Bids are requested on two grain elevators formerly utilized by L&L Farmers Elevator Company of Lancaster and Lake Bronson, Minnesota.

The elevators are situated in Lancaster, Minnesota, and Lake Bronson, Minnesota, on property leased from the Soo Line Railroad Company.

Bids may be submitted in person or may be mailed, at bidder's risk, to Roger C. Malm, Attorney at Law, 217 South Birch Avenue, Hallock, Minnesota 56728. All sealed bids must be received prior to 9:30 a.m. April 5, 1983. If a party wishes to bid on only one of the two elevator properties, that elevator location should be stated on the bid envelope submitted. If a party wishes to bid on both elevator properties, two separate bid envelopes must be submitted with each envelope stating the elevator location.

Bids submitted as to the Lake Bronson elevator facility shall be read at 10:00 a.m. April 5, 1983. Bidders submitting written bids shall be allowed to orally raise their bid after the written bids have been read.

Bids as submitted as to the Lancaster elevator facility shall be read at 1:30 p.m. April 5, 1983. Bidders submitting written bids shall be allowed to orally raise their bids after the written bids have been read.

Bids submitted must include a statement of the intended purpose in the use of the elevator properties, to allow the owner to determine the Soo Line Railroad Company agreement in transfer of leases.

After bidders have made their highest bid, owner shall be allowed 48 hours within which said bids may be accepted or rejected. During the 48-hour period, the high bid submitted shall be irrevocable and this bidder shall submit as part of the bid the sum of $2500 in certified funds payable to Karlstad State Bank. If the bid is rejected, the $2500 submitted with the bid shall be returned. If the bid is accepted, the $2500 shall be applied towards the purchase price and upon acceptance of the bid, the bidder shall deposit with the owner or owner's agent 10% of the purchase price.

The balance of the purchase price shall be for cash only with closing to take place not more than 30 days from the acceptance of the bid. Failure on the part of the bidder to comply shall be grounds of cancellation of the sale, however, all monies paid prior to the failure may, in the discretion of the owner, be retained, in the event the owner is unable to close the sale, all earnest and deposit monies shall be returned to bidder and all agreements shall be rescinded.

Further details regarding this sale may be obtained by contacting Roger C. Malm, Brink, Sobolik, Severson and Vroom, P.A., 217 South Birch, Hallock, Minnesota 56728, telephone (218) 843-3686 or David H. Lohmann, Executive Vice President, Karlstad State Bank, Karlstad, Minnesota 56732, telephone (218) 436-2151.

POW-MIA Day April 9th At State Capitol

At 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 9, 1983 on the steps of the State Capitol, Minnesotans will join in the national observance of POW — MIA day calling attention to the prisoners of war and missing in action who served their country in time of need.

Governor Rudy Perpich has declared April 9 as POW — MIA Day in Minnesota as have the governors of all states and President Reagan, asking citizens to pause in their daily efforts and renew their support of all efforts to have an accounting made of those still missing.

Ten years have passed since the signing of the Paris Accords ending the Vietnam conflict, 27 years since the end of the action in Korea and 41 years since the fall of Bataan in World War II. The three events produced a record number of POWs and MIAs with some still not accounted for.

The public is invited to attend this POW — MIA program to show support for the actions of our government to resolve the issue of the MIAs and to make the world aware that even though the events causing the MIAs is long past, the American public has not forgotten those still unaccounted for.

Forty-eight Minnesotans are still listed as MIAs from the Vietnam Conflict.

UMC To Host FCA Conference Sat., April 9

Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) mini conference is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 9, at the Crookston high school gymnasium.

Sponsored by UMC's Campus Ministry, FCA college fellowship and Crookston high school huddle, the mini conference is open to all high school students in grades nine through 12, coaches, adult advisors and parents.

FCA college members from UMC, University of North Dakota, North Dakota State University, Moorhead State University, and Concordia College will be huddle leaders and team leaders as the students participate in the "Dogpatch Olympics."

Cost for the conference is $6, which includes all materials and a noon lunch.

For further information contact Gary Senske at UMC, 281-6510, extension 417.

ATTENTION AREA GRAIN FARMERS

A free breakfast meeting will be held at 9 a.m. on March 28 at the Trapper 'n Trader in Goodridge.

Topics will be about national farmer's organizations, marketing of picked grain, marketing of reserve grain, and prenegotiated sales while only becoming a limited member of the organization. Also discussed will be NFO's guaranteed checks.

Speakers will be Gary Malmie of Shelly, and Bob Lewis of Perham.

Breakfast is sponsored by Anderson Power and Equipment, Nelson Impl. Inc., Johnson Greenline, and Pennington County NFO.

Glossary Given To Translate "Computerese"

by Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian News Service

If you could use a phrase book to translate the unintelligible lingo of a computer salesman, chances are you probably grew up thinking that hardware is something you use to fix the kitchen sink.

Like any foreign language, computerese can be overwhelming to the uninitiated. Dictionaries are available, of course. Consider, for instance, the bible of computer folk, the 624-page "Computer Dictionary" which carries you from ABA all the way to zone plus, sparing nary a bon mot.

Or take "The Hacker's Dictionary," if you can get it. Appropriately, this compendium can be obtained only from a computer, which with the right command gurgles forth words like "frobnicate" (to manipulate or adjust) and "crufty" (poorly built, possibly overly complex). These are terms favored by computer freaks, engineers and "hackers," self-defined as "persons who enjoy learning the details of programming systems" as opposed to most "users", a hacker's pejorative description of people who "prefer to learn only the minumum necessary."

None of this gibberish, however, will help you in "the real world," variously defined by hackers as "the location of non-programming" and "a universe in which the standard dress is coat and tie." Much more modest glossary will serve a beginner well, computer scientists Rachelle Heller and Dianne Martin say. They have helped thousands overcome computer phobia at organizations ranging from the University of Maryland to the Smithsonian Institution.

Here are a few key words to help you chip away at the jumble of computerland jargon.

Bit — Basic unit of computer memory. An abbreviation for binary digit, the term refers to a single digit of a binary number — a "0" or "1" — which is the smallest unit of information recognized by a computer. For example, the binary number 101 is composed of three bits.

Bug — A program defect or error that causes the computer to operate incorrectly or not at all.

Byte — Group of eight bits, usually treated as a unit. One byte can store one unit of information. Memory capacity of a computer is measured in bytes.

Cassette — A standard tape cassette, an inexpensive way of storing programs and data.

Chip — A single device containing many transistors and other components formed on the surface of a tiny sliver of silicon. Often used synonymously with integrated circuit.

CPU — Central Processing Unit. Heart of the computer, the CPU performs the basic arithmetic and logic functions and supervises the operation of the entire system. In a personal computer, the CPU is a microprocessor, a single integrated chip.

Disk or "floppy" disk — A flexible piece of plastic coated with magnetic material, used to store and retrieve programs and data.

Disk drive — An electromechancial device that stores information on or recalls information from a disk.

Hard disk — A rigid disk made of a hard, plastic-like material, used to store and retrieve programs and data. Though more expensive than a "floppy disk," a hard disk is far more permanent and has much greater storage capacity.

Hardware — All of the various mechanical and electronic components of a computer system, e.g., the electronic chip, printer, monitor, etc.

INPUT — Used as a verb, a grammatical impossibility accepted placidly by computer people, this is the act of entering information into the computer. As a noun, input refers to data entered into the computer.

Interface — Boundary between two parts of a computer system, often consisting of a piece of electronic circuitry, that allows other devices to communicate with each other. Used as a verb, interface means to make one part of a computer system run smoothly with another.

Joystick — A device or lever connected to the computer that moves objects around on a screen. Used with video games. Also referred to as a paddle.

K — Kilo, a prefix meaning a thousand. Used before the word byte to denote memory capacity. Each Kilobyte is actually equal to 1,024 bytes, but K is generally used to mean about a thousand. Typical personal computer has a memory rainging between 5K and 64K.

Keyboard — Device used to enter information into the computer, usually consisting of a standard typewriter set of keys and various special keys.

Memory — A device or series of devices capable of storing information in the computer temporarily or permanently in the form of patterns of binary "0s" and "1s". In many persons computers, memory can be expanded by adding hardware.

Microprocessor — A central processing unit (CPU) contained on a single chip.

Modem — Derived from the words modulate-demodulate. A device attached to the computer to convert the computer's digital signals for transmission to other computers over telephone lines.

Monitor — A television, receiver or cathode ray tube (CRT) used to display computer output.

Output — Information or data transferred from the internal memory of the computer to some external device such as a screen or printer.

Peripherals — Various pieces of a computer system that can be hooked up in different ways to the central processing unit and memory and which form the system's input and output devices, such as printers, disk drives, joysticks, etc.

Personal computer — A small computer based on a microprocessor. Not all microprocessors, however, are personal computers. A microprocessor can be dedicated to single tasks as diverse as controlling a machine tool or a video game.

Printer — A device for producing paper ("hard") copies of data output by a computer.

Program — A series of instructions carried out by the computer in sequence. Program must be written in a language the computer understands.

RAM — Random access memory. This is the memory into which information can be put (written) and from which it can instantly be copied (read). RAM is the "working memory" of the computer into which applications programs can be loaded from outside and then run.

ROM — Read only memory. A memory circuit in which information stored is "built into" the chip at the time of manufacture and which cannot be subsequently changed. Information can be copied from ROM, but it cannot be written there; hence, the name, "read only memory."

Software — The programs and instructions governing the operation of the computer that direct it to perform specific functions. In contrast to the "hardware."

Terminal — A device for providing input to and output from a computer. Usually consisting of a keyboard and screen together in the same box.

User-friendly — What all computer "illiterates" hope for: a computer system that is easy and non-threatening to use and understand.

STATE SENATOR LeRoy Stumpf met recently with Bruce McKenzie, Newfolden, Marshall county central high school and Kirsten Pollick, St. Hilaire, Lincoln high school, to discuss the duties of his office and the workings of the state legislature. McKenzie and Pollick were visiting as part of the urban concerns workshop's Project 120 program. The participating students study state government by spending one week observing governmental processes in St. Paul. "Project 120 offers an excellent chance to view the government in action," Stumpf said. "I enjoyed visiting with Bruce and Kirsten about their observations of state and local government."

Steiner

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2, City, 681-3897

One hundred twenty-two homemakers attended the East Marshall winter banquet Monday evening, March 14 at the community center in Newfolden. Present from the West Steiner club were Violet Muzzy, Ethel Moe, Irene Rausch, Darlene Muzzy, Evonne Moe and Rebecca Solem. There was a craft display from 6:30 to 7:00, followed with the dinner featuring pork chops. The entertainment program included a candlewicking demonstration by Vicki Crowser, presentation of 25 year certificates, an Irish sing-a-long directed by Kathy Rokke and a puppet skit entitled "Kids on the Block". The objective of the skit was to understand about handicapped people, special equipment for handicapped, and to develop a relationship with the handicapped. Among the prizes awarded were to Irene Rausch for being all Irish, to Rebecca Solem for being the last one to sign up for the banquet and to Bev Rupprecht for having accomplished two rooms of spring house-cleaning. There are ten clubs representing East Marshall County with Mrs. Cathy Erickson as Home Council president, Mrs. Carol Cloutier as vice president, Mrs. Bev Folden as secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Frances Meland as historian.

Sunday afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Richard Jorde home in honor of their children, Tami, whose birthday was March 14, and Mike, whose birthday is March 27, were grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jorde and grandmother, Mrs. Lucelle Yonke of St. Hilaire. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bottem, Todd and Chad, Sherri Johnson, Kent Dokken, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nelson and Jerry of rural St. Hilaire and Cal Offerdahl, Cari and Cory of Rocksbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem spent Wednesday in Grand Forks where they visited Peter Solem at the United Hospital and Kenneth Brandt at the Rehabilitation center. Peter returned home the following day and is recuperating following an appendicitis operation Sunday afternoon, March 13. Mr. and Mrs. Solem were also coffee guests at the Stanley Wick home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem were Sunday evening supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Solem.

Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter, Kent and Hope from Strandquist spent Monday afternoon last week at the Lloyd Larson home. Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Larson were callers at the Ivan Melvie home at Holt and later attended a meeting of the Esther circle at the Reuben Benitt home. They were supper and evening guests at the Orville Harstad home of rural Viking.

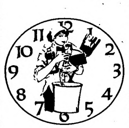
THE CLOCK IS TICKING



"If I just had more time to do things," exclaimed a busy housewife. We all know this feeling of frustration that comes from not finding enough hours in a day. Time to kill is a luxurious sounding phrase to human ears.

Time, however, is one commodity that cannot be bought. Try as we will, we cannot crowd more than 24 hours into one day. Whether it's too much time on our hands or too little, we need a constant awareness of the importance of how we spend our time.

Someone remarked that after a hundred years, all of us would be gone. This thought makes current problems look awfully small. Lives that seek a balance of work, play and worship have given evidence of being happier lives.

Let God speak to your heart and bring new balance into your life. Attend the church or synagogue of your choice this week.

Some Are Hurt . . . Some Gain

John Tilton wrote the following article which appeared recently in the Sun Newspapers of the Twin Cities metro area:

In this country, the old saw goes, the squeaky wheel always gets the grease. Today's highly publicized "depression" and the resultant publicity emphasize that fact.

We have an incredibly complex economy, every change in which seems to hurt someone. The screams of the injured fill our newspapers and TV screens.

But, almost always, someone else in our population benefits and we never hear that side of the story.

High interest rates; for instance, are widely blamed for (1) the slump in construction and auto sales; (2) high unemployment in those industries; and (3) overall stagnation in the economy.

But we never hear from the millions of Americans whose savings now are earning higher interest rates than before, whose living standards have climbed as a result and whose expenditures (or added savings) give a boost to our economy in other areas.

Examine agriculture. Wheat and corn prices go down and grain farmers all over the country wail in pain, demanding the government "Do something" to help them out of their misery. But lower grain costs boost the profit of beef and hog producers and reflect broad based benefits to food consumers everywhere.

At the moment there's alarm over the rapid fall of commodity prices worldwide. That's good for General Motors and some other manufacturers whose production costs drop proportionately and whose sales, hopefully, may be stimulated.

But it's bad for a long list of Third World countries that pegged their economies to everhigher prices of the commodities they produce, overextended themselves financially and now are facing payment crises. And the international bankers, caught in the same squeeze and now facing losses, are crying bloody murder for help.

It's a tough, competitive world where no one ever can guarantee neverending profit for everyone. The only element of our society that really benefits, is the vast consuming public which profits from the resulting lower prices.

Seen in that light, the situation's not so grim.

Inaction On Comp Laws

Following editorial is from the Bemidji Pioneer:

Governor Perpich is right when he tells industry and labor leaders to get their act together to solve the state's workers' compensation problems or he will see that the legislature deals with the matter. The two groups have failed to reach any compromise that would lead to improvement in the job climate reputation the state has, a reputation that worsens with each relocation of a business from within this state.

Labor and Industry Commissioner Steve Keefe has been the governor's liason in the talks, and even though he reports that benefits do not have to be cut, the March 10 deadline arrived with no accord. Keefe has stated that the cost of litigation, which could be avoided with a practical plan both sides could agree to, is a major factor in the high workers' compensation costs.

Mr. Keefe has squarely nailed the problem down by suggesting that a system be developed that would keep claims litigation out of court entanglement, saving many dollars in the process.

A Twin Cities area Chamber of Commerce group recently got into the act, announcing a plan that would include making insurance companies provide loss information to insured businesses, that they face stiffer penalties for failure to play benefits, and that employees report injuries and file claims earlier. That suggestion may or may not be welcomed by labor, but we strongly suspect that the latter will prevail.

If Minnesota is going to get serious about keeping businesses here, not to mention making it competitive with other states to attract new employers, it is going to have to realize that outmigration is not a myth perpetuated by over-indulgent business people. As one former mayor and Minnesota business entrepreneur said recently, "Today's Minnesota is living on the economic momentum achieved prior to the early 1970s before the effects of our current state policies began causing economic deterioration. I believe there is a point of no return whereby, if we do not act to stem the tide of departing businesses, we be left with too few people sustaining our statewide tax base."

The governor cannot permit labor and industry stalemates in this area any longer. If both sides still will not resolve to face the facts, then kick the problem into the legislative hopper.

Reevaluating Penalties

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

A recent conviction in St. Louis County Court bring to light an inequity in Minnesota's current system of justice, and it's the people of the state who pay the penalty.

William Wivoda, 19, Hibbing, recently pled guilty to nine counts of illegal trapping and illegal possession of furs. Four of the charges were gross misdemeanors while the others were misdemeanors.

In a Jan. 22 raid on Wivoda's rural Hibbing home, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources conservation officers recovered in excess of 80 fisher and 30 bobcat along with numerous other furs. Authorities estimate that approximately $20,000 in illegal furs and traps was confiscated. The fisher seized equal about one-third of the state's annual legal harvest.

What was Wivoda's sentence? A mere two months in jail and fine of $2,000 along with losing his hunting, trapping and fishing privileges for two years — a very cheap price to pay for the loss suffered by the furbearing animal population of the state. The prosecutor's and judge's hands, however, were virtually tied by the state's definition of game law violations and sentencing guidelines.

Under state law, gross misdemeanors such as those Wivoda was charged with, carry a maximum penalty of one year imprisonment, a $1,000 fine or both.

In contrast, if a person were to take $10,000 from another individual the charge would be felony theft with a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment, a fine of $10,000 or both. Sound Crazy? It is.

The Wivoda case is used here as an example. It could equally apply to a deer poaching ring or those who illegally net fish for commercial sale. In each case it is theft from the people of Minnesota for private gain. By difinition, the natural resources of the state belong to all of us. Poaching in any form is theft from every citizen. Then why are not the penalties commensurate with the magnitude of the crime? Is a resource theft any less a crime than another form of theft? It is something the legislature should change.

Looking at it from a purely monetary point of view, poaching would seem to be a good business. Profits can far outstep any penalty imposed on a conviction. It's no wonder conservation officers are frequently frustrated. Some violators view court sentences as a mere tax on their doing business.

Advocating a felony charge for the fisherman who has a couple extra crappies in his livewell or the hunter who bags an extra mallard is not suggested. In those cases, the current penalties seem adequate. But in cases where a person is making huge commercial profits while depleting our natural resources, a felony charge seems appropriate. Theft becomes a felony when the loss suffered exceeds $150. Perhaps some line should be drawn where poaching becomes a felony as well.

Another possibility proposed by regional enforcement supervisor Floyd Jaros would be to charge the gross violator for each individual fish, bird or animal taken illegally. The value could be based upon the current market value. Funds raised by the restitution would then go into management programs for those species to help replenish the resource the poacher depleted.

Either way, it would begin to make poaching a little less profitable while compensating the people of the state for the losses they are suffering to their fish and wildlife populations.

Poaching on a large scale is theft on a large scale and it should be treated as such by the state.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Reading paragraphs about fireman which she had assigned to students to write, the teacher was startled to read, "The brave fireman was pregnant as he climbed down the long ladder." The teacher asked the little girl if she know the meaning of the word. "Oh, yes," the youngster replied. "It means carrying a baby."

In a wilderness hunting camp, the tenderfoot hunter asked his Indian guide, "What did you call this part of the country before we discovered it?" The guide solemnly replied, "Mine."

GARY PARENTEAU, Brooks, a junior at Oklee high school, spent the week of March 14 to 18 as a high school page for the state house of representatives at the capitol in St. Paul. He also met with Representative Wally Sparby, worked as a page in the house chamber and was given the opportunity to learn about the issues which face the Minnesota state legislature. Students also work directly with the legislators doing everything from carrying messages and copies of amendments to members during house floor sessions to updating members' bills and journal files at each chamber desk.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District 1

In recent weeks Governor Perpich and the affected state agencies have begun to outline for the legislature specific proposals that the governor is recommending as part of his two-year funding package for the State of Minnesota.

While I agree with many elements of the governor's budget which is aimed at putting the state on sound economic footing and getting the 200,000 unemployed Minnesotans back on the job, I question some of his proposals which will result in a substantial loss of state aid to the cities, counties and towns in my area.

Specifically, the governor is recommending that beginning next year all state aid to counties and towns be eliminated. Along with that proposal is an added provision that would eliminate local tax limits.

What this will mean for the counties and towns in this area is that they will be forced to foot almost the entire bill for the programs and services that are currently provided.

The following list shows just how the aid loss breaks down, by county, in our area: Kittson, $95,574; Roseau, $210,947; Lake of the Woods, $68,986; Marshall, $159,990; Pennington, $179,942; Red Lake, $91,476; and Beltrami, $298,716.

What this means, of course, is that the loss of state aid will either have to be dealt with by additional cuts in services, or more likely, by hikes in local property taxes to raise the needed revenue. In this time of particularly high unemployment, an unparalleled depression in our farm economy and general hard times, I'm concerned about further increases inproperty taxes in our area.

I've always believed that ability to pay, and, even in the best economic times, the best economic times, the property tax is a difficult issue to deal with in a consistent manner. It appears that the governor's plan, coupled with other suggestions to reduce existing property tax relief programs, could further aggravate this problem.

I believe there needs to be adjustments in the governor's proposals for cities like Thief River Falls, which would lose almost 42 per cent in local government aids; or Middle River, which may have to absorb cuts of 32 per cent; or Warroad, which may face a drop of over 48 per cent of the revenue that it now counts on.

As a member of the senate's local and urban government committee, I will be working to see that our cities and counties do not have to bear any unrealistic cuts in their local government aids.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

For the last four weeks, I have discussed ways of solving our economic mess and getting Americans back to work, prospering and enjoying life again without the worries of an economy in depression.

First, I suggested that we maintain interest rates at single digit levels, the lower the better, if we want to encourage business to update its factories and equipment . . . if we want consumers to buy big ticket items . . . and if government is to operate on a break-even basis (those high interest rates add billions to government costs). The diversion of so much of our income to pay interest keeps demand from everyone down.

Second, I advocated: (1) Labor and material costs that make us competitive, which probably means wage cuts and reduced vendor margins; (2) updating of factories and equipment to increase productivity and product quality and reliability; (3) improved international marketing with Americans who can speak and write in the language of foreign customers, with products adapted to the foreign customers' needs; (4) reciprocal free trade, requiring mature trading partners to buy from us the same dollar amounts they want to sell to us, and with the same trade barriers here that they impose on us, effective today, not subject to years of haggling; and (5) a job priority for American citizens over illegal aliens, with unemployment compensation and welfare benefits not available to those who reject these jobs pending better times and better jobs.

Third, I felt that we must insure that inflation does not start up again. That means government finances and family finances have to be based on a "pay as you go" approach, except for big ticket items, where definite arrangements are included to get the credit paid off, not just add to the debt, otherwise, with recovery, the inflation will commence, again, and maybe reach peaks we have never seen before, destroying our confidence in the ability of a free people to govern themselves.

This week let's consider the problems developed over the past few decades, which are part of the big problem and need to be resolved.

Many businesses overexpanded, didn't update, and got into bad deals for labor and other costs. They are not competitive. They must become competitive. The question today is what should be done with all of these failing businesses, including commercial, construction, merchandising and agricultural businesses.

The alternatives include, (1) Forgiving bad loans and not taking over properties where mortgages are in default; (2) extending more loans to failing enterprises to help them "hang in there"; and (3) letting the system "shake out" those whose judgment errors got them into trouble, primarily because they considered only the short term consequences of their actions.

If the bad loans and nonpaying mortgages were only the money of the wealthy, some might be able to justify writing off bad loans and bad mortgages. The problem is that everyone has money in banks and savings and loans (as depositors), insurance companies (as policyholders for different coverages), and other financial institutions (many indirectly through our pension funds). The writing off of these bad loans and mortgages could imperil our checking and savings accounts, insurance coverages and pensions. If government tried to bail everyone out, that would mean either higher taxes or higher inflation. It would also reward those who did not use careful judgment.

Extending more loans to those in trouble doesn't necessarily accomplish anything. It extends the time of the problem, a little like the extension of time that a death row murderer gets each time a judge authorizes an appeal. Letting the system process those in trouble could clear the problems and reduce the costs of those who survive and those who succeed in taking over failing businesses. It also would encourage everyone to a more conservative commitment to debt than has been the case.

What is more important, I believe, is a basic attitude change of management, labor, farmers and investors. Instead of being so concerned about the short term situations and immediate profits, we must become "long term" thinkers, willing to sacrifice current luxuries and profits for investment in constantly improving plants and equipment, so that we can continue to compete. We must stop making short term wage adjustments to take care of immediate sales demand, and consider the long haul effect of higher wages and benefits. We must look at productivity to be sure that people, shareholders, and management all earn what they receive. We must constantly spend money on research and development, so that we have better products, even if this means saying no to higher pay, bonuses and dividends.

The concept of thinking of the future, next year, the next decade, and further out, must replace thinking in terms of today, tomorrow, next week, next month, next quarter and next year.

If our nation does what has been proposed in this four part series, there's a good chance that we can experience long term prosperity. We sure should have learned from what Presidents Johnson and Carter (let's spend ourselves into prosperity) and Reagan (let's reduce taxes to create prosperity) have advocated, that there has to be a better way, even though it may not be a quick and easy way.

That's Straight Talk!

A few months ago I sent our Governor elect an open letter explaining what I believed were critical actions needed immediately from him to help develop a favorable business climate in Minnesota so that more jobs could be created by businesses starting in, growing in, or moving into Minnesota.

I said that the workmen's compensation insurance and tax situations made Minnesota look bad in contrast to any of our neighboring states. Unless we can change this condition, the reputation we have will impact on business decisions for years to come.

It is now the end of the first quarter of 1983, and nothing has happened that is favorable and everything I hear and see looks like more damage is being done to our business climate.

For example:

(1) Temporary taxes that helped place us among the top 10 states in tax levels imposed on business and citizens, are being converted into permanent additional taxes.

(2) There has been no progress on reducing workmen's compensation insurance costs. In fact, because of the above average benefits and claims experience, a rate increase that will cost business an additional more than $100 million a year has been proposed.

(3) The latest word on the state budget you have proposed is that spending would be up about 16 per cent and your legislative associates are interested in tax proposals that could increase real estate taxes by as much as 28 per cent.

(4) You have proposed creating new engineering schools in Duluth and Mankato, which would add construction, administration and other overhead costs. It would take years to put together the kind of staff needed, after creating the new physical facilities. There is a question, with current technology, as to whether this school expansion wouldn't come on line just as engineering surpluses develop.

Without a proper business climate, the new engineers probably would go to other states. May I suggest that you expand the fine engineering school already at the University of Minnesota, and the engineering technology program already operational at Southwest state university, as being cheaper and quicker solutions to the engineering shortage that exists today.

If my memory is correct, Governor, you promised before the election to keep taxes from going up and even accused your opponent of being a "big tax increase guy." It now appears that the legislature could increase taxes, effectively, by more than your opponent was accused of considering.

I know that being governor in 1983 is a tough job requiring tough decisions. I also know that it is easy to suggest and comment. I just felt that you were entitled to some observations (from a guy who wants you to succeed as governor), as you complete your first quarter on the job.

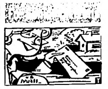
NEWS



Many of America's approximately 25 million people who are over 65 are asking Congress to repeal a tax bill that could affect them particularly.

The new rule requires savings institutions, banks, corporations, money market mutual funds and others that pay taxable interest or dividends to withhold ten percent of all taxable interest and dividend payments before paying them out to investors.

This is especially hard on senior citizens and retirees. Many will be entitled to exemptions—but will have to file with each payer of interest or dividends to get them, disclosing sensitive information about their incomes and ages.

Some people will be too ill to file for exemption or refunds of tax that should not have been withheld.

People whose income from other sources falls during the year they retire will not be able to file for an exemption if their taxable income was relatively high in the previous year. Senior citizens are also likely to suffer under this new rule, as the rest of the country does, from its effect on the recession. Withholding will be a disincentive to save, at a time when the economy is trying to pull out of a recession and savings are needed to finance home buyers and industrial revitalization. It removes savings that would otherwise be on deposit, point out the experts at the United States League of Savings Institutions.

What's more it will not bring in nearly as much revenue as the Treasury claims it will, the League has determined. An increasing number of senior citizens are joining other taxpayers asking Congress to repeal this rule. They are writing to the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 and the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

EARS AND BALANCE

In many instances those suffering from hearing loss frequently are troubled initially by dizziness. In one of its many functions, the ear maintains our sense of balance and order. Dizziness in its truest sense (unlike lightheadedness) can be disabling and upsetting and often stems from disturbances of the inner ear.

The inner ear has fluid-filled space within a bony shell. These fluid spaces support the function of the inner ear. If these spaces overaccumulate, the hearing level may drop, the ear may feel "full," and there may be accompanying ringing or noise and momentary or more extensive periods of sever dizziness. While these symptoms often diminish and disappear in a short period of time, they cannot be ignored and should be attended to by a physician.

Dizziness is often an indication of hearing loss. That's why appropriate care and treatment are indicated.

Festive Easter ham: pretty to look at, delicious to eat

WHAT LOOKS LIKE A CAKE and tastes like a ham? A beautiful Polish Ham Easter Bouquet adds a festive decoration to your dinner setting.

For a gourmet feast this Easter, why not serve a tasty Polish Ham all done up in a pretty Easter dressing . . . garnished with carrot and tomato roses plus leafy decorations.

Canned Polish Ham is already cooked and ready to serve, or to bake and glaze in any number of imaginative ways. The superior flavor of this tender, lean meaty ham is the result of Old World care combined with the most modern and scientific methods of curing and canning.

Polish Ham is so economical to serve as there is never a drop of waste and so many uses for the leftovers.

POLISH HAM EASTER BOUQUET

1 5-lb canned Polish Ham
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
⅔ cup cold water
2 tablespoons vinegar
3 cups mayonnaise
2 teaspoons dry mustard

Place ham on a wire rack over a baking sheet.

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until gelatine dissolves. Stir in vinegar, mayonnaise and mustard, blending until smooth.

Remove about ½ cup of mayonnaise mixture and tint deep yellow or green; reserve.

With spatula, spread part of uncolored mayonnaise mixture smoothly over ham. Chill 5 to 10 minutes, until set. Then spread on remaining mayonnaise mixture and chill until set.

Pipe reserved tinted mayonnaise around top edge of ham; chill thoroughly.

Carefully remove ham to serving platter and garnish before serving.

Newfolden Senior Citizens Inc.

Our March meeting was held Mar. 9 after dinner at the meal site. President Amy Lind called the meeting to order. The secretary's report was read by Nellie Olson. The treasurer's report was read by Hilmer Lind. Both reports were approved as read. Our Valentines party was a big success and enjoyed by all present. Names were drawn for our Valentine king and queen. Alice Bakke was our queen and Ray Gast was our king. I forgot to mention last month that we had voted to serve coffee and cookies to the class reunion group that will be touring our town the first part of July. The two quilts that we were making for emergency use are ready. The committee on aging are buying a quilt from us for $50. They will be selling tickets on this lovely quilt. We have three other quilts and a baby quilt, several sets of dish towels, some darling Teddy bears and other trinkets for sale. The senior olympic day in Crookston is set for July 12th this year.

We voted to purchase a roll up shade for the serving window in the kitchen and possibly for a couple of the windows in the dining room. We need to darken the room more for the days when we have movies or slides. The men and some of the ladies are enjoying an indoor horseshoe game. Our next meeting will be April 6. Motion was made to adjourn.

Mrs. Hilmer Lind, reporter

THEN and NOW

One of the country's oldest institutions has just celebrated its 346th anniversary.

On Dec. 13, 1636, separate companies of the Massachusetts militia were organized into the North, South, and East Regiments. It is from these three units, two of which still exist, that the National Guard draws its origins.

The primary mission of today's Army and Air National Guard is to provide combat units for the defense of the nation.

While the original mission of the National Guard was the protection of colonial settlements, the primary mission of today's Army and Air National Guard is to provide combat units for the defense of the nation. The National Guard also plays a vital role in defense policy.

In its state role, the Guard provides protection of life and property and disaster relief in times of earthquake, hurricane, floods and fires. In 1982, the National Guard responded over 300 times to such emergencies.

From the several hundred militiamen of 1636, the National Guard has grown to a strength of over one-half million citizen-soldiers and airmen.

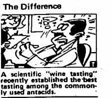
NEWS OF HEALTH

Taste Does Make The Difference



A scientific "wine tasting" recently established the best tasting among the commonly used antacids.

A taste test for an antacid conducted under the rules for wine tasting? Sound unbelievable? Not at all. That's just what a team of researchers in Oregon did recently.

Their purpose? To determine the most palate-pleasing among liquid antacids. There was sound reasoning behind the test. Physicians have long known that patients are notoriously unreliable about taking long-term medicines that have unpleasant tastes.

Although many may associate over-the-counter antacids with minor stomach upset, the fact is they are often prescribed for such serious illnesses as ulcers and many other less severe stomach disorders.

The "wine tasting" research was conducted by experts at the Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland. The rules they followed had been established at the University of California at Davis.

The results, which saw Mylanta®-II antacid walking off with top honors for its "lemon-minty flavor," have attracted so much attention professionally that they were reported in a recent issue of the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine.

Seven antacids were entered in the competition. The 16 tasters included doctors, medical students, nurses and secretaries.

The physicians who staged the test emphasized that both doctors and patients 'should be made aware of the importance of taste—good—taste— in the effective use of antacids. Such tests as the Oregon research, they point out, underline taste as a vital factor in the successful treatment of ulcers and other common stomach disorders.

Fertilize soybeans for top yields.

The two fertilizer elements most associated and most critical to high soybean yields are phosphorus and potassium. A soil test is the only way to accurately determine the amounts needed.

What's more, acid soils will not produce top-yield soybeans. Check your soil pH and work in lime ahead of planting if it is indicated.

Soybeans also consume huge quantities of nitrogen, but produce most of their N requirements through nodulation. High-yield soybeans, however, may take a third of their nitrogen requirements from the soil. Carry-over nitrogen from the preceding crop is favored.

Don't gamble on your soybeans! A soil test can tell you just what you need to reach your yield goals. Our Fertilizer Specialist can help you with all your planning. He has the know-how and we have the materials. We're ready when you are.

Making Family Life More Fun

SOMETHING TO WATCH

Many families who like to view television together are taking a dim view of a federal regulation that could limit the shows a family can get to see.

Some concerned congressmen are supporting repeal of regulations that might have kept some families from enjoying an activity together that's been a favorite with many families for years: watching television.

The rules the legislators would like to see repealed are the Federal Communications Commission's financial interest and syndication rules. Under those regulations, adopted over a decade ago, the three networks are prohibited from receiving any profits from later broadcasts of their programs after the network viewing. As a result, free television is restricted in the amount it can spend to buy quality programs. Free television also cannot participate fully in the development of television programs from new suppliers. Pay television has no such restrictions.

A number of major sporting events, motion pictures and quality series are being lost to free TV and found only on pay TV.

Many middle-class families—particularly those of senior citizens—are asking why the federal government is helping bring about a situation in which they have to pay for what they once got for free.

Couples who like to watch movies together, parents who want their children to see quality shows, may soon have far fewer options, experts suggest, if the rules are not repealed.

The proposal could even appeal to families who have or expect to have pay and cable television programs. The more free TV has to offer, the less cable operators will be tempted to raise prices.

People interested in these issues are writing their legislators at the House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 and the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

There will no old time fiddlers contest during the Fourth of July weekend. It will be held on Sat., Sept. 3 which is Labor day weekend. The VFW auxiliary will have a lunch stand. The Benson's will bring in their pop corn and cotton candy machines. They will be selling tickets again with $250 given away. There will be prizes for the one who sells the most tickets and Vernon Hovelsrud and Albert Aaknes will take care of the fireworks.

Alberg Mikesh band of Fargo will play for the dance and tickets at the door will be $2 and advance tickets sold before that will be $1. Get your tickets early, they will be only numbers of advance tickets sold. All business places and others will be selling tickets. The Trail community club consignment auction will be held the first Sunday of each month with Dale Svendsgaard as the auctioneer of Goodridge. Lunch was served by Joyce's Cafe. Next meeting will be Thursday, April 21.

Over one hundred friends and relatives attended the wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sellers (Barbara Lund) on Saturday afternoon at the VFW hall in Trail.

Mrs. Wayne Bakke and Kurt of Gonvick were coffee guests Sunday forenoon at the Albert Aaknes home.

Visiting Artist Is Franklin Teacher

by Julie Easton
Times Reporter

Her speech is soft and gentle. Her words are profound. Her work is beautiful and full of life. She is an artist.

Marcia McEachron, an artist in residence through the artist-in-the-schools program, shared her talent, ideas and encouragement with Franklin middle school students during the week of March 21 to 25.

As an artist, Marcia is multi-talented. She works with sculpture, drawing, bronze casting, welded sculpture and puppetry. She comments, "Lately I've been getting more into clay and ceramics."

During her week in Thief River Falls she worked with various projects in several classes. One class worked with plaster of paris sculpture and another created clay tiles for a mural of Thief River Falls. Other students made portrait heads out of 12 pounds of clay. ExCEL students from grades four to eight painted watercolors.

Marcia believes that art is an important part of anyone's life. "Through art, you develop an attitude toward yourself and respect for your own expression," she said.

Also, in Marcia's mind, art gives the student a chance to give some feedback to the teacher. She feels that in too many classes the students sit and absorb material, but in an art course they can give something back besides just repeating learned information.

"You learn to think creatively on your own. By giving something you develop confidence in your own way of doing things," she said.

This confidence can also be carried to other areas of life like self reliance and decision making, Marcia comments. "I've seen adults who are talented, but they don't have the confidence to cross the street," she noted.

Marcia readily instills confidence in the students. Several times the interview

HIS OWN LIKENESS was recreated through use of a plaster of paris mold and Robby Finstad adds the finishing touches. He sat with plastic and the plaster of paris mixture on his face until it hardened; then the figure was formed from the resulting mold. This creation was completed in a Franklin middle school art class when Marcia McEachron visited as a resident artist last week. She commented in a Times interview, "Through art, you develop an attitude toward yourself and respect for your own expression."

Taxes Paid In 1983 Reduce Delinquency

Taxes paid from January 1 through the end of February have reduced the Pennington county tax delinquency by nearly a full percentage point, according to information prepared by Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county treasurer. Delinquency at the end of February was 4.15 per cent.

At the end of 1982, county tax delinquency of 5.11 per cent was the highest in 31 years and no taxing unit in the county was without at least some delinquency. At the end of 1981 the tax delinquency was only 3.66 per cent. Previous high was 5.6 per cent in 1951.

Jorgenson said that tax payments since January 1 had resulted in two townships — Bray and Polk Centre — becoming 100 per cent current in tax payment. Bray had been $631.40 (.56 per cent) delinquent at the end of the year while Polk Centre had been $1,964.14 (2.73 per cent) delinquent when the books were closed for 1982.

Highlanding township cut its delinquency by $9,759.70 since January 1 (9.72 per cent delinquency to 3.19 per cent) and Star township reduced its delinquency by $5,662.40 (7.69 per cent delinquency to 2.40 per cent).

In Thief River Falls there were $33,472.88 in taxes paid since January 1, reducing the percentage of delinquency from 5.75 to 5.00 per cent.

List Owners Of Unclaimed Property Here

More than 30 people from the Pennington county area are listed by the state treasurer's office as owners of unclaimed property in banks, corporations, insurance companies and other companies in the amount of $25 or more. Legal notice on the property is published in today's issue of the Times.

Information concerning the description of the property and the name and address of the company holding it may be obtained by calling the unclaimed property division of the state treasurer's office at 1-800-652-9747 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Claimants may also write to the state treasurer's unclaimed property division at G-21 Administration Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, and must list their name and address, county in which the legal advertisement appeared and name and address of the owner listed in the publication.

If proof of claim is not presented and established by May 25, the unclaimed money or property will be sent to the state treasurer to be held in trust for the rightful owner. All claims after June 15 must be directed to the state treasurer.

On the Pennington county list were the following: John Dunbar, Wyndmere, ND; Norris Hagman, Meyer Helle, Truman Hemmestvedt, Robert Orris Manderud and Walter Wangsness, all of Goodridge; Glen Haugen and Henry Rux, St. Hilaire; Jerome Mack, Grand Forks, ND; Dale Nelson, Tom Olson and Elmer Rooker, no address listed;

NW Library To Hold Book Sale

Northwest regional library is holding a book sale from noon to 9 p.m. Thursday, April 21, during national library week.

Anyone wishing to donate books to the sale, may place them in the donations box at the front door of the public library.

School Board Filings Open Next Monday

Filing for three positions on the School District 564 board of education will begin next Monday, April 4, with the filing period to remain open through Tuesday, April 26. Terms of Larry McDowell, Greg Pribula and Mark Carlson expire this year.

Annual school election will be held on Tuesday, May 17 with the board of education to establish voting hours and polling places.

McDowell, who has served nine years on the board and four years as board chairman has indicated he will seek reelection to a fourth term. Carlson and Pribula are both completing their first three-year terms. Carlson, who is currently treasurer of the district, told the Times this morning that he also expects to seek reelection. Pribula could not be contacted by phone this morning.

Jaycees Plan Busy Schedule For Community

In order to allow the public time for advance planning and preparation, Thief River Falls Jaycee President Al Rux has released an advance schedule of community events planned for this spring and summer.

First event of the Jaycees' calendar is the Jose Cole circus, to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday, April 7 at the city sports arena. Proceeds from ticket sales will be used to fund the wading pool and crippled childrens' park. Advanced sale tickets are available from Erl's Market and Ekeren Drug, at $4 for adults and $2.50 for children. Tickets purchased at the door will be $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Concessions will be available from the Jaycee women with assistance from Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts.

On May 31, the Jaycees will begin their annual sandbox filling project. Sand and large tires will be provided by the Jaycees for a minimal fee to those requesting them.

On Sunday, July 24, the Jaycees will sponsor their annual demolition derby at the Pennington county fairgrounds. Drivers planning to enter this event should note that the date has been switched from July 22, to avoid conflicting with the Charlie Pride show.

Summerfest celebration has been scheduled from July 25 through 31 this year, and the Jaycees have already scheduled a number of events for the week. These will include a week-long treasure hunt with daily clues, merchant sponsored "Crazy Days" promotion on Thursday, racquetball and tennis tournaments all weekend, 1 p.m. parade and 8 p.m. Miss Thief River Falls pageant on Saturday, and softball tournaments, milk carton boat races and fireworks display on Sunday.

Rux urged that people who wished to participate in any of these events should begin making plans now, to avoid having any conflicting schedules.

Cole's Circus Set To Appear Here April 7

Jose Cole's International circus will be giving one performance at 7 p.m. April 7 at the sports arena. Circus is being sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for children age 12 and under, and are available for sale at Ekeren drug and Erl's Food market. They will also be sold at the door.

Proceeds from the circus will go toward construction of the crippled children's playground at Mark Twain school, and the wading pool to be built at LaFave park.

School Board Meets Tonight

Regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education will be conducted tonight at 8 p.m. in the school district service center board room.

Agenda items include establishing the schedule for school election, discussion of budget cuts, bids on the St. Hilaire school, community education budget, increases in extra-curricular prices, district drug policy, AVTI general advisory committee, and personnel matters.

ABOUT A THIRD of the number of applicants who had been expected turned up at the Thief River Falls city auditorium Thursday and Friday to complete applications for jobs with Arctco, Inc., which will begin snowmobile manufacture here in August. There was a small rush when the doors opened at 9 a.m. Thursday and the flow was fairly steady throughout the morning. In the afternoon and on Friday, however, the number of job seekers appeared to be small.

593 Apply For 60 Jobs To Build Snowmobiles

Five hundred and ninety-three applicants — about a third of what had been expected but approximately 10 times the number of jobs being offered — took part in the job service recruitment for Arctco, Inc., at the Thief River Falls city auditorium Thursday and Friday. Arctco is seeking to fill 50 to 60 positions in the manufacture of Arctic Cat snowmobiles beginning August 1.

Leon Johnson of Arctco said he was pleased with the sign-up in that it should provide the company with a good selection of applicants with skills and experience the company will need. Sign-up may still be done at the local job service office and review of applications is expected to begin later this week.

Johnson said the company is presently working on a wage and benefits package but has not reached a final decision. The jobs offered will be primarily seasonal part-time positions directed toward fabrication and assembly of snowmobiles.

All applications will be reviewed by the company, Johnson said, although previous experience will weigh heavily on the selection process. He added that the company plans to employ about 30 people in the general category of assembly, from eight to 10 in welding, another eight to 10 in fiberglass work and half a dozen in machine work and sheetmetal.

Bill Ness of Arctco said the company officials met with bankers late last week to discuss potential for manufacture of more than 2,000 snowmobiles — the number which the company had initially announced intentions to produce this year. Orders have exceeded that number, Ness said, and it is likely the number of snowmobiles to be produced will also be increased.

Jeff Gustafson, who organized the Thursday and Friday sign-up for Arctco through his position with the local job service office, summarized the results after an initial review of the application forms.

Of the 593 applicants registered Thursday and Friday, 360 or 60.7 per cent have some previous work experience with Arctic Enterprises. The remaining 233 applicants or 39.3 per cent listed no prior work experience with the previous Arctic Cat manufacturer.

Applicants included 374 who filled out application forms on Thursday and 219 on Friday. There were 381 male applicants (222 on Thursday and 159 on Friday) and 212 female applicants (152 on Thursday and 60 on Friday).

All but 39 of the total applications came from the five-county areas served by the Thief River Falls job service office — Red Lake, Pennington, Marshall, Kittson and Roseau counties. Among the 39 applicants from outside the area were one from Mahnomen county, 20 from Polk, two from St. Louis, one from Wadena, one from Itasca, 10 from Koochiching and one from Clearwater. There were also two applicants from Grand Forks county and one from Williams county in North Dakota, Gustafson said.

He noted that the likelihood the company would select employees with prior experience probably discouraged some people from applying for work.

Leon Johnson attributed the smaller than expected turnout to the fact that seasonal work was being offered several months from now and the opportunity to sign up at

THESE FORMER EMPLOYEES of Arctic Enterprises weren't bashful about their allegiance to Arctic Cat snowmobiles when they were among those signing up for potential employment with Arctco, Inc., Thursday morning. Left to right are Echel Erickson, Warren, who worked for Arctic Enterprises four years until it closed; Arlyn Stengrim, Warren, an employee from 1968 to 1981; and Peter Kujava, Newfolden, an employee from 1969 to 1981. None have been able to find steady employment and all were hopeful the new operation would provide new opportunities.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Cheryl Olson - Tim Sund Vows Spoken At Zion

Cheryl P. Olson and Timothy P. Sund of this city were married Sept. 25, 1982 at Zion Lutheran church in this city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Amorin Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Sund of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Richard Larson officiated at the ceremony. Jerry Joringdal was the organist and Steve Dalager, the soloist.

Attending the bride were Cindy Olsen, Viking, a sister, as matron of honor, Kathy Nyland, a friend, and Carole Olson, a sister of the bride. The groom's attendants were Terry Dyrdal, a friend, as best man; and Jeff and Scot Sund, brothers of the groom. Ushers were the bride's brothers: Chris and Craig Olson, together with Mark Drury and Mike Fanfulik, St. Hilaire, friends of the groom.

Roberta Svir was the bride's personal attendant.

Honor guests were Louise Kulseth, great-grandmother of the bride; Velores Johnson, great-aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Granberg, Fargo, N.D.; Mrs. Marvin Carlson, LaPorte, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Don Elofson, Gilbert.

Hosts and hostesses were Leonard and Marlene Olson, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Randy and Gayle Granberg, uncle and aunt of the groom. Dena Sund, sister of the groom, was at the guest book as Brenda Elofson, cousin of the bride, and Laurie Swanson, served the punch.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Deloris Hogo, aunt of the bride and Cathy Granberg, aunt of the groom. Pouring coffee were Shirley Carlson and Nancy Grandberg, also aunts of the bride and groom, respectively.

Anita Scheafer and Lisa Scheafer, cousins of the groom, arranged the gifts. Waitresses were Marylin Rambeck, Linda Sund, cousins of the groom, and Erin Brandt, a friend of the bride.

The couple, graduates of Lincoln high school, is at home in Thief River Falls at Basswood trailer court. The groom is employed in the printing department at The Times. Photo, Margaret Peterson, Thief River Falls

Mildred Wick Hosts DeCor Club At Her Home

DeCor club of the Federated Women's club met March 17 at the Mildred Wick home with vice president Signe Miller presiding, in the absence of President Madeleine Scramstad. Eight members were in attendance.

A report on hosting the Friendship club on March 10, was given by Ellen Peterson. She stated that Signe Miller and Elvera Samuelson had assisted her in serving the lunch. The food had been donated by the DeCor members.

Members were reminded that the district convention of the Minnesota Federated Women's clubs will be held April 16 at Stephen.

The meeting concluded with a silent auction with the proceeds designated for the club treasury. Lunch was served by Mrs. Wick.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Geneva Overum.

Goodridge Senior Citizens Note St. Patrick's Day

Goodridge senior citizens participated in two events on St. Patrick's day.

The first event was a party and program at the high school sponsored by the FHA chapter of the Goodridge high school. Coffee and cake followed the program.

At noon a pancake dinner was served at the Senior citizen center. Games and cards were played with door prizes going to Olive Rehm and Carlie Elg. The Happy birthday song was sung for Myrtle Jones. Lunch concluded the event at the center.

There are off-stage positions available, such as props, crew, makeup, costumes, set construction and chief carpenter. Sign up at the auditions for these jobs.

Pennington Co. Donates Heart Fund Memorial

Research and programs for the prevention and control of heart disease have been aided by gifts from Pennington county in memory of Randolph Thompson, Henry Thompson, Marcia Jenson, Thomas Haney, Lawrence Phillon, Erwin Olson, Arthur Stenberg, Russell Sorteberg, Lew Powell, Vern Winters, Herl Elgin, John Moum, LeVerne Winters, Ernest Berry, Jack Hoppe, Donald Hutterer, Archie Ptacek, Mildred Booren and Hector Peterson.

In reporting the contributions, the heart fund memorial county representative stated, "A memorial gift to the American heart association, Minnesota affiliate is a thoughtful way to express sympathy while also doing something positive to aid the fight against heart disease. It not only comforts those in grief, it also helps reduce the toll of heart disease — the killer of more Americans than all other causes combined."

In Minnesota, over 52 per cent of all deaths are from heart disease. Even in the 45-64 age group, heart disease is the leading cause of death.

Memorial gifts may be made either to the local volunteer heart fund memorial representative or sent to: American heart association, 1007 Westside Dr., Fergus Falls, MN 56537. Information which should be included with the gift are the name and address of the person making the gift, the person being honored, the occasion, and the name and address of the person who should receive the acknowledgement.

Ken Dvorak Honored For Heroic Action

Marine Sergeant Kenneth M. Dvorak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swenson of Newfolden, was recently awarded the navy commendation medal.

Dvorak was commended for his heroic achievement while serving as a fitnes instructor with service company, headquarters and service battalion, marine corps recruit depot, Parris Island, SC.

While enroute from Jacksonville to Miami, FL. on a Greyhound bus, a deranged man began to choke the bus driver. As the driver began to lose control of the bus, traveling at approximately 55 miles per hour, Dvorak quickly reacted to the situation. He forcefully subdued the assailant, allowing the bus driver to regain control of the bus. Dvorak continued to hold the assailant until the bus was stopped and police arrived.

A 1978 graduate of Middle River high school, Middle River, MN he joined the Marine Corps in May 1978.

Taxes May Be Due On Jobless Benefits Paid

Taxpayers who collected unemployment benefits and had other income during 1982 should be aware of a change in the law that applies to 1982 tax returns, according to internal revenue service (IRS) spokesman.

A single taxpayer might owe income taxes on unemployment compensation if his or her total income tops $12,000. Married taxpayers filing jointly might owe additional taxes if total income exceeds $18,000.

Previously, unemployment compensation was taxed if a single taxpayer's income was more than $20,000 or a married couple filing jointly had an income greater than $25,000.

Instructions on how to report unemployment compensation are in the Form 1040 and Form 1040A tax packages.

Because these changes were made during 1982, some taxpayers may have underpaid their tax and be subject to penalty on the underpayment. However, relief from the penalty will be granted if the underpayment is due to these changes in the law. For information, request IRS publication 905, "Tax Information on Unemployment Compensation," available by using the order blank in the tax package.

593 Apply For 60 Jobs With Arctco Here

the job service office this week.

For those who did show up for the opportunity to fill out an application, however, the prospect of having some sort of a job was foremost in the minds of many. We talked with a trio of men who were seated together at one of the tables and filling out the application forms. All wore jackets which were unmistakably associated with Arctic Cat snowmobiles.

Arlyn Stengrim and Echel Erickson of Warren and Peter Kujava of Newfolden were all former employees of Arctic Enterprises. Stemgrim started work with the company in 1968, Kujava in 1969 and Erickson four years before the company closed. All were on the payroll at the time the firm filed for bankruptcy and none has been able to find steady employment since then.

Like many of the former Arctic Enterprises employees participating in the sign-up, Erickson, Stengrim and Kujava seemed to associate Arctco with the former company. They spoke of the company "starting up again" and commented that it would be good to "get back to work." And they seemed somewhat optimistic that the manufacture of Arctic Cat snowmobiles would once again have a place for them.

Harold Arneson and his wife Joyce were both filling out applications when we visited with them Thursday morning. Harold had 15 years in with Arctic Enterprises when it went out of business and he also has been unable to find regular employment. He was called back after the main lay-off to assist in getting ready for the auction held last August, but the only other work he has been able to find was a couple of weeks at the American Crystal sugar beet plant at Crookston last fall.

As it turned out, the couple of weeks of work were worthwhile as he qualified for extension of unemployment benefits by just a few dollars. With three children in school, finding a job takes on added meaning. Harold says he has routinely checked with the employment office, called on local business places and looked for work in Crookston and Grand Forks to no avail.

"Sure, I hope I can get back to work again," he said. "Most of the time I was with the company I was a lead man in assembly. But we thought that with the kids in school, we should both apply for work. I filled out an application earlier today and came back with my wife while she filled out her's."

"We're lucky that we had our house paid for and have a place to live," Mrs. Arneson said. "But we have had to take from our savings to live and there haven't been any extras. I know there are a lot of others who are in the same situation we are. I hope things can get going again."

One woman from a neighboring community who asked not to be identified said she also was a former Arctic employee. She started in 1972 in the assembly area, moved to the office part time for a couple of years, then back to assembly and finally worked in service and parts from 1978 until 1981.

She spoke disdainfully of the strikes which Arctic Enterprises had, expressing criticism for employees who "didn't know how good they had it and didn't appreciate anything the company did for them."

Professing a high regard for Arctic Enterprises while an employee there, she hopes to get back to work for a few years to build up her social security base. And she seemed unconcerned about what salary would be paid by the new company. "I'll gladly accept whatever is offered," she said, "and be grateful to get it."

While most of the job applicants were unemployed or working only part-time, some full-time workers also filled out applications. Among them was Debbie DeBenedet, a receptionist for a local dental office. She was also a former Arctic Enterprises employee, finding work with that company a week after moving to Thief River Falls where her parents lived.

When the lay-off hit and hundreds of Arctic Enterprises employees were idled, Debbie was out of work for only a week before she found the receptionist job.

"I've really been lucky to get work," she said. "And I'm not unhappy with the job I have now, either. Why am I filling out an application here? Good question. Curiosity maybe. And I appreciated the job I had at Arctic; it hurt when everything went down the drain. With things starting over now, I guess I think it would be a good thing to get in on the ground floor and hope to grow with the company."

Cheryl Johnson from Roseau was also filling out an application. She attended Northland community college here for a year and worked for Polaris last summer during their brief production run in Roseau. Other than that, she has only been able to find short term work part-time in some of the larger towns in the area. Her hope was to find full-time work.

Mrs. Mike (Dawn) Hendrickson was a rarity among those we talked with on Thursday morning. Not only had she not worked for Arctic Enterprises before, she had only lived in Thief River Falls for a week and a half. Most of her prior experience was in retail sales and clerical jobs. As far as she was concerned, any job would do. She learned of the application period from another resident in the apartment house where she and her husband live.

Each applicant Thursday and Friday had a story of his or her own. Most were familiar with and loyal to the former manufacturer of Arctic Cat snowmobiles and seemed eager to be a part of the new operation. And all expressed the hope that the new company would signal a turn-around in the local economy and employment opportunities would be created.

CRACKING A SMILE would crack the mold so this Franklin middle school student was forced to sit perfectly still while two other students formed a plaster of paris cast. The casting project was one activity Marcia McEachron, a visiting artist, taught during her week's stay in Thief River Falls. Other projects included watercolor, clay tile making for a mural and portrait heads.

MARCIA McEACHRON, a visiting artist through the artist-in-the-schools program, explained a tile project to an art class. The students worked with clay and created scenes of wildlife and nature from the Thief River Falls area. When completed, the tiles will be assembled to create a mural which will be on display at Franklin middle school. Marcia enjoys her time in the classroom. "I can get out of my studio and share ideas; it's very stimulating," she said.

Artists Visits Franklin To Help Students

was interrupted by a student seeking, not help, but encouragement. And it didn't matter to Marcia what the student had created, she always found something helpful to say. She didn't force her own ideas on anyone, but rather aided the students in developing their own means of expression.

This tenderness toward the students is most likely a result of the "tremendous" effect Marcia's own teachers had on her life. She particularly remembers her grade school teacher, but junior and senior high school teachers also helped. Her college degree in fine arts is from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Marcia throughly enjoys her chances to go into the schools. "It's nice to do teaching. I can get out of my studio and share ideas; it's very stimulating.

"You can't help but end up in education," she continued, "Someone always wants to know how to do something."

Marcia also adheres to the idea that everyone should have exposure to an art class because, even if one doesn't become an artist, "by participating one can develop respect for art and get enjoyment from it."

Being an artist is not always easy and Marcia admits that she has had to have self-discipline.

"The lifestyle is like a priest or priestess. Things are simplified; you spend less money on material things; you give up many comforts and live in your studio because you can't afford an apartment; your social life is simplified."

Interestingly, Marcia also admits she feels like a priest because "so many people confess to me that they have always wanted to be an artist. They look for encouragement."

Another difficult aspect of being an artist comes after your works have been placed on public display. Marcia related, "You have to have a tough skin and be able to stand a lot of criticism."

At this point, Marcia is preparing for an Easter puppet show. She works with a musician and they write the songs and scripts and create the puppets.

"Many art projects are group, cooperative things. Through this you develop an attitude of sensitivity to the expression of others," she stated.

Marcia has had several exhibits on display in the Minneapolis area. Judging from the photos of her work it is varied, captivating and beautiful. The one piece she created during the week here was of a portrait head sleeping and was simply stunning.

Of course, Marcia would say that all art is magnificent because a unique individual created it.

Currently, she is allowing herself a period of time to grow and develop before she works on a new exhibit. For Marcia "too many ideas is the problem!"

Artists-in-the-schools is a program of COMPAS, a statewide community art agency. This activity was made possible in part by a grant provided by the Northwest regional development commission (Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire is chairman) and the Minnesota state legislature.

Funding was also made available by a grant from the national endowment for the arts with additional support from the Otto-Bremer foundation, the local school district and local community groups. COMPAS, a member agency of the United Arts fund is a recipient of a McKnight foundation award.

For further information on the programs available contact: Sheila Murphy, COMPAS Landmark Center, 308 75 W. Fifth Street, St. Paul, MN, 55102; phone (612) 292-3249.

Rev. Carlson Guest Minister At TRF Church

Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, Springfield, MO., will be guest minister at the Assemblies of God church in Thief River Falls on Easter Sunday, Arpil 3. Local pastor is Rev. Daniel E. Cole.

Rev. Carlson is the assistant general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, with headquarters in Springfield. He has served the church in district and national administrative posts since 1944.

He began his ministry in 1940 as an Assemblies of God pastor in Thief River Falls, and was ordained in 1941. Three years later he was elected district presbyter and district Sunday school director. In 1948, he was elected district superintendent, a position he held until 1961 when he became president of North Central Bible college in Minneapolis.

Under his leadership the college was accredited. It also achieved a broader base of support as ownership was transferred from a single district to a region composed of five districts. He led the college in a major expansion program.

Since 1969, Rev. Carlson has served as an elected official of the general superintendent of the 9,773-church group, and he is a member of the executive presbytery and the board of administration.

Mr. Carlson also serves as chairman of the denomination's Ministers benefit association, a voluntary retirement program for the more than 22,900 licensed and ordained ministers of the church. He is vice chairman of the board of directors of Central Bible college and is also vice chairman of the board of Assemblies of God graduate school which opened in 1973. He has authored several books.

Introduce Bill For Residency In Welfare

State Representative Wally Sparby of District 1B, has introduced a bill to add a residency requirement for general assistance, a part of the welfare program.

At present, Minnesota statutes do not specify any residency requirement in order to apply for general assistance.

"A six-month residency requirement seems little enough to meet in order to get general assistance from the county or other governmental unit," Sparby said, "and I believe we can save the state several hundreds of thousands of dollars each year. We could save about $30,000 a year in Ramsey county alone."

Co-authors of the bill are Representative Ann Wynia of St. Paul, who chairs the health, welfare and corrections division of the House Appropriations committee, and Representative Jim Tunheim of District 1A.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

This is to correct the article in the Monday Times regarding Older Worker Week and a thank you for the staff party and recognition given at the local library. Virginia Carriere is a Green Thumb worker, Doris Eisenbrener, a volunteer and I, have been a part-time regular employee since October of 1971.

Carnegie Public library had recently moved into the new location and became Pennington county library. Later it became the Northwest regional library as it now serves five counties — Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson and Roseau.

I have worked under several directors including Bertha Hastad, Mary Crouteau, Neil Flynn, James Conners, Dottie Heibing, Wayne Alfveby and now Barb Jauquet.

I have personally delivered thousands of books to shut-in readers in nursing homes, hospitals and private homes. This has been a most rewarding kind of work. I have seen a tremendous increase in library use and have watched the floor carpet actually wear out.

Only three other local employees have worked since before 1971. They are Patty Rustad, Paula Adamson and Marv Johnson, bookmobile driver.

Some fascinating questions noted vary from finding a book on what to name the baby, how to make rhubarb wine or sew a quilt, travel book information, adventure or just a good book to fall asleep on.

46th State Science Fair To Be At BSU

The 46th annual Minnesota state science fair and research paper program will be held at Bemidji state university (BSU) April 14 to 16.

Approximately 200 junior and senior high school students from around the state will be participating in the fair by exhibiting projects and presenting papers. It is the second time the state fair has been held in Bemidji.

Exhibits will be set up in Memorial hall on the BSU campus. Opening session will feature a demonstration and lecture by well-known Princeton chemist Hubert Alyea.

Public is welcome to view the exhibits on April 15 from 1 to 6 p.m. and April 16 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Each exhibit represents an investigation, research, and experiments performed by a student. Effectiveness and appearance of the exhibit will be considered in the judging with most attention given to creativity and thoroughness of scientific thought found in the project.

Papers involve either library or investigative research. Scientific thought and procedures will receive major considerations in the judging for the investigative papers while criteria for library research will stress the analysis and application as well as the depth of the research effort.

Ten papers of the 50 registered at the fair will be chosen for presentation at the November science symposium to be held in Grand Rapids. Students will be competing with students from North Dakota and South Dakota for the nationals.

Awards given by the Minnesota academy of science include a medal to each first place winner in various divisions, the Harvey award to the outstanding Minnesota junior academy science chapter, and a trip for two students to participate in the International science and engineering fair to be held in Alburquerque, NM, May 9 to 14.

Announcements of award winners will be made at banquets scheduled at 6:30 p.m. April 15 and 11:15 a.m. April 16.

More information concerning the state science fair can be obtained by contacting Diane Morris, science department, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601 (218-755-2920) or Dr. Adela Elwell at (218-751-8632).

Enterprise Zones Bill Is Introduced

Senator Rudy Boschwitz and 29 Senate co-signers have introduced the "Enterprise Zones Bill of 1983."

Enterprise zones is a concept that seeks to address unemployment by encouraging job creation in depressed areas through a package of federal and local tax breaks and other incentives.

Boschwitz, who has introduced the bill in each of the past three years, says that with the enthusiastic backing of the President, this will be the session that enterprize zones become law.

"In this time of double digit unemployment, we need enterprise zones more than ever," Boschwitz said. "As the economy turns around, more and more Americans will go back to work, but the need for enterprise zones will be increasingly evident in areas of structural unemployment, where jobs are lost more because of changing industries than of a sagging economy.

"Areas such as Minnesota's iron range, where the jobless have been stung by the ravages of structural unemployment, can use the boost that enterprise zones can provide."

10.3 Per Cent State Jobless Rate In Feb.

Minnesota's unemployment rate in February was 10.3 per cent, unchanged from January, Commissioner Barbara Beerhalter of the Minnesota department of economic security reported recently. The February 1982 unemployment rate was 7.8 per cent.

Comparable national unemployment rate for February was 11.3 per cent.

Compared to February a year ago, the size of the Minnesota civilian labor force decreased by .9 of one per cent; the number of employed persons decreased by 3.6 per cent; and the number of unemployed workers increased by 31.1 per cent.

Minnesota's labor force in February was 2,096,400 persons, down 3,600 from January and down 18,700 from February last year.

Number of persons employed in February was 1,879,400, down 3,500 from January and down 70,200 from February a year ago.

Number of unemployed persons in Minnesota in February was 217,000, down 100 from January and up 51,500 from February a year ago.

Production workers in manufacturing were paid average weekly earnings of $375.80 in February for working an average of 39.6 hours at $9.49 per hour. In February 1982 production workers were paid average weekly earnings of $353.92 for working an average of 39.5 hours at $8.96 per hour.

The unemployment rate pertains to the entire labor force and is not used to determine whether unemployment insurance benefit payments will be extended beyond the usual 26-week maximum. The unemployment rate among persons covered by unemployment insurance is used to determine whether the benefit payments will be extended.

Dear Readers,
It is hard to die, and it will always be so. But if we can learn to view death . . . not as a dreaded stranger but as an expected companion to our life, when we can also learn to live our lives with meaning - with full appreciation of our finiteness, on the limit of our time on earth.

GIVING ENCOURAGEMENT is an important part of the teaching process when Marcia McEachron, a resident artist, visits art classes. While teaching a Franklin middle school art class last week she commented, "By giving something you develop confidence in your own way of doing things." Marcia is shown helping Shawna Peterson with a clay tile of trees and a behive that will eventually be one section of a mural commemorating Thief River Falls.

Charlie Hogan, Retired Soo-Liner, Dies

Charlie Hogan, 77, of 408 5th Avenue S.E., Rugby, N.D., 58368, a retired Soo Line railroad telegrapher and depot Agent at Viking, died Thursday at Pierce, N.D. Before moving to Rugby, the Hogans resided in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services for Charlie Hogan are being held today (Monday) at 2:00 p.m., at the Anderson Funeral home at Rugby, N.D., with Rev. Francis Kinzler officiating. Rev. Kinzler also served as soloist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls.

Honorary pallbearers were Winton Forsberg, Charles Booren, Wilfred Janoski, Emore Johnsrud, Gus Westerlund, Duane Fast and James Anderson.

Charlie Hogan was born Oct. 6, 1905 on the family farm near Gardena, N.D., to Charles and Elizabeth Weld Hogan, now deceased. He received his schooling in the Gardena area. In 1929, he began working for the Soo Line Railroad at Calio, N.D., and retired in 1970 while living at Viking.

He was married April 7, 1933 at Alexandria to Gertrude Roers. Following his retirement, the Hogans moved to Thief River Falls and lived here until two years ago, when they moved to Rugby, N.D.

He was a member of the United Methodist church of Thief River Falls, Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, and the Veteran Employees association of the Soo Line Railroad.

He is survived by his wife, a half-sister, Betty Sharrett, Litchfield, Ohio; and three nephews: LeRoy Boltz, Lindstrom, Charles Hoffos, Alexandria, and Maurice Hoffos, Horsehoe Bend, Ark.

Two sisters and one brother preceded him in death.

Duane-Sharon Anderson Rites At Karlstad

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Bethel Lutheran church in Karlstad for Duane Anderson, 44 and his wife, Sharon, 37, who died in an automobile accident at Butte, Mont. on March 18.

Pastors Cordell and Mary Carol Strug, and Rev. John A. Riveness officiated at the services. Singing at the service were Mr. and Mrs. Ingolf Ingebrigtsen, with Heidi Steien at the organ. Interment was in Eldsvold Cemetery near Halma, with military honors for Duane by the Karlstad American Legion Post. Collins Funeral home of Karlstad had charge of the arrangements.

Pallbearers for Duane were Morris, Donald, John, Wayne, David and Danny Anderson, and those for Sharon were Kenneth Augustine, Roger Golby, Ronnie Kleven, Lester Johnson, Stanley Hanson and Miles Amundson.

Duane Olaf Anderson was born July 18, 1938 at Lancaster to Elizabeth and Ingvald Anderson. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Halma and Middle River communities, and served with the U.S. military. On Sept. 15, 1962 he was married to Sharon Meader at Newfolden. The couple resided at Karlstad for one year and then moved to Butte, Mont., where Duane was employed as a heavy equipment operator.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ed (Elizabeth) Vanous of St. Vincent; two daughters, Terri Ann and Tammy, both at home; one son, James Duane, also at home; four brothers: Morris of Butte, John of Hallock, Donald of Brainerd, and David of Middle River; two sisters, Joan Hammer of Hallock and Mrs. Max (Myrtle) Finney of Anoka; and several nieces, nephews, cousins, aunts, uncles and other relatives. He was preceded in death by his father.

Mrs. Anderson, the former Sharon Ann Meader, was born on April 5, 1945 in Minneapolis to William and Betty Meader. She grew to womanhood in the Karlstad area; and was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

In addition to her children, she is survived by her parents; three brothers: Richard and William Meader, Jr., both of Strandquist, and Randy of Drayton, ND; three sisters: Mrs. Kathy Overjon and Mrs. John (Janet) Larsen, both of Embarrass, and Mrs. Miles (Darlene) Amundson of Strandquist; and many other relatives. She was preceded in death by one brother, one sister, and her maternal and paternal grandparents.

George Lessard Services Held At Hillsboro

Funeral services for George Lessard, 55, of Hillsboro, N.D., and formerly of Oklee, were held Thursday, March 24, at the St. Rose of Lima Catholic church in Hillsboro. Lessard died unexpectedly on Sunday morning, March 20, at the Hillsboro Community hospital.

George A. Lessard was born April 23, 1927 in Lambert township of Red Lake county, to Charles and Rose Asselin Lessard. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Oklee area.

He was married to Dorothy Berberich on Nov. 10, 1948 at Manley, Iowa. That same year, he began working for American Crystal Sugar and worked for the company in Mason City, Iowa; Crookston, Drayton, N.D.; Renville and since 1978 at Hillsboro, N.D.

He was a member of the St. Rose of Lima Catholic church.

Surviving are his wife, three daughters: Mrs. Steven (Sherilyn) Hartsock, Duluth; Mrs. Rod (Mary) Thomas, Detroit Lakes; and Monica, at home; two sons: Michael Lessard, Hillsboro, N.D., and Scott, Denver, Colo.; five granddaughters and one grandson.

Also surviving are six sisters: Mrs. Fred (Delores) Berberich, Erskine; Mrs. Elmer (Theresa) Champagne, Brooks; Mrs. Melvin (Marie) Mercil and Mrs. Philip (Sharon) Tougas, both of So. Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Ernest (Marcella) Tougas, Red Lake Falls, and Mrs. Rolland (Yvonne) Boucher of Mentor; and seven brothers: Raymond and Harold Lessard, Oklee; Morris, Vern and Robert, all of So. Milwaukee, Wis.; Kenneth of Brooks, and Walter of Crookston.

He was preceded in death by two granddaughters.

Donald Sandum Dies On Wed. At El Paso, Tex.

Donald L. Sandum, 55, a former resident of Thief River Falls, died Wednesday at El Paso, Tex., at the Beaumont hospital at Fort Bliss. Among his survivors are his mother, Mrs. Edith Sandum, and a sister, Mrs. Bruce (Helen) Hall of this city.

Funeral services for Donald Sandum are being held today (Monday) at the Fort Bliss chapel.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Rites Held For Mrs. Lawrence Armstrong, 69

Funeral services for Mrs. Lawrence (Thelma) Armstrong, 69, of this city and formerly of the Humboldt community, were held Friday at 1:30 p.m., at the United Methodist church. Mrs. Armstrong died Tuesday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Melvyn Budke and Rev. Bernard Lewellin officiated at the services. Organist and soloist was Mrs. Arnold Hammer. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were William Dykhuis, Bill Gathridge, Harry Gregerson, Wally DuChamp, Glenn Miller and Walter Loer.

Mrs. Armstrong, the former Thelma Loberg, was born Oct. 10, 1913 at Thorhult to Ole and Tilda Nordahl Loberg, now deceased. Later, she moved with the family to Summitt, S.D., where they lived for a time. Following graduation from Goodridge high school and the Thief River Falls Normal Teachers Training school, she taught in the area schools for nine years.

On Jan. 5, 1943, she was married at Asbury Methodist church in Watertown, N.Y., to Lawrence Armstrong. In 1945, the couple moved to Humboldt and farmed there until 1971, when they came to Thief River Falls. Since then, they have made their home here.

She was a member of the United Methodist church and the United Methodist Women.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters: Mrs. Dennis (Linda) Miller, Ankeny, Iowa; Janice, New York City, and Lois, North Miami, Fla.; two grandchildren, two sisters: Mrs. Norma Bloomquist, Edina; and Lois Loberg, Minneapolis; two brothers: Oliver Loberg, Nampa, Idaho, and Herman Loberg, Thief River Falls; and several nieces and nephews.

RESIDENTIAL conservation service auditors Tom Luke and Curt Leno travel around Thief River Falls in a pair of little blue and white AMC Spirit cars, inspecting homes of Inter-City Gas customers to enable them to find ways to conserve fuel. Their jobs came about as a result of legislation requiring regulated utilities of a certain size to conduct home energy audits for their customers.

CURT LENO, a residential conservation service auditor for Inter-City Gas Corporation, demonstrated the portable computer terminal which allows them to use computer facilities in Kansas City, KS., simply by connecting it to the telephone in a customer's home. Computer facilities are rented on a time-sharing basis by six or seven utility companies, and enable auditors to do hours of complex calculations in about 15 minutes.

Energy Audits Offered Users Of Natural Gas

by Dave Berg
Times Reporter

Sight of a couple of strangers driving little blue and white cars with Inter-City Gas signs displayed on windows and doors, poking around houses in the neighborhood may have aroused the curiosity of some Thief River Falls residents recently.

Curt Leno and Tom Luke are from Cloquet, and they are in Thief River Falls for the purpose of conducting energy audits on the homes of Inter-City Gas customers. They drive here each Monday, usually returning to their headquarters in Cloquet on Thursday or Friday.

In the same way that a financial auditor would go over records to determine the efficiency of a bookkeeping system, they go over an entire house, to determine its energy efficiency. When they have completed their audit, they provide the customer with a report which makes a number of suggestions on how he can improve the energy efficiency of his home, thereby reducing consumption of fuel.

Deciding whether or not to utilize any of their suggestions is up to the customer; however, the audit report makes the decision of prioritizing improvements considerably easier, by estimating project costs, and calculating how long it would take for each to pay for itself, based on the amount of fuel saved.

They emphasize that the audit, by itself, can save neither energy nor money, noting that only by adopting some of the suggested improvements can any savings be realized. Auditors also emphasize that before adopting any of the home improvements recommended, the most important step is adopting low cost or no cost energy saving practices. These might include such things as heating and cooling system adjustments to maintain efficient operation, turning down thermostats, restricting hot water use, using windows as solar collectors and sealing leaks.

In making their inspection of the home, Tom noted that they would start by introducing themselves to the resident. By talking with the owner, they can "get a feel for the house," by learning about drafts, cold spots, fuel consumption and basic information about when it was constructed or modified.

Visual inspection would begin by measuring the outside dimensions of the building and recording size and number of windows and doors, as well as their condition. An electronic probe might be inserted into the wall to determine how well it is insulated.

Homeowner is usually asked to accompany them as they inspect the inside of the house. This allows him to watch what they do, as well as allow them to point out problem areas. Inspection would usually begin in the basement, where they would inspect such things as heating and hot water systems, foundation and rim joist condition. An electronic flue gas analysis can be conducted on gas furnaces to determine if they are operating correctly, and safety checks are made of the entire system.

In other areas of the house, windows and walls would be checked for evidence of infiltration or moisture problems. Weather stripping and caulking might be recommended in some areas. Attics are checked for signs of water damage, depth of insulation and proper ventilation.

Among other observations which the auditors might make would be whether the home is suitable for conversion to some form of either active or passive solar heating. Using a small device to calculate the angle at which the winter sun would strike the house, they will determine the best location to mount solar heat collectors.

Once the men have completed their inspection of the home, they get a little help from modern computer technology. Using the customer's telephone, they dial a toll-free number. Then by simply cradling the handset of the phone in a portable computer terminal about the size of a typewriter, they are able to program data on the customer's home into a computer in Kansas City, KS. Hours of painstaking calculations are completed in a matter of minutes.

While they wait, the computer types out a data sheet on the customer's house, which lists a variety of optional improvements, followed by high and low estimates of first year savings, installation and maintenance costs, and estimated pay-back period, both for self-installed or contractor installed improvements. Payback period is estimated in tenths of years.

As an example, the print-out for one customer listed eight different options, including caulking, ceiling-attic insulation, foundation insulation, water heater insulation, replacement heating, installation of vent dampers, electromechanical furnace ignition systems, and a solar hot water heater.

Items can than be prioritized, based on how long they would take to pay for themselves. Highest priority item selected by Leon for this customer was caulking, with an estimated first-year savings between $47 and $71. Computer noted that if self-installed it would cost between $29 and $44, paying for itself in .5 to .7 of a year. If contractor installed, the same improvement would cost between $335 and $502, for a payback period of 5.9 to 8.9 years.

Lowest priority improvement was an electromechanical ignition system to replace the pilot light of the furnace. With a first year savings between $22 and $33, the device was not recommended for self-installation, and had a contractor installed cost between $192 and $288, plus $10 maintenance expense, for an estimated payback period between 10.4 and 20 years.

Leno noted that calculating savings is not an exact science, since each home has very individual characteristics. Materials costs used in calculations are based on a statewide average, based on quotes given twice a year by suppliers. Calculations are also based on recent utility costs, which may fluctuate up or down rather rapidly, but he estimated that overall, they were probably within a range of plus-or-minus 20 per cent.

In an attempt to make it easier for customers to make improvements, they are provided with lists of material suppliers, contractors and lenders who have agreed to comply with department of energy and state standards regarding work recommended by the utility company.

Standards include being within the price range specified by the auditor and agreeing to inspection of completed work. They also must guarantee their work.

Audit customers are also provided with forms for obtaining bids from contractors, and information on how to obtain low interest loans and grants for energy-saving home improvements. They also receive information on calculating available tax credits.

Customers are provided with a "Home Owner's Energy Guide" published by Inter-City Gas Corporation, which explains the program, as well as offering suggestions for do-it-yourselfers. It also contains information on alternative energy systems such as solar and wind power.

Jim Jensen, supervisor of the residential conservation survey program for Inter-City Gas, was asked whether it didn't seem kind of ironic that a company with a product to sell should be offering a service actually encouraging customers to use less of their product.

He agreed that it was ironic, but explained that the program had come about as the result of legislation passed by the U.S. Congress. 1979 energy conservation act mandated that all regulated utilities of a certain size provide a home energy evaluation service to their residential customers. Minnesota legislature created the Minnesota energy conservation service, and limited the cost of a home energy audit to $10 per customer. In addition a number of general assistance and protection services were built into the program.

Noting that fuel oil dealers and municipal utilities were not bound by the same rules, he allowed that the program had been received with some friction from people who had been with the company for a long time.

Jensen said that he was a former school teacher who had been hired "fresh, from outside the company" just to set up the program.

He commented that while the program is expensive to operate, it has provided good public relations for the company. "We've had a real positive response, with a lot of letters from customers saying they think it's great, or that they were glad we offered it."

Surprisingly enough (at least to me), response to the program has not been all that high. Out of 1,786 cards sent out to residential customers in the city of Thief River Falls, approximately 7.1 per cent were filled in and returned, requesting a home energy audit. Jensen noted that his area actually had one of the higher responses received.

Ten dollar fee which the customer pays would barely pay rent on the computer for the 15 minutes it is used on each audit, Jensen noted. Cost of a comparable audit was estimated at between $80 and $250. He noted that if all the overhead such as vehicles, equipment, training and printing costs were included, audits done in the first year probably cost close to $1,000 each.

Since costs are ultimately borne by the company's customers, he estimated that bills probably increased only a few dollars per year for each customer. "From a utility's point of view, they're foolish not to take advantage of it," Jensen said.

"Obviously, the state believes that in the long run, more will be saved than is invested," Jensen commented. "I feel it's a good program," he agreed, but added, "we could cut costs, though." He estimated that audits could be done for roughly half the cost if some of the paperwork requred by law were deleted, noting that experience had shown people just weren't using some of the forms. "It bugs me a little bit," he said, referring to the amount of red tape involved, "but we're in the process of trying to change the rules."

Although the Reagan administration is presently emphasizing less government interference in the affairs of private business, Jensen says he sees this type of program getting more, rather than less, emphasis in the future. Recent passage of a state home energy disclosure law requires that buyers of a home be provided with audit information or sign a waiver releasing the selling from the obligation.

Jensen notes that this audit program was set up on a five year basis. As the first two-year cycle of informing customers and performing audits is completed, another cycle will begin, so that customers who did not take advantage of the first opportunity will have another chance to have an audit done. He says he also expects to see programs developed for apartment owners and small commercial customers, although the gas company may be allowed to charge more for those audits.

As people are looking for ways to save money, they are becoming more energy conscious, Jensen says, adding that his attitude toward the program has been, "if we have to do this thing, it's my job to see we do a good job of it."

U 'M' Faculty, Regents Deplore Recent Heckling

Group of University of Minnesota faculty members has joined the list of those publicly deploring the treatment received by U.N. ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick at a lecture on the Minneapolis campus in early March.

Executive committee of the university's chapter of the American association of university professors this week passed a resolution deploring "the disruptive heckling of ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick during her recent speech on campus, inasmuch as such disruptive conduct is a violation of academic freedom as well as freedom of speech at an institution where all opinions should be heard without interference."

Resolution was sponsored by George Hage, professor of journalism and mass communication.

Kirkpatrick's lecture March 2 was sponsored by the Hubert H. Humphrey institute of public affairs and was attended by about 4,000 people. Hecklers shouted at Kirkpatrick intermittently throughout her talk, "Has the United Nations Outlived Its Usefulness?" At one point, a Nazi banner was unfurled from the balcony.

Kirkpatrick's talk had been advertised widely as a public lecture and was attended by many non-students.

At its meeting last week, the university board of regents passed a similar resolution "reaffirming our policy of and commitment to freedom of speech at this university, and deploring the infringement of that freedom by some individuals. . ." The resolution was sponsored by Regent David Lebedoff.

"As one who lived through the great disruptions of the late 60s and 70s, I learned then, and I've never forgotten, that univerities are very fragile places," President C. Peter Magrath told the board.

"It's regrettable that we have to remind everybody in the state that this is a most basic freedom — the freedom to speak, to argue and to listen — and you can't do it if people are shouting," Magrath said.

ROTC, Military Academy Meet Set April 9

United States military academy of West Point, NY will conduct an admissions conference for area high school juniors and their parents at Grand Forks, ND on Saturday, April 9.

Lieutenant Colonel Allen Nichols of Thief River Falls and Lieutenant Colonel John Allen, the area representatives for the military academy said, "This activity is an excellent opportunity for students to obtain first-hand information about the military academy and the army ROTC program." They emphasized that all area students are welcome to attend the conference which will be held at 2 p.m., at the Holiday Inn, Interstate 29, Grand Forks, N.D.

Non-Itemizing Taxpayers May Deduct Charity

Taxpayers who made charitable contributions during 1982 but cannot itemize deductions may deduct up to $25 of their contributions on their 1982 federal income tax returns, the internal revenue service said.

Non-itemizing taxpayers may deduct 25 per cent of the first $100 of charitable contributions from their gross income up to the maximum $25 deduction. For married couples filing separately the rate is 25 per cent of the first $50 up to a maximum deduction of $12.50. The same rules will apply for 1983.

For more information about the charitable deduction for non-itemizers and other new tax legislation, the IRS offers the free Publication 553, "Highlights of 1982 tax changes," available by using the order form in the tax package.

Milk Deduction "Penny Wise, Pint Foolish"

Congressman Arlan Stangeland told members of the House dairy subcommittee recently that legislation must be passed to repeal the recent 50-cent deduction in federal dairy price supports.

As the lead-off witness in a general hearing on the problems of the dairy industry, Rep. Stangeland said, "The decision by Agriculture Secretary John Block to collect a 50-cent assessment on dairy payments is penny-wise and pint-foolish.

"That proposal was intended to reduce overproduction and to lower federal expenditures for the dairy program," he said. "But instead of reducing production and costs, it has had the opposite effect. In order to make ends meet, many farmers are expanding milk production.

"The fact that the 50-cent deduction will increase the surplus and costs of the program has been admitted by the USDA, which now predicts that milk production will increase by two or three per cent in 1983," Congressman Stangeland said.

The Barnesville farmer noted that the dairy subcommittee must make intelligent decisions to reverse this policy and those trends. "But that will take compromise and courage," Congressman Stangeland said.

"Every dairyman in America agrees on three things," he said. "First, there is a problem. Second, it must be solved. Third, the only way to solve it is with their own personal plans.

"That won't work when we go to the floor with a plan," Congressman Stangeland said. "Unless the dairy industry and the dairy-state Representatives are united behind a realistic compromise bill, the big-city Representatives will divide and conquer."

If small family dairy farmers and big milk producers can't agree on one plan, then the best parts of the Wisconsin plan, the National Milk Producers federation plan, the Farmers Union plan, and all the other dairy proposals will be defeated by Congress, he said.

"If we fail to work together — Democrats and Republicans — then the dairy industry will be in worse trouble," Congressman Stangeland said. "We will then be solving the milk surplus problem by throwing farmers off the land, instead of by making the right choices."

Smelt Fry Aids Scholarships

Nurse's training scholarship fund of the 40 et 8 will benefit from a smelt fry being served Monday, April 4, at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls. Admission of $3 will entitle persons attending to baked potato, cole slaw and all the smelt they can eat.

Kay Wedul Is Member Of Leaders' Club

Katherine Wedul, FIC, Thief River Falls, has earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1982 leaders' club. She is a district representative for the fraternal insurance society.

Leaders' club is one of the society's top sales honors. Wedul qualified for membership in this club on the basis of the combined amount of life and health insurance, annuities and mutual funds she placed with Lutherans in her area.

Local Attractions

These past few days have provided Thief River Falls community residents and their guests with two outstanding local attractions — the Fantasy on Ice production of "Seven Seas Adventure" and the Lincoln high school musical "Little Mary Sunshine".

Those who missed the ice show Saturday night and Sunday afternoon are out of luck until another year. Tonight and Tuesday night provide a reprieve for those who missed the musical for it has two more performances before closing.

We have said it before, but we continue to be impressed by the quality of public performances turned out by our community residents, and our young people in particular. This is a tribute not only to their individual abilities but the caliber of instruction they receive and the effort put forth by their parents and other local adults.

To one whose ventures onto ice extend no further than tentatively testing frozen sloughs while pheasant hunting, the degree to which local skaters have developed control on the edges of thin blades is nothing short of amazing. And the further development of dedicated young people such as Joyce and Todd Phelps inspires awe.

And music instructor Dave Morken has again done an exceptional job of matching a musical to the talent he has at hand. "Little Mary Sunshine" does not showcase individual performances by accomplished vocalists as some other musicals have, primarily because there seem to be no outstanding vocal talents at hand. But those selected certainly performed adequately and to the full extent of their abilities. Who could ask for more?

A grateful community extends its thanks to the Lincoln music department and the parks and recreation skating committee for two most enjoyable attractions. Your time and effort does not go without appreciation.

Diversion Improper

"The Minnesota motorist is being asked to cough up an estimated $95 million a year for the proposed state fuel tax while an estimated $115 million in motor vehicle tax receipts is being side-tracked to help balance the state's general fund," states Tom Goulette, director of public relations for the Minnesota automobile association.

Goulette points out that the motor vehicle excise tax collected on sales of new and used cars and trucks has been controversial since its inception. In 1981, however, the legislature declared the tax to be a highway user fee just like the fuel tax and registration fees, and as such it should be dedicated to highway uses. Transfer is to be phased in over an eight-year period beginning in 1983.

A proposal now in the legislature would delay the transfer to 1985 and impose a five cents per gallon state gas tax hike to go along with the five-cent federal gas tax increase. The House version limits the gas tax increase to three cents and includes only a two per cent excise transfer — a fraction of the scheduled amount.

"In the spirit of cooperation and responsible citizenship, Minnesota AAA has supported past tax increases for highway improvements and repairs," Goulette said.

"Although automobile owners pay about 85 per cent of all state fuel taxes, we agree that more money is needed now and we would support a more moderate gas tax increase if the transfer of the motor vehicle tax is carried out on schedule."

Viewing The Press

Commenting on complaint by politicians that the press treats them or their causes unfairly, chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr. of the Republican national committee notes that ". . . there is no shortage of people who argue their innocence and moan about receiving unfair treatment at the hands of the media.

He likened the situation to an old fable in which a prince toured a jail and listened to the occupants professing their innocence. He finally meets a self-confessed pickpocket and releases him, explaining: "I'm only doing this so that you don't corrupt all these innocent people."

Fahrenkopf maintains that the news media is neither too liberal (as the conservatives believe) not too pro-establishment (as the liberals believe) nor totally objective and innocent (as the journalists believe). A totally objective press is a laudable goal, he says, but like finding fresh vegetables in restaurants or marrying perfect spouses, it is unlikely to be achieved.

"What is important," he says, "is that the American media is comprised of tens of thousands of people with as many different viewpoints, that their customers demand honest and straight-forward news, and that the competitive market for news. . . provides real incentives for journalists to do their jobs as well as they can."

To catch the attention of the public and reporters, he said, it is necessary for public figures to say something worthwhile, to say it honestly and clearly, and make certain that it means something to people.

He quotes comic songwriter Tom Lehrer who sais that". . . if people complain about not being able to communicate, the very least they should do is shut up."

"Perhaps it is too strongly put," Fahrenkopf writes, "but politicians of either camp should think about spending more time doing their own jobs and less time complaining about the press."

Totally Awesome

The phrase "totally awesome" has become a much over-worked cliche in today's vernacular, but it can be accurately applied to the $10 billion budget which is being considered for the state of Minnesota.

Figures of millions and billions of dollars are tossed around so freely and frequently in discussions of government these days that the amounts tend to lose their relative values. State Rep. David M. Jennings, Minnesota House minority leader, sheds some comparative light on the figures.

"Governor Rudy Perpich has proposed a $9.8 billion budget," Rep. Jennings states. "It appears that some legislators wouldn't mind spending more than $10 billion. Stop to consider that number. That means Minnesota taxpayers will be forced to fork over 10,000 million dollars. That's $3 billion more than the total yearly gross income of our entire agricultural economy."

Let that statement sink in awhile. It would take more than the total agricultural gross income of this agriculturally-oriented state just to pay for the state budget — and the total would come up $3 billion short!

Rep. Jennings maintains that the reason high taxes are going higher is because DFL politicians can't kick their spending habit. "Taxes don't need to go up," Jennings said. "The fact is that some politicians want them to go up.

"The time has come to assure the Minnesota taxpayer that he or she has a future in this state. The time has come to talk straight with every person affected by Minnesota government — including those who pay the bills. The time has come to head off this outrageous talk of eliminating federal deductibility — making temporary taxes permanent — and forcing massive property tax increases."

We don't believe it is fair to lay the blame for Minnesota's financial woes at the feet of the DFL majority. But we believe it is entirely necessary to demand our present legislators in both major parties that they break the spending habit and show restraint in budget-setting. In return, we must be willing to accept the results of that restraint through reduced services.

It should be realized by all Minnesotans that when a proposed budget exceeds the gross revenue from a major facet of our state's economy by $3 billion, there is no alternative but to put things on hold. That isn't political talk, it's simple common sense. And where should restraint be insisted upon more than in this rural area where conservatism is practiced by nearly everyone?

Government can spend only what it first takes from the people. What will the people have left if the state takes $10 billion?

Borrowed Nonsense:

You know you're not in a gourmet restaurant when:

— "Entree" on the menu is spelled "o-n-t-r-a-y";

—The house wine comes in a styrofoam cup;

— The kitchen smells better when the sewer backs up;

— The waitress has clean fingernails because of the way she carries the water glasses;

— The only French item on the menu is the fries;

— You notice the garbage truck is delivering, not collecting;

— The "chef's surprise" is that you came back;

— The health inspector does all his inspecting through the window;

— The after-dinner mints are Rolaids;

— The tablecloth sticks to your elbows.

REPORT

From The

Minnesota House of Representatives

by Rep. Wallace Sparby
District 1B

A world trade center (WTC) in Minnesota? The concept has been around since before World War II with the first WTC established in New Orleans in 1945.

Beginning in 1977, support for a Minnesota WTC has been growing especially after direct flights to Europe were authorized for the Minneapolis-St. Paul international airport by the civil aeronautics board.

As a result, Minnesota is fast becoming the "North Coast of America." Instead of being at the end of the supply line, we are a viable center for the entire Midwest area. In fact, Minnesota is now closer to many European markets than major cities on either coast.

The proposed center's main emphasis would be agriculture and high technology and all the related offshoots such as food processing, machinery, warehousing, packaging, computers, service firms and technicians.

While Minnesota is a recognized world leader in these areas, we have fallen behind in exports. For example, Minnesota ranks 23rd in total exports and 49th in promotion of manufactured exports.

Governor Perpich has created a commission to develop a comprehensive plan for a Minnesota world trade center, bringing it a step closer to reality. But to be successful, careful planning is essential.

Basic functions of a WTC include a "shopping center" with easy access to all regional public and private organizations engaged in world trade; exhibit facilities to display export products; educational services to provide instruction on international business activities; and a club whose membership is made up of the building's tenants and others interested in the trade center's services.

Part of Governor Perpich's plan to revitalize the state's economy focuses on the expansion of markets for Minnesota products and services. A world trade center is seen by both the governor and the business community as a move in the right direction.

We are going to have to look for a way to make additional budget cuts in February tax collections are any indication of the economy; they feel short by $19.6 million. The finance commissioner said part of the problem is that income tax refunds were heavier in February than anticipated and that sales tax collections were lower.

He expects the refunds to balance out later on, but suggested that the governor and legislature consider making cuts of around $10 million to be prudent in the face of such a shortfall.

I introduced a bill into the House on Monday to add a residency requirement for welfare general assistance. At present, Minnesota statutes do not specify any residency requirement in order to apply for general assistance. I'll write more on this later.

If you have any comments on the matters in this column or any other matters before the House at this time, please feel free to contact me at Room 263, State Office Building, St. Paul 55155, phone (612) 296-9918.

Expert Visits Area To Tell Vet Benefits

During the past six years, 23 bills have been enacted, bringing about 445 changes in services, benefits and programs available to veterans and their families. In addition, nine provisions, reducing veterans' benefits, were included in the 1982 and 1983 federal budget bills, according to the nonprofit disabled American veterans (DAV).

Area veterans and their families can get answers to their questions when a DAV veterans' benefits expert visits Crookston on March 29 at the parking lot south of the courthouse. DAV's field service unit will also visit Detroit Lakes on March 30 at the Red Owl parking lot. Service will be available from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on both days.

During the nine years that the DAV's field service units have traveled from town to town across America, more than 350,000 veterans, dependents and survivors have taken advantage of the free services offered by the DAV's highly trained national service officers.

Those services include knowledgeable benefits, counseling and skilled claim filing assistance. On behalf of veterans visiting its field service units, the DAV has filed 130,000 claims for veterans administration (VA) disability compensation and pension alone during the past nine years — 11,300 in just the past year.

Also resulting from visits of DAV field service units in 1982 were several thousand claims for VA educational programs, social security disability payments, VA loan guarantees and insurance programs, military benefits, employment services and the entire range of veterans' benefits and services.

"These veterans and family members came to the DAV because they know we're on their side, totally committed to making sure they get all the benefits military service has earned," explained DAV national service director Arthur H. Wilson.

"The DAV is not a government agency," the disabled Vietnam veteran pointed out. "We're an association of three quarters of a million disabled vets dedicated to helping our fellow veterans, and we serve no other master. That's why we've earned the trust of America's veterans and their families over the past 63 years."

Veterans need not be members of the DAV to take advantage of this free service. It's an extension of the DAV's national service program, under which the DAV employs more than 265 national service officers — 95 per cent of whom served during the Vietnam war — at VA facilities across the country.

During the most recent year for which statistics are available, these veterans' benefits specialists handled 279,653 individual cases, winning $803.4 million in federal benefits for veterans, their dependents and survivors.

"But it's not the numbers that count," said the DAV's Wilson. "It's the people we've helped who make it all worthwhile. You'd be surprised at how many veterans and their dependents know very little about their benefit entitlement until they step into one of our field service units.

"Sad to say, this is particularly true of Vietnam era veterans," added the DAV executive. "So many of these men and women were really turned off when they left the armed forces, and they never took advantage of the benefits and services they earned."

The DAV reminded any veteran or family member who visits the van to bring the veteran's VA claim number, if available, and social security number. These are needed for the purpose of filing and reopening claims.

C. Larry Gustafson, Secretary

BSU To Host Art Critic Robert Hughes

Robert Hughes will present his lively and vivid views of art when the noted art critic and author addresses the topic, "Culture as Nature," at Bemidji state university April 12. He will speak at 8 p.m. in room 100 of Hagg-Sauer hall.

Hughes has been the art critic for Time magazine since 1970 and has been described by the New Yorker as, "an engagingly combustible critic, who throws off ideas and opinions like a bonfire throwing off sparks."

He also wrote and narrated the eight-part BBC television series, "Shock of the New," which was aired nationally by PBS. The show won the 1980-81 Frank Jewett Mather award for distinction in art criticism, was voted one of the ten best television series of 1981, and resulted in the best-selling book of the same title.

Hughes' lecture at the university investigates his perceptions of a changing texture of modern art; it is a focal point influenced by, among other things, society, lifestyles, and the mass media.

"Unlike our grandparents, we live in a world that we ourselves made," Hughes has written on the subject. "Until about 50 years ago, images of nature were the keys to feeling in art. Nature — its cycles of growth and decay, its responses to wind, weather, light and the passage of seasons, its ceaseless renewal, its infinite complexity of form and behavior on every level, from molecule to galaxy — provided the governing metaphors within which almost every relationship of the self to the other could be described and examined.

"The sense of natural order, always in some way correcting the pretensions of self, gave mode and measure to pre-modern art. If this sense has now become dimmed, it is partly because for most people nature has been replaced by the culture of congestions: of cities and mass media. . . Overload has changed our art. Especially in the last 30 years, capitalism plus electronics have given us new habitat, our forest of media."

PACER Urges Participation In Hearing

Parents of Minnesota's 78,000 handicapped children will have a chance to provide input at a public hearing in St. Paul April 13 on changes proposed in the regulations that shape the special education programs throughout the state in which their children are enrolled.

The public hearing will be conducted by the state department of education and is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. on April 13 and continue until all who have requested to speak have had a chance to do so. Its location is the Sheraton-Midway in St. Paul, I-94 and Hamline avenue.

Calling the impact of the proposed regulations "significant to the direction of future programs in Minnesota and to its handicapped students", PACER Center, a statewide parents' coalition based in Minneapolis, is urging mothers and fathers to look at the issues under consideration and then be sure their views are heard, either through testifying in person at the hearing or by submitting written comments.

Marge Goldberg, a PACER co-director, said that parents may obtain copies of the proposed regulations and a notice that gives details about the hearing and how the public can arrange to testify (in person or in writing) by contacting PACER at 4701 Chicago Ave., Mpls., MN 55407, (612) 827-2966. Parents from outside the metro area may call PACER collect.

"The experience parents have gained through years of working with their children's schools and teachers has given them a valuable insight into what's needed for educational programs to be effective, and we hope they'll come forward and make their perspectives known," commented Goldberg.

The regulation revision process has followed two main directions: first, to clarify requirements in areas such as discipline of handicapped students and provision of education services to homebound youngsters, areas which haven't been well defined in the past; second, to give local districts the flexibility needed to provide services in times of fiscal crises and yet assure that Minnesota's programs retain their quality.

Among the other topics covered in the department's proposal to revise current regulations are: the related services (such as physical therapy) that must be provided to allow a child to benefit from his or her education program; the rules governing appointment and training of surrogate parents to act on children's behalf; class sizes; and procedures that must be followed by a school seeking to deviate from state requirements.

PACER Center is a coalition of 18 Minnesota handicapped organizations; its goal is to inform parents of youngsters with all disabilities (physical, mental, emotional and learning) about special education laws and regulations and the active role parents may take in helping to shape their children's educational programs. PACER may be contacted at the number above for more information about its programs or for assistance and advice on special education issues.

CPAs Explain File Extension Return Change

If your tax return deadline seems to be getting too close for comfort, you can apply for an extension of time to file. Remember too, it's not too late to make changes on a return filed within the last three years.

All you have to do is fill out certain forms provided by the IRS, says the Minnesota society of CPAs. Thousands of taxpayers follow this course every year.

In past years you could obtain an automatic two-month filing extension by filling out Form 4868 and paying the tax owed. Now, you can get an automatic four-month extension and file as late as August 15. Just complete Form 4868 and send it to the IRS by April 15, or by your tax due date if you are on a fiscal year calendar.

CPAs point out that despite the extension you still have to estimate and pay any tax you owe when you send in form 4868. Otherwise, you risk penalties and interest charges for late payment. When you finally do file within the four-month automatic extension period, attach a copy of form 4868 with your return.

If you desire more than the four month extension, the IRS requires some good reason in writing, either in a latter or on form 2688. You must submit the material to the IRS before the end of your automatic four month extension, so that you can file on time if the IRS turns down a second extension. If the IRS does approve this second extension, it will notify you. When you finally do file, attach the IRS notice to your return.

After you file your return, you may discover some forgotten deduction or tax credit you did not claim that could have saved you taxes. IRS rules permit you to amend a past return, although you generally must act within three years from when the return was filed.

Some common reasons for amending a return are: perhaps too much social security tax was taken from your income and you should get a refund, as sometimes happens to people with two jobs; or, you and your spouse filed separate returns but want to change to a joint return. While that is permitted, the rules do not allow a change from a joint return to separate returns.

To file an amended return, complete IRS Form 1040X. Write in which year you are amending, the income and deductions originally reported, any net change, and the correct (or amended) amount. Do the same for your tax liability and payments. Then fill in the refund you claim or extra tax you owe.

Space is provided in part II of the 1040X form to explain changes in income, deductions and credits. If you claim special deductions or credits, you must also attach the appropriate schedule.

For example, if you and your spouse both work and pay for day care for your children but did not take the dependent care credit, you can fill out the 1040X listing this oversight. You should also attach form 2441, listing your costs and figuring the credit you are due. For proper credit, carefully follow rules and guidelines in effect for the year you are reporting.

Or, say your apartment was robbed in 1979 and you lost $1,000 in property not covered by insurance. That loss could have been reported as a casualty or theft deduction. To claim that deduction and get a refund for extra taxes paid, fill out the form 1040X and attach a form 4684 to report the loss.

Remember that the first $100 of the loss is not deductible, and you have to claim the fair market value of the loss when it occurred, or the cost if lower. CPAs want you to know that starting in 1983 the deduction for casualty and theft losses is limited to the amount of loss over 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income after the $100 reduction per loss.

While you may file an amended return on Form 1040, CPAs advise that the IRS says form 1040X is processed faster.

Sigerud Will Attend AVTI

According to information received from the admissions office of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, Kurt Sigerud has been accepted for admission in the auto body repair program beginning November, 1983.

He will be a 1983 graduate of Goodridge high school and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sigerud of Goodridge.

Neil, Deb Race On Dean's List

Neil and Debra Race, both of Goodridge, were placed on the dean's list for the winter quarter of 1982-83 at Mayville (ND) state college.

To be placed on the list, a student must have attained a 3.50 grade point average on a 4.0 scale and also must have carried a minimum of 12 quarter hours of coursework.

CURIOSITY, and perhaps an opportunity "to get in on the ground floor" with a new company, prompted Debbie DeBenedet (right) to fill out an Arctco job application Thursday even if she has full-time employment. A receptionist at a local dental clinic, Debbie worked for two years for Arctic Enterprises before the company's filing for bankruptcy. At left is Cheryl Johnson of Roseau, who worked for Polaris in snowmobile assembly last summer and could return for the next production run, but is looking for more permanent employment.

HUSBAND AND WIFE team who both completed applications for work with Arctco, Inc., during the Thursday sign-up were Harold and Joyce Arneson. Harold was an Arctic Enterprises employee for 15 years, primarily as a lead man in the assembly area, before the company closed in 1981. Like many others, he has been unable to find regular work, although he stayed with the company through its auction sale last August.

NEWCOMER to Thief River Falls, Dawn Hendrickson was just looking for any kind of work when she filled out an application for Arctco, Inc., Thursday morning. A resident of the community for only a week and a half, she learned of the special two-day sign-up through another resident of the apartment where she and her husband live.

Bergland Selected For All-Star Game

Thief River Falls' Tim Bergland has been selected to participate in the inaugural North vs. South Senior Hockey Super Series for high school seniors this week in Duluth.

University of Minnesota-bound Bergland is one of 40 players invited to participate in the event, which will include games in the Duluth arena Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 7 p.m.

There are eight Section 8 players on the North squad, coached by George Perpich of Hibbing. Representing Section 8 will be goalie Mike Sauer and forward Dan Smith of Bemidji; defenseman Paul Erickson and forward Chad Johnson of Roseau; defenseman Craig Mack of East Grand Forks; forward Mark Nordling of Hallock; forward John Bjorkman of Warroad; and Bergland.

Rest of the North Squad includes goalies — Larry Crosby, International Falls; and Reggie Miracle, Columbia Heights; defensemen — Ken Cosette, Babbitt; David Lundmark, Virginia; Jeff Perpich, Hibbing; Jerry Schmidt, Alexander Ramsey; and John Panger, Cloquet; forwards — Cory Hervas, Coon Rapids; Kevin Fritz, St. Cloud; Steve Orth, St. Cloud; Tom Palkowski, Columbia Heights; Lance Nelson, Duluth Central; Michel Krampotich, Hibbing; Bill Claviter, Virginia; and Rick Haney, Duluth East.

Of that group, Bergland, Mack and Orth are hearded for the University of Minnesota, Krampotich will attend North Dakota, Bjorkman will go to Michigan and Smith will enroll at the University of Minnesota-Duluth. The others were still undecided on their hockey future when the rosters were selected.

South team members include goalies — Chris Olson, Armstrong; and Brad Ryan, Fairbault; defensemen — Mike Roberts, Edina; Paul Roff, Edina; Jim De Genaro, Burnsville; Dan Horn, Roosevelt; Jack Bohn, Minnetonka; and Brian Golden, Jefferson; forwards — Todd Oklerlund, Burnsville; John Labatt, Minnetonka; Rich Geist, St. Paul Academy; Peter McEnany, Owatonna; Mike DeVoe, Edina; Brice Fishback, Mariner; Scott Schneider, Rochester John Marshall; Jeff Parker, Mariner; Mark Horvath, Hill-Murray; Dave Cowan, Washburn; Tom Follmer, Hill-Murray; and Chad Loecher, Austin.

Lou Cotroneo of St. Paul Johnson will be the head coach of the South squad.

Idea behind the North vs. South series is to involve the best available seniors in a two-game series, providing an opportunity for players to advance themselves and for the fans to see the best hockey talent in the nation, according to Gus Handrickson and Warren Williams, co-chairman of the event.

Following completion of the North vs. South Minnesota Super Series, the top 20 players off the combined 40-man North and South rosters will be chosen as Team Minnesota, a group that will fly to Boston area for an April 6-9 three-game series against Team Massachusetts.

Minnesota and Boston area are considered the top high school hockey areas in the nation, and the series is expected to provide a comparison between the two all-star squads, say officials, who also expect to draw the interest of numerous college and professional scouts.

Tennis Has New Tournament Format

Lincoln high school tennis team opens its 1983 season Mon., April 11, with a triangular encounter with Crookston and Detroit Lakes at the Grand Forks Tennis Center.

A new one-class tennis format will be used this spring, with the 25 Section 8 tennis-playing schools divided into four sub-sections. The groupings include:

Sub-Section 1 — Alexandria, Benson, Fergus Falls, Glenwood, Osakis and Morris.

Sub-Section 2 — Sauk Centre, New London-Spicer, St. Cloud Tech, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Cathedral and Little Falls.

Sub-Section 3 — Brainerd, Staples, Wadena, New York Mills, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead.

Sub-Section 4 — Roseau, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji, Ada and Mahnomen.

Post-season team and individual play will be held Mon., May 23, and Wed., May 25, at Alexandria (1), Apollo (2), Wadena (3) and Thief River Falls (4). Top team, top two singles and top two doubles finishers in each of the four sub-sectional meets will advance to the Section 8 team and individual matches Tues., May 31, and Wed., June 1, at Brainerd.

Meanwhile, North and South Half Region 8AA boys and girls track and field meets will be held Sat., May 28 at Moorhead and Brainerd, respectively, with the Region 8AA meet scheduled Sat., June 4, at Alexandria.

North Half Region 8AA baseball tournament games will be played May 31-June 2 at Crookston while South Half games start with first round games at home sites, then switch to Cold Spring and St. Cloud for the semifinals and finals. Region 8AA finals will be played at the home site of the South Half champion.

Region 8AA boys and girls golf meets will be held Tues., May 31, at Little Falls and Moorhead, respectively.

Bridgeman Is Squirts Playoff Game Winner

Bridgeman's outlasted TG Sporting Goods 6-5 in double overtime Thursday in an exciting championship game finish to the 1983 Thief River Falls Squirts In-House hockey playoffs.

Wade Jorde scored with 2:14 remaining in the second eight-minute sudden-death overtime period after the two teams had played to a 5-5 draw through the regulation two 20-minute periods, plus the first overtime session.

It was a match-up of the top two regular season finishers in the six-team league, but post-season honors went to a Bridgeman squad that finished second to pennant winning TG Sporting Goods.

Hardees beat Red Lake Falls 6-4 in Thursday's third place game while Coke came from behind to edge Pepsi 5-4 for consolation honors.

Playoffs began earlier in the week when No. 4-seeded Hardees (8-8-3) beat No. 5 Pepsi (6-10-1) 6-2 and No. 6-seeded Red Lake Falls (2-14-1) surprised No. 3 Coke (10-7-2) 6-1 in Monday's quarterfinals.

In Tuesday's semifinals, No. 1-seeded TG Sporting Goods (13-5-1) stopped Hardees 4-2 and No. 2-seeded Bridgeman (12-7-0) doubled Red Lake Falls 8-4.

Fifty-five Thief River Falls 9-10-year-olds took part in the Squirts program this winter, with Art Cloutier coaching Bridgeman; Dale Wennberg coaching TG Sporting Goods; Mark Enge and Tom Lawrence coaching Hardees; Larry Poole and Lynn Daniels coaching Coke; while Jim Fulton and Jim Wright coached Pepsi.

SQUIRTS IN-HOUSE playoff champion Thursday with a 6-5 double overtime decision over TG Sporting Goods in the finals was the Bridgeman squad of 9-10-year-old Thief River Falls hockey players. Members of the team, runner-up in the regular season standings, were front row left to right, Bryan Cloutier, Troy Mattson, Ryan Haugen, Barry Dowers, Shawn Crowser and Troy Lemer; back row left to right, Wade Jorde, Jamie Harder, Matthew Russell, Steve Sabo, Tim Stengrim and coach Art Cloutier.

REGULAR SEASON CHAMPIONS in the Thief River Falls Squirts In-House hockey program for 9-10-year-olds, TG Sporting Goods lost a 6-5 double overtime game to Bridgeman Thursday in the post-season league playoff finals. Members of the team were, front row left to right, Jeff Novak, Jack Schulthorp, Robert Lichty, Jamie Thomton, Brad St. George and Ross Dazell; back row left to right, Duane Molstad, Jason Furuseth, Karl Heinrichs, John Seaverson, Aaron Janisch and coach Dale Wennberg.

BRIDGEMAN GOALIE Barry Dowers came up with a save on TG Sporting Goods' Jeff Novak (9) Thursday in the championship game of the Thief River Falls Squirts In-House hockey playoffs. Aaron Janisch (left) and John Seaverson of TG Sporting Goods, along with Troy Lemer of Bridgeman watched the play.

STRETCHING ACROSS the goal crease, Pepsi netminder Paul Kezar wasn't able to make the save as Coke forward Charlie Lundgren (6) scored during Thursday's Squirts In-House playoff consolation game in the old arena. Thane Espe of Coke (left) looked for a rebound on the play.

DNR NEWS

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced that the state remains number one in the percentage of its citizens who own boats, with one boat for every 6.67 persons.

Kim Elverum, boat and water safety coordinator for the DNR, noted that preliminary figures also show Minnesota in second place nationally in total boat registrations for the fourth year in a row..

Top six states in total number of boats registered as of December 31, 1982 were Michigan - 699,880; Minnesota - 610,177; California - 586,190; Texas - 581,866; Florida - 480,384; Wisconsin - 419,594.

Fishing Regulations

Copies of Minnesota's 1983 fishing regulations, which went into effect March 1, have been distributed by the Department of Natural Resources to license agents, county auditors, DNR offices and other sources.

Department fisheries and enforcement officials called attention this week to the changes in regulations from previous years.

Angling hours on Lake Superior tributary streams below the posted boundaries are from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset. Officials emphasized that a trout stamp is required when fishing trout in these streams as well as other trout streams in the state.

Fishing hours for trout and salmon on all inland waters of the state are from one hour before sunrise to 11 p.m. except that south of U.S. Highway 12 the hours on opening day, April 16, are from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Lake trout fishing season in Lake Superior is from Dec. 1, 1982 to Sept. 30, 1983, and from Dec. 1, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1984. In Lake Superior tributary streams, the seasons are Jan. 1, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1983 and Dec. 31, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1984.

Officials pointed out also that the size limit on muskellunge is now a minimum of 30 inches south of U.S. Highway 210 and a minimum of 36 inches north of Highway 210 (fron Duluth to Breckenridge).

In addition, the limit on Atlantic salmon in Lake Superior and inland waters is now three and there is a minimum size length of 10 inches.

Limit on stream trout in Lake Superior tributary streams above the posted boundaries is 10 but only five may be rainbow or brown trout.

DNR Funds

State owned lands administered by the Department of Natural Resources have produced nearly $30 million for Minnesota's permanent school fund during the past seven years.

Earnings from the fund, which now totals $315 million, are appropriated to Minnesota's public schools.

Lands, which contain the timber, minerals and other resources that produce revenue for the fund, were granted to the state by the federal government in the 1800's.

Nearly eight million acres of such land were originally granted, but land sales over the years have reduced the figure to 2.5 million acres, or about 30 per cent of the original land grant.

Income from sales of land and timber, royalties and leases of state minerals and crop land rentals are deposited in the fund's principal. The principal is invested in various stocks, bonds, bank deposits, government securities and other investments and the interest and other income from these sources is allocated to the public schools.

By law, the fund's principal is kept intact and only the earnings from its investment are available for the schools.

Currently the fund accounts for $27 of the $1,416 per pupil distributed in state aid to the schools.

Flood Insurance

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has initiated a public service campaign called "Operation Spring Flood" to inform the general public about the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP), according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

DNR's Division of Waters said "Operation Spring Flood" is part of FEMA's ongoing effort to keep the public informed about the availability of National Flood Insurance. FEMA has recently distributed public service announcements statewide to selected radio and TV stations and newspapers.

These public service announcements explain steps to be taken if flooding should occur and also stress that flood coverage is not contained within a standard homeowner's insurance policy.

Flood insurance coverage can be purchased for structures and contents through the NFIP in those communities participating in the flood insurance program. There is a five-day waiting period before a flood insurance policy takes effect.

Those interested in purchasing flood insurance should contact a local insurance agent or call the NFIP toll-free at 1-800-638-6620. Questions concerning "Operation Spring Flood" should be directed to the NFIP toll-free number.

General questions relating to flooding in Minnesota can also be directed to the DNR by calling toll-free 1-800-652-9747 and requesting the state operator to connect the call to the Division of Waters at 296-9226.

Ron Ueland has been coaching high school basketball in Newfolden since the 1967-68 season and for only the second time in those 15 years the Nordics failed to win more games than they lost in 1982-83 as Marshall County Central ended the season at 8-12.

"We had hoped to do better," he acknowledged, "but we played a tough schedule. We can't expect 20-0 seasons any more I guess with the schedule we play; we're just hoping to develop teams that will be competitive at tournament time, and we thought we had a shot at the district this year."

However, after a 7-11 regular season and a 75-22 first round District 32 tournament rout of Greenbush, the defending champion Nordics lost a 54-48 overtime decision in the quarterfinals to Hallock.

Still, the Nordics weren't that far away from meeting pre-season goals, according to Ueland, who said, "12-6 probably wouldn't have been out of reach at all." Among the losses were four three-point defeats — three of those in the North Border Conference. "If we could have turned those around we would have been in pretty good shape. And in most of those cases, it was our inability to hold onto a lead that cost us. That was the most disappointing part of the season — our inability to hold onto a lead."

Other losses came at the hands of Argyle and Tri-County, a pair of Class A district winners; East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls, a pair of area Class AA schools; and Warren, a District 31 finalist.

Marshall County Central reached the Region 8A finals a year ago, but only 5-9 senior captain Larry Larson returned from that club with any real experience under fire. "We just didn't have many people with experience under pressure situations," explained Ueland. That, plus the Nordics' sometimes inconsistent ball handling led to their before-mentioned inability to hold onto late-game leads.

Scott Anderson, a 6-2 senior center, and Larson were the only Marshall County Central scorers carrying double figure averages this winter, with Anderson hitting 13.5 per game and Larson 10.4. Anderson also led the team with 140 rebounds and 10 blocked shots, while Larson led the team with 83 assists and 46 steals.

Kevin Boe, a 5-9 sophomore guard, turned in a solid season as a first-year varsity performer by leading the regulars with a 46.7 field goal shooting percentage, scoring 6.7 points per game, while handing out 50 assists and coming up with 46 steals — both latter figures second to Larson on the club.

It was the Nordics' field goal percentage that hurt them in 1982-83 as they shot just 38.6 per cent from the field as a team after a 42.5 figure the year before.

There were nine seniors on this year's team, but Ueland is optimistic about the Nordics' future after a 15-3 finish by the junior varsity and an unbeaten season by an eighth grade team. "We should do pretty well," he predicted.

Marshall County Central regular season wins this winter came against Badger 66-30, Middle River 53-46, Stephen 54-53, Roseau 67-60, Lake of the Woods 49-44, Grygla 72-39 and Strandquist 78-50. Losses came at the hands of Argyle 66-45, Roseau 47-44, Kennedy 48-45, Thief River Falls 63-49, East Grand Forks 67-46, Badger 66-63 in overtime, Warroad 51-44, Middle River 57-54, Tri-County 63-45, Warren 51-33 and Hallock 58-33.

After a season-opening loss to Argyle, Marshall County Central was never able to climb above .500 for the season. Five times they were at that point but failed to win the next start. The Nordics were 7-7 Feb. 7 after the win over Strandquist, but they lost their final four regular season starts to Middle River, Tri-County, Warren and Hallock.

National Wildlife Federation News Release

Thinking about summer vacations?

Consider the back-to-nature vacations for children, teenagers and entire families, planned by the National Wildlife Federation.

Travel to some of North America's most scenic vacation areas, and combine outdoor adventures with conservation education and exploration.

National Wildlife Federation's summer vacations are designed for all ages. "Conservation Summits" are for adults or entire families, "Earth Treks" are for teenagers and Ranger Rick's Wildlife Camp is for children, 9 to 13 years old.

Conservation Summits, for adults or entire families, are six days of conservation-related activities in unique settings. This year's summits will be held at four locations: June 25-July 1, the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina; July 3-9, The Rocky Mountains of Colorado; July 31-August 6, the Adirondack Mountains of upstate New York; and August 14-20, the Canadian Maritimes, Antigonish, Nova Scotia.

Summit participants can register for workshops on birds, wildlife, wildflowers, map reading, geology or flycasting, just to name a few. Teachers and college students can arrange to receive college credit for these workshops. Free-time activities include tennis, horseback riding, swimming, hiking, sailing, square dancing — depending on your summit choice. Babysitting and day care facilities are available at most locations. Costs for a family of our range from $850 to $1,150, depending on location and type of accommodation.

Earth Treks, for boys and girls of ages 13-17, are adventures in environmental exploration, backpacking, hiking and outdoor skills. Participants will be guided by trained and experienced staff who know and appreciate the outdoors. The cost for Earth Trek is $385.

Colorado Rocky Mountain Earth Treks offer teenagers an opportunity to develop backpacking skills and an understanding of the mountains and their life forms. Cosponsored by the Keystone Science School, these 12-day sessions also offer topics such as programs on astronomy, wildlife biology, geology, forestry, environmental law and Indian prehistory. There are four Rocky Mountain Earth Treks: June 23-July 4; July 7-18; July 21-August 1; and August 4-15.

The North Carolina Blue Ridge Mountain Earth Treks offer teenagers an opportunity to develop new outdoor and leadership skills and to become more aware of the natural environment. Cosponsored by Wilderness Southeast, these 12-day sessions also offer programs on subjects such as outdoor cooking, camping wilderness management, folk history and folklore, and stream biology. There are four Blue Ridge Earth Treks: June 19-30; July 5-16; July 22-August 2; and August 7-18.

Ranger Rick's Wildlife Camp for children of ages 9 to 13, is in North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, where an experienced staff involves young campers in an appreciation, awareness and knowledge of their natural environment.

"Quests" and Mini-Quests" send the campers in search of experience in hiking, wildflowers, aquatic life, birds, trees and energy, among the many topics. Recreation activities include swimming, hiking, tennis, fishing, reading and writing. Cost for Wildlife Camp ranges from $375 to $425, depending on the date.

The four sessions are: June 12-13 (12 days, $375); July 4-18 (15 days, $425); July 21-August 1 (12 days, $375); and August 4-18 (15 days, $425).

For further information about any of these National Wildlife Federation vacations, call (703) 790-4363, or write to the National Wildlife Federation, Dept. PR2, 1412 16th Street NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Minnesota DNR Writes Series On How To Build Bird Houses

(Editor's note: this is the first of a six-part series of feature stories supplied by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources on how to build bird houses for a variety of Minnesota's favorite birds. Articles are written by Carrol L. Henderson, DNR nongame wildlife supervisor.)

Providing houses for wrens, bluebirds and purple martins is a popular hobby for Minnesotans who enjoy wildlife around their homes. Houses built according to proper specifications, placed in proper habitat and maintained regularly benefit birds. If they are not built and maintained properly, they can become either a "sparrow slum," remain unused, or actually become a death trap to nesting birds.

Although most people think of house wrens, bluebirds, purple martins and wood ducks as the primary occupants of birdhouses, many bird species will occupy them. Birdhouses are built to simulate a natural cavity in a tree. There are actually 40 species of birds in Minnesota which will nest in tree holes.

However, many birds will adapt to man-made structures if they have the opportunity. Man-made birdhouses are useful in areas that lack large, old, hollow trees that birds use for nesting.

Many types of birds need different kinds of cavities in different habitats. Following the general instructions below will help you build and place birdhouses for several of the most popular occupants of bird homes in Minnesota.

There are several general instructions which apply to all birdhouse plans:

1. Do not make a box for "birds." Build it for a specific kind of bird. Different species have different house-size and entrance-hole requirements.

2. Provide a hinged door or roof so the house can be easily checked and cleaned out each winter.

3. Three or four quarter-inch drain holes should be drilled in the bottom of every birdhouse.

4. Although wren houses can be suspended from an anchor point under an eave or tree limb, all other birdhouses should be firmly attached to a support post, building, or tree. When you attach a nest box to a tree, use a lag screw. Then, as years pass, gradually unscrew the screws to allow for the growth of the tree.

5. Don't put perches on any birdhouses. Only English sparrows and starlings perfer perches.

6. Top-front edge of a birdhouse should overhang about two inches to help protect the entrance hole from wind-driven rain and to keep cats from reaching in from above.

7. Two quarter-inch holes should be drilled near the top of the right and left sides of all birdhouses — except duck boxes — to provide ventilation.

8. Use galvanized nails to build all birdhouses.

9. Sides of a birdhouse should enclose the floorboard — don't nail them to the top of the floorboard. This keeps rain from seeping into the crack between sides and floor and then into the nest.

10. Do not use tin cans or metal for nests. Metals heat up in direct sun, kill the young, and overheat the eggs. However, commercial martin houses made from aluminum appear acceptable. Commercial plastic wood duck houses are also acceptable if they are placed in shady locations.

11. Wood is the best all-around material for birdhouses. Three-quarter-inch thick boards are the easiest to work with. Soft wood such as pine is fine for smaller nests, but preservative-treated cedar or cypress should be used for duck boxes.

12. Purple martins, goldeneyes, mergansers and wood ducks do not defend territories around their nests. Therefore, martins should be provided with "apartment-type" houses. Duck and merganser boxes can be clustered in groups of two or four. Birdhouses for other bird species though should be spaced perhaps 50 feet apart to reduce territorial conflicts between males. Bluebirds need 100 yard spacing.

13. Small animals may take up residence in birdhouses, including mice, squirrels, bees, wasps and raccoons. If not acceptable, remove mammal, starling or English sparrow nests. Otherwise, you will probably need to put up additional houses to accommodate both the unexpected tenants and the desired bird species.

House wren is one of our most common and enjoyable backyard bird species. Their beautiful bubbling calls are a joy to hear during the summer.

House wren nest boxes are likely to be used if they are five to 10 feet above the ground either under an eave of a building or in a tree. House wren holes are too small for sparrows or starlings to compete for the nest box. Don't put a perch on the nest box. If you have a perch on a wren house, take it off. It is not necessary and invites sparrows to try using the nest.

As soon as one family of wrens leaves the house, clean it out so another brood of young ones can be raised. That way you can raise two or three families of wrens each summer.

All you need to build a wren house is a four-foot long 1-inch x 6-inch board. Next nesting structure in this series will be a robin nesting shelf.

You can not only provide homes for birds with a springtime nest building project but also provide these nest boxes as gifts to friends and relatives. They can also provide a great deal of enjoyment by being placed on the lawns or courtyards of hospitals and retirement homes.

Another way you can help wildlife is to donate to the nongame wildlife checkoff on your Minnesota income tax and property tax forms. Even a small donation will help preserve our state's wildlife.

One type of birdhouse has not been included in this series because of its complexity — the purple martin house. If you would like an excellent plan for a purple martin house, you can order publication G2091 "Shelves, Houses and Feeders for Birds and Squirrels" for $2.75 from the Agricultural Bulletin Building, 1535 Observatory Drive, University of Wisconsin - Madison, Madison, Wis. 53706.

Sportshow To Have Number Of Programs

It's Sportshow time again and this year's 51st annual Northwest Sportshow offers many special attractions in addition to such regular features as boats, marine products, fishing tackle and equipment, recreational vehicles and over 200 vacation and travel exhibits.

Over 200,000 fishermen and outdoor lovers are expected to attend the ten-day show March 25 through April 3 at the Minneapolis auditorium.

Additional fishing seminars will be hosted by veteran sports broadcaster Tom Ryther March 28-31 at 7 p.m. in the arena. Scheduled seminar topics are: Monday, Muskie Madness; Tuesday, Fishing the Great Lakes; Wednesday, Northern and Northern Pike Fishing; and Thursday, Walleye and Walleye Fishing. Zenanko will conduct these seminars.

In keeping with the Sportshow's nature theme, an exciting Birds of Prey wildlife program featuring live eagles, hawks, owls and falcons will be presented in the Calhoun Room. Biologist and educator Ryan Walden will lecture and demonstrate the many facets of these beautiful predatory birds.

Besides learning about the newest fishing techniques and exploring the latest in tackle and equipment, the ardent fisherman can test his skills and sink his line into the waters of the catch 'em and keep 'em trout pond. The pond will be restocked daily with fresh, hungry trout waiting for casters to try their luck at catching and taking home fresh trout from the Sportshow.

Minnesota Taxidermy Guild presents a stunning exhibit of over 250 award-winning mounts from regional competitions. The exhibit will include birds, small mammals and fish displayed in realistic renditions of their natural habitats.

Other special features of the Sportshow include ecology and environmental exhibits as well as dog obedience training demonstrations, archery range and a one-hour variety stage show presented twice daily that the entire family will enjoy.

All these "shows within the show" are just part of the upcoming show featuring over 250,000 square feet of displays and exhibits under one roof and included in the price of admission of $4 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12.

Show hours are 6-11 p.m. opening night, March 25; 11 a.m. - 11 p.m. Saturday, March 26 and April 2; 12 noon - 7 p.m. Sunday, March 27 and April 3; and weekdays 1-11 p.m.

FISHIN' TIPS

from . . . Tom Mann

QUESTIONS FROM THE MAIL BAG

BRER TOM: When I'm trolling and catch a fish I have a hard time trying to guess how much line I had out. Do you know a good way to tell?—Troller Tim

HELLO TIM: Yes, do this. Keep handy one of the felt tip, waterproof markers and the minute you hook a fish just mark your line right in front of the reel. When you pay out line again, stop when the mark appears.

DEAR TOM: When using lead sinkers for the first time in clear water I believe their brightness spooks fish. What can I do?—George Circle

HEY CAWGE: Use the same felt tip pen I mentioned above for marking line. It also will quickly blacken the brightness of new slip sinkers.

DEAR MISTER MANN: I haul my boat and fishing gear in the rear of my pickup truck and my reels get awful dusty. I know this isn't good for them. Any thoughts?—Farmer Fred

HELLO FRITZ: You betcha. Just stick each reel and rod handle inside a plastic bag and close it with a rubber band.

HELLO TOM: I keep gallon plastic jugs and use them for: anchors by filling with sand; funnels by cutting out the bottom; scoops for bailing a leaky boat; and to freeze water in to keep my ice chest cold then have cool drinking water when they thaw.—Old Codger

THANKEE CODGER: And when you come up with more of these handy gadgets, send them along, we all appreciate them!

DEAR MR. MANN: I need a large magnet to retrieve a lost rod and reel. Where can I get one?—Hopless Harry

HELLO HAP: Ann says I have a magnetic personality but I can't stay under water that long. I suggest you try a surplus store, but if your reel is made of aluminum it won't work.

MISTER TOM: How do you triangulate a spot so that you can return to it later?—Tricky Tom

HELLO TOM: When you've caught fish offshore and want to return to that spot, first anchor your boat. Then study the permanent, prominent landmarks around you. Say there's a windmill on top of a hill right in line with a point of land. That's one leg of your triangle. Then, at right angles you see a "V" in the hills in line with an old barn. This is your other triangle leg. Draw a sketch and you can return again to the same spot.

DEAR TOM: I read where some biologist had planted a radio in a bass to study its movements. How the heck could he get a radio inside a bass?—Sounds Fishy

HELLO FISHY: That radio which the biologist implanted is about the size of your little finger joint. It sends out beeps which he picks up on an aquaphone, so he can locate it, track its movements, and let it tell him things he'd never know otherwise.

TOM: Is it true all bigmouth bass are females and all smallmouth bass are males?—Chauvinist Cholly

HELLO CHOLLY: I wouldn't touch that question with a 100-foot pole because if I did Ann would use it to beat bumps on my head! I notice you didn't use your right name either.

BIG MANN: I read in Bill Dance's new book, Bass'n Objects, where you love to fish willows. Why willows?—Will-O-Wisp

HELLO WILL: Bill's right. When bass are in the willows, man, they'll bust the daylights out of a crank bait like a Razorback or pitchin a worm. They're usually there because the minnows are feeding on something in the willows. By the way, study Bill's book and you'll catch a lot more bass because it's chockfull of know-how.

DEAR TOM: I see where the pros have been using the jig-and-eel to win tournaments. How do you fish it?—Harvey Jeffries

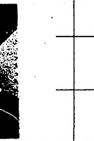
HELLO HARV: Ever watch a snail hurrying along? That's how slow I fish the jig-and-eel. This is why it's so effective when the water temperature is in the mid 40's to 50's, because bass are moving mighty slow, also. But I don't use the eel I use a Canjun Cradad or a 4" Augertail on the jig.

MISTER MANN: I read an article by Homer Circle, in Sports Afield, where he was fishing with you and you caught a big, ol' bass off some brush on the bottom a hundred yards from shore. How did you know that brush was there?—Gotta Know

HELLO GOTTA: I put it there earlier!

DEAR MISTER MANN: What's the easiest way to plant brush?—Henry Hull

HELLO HENRY: Up north you drag it out onto the ice, wire it together with cement blocks or scrap iron, and when the ice melts down goes the brush. Down south we take it out in bunches, weight it so it will sink, and bury these bunches in 15 to 20 feet of water off points or near creek entrances.



Jon Lindquist

Oklee Senior Reaches 1,000 Point Plateau

Oklee high school senior Jon Lindquist ended his senior year on the Bobcats' basketball team as a member of the prestigious 1,000-point club, finishing a four-year varsity career with 1,030 points.

Appearing in 16 games as a freshman during the 1979-80 season, Lindquist scored 56 points. He collected 268 points and carried a 12.8 scoring average as a sophomore in 1980-81; scored 340 points and averaged 17 per game as a junior in 1981-82; and hit 366 points while averaging 21.4 as a senior during the recently-completed 1982-83 season.

He served as the Bobcats' co-captain for two years and was an all-conference selection in both his junior and senior seasons.

INVITATION TO BID

NOTICE TO BIDDERS — Bids are requested on two grain elevators formerly utilized by L&L Farmers Elevator Company of Lancaster and Lake Bronson, Minnesota.

The elevators are situated in Lancaster, Minnesota, and Lake Bronson, Minnesota, on property leased from the Soo Line Railroad Company.

Bids may be submitted in person or may be mailed, at bidder's risk, to Roger C. Malm, Attorney at Law, 217 South Birch Avenue, Hallock, Minnesota 56728. All sealed bids must be received prior to 9:30 a.m. April 5, 1983. If a party wishes to bid on only one of the two elevator properties, that elevator location should be stated on the bid envelope submitted. If a party wishes to bid on both elevator properties, two separate bid envelopes must be submitted with each envelope stating the elevator location.

Bids submitted as to the Lake Bronson elevator facility shall be read at 10:00 a.m. April 5, 1983. Bidders submitting written bids shall be allowed to orally raise their bid after the written bids have been read.

Bids as submitted as to the Lancaster elevator facility shall be read at 1:30 p.m. April 5, 1983. Bidders submitting written bids shall be allowed to orally raise their bids after the written bids have been read.

Bids submitted must include a statement of the intended purpose in the use of the elevator properties, to allow the owner to determine the Soo Line Railroad Company agreement in transfer of leases.

After bidders have made their highest bid, owner shall be allowed 48 hours within which said bids may be accepted or rejected. During the 48-hour period, the high bid submitted shall be irrevocable and this bidder shall submit as part of the bid the sum of $2500 in certified funds payable to Karlstad State Bank. If the bid is rejected, the $2500 submitted with the bid shall be returned. If the bid is accepted, the $2500 shall be applied towards the purchase price and upon acceptance of the bid, the bidder shall deposit with the owner or owner's agent 10% of the purchase price.

The balance of the purchase price shall be for cash only with closing to take place not more than 30 days from the acceptance of the bid. failure on the part of the bidder to comply shall be grounds of cancellation of the sale, however, all monies paid prior to the failure may, in the discretion of the owner, be retained, in the event the owner is unable to close the sale, all earnest and deposit monies shall be returned to bidder and all agreements shall be rescinded.

Further details regarding this sale may be obtained by contacting Roger C. Malm, Brink, Sobolik, Severson and Vroom, P.A., 217 South Birch, Hallock, Minnesota 56728, telephone (218) 843-3686 or David H. Luhmen, Executive Vice President, Karlstad State Bank, Karlstad, Minnesota 56732, telephone (218) 436-2151.

Superfund Bill Meets Opinions In Legislature

Special To The Times
by Jim Robins
Northern Star News Service

Methods of recovering damages caused by leaky, existing hazardous waste dumps differ under two state superfund bills making their way through Minnesota House and Senate committees.

The Senate bill has been amended, lifting retroactive liability on dumping before 1963. The provision exempts all dumpings dating back more than 20 years from personal injury claims under the superfund.

It is the personal injury section of the bill that has stirred controversy. The board question to be answered is: To what extent should the new law provide the opportunity for individuals to sue for personal injury at the expense of business?

At this time, Minnesota is in position to become the first state to pass retroactivity into its superfund legislation. That would have a direct impact on 58 hazardous dumps now monitored by the state pollution control agency (PCA).

Also, the Senate version of the bill has lifted liability caps for municipalities, putting them in the same situation as industry. The House bill calls for a cap on the liability of local governments, while providing the potential for unlimited liability against business involved with hazardous wastes.

Sen LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer said there's a lot of controversy about points of the bill, but "its real purpose . . . is to clean up dumps."

Stumpf said he agrees with holding dumpers liable for past actions and the 20-year limit on retroactive liability for personal injury damages. However, Stumpf said he would like to see a "public fund" for personal injury damages before the limit.

One problem Stumpf sees with the superfund bill is the lack of a liability limit for municipalities. The earlier proposal had a $600,300 limit on local liability that was removed in committee hearings.

One amendment to the bill, offered by Stumpf, exempts oil products from the category of hazardous waste. "All farmers have oil tanks, and if they spill some that would make their property contaminated," Stumpf said.

Rep. Wallace Sparby of Thief River Falls said he is "inclined to be in favor" of the superfund bill and thinks business should have "some responsibility" in personal injury liability. But assessing a business three times its estimated damages may be too much, Sparby said.

Hazardous waste sites have to be cleaned and Sparby supports a public fund for cleaning sites if the company responsible is out of business.

The exemption from liability that applies to farmers who followed pesticide instructions is "real important" to many people in Sparby's district, he said.

At one time, the superfund legislation appeared to be quite uncontroversial. The bill eased through the House and Senate last year originally without much opposition as legislators on both sides of the political aisle agreed that the state needed to cooperate with federal authorities to get hazardous wastes cleaned up in Minnesota.

However, by the time the bill got to then-Gov. Al Quie, greater concern was voiced by industry that personal injury liability clauses would put too great a burden on industries manufacturing or handling hazardous materials.

Quie agreed with business, and he vetoed the bill last year.

It is back this year with some changes and has the support of the new governor, Rudy Perpich.

This year's version has some moderating influences in it. Farmers who apply their agricultural chemicals in the way instructed on the label have nothing to fear in this year's bill. Property owners who had no knowledge of previous dumping on their property are also exempted. Last year they would have been included in the bill.

The 'strict' liability provisions have been changed slightly to allow for 'proportional share' liability. Strict liability allowed the plaintiff to sue any of the parties at fault for injuries for the full amount of the loss.

That provision, passed last year, has been toned down. Proportional share liability restricts the plaintiff to collect only three times the estimated share of harm caused by the defendant.

So, a business that 'contributed five per cent of the waste problem could have ended up paying the full cost of claims under last year's bill. It would then be up to that business to collect from others who were also responsible for the injury.

Under this year's bill, the five per cent waste contributor would be liable for up to 15 per cent of the damages. Proponents view this as a moderating factor, a compromise from the earlier strict liability language. Business leaders still question why they should be responsible for paying more than their estimated share.

Insurance companies are encouraging changes in the superfund bills providing for liability caps for industry and local governments and moderating the retroactivity and liability clauses. Some insurers have indicated they would not provide insurance in Minnesota under the bill as proposed.

Just how strong a superfund bill comes out at the end of the legislative process remains an open question. There's a high level of public interest in the bill and it is one of the heavier lobbied bills this year.

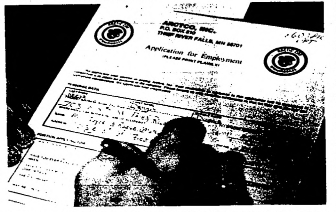
PREPARATIONS for a large number of job applicants appeared unnecessary when this photo was taken at the city auditorium on Friday morning. While there was a slight rush early Thursday when the two-day application period for 50-60 jobs with Arctco, Inc., began, the flow had slowed to a trickle on Thursday afternoon and Friday.



SPECIAL FORMS prepared for Arctco, Inc., were used during the special two-day sign-up for an estimated 50 to 60 jobs with the company. Arctco expects to begin manufacture of a minimum of 2,000 Arctic Cat snowmobiles late this summer.

Farm Leaders United On Two State Issues

Minnesota's three major farm organizations, representing most of the state's farmers, have written a joint letter to Governor Rudy Perpich, objecting to the proposed transfer of agriculture's trade office to the department of commerce, and urging Perpich to support permanent location of the state's soil and water conservation board within the department of agriculture.

The farm leaders commended Perpich for making agriculture a top priority, and asked for his support on the two matters.

Removal of one or both offices would dilute the authority of the department of agriculture, Minnesota Farmers Union president Cy Carpenter, Minnesota Farm Bureau federation president Merlyn Lokensgard, and National Farmers Organization legislative coordinator Eugene Paul wrote Monday.

"Early on, you demonstrated strong support for agriculture as a major industry in the state's economy. The creation of an international trade office for agriculture was an important part of that support," the three leaders wrote. A shift of that office to the department of commerce, where it would be combined with the interests of every other industry, would dilute agriculture's influence and "could relegate agricultural trade to a secondary position," they said.

The farm leaders said they would find it hard to support increased funding for an office that would not specifically represent farmers in trade matters.

"We have already seen the effects of such an erosion of power for farmers in our national government; in fact Minnesota is bearing the brunt of low farm priorities through the state's budget every day," they said.

Voicing a second concern, the farm leaders asked for Gov. Perpich's support on permanent location of the soil and water conservation board within the department of agriculture. It was moved to agriculture last year from the department of natural resources. However, that move will be rescinded if legislative or executive action is not taken.

"The majority of the farm community, including all three of our organizations, approved of the executive order made by your predecessor to move that board to the department of agriculture. We took that position because we believe direction on soil and water conservation matters is best made with agriculture at the forefront," they said. "Cooperation in conservation matters has improved, in our opinion, since the move was made.

"We feel it is in the best interest of the state and its agriculture for you to support permanent location of the board within the department of agriculture."

Conference Set Dealing With Child Abuse

In thousands of families children are sexually abused, yet over half of the incidents go unreported. Studies show sexual abuse of children in some families occurs frequently.

A conference presenting information about the incidence and consequences of child abuse in families is being offered for professionals and volunteers who work with children. Program is designed to help participants learn how to identify child abuse victims, understand the dynamics of an abusive family situation and explore their own personal feelings about the problem.

Sexual abuse of children conference will be held in two locations, on April 8 at the Bemidji Holiday Inn and on April 15 at the Mankato Holiday Inn North. Both programs begin at 8 a.m. and end at 4 p.m. Cost is $20 for students and $35 for non-students.

Leading the conference are two health professionals: Dr. Kathryn Kuehnle, director of the Wilder child guidance clinic, northwest branch, and Kathryn L. Norsworthy, doctoral candidate and family therapist. Both have worked extensively with abused children and their families.

Conference is offered by the University of Minnesota and the office of special programs, agriculture extension service. For preregistration materials call (612) 373-0725.

St. Hilaire's Review Board Meets April 7

Board of review for the city of St. Hilaire will meet Thursday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the city clerk's office. Assessments for 1983 will be reviewed and corrections made if necessary.

Any St. Hilaire taxpayer who is dissatisfied with the assessment or believes another taxpayer has been assessed too low is asked to appear at the meeting. No complaint of another person being assessed too low will be acted upon until that person or his agent is notified.

Near 100,000 Potholes Filled Statewide

By the end of March, maintenance crews from the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) will have filled an esimeated 100,000 potholes statewide as a cost of about $1.5 million since February, nearly as many as were repaired during all of last year.

Extensive pothole repair work is due to moisture left in roadbeds from last year's very wet fall and the early onset of warm weather this winter coupled with the deteriorating condition of the state's highway system, said Richard P. Braun, state transportation commissioner.

Troublesome and expensive as potholes are to truckers, fleet operators and the average motorist, they indicate greater problems for vehicle operators and Minneosta's economy in the future, Braun said.

Braun noted that 34 per cent of the state's 12,100 mile trunk highway system is restricted to less than nine-ton limits during spring road restrictions and that 468 trunk highway bridges are deficient in strength or clearance.

He added that 40 per cent of the highway system is rated only in fair of poor condition and that 42 per cent of highways are more than 35 years old.

Thirty-five years is the average "design life" of a highway. After that, most state highways need extensive repair or rebuilding to carry the traffic loads for which they were originally designed or for even greater loads due to increased traffic volume and truck weights.

Braun said the heavy traffic demand placed on the state highway system is evidenced by its carrying 58 per cent of the state's traffic while comprosing only nine per cent of the state total of streets and roads.

Although it would be virtually impossible to eliminate potholes everywhere, Minnesota's highways are very susceptible to damage caused by the region's dramatic changes in temperature and from increasing traffic on the state's aging highway system.

"Increased traffic is a paradox," Braun explained, "because while the number of vehicle miles traveled has increased to about 28.7-billion a year, revenue available for highway reconstruction is less because of decreased gas consumption by more fuel-efficient cars."

Each mile-a-gallon increase in mileage equals one cent a gallon tax, or about $19 million, in lost revenue he said.

Coupled with reduced income from gas tax revenue and the effects of inflation, Mn-DOT has increasingly changed its emphasis from highway construction and reconstruction to short-term, "Band-Aid" remedies such as resurfacing, he said.

Resurfacing and other kinds of limited reconditioning provide only temporary relief and do nothing to repair the basic structural defects such as weakened subgrades which cause cracks, potholes and eventually lead to even more serious deterioration.

"The present emphasis on preservation of the system in its existing condition will do nothing to change the situation," Braun said. "Only an improvement program which includes construction and major rebuilding can alter this course and begin to provide the highway network needed to improve Minnesota's economic vitality."

Honor Lynskey For High Grade On CPA Exam

New Hope resident John C. Lynskey — a graduate of Thief River Falls Lincoln high school and the University of Minnesota — was honored for achieving high grades on the recent national certified public accountants exam.

Lynskey was presented the Elijah Watt Sells award for performance "with high distinction" at an awards dinner dance, sponsored by the Minnesota society of CPAs on March 22 at the Radisson St. Paul hotel. He is with the accounting firm of Copeland Buhl and company in Wayzata.

Elijah Watt Sells awards are presented by the American Institute of CPAs after each national CPA exam to candidates who achieve the highest scores nationally. Out of 73,140 candidates who took the November 1982 exam, only 118 high distinction awards were given and Minnesota candidates received nine of them. Out of 887 Minnesotans who took the exam, 40 per cent passed.

Minnesota society of CPAs is the professional association of 5,000 certified public accountants throughout the state of Minnesota.

RRV Heritage Society Slates Winnipeg Tour

Royal Winnipeg ballet, the Winnipeg art gallery and fine ethnic food will highlight the Mother's day ethnic gourmet tour to Winnipeg May 7 and 8, sponsored by the Red River Valley heritage society.

"Romeo and Juliet," the largest production ever mounted by the Royal Winnipeg ballet, is the featured attraction at the Winnipeg concert hall. More than 3,500 yards of fabrics were used in the 130 costumes in the production, with more than 400 stage pieces making up the moveable set.

Other features of the tour include a visit to the MacDonald house mansion, a fully restored turn of the century Victorian mansion operated by the Manitoba historical society; dinner at La Vieille Gare', a French restaurant; and Sunday brunch at the Happy Vineyards, a German restaurant.

Tour of the Winnipeg art gallery, which has one of the finest collections of Inuit Eskimo art in the world, is also planned.

This tour is open to the public. Reservations may be made by calling 218-236-9140, or writing RRVHS, Box 733, Moorhead, MN 56560.

Son Who Shouldn't Be Fills Swanson's Easter

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Curtis and Marilyn Swanson of rural St. Hilaire can be forgiven if they give their month-old son Jonathan a little more attention than normal. From a medical standpoint, he really shouldn't exist today.

And they can also be forgiven for selecting the name Jonathan because of what it means. "Jonathan means 'a gift from God'," Marilyn Swanson said, holding the contented baby on her lap. "And we really consider him to be a gift from God."

Last August, pregnant with the couple's third child, Marilyn suffered a miscarriage. Rather than ordering a D and C surgical procedure, which often is a common practice in such circumstances, her doctor prescribed an oral drug for cleaning of the uterus.

In an already weakened condition, Marilyn contracted the flu and suffered from allergies. Anti-histamines were prescribed and taken. Six weeks later she returned to the clinic and it was discovered — despite the miscarriage and medications — that she was still pregnant. Somehow the embryo — a fraternal twin — had withstood the onslaught of the cleansing drugs and sustained life. Had a D and C been performed, the unknown second child could not have survived.

It was a time for wonder but also a time for worry. At first there was no assurance the fetus was alive, but two days later ultrasound equipment determined that life indeed existed. Happiness over the wanted child was severely tempered with anxiety and doubt about how the drugs may have affected it.

Marilyn returned home to their farm west of St. Hilaire. Summer faded into fall and fall turned to winter. The Swansons, on advice from their doctor, consulted with other doctors in Thief River Falls and Grand Forks.

On November 1 Marilyn's mother died unexpectedly at Crookston. Being unable to fulfill her normal role in the arrangements surrounding the funeral was additionally upsetting to Marilyn. Her incidence of pain became worse. On January 28 she entered Northwestern hospital where, except for very brief periods, she was confined to bed.

Much of the time she was connected to a fetal heart monitor which recorded the condition of the baby. In later stages of her hospitalization in the obstetrics department she was confined entirely to bed with her feet elevated above her head and receiving heavy intravenous dosage of drugs to delay delivery. The closer the baby could be brought to full term, the better chance it would have after birth.

Finally, on March 1, seven-pound 10-ounce Jonathan Curtis was born by Caesarean section. From all appearances

ALMOST A MONTH OLD, Jonathan Swanson has brought an added dimension into the lives of the parental Curtis Swanson family and their friends, neighbors and relatives. An apparently healthy and normal baby in all respects despite trauma surrounding him, he merits special attention and a special smile from his mother, Marilyn.

Library Plans Winnipeg Bus Trip May 7

Northwest regional library has announced plans for a bus trip to Winnipeg on Saturday, May 7, and the trip is open to the public with tickets sold on a first-come basis.

Day's plans include a matinee performance of "Romeo and Juliet" by the Royal Winnipeg ballet. The dancers will be on the mezzanine level of the lobby before the performance to answer questions and sign autographs. After the performance, participants will receive a behind-the-scenes tour of the company. Buses will stop for meals before and after the performance.

Tickets are $25 each and include transportation, costs and the costs of the ballet performance. Tickets may be purchased at the headquarters library, 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, the bookmobile, or library branches in Hallock, Warren, Warroad, Greenbush, Roseau and Red Lake Falls. Tickets must be purchased by April 22.

Peterson In Court Monday At Crookston

First court appearance by Darrel Peterson, former director of the Northwest Regional Inter-District council (NWRIC), on 10 counts of misuse of government funds was made Monday afternoon at district court in Crookston.

Assistant Marshall county attorney Michael D. Williams said the first appearance was set at Crookston before District Judge Russell Anderson because he is the judge who would hear the case in Marshall county district court. Normally a first appearance would be made in county court.

Peterson, represented by attorney Bob Schmidt of Crookston, returned voluntarily from Kansas City, MO, where he has been working since shortly after his resignation from the NWRIC directorship in November of 1982.

Judge Anderson set April 18 as the date for an evidenciary hearing in Marshall county district court before Judge Warren A. Saetre. At that hearing it will be determined what evidence will be admissable at a district court trial and if there is probable cause for a trial to be held. Because of the presentation of evidence, a different judge presides at the hearing than the judge who will preside at the trial.

Peterson is charged with five counts of embezzlement of public funds, one count of presenting false claims to a public body and four counts of permitting false claims against the government. He did not enter a plea at the first appearance.

Pesticides Certification Meets Slated

Farmers who want to meet certification standards to apply restricted pesticides on their own land can qualify by attending a special certification meeting.

Training programs will be held in Newfolden on Monday, April 4 at the community center and in Warren on Wednesday, April 6 in the old courtroom of the courthouse. Both sessions will start at 1:30 p.m., according to Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension director.

Federal and state regulations require the private pesticide applicators (farmers) who plan to use restricted pesticides on their own farms must meet minimum standards.

As pesticides are being reviewed or released more are being classified as restricted.

High Bidder Is Displeased . . .

Bids Rejected On St. Hilaire School

Rejection of both bids received for sale of the St. Hilaire elementary school property by the School District 564 board of education Monday has left the situation surrounding the closed school in limbo and irritated the high bidder for the property.

Following discussion at the regular meeting of the board Monday, the board voted to reject the two bids received at an earlier meeting and requested Supt. Robert Block to bring recommendations to the board concerning both St. Hilaire and Knox schools. Knox is scheduled to be closed for the 1983-84 school term.

The two bids received by the board for sale of the St. Hilaire school property were for $1 from the city of St. Hilaire and $10,000 from Doug Dehnert, who heads United Satellite Systems, Inc., of Thief River Falls. Motion to reject the bids was made by Greg Pribula, seconded by Archie Cameron, and carried with board members Harry Sjulson and Arnt Aune joining in voting in favor of the motion. Myrle Carlson voted against the motion and Harlan Hallstrom abstained. Board member Lawrence McDowell, who reportedly favored the sale for $10,000, was out of town when the meeting was held.

Dehnert told the Times this morning he was disappointed at the board's decision to reject his bid, saying he believes the action was short-sighted and based on pressures from a vocal minority rather than the general welfare of the school district.

Admitting that his $10,000 bid was not a lot of money for the building and property involved, Dehnert also pointed out that board members had stated they felt the amount was in excess of what they expected. "I feel that the board is wrong in advertising the property for sale and then rejecting the high bid for no apparent reason," Dehnert said. "Their rejection of the bids will not only deprive the

Local Legislators Agree On Farm Crisis Report

Special To The Times
by Cathy Carsberg
Northern Star News Service

Some Minnesota farmers are struggling to keep their farms while others are scrambling for money to buy seed for the spring planting. Meanwhile, a Governor-appointed farm crisis commission unveiled a plan to ease farmers' money problems, a situation the commission said equals the great depression in its report last week.

The plan stops short of calling for a mortgage moratorium, opting instead for two major state-backed loan programs.

The proposed package includes:

+ A state-guaranteed loan program to be used for 1983 operating expenses, such as seed, chemicals, electricity and taxes for the first half of the year;

+ A forbearance loan program, also state-guaranteed, for farmers in default and in danger of losing their farms, yet showing the ability to begin full payback by 1985;

+ A state ombudsman providing financial advisors across the state to work with farmers and lenders;

+ A state fund hiring emergency clerks in Minnesota's Farmers Home administration (FmHA) offices, speeding up the backlog of loan requests for spring plantings.

Gayle Waale Teacher Of Year At MCC

By Dave Berg
Times Reporter

Gayle Waale stresses the importance of each individual student in the philosophy of education which she submitted with her nomination forms for 1983 Minnesota teacher of the year.

That her philosophy is more than just a few idealistic paragraphs on a piece of paper is evident both in the classroom, and in the respect which both colleagues, students, and former students have for her.

Mrs. Waale teaches elementary physical education in both the Newfolden and Viking elementary schools, handling 12 classes each day, five days a week. Both her physical and mental energy are impressive, as she teaches those classes practically non-stop. Starting at 8:35 in Newfolden, she teaches grades 1 through 6, spending about 20 minutes with each class. At noon, she grabs time for a sandwich brought from home, and makes the 20 minute drive to Viking, where she teaches from 12:45 to 3 p.m. Her longest break other than lunch is about 10 minutes, between the third and fourth grade classes at Viking.

She has taught in the Marshall county school district for 14 years, teaching half time at the Viking school until several years ago, when she added the classes at Newfolden.

Graduating from Moorhead state university (MSU) in 1958, she began her teaching career in Karlstad, where she taught for five years. She also taught for a year at Strandquist, and has filled part time positions at other schools in the area.

Her other educational accomplishments have included graduation from elementary school and high school at Herman, where she was named outstanding senior girl by the American Legion Auxiliary in 1955. Her freshman year in college was spent in Hamline University in St. Paul. She has also attended numerous post-graduate workshops in Bemidji state university, MSU, Hamline, and North Dakota state university, Fargo.

She says that her teaching career has worked out almost ideally for her, because the part-time teaching positions have occurred at times when she wanted extra time to spend raising her family. She and her husband Harold have raised three children, Kim, 23, David 21, and Susan, 17. In addition, this year they have had a Norwegian exchange student, Hildegunn Nyland, 18, living with them while she attends Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

Her children have apparently seen something in their mother's education worth emulating, for Kim is a graduate of MSU and works as an artist in Moorhead, David is currently a junior at MSU, and Susan plans on attending the same school after graduation from Lincoln high school this spring.

Gayle says that family activities have always been important to them, noting that they like to spend weekends cross-country skiing or snowmobiling together in the winter, and staying at the lake in the summer.

She says she feels that having a family of her own has helped her to be a better teacher, since it gave her insight into some of the problems which students face outside the classroom.

Gayle has been a Girl Scout leader and Cub Scout den mother, Sunday school teacher and supervisor, vacation Bible school teacher and supervisor, chairman of church youth and education council and adult fellowship groups, circle president, co-editor of the church paper, and served on call committees, and church women's groups at Trinity Lutheran church; and is currently a member of the youth board and ZLC women at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

In addition, she served as education chairman and is currently a member of the American association of university women; and was president of the Thief River Falls faculty wives from 1966 to 68, while Harold was teaching. Other memberships have included the Mark Twain parent teachers association, and Thief River Falls task planning committee. She is also a member of the Minnesota education association, which sponsors the teacher of the year competition.

THIRD GRADE students at the Viking elementary school gathered around physical education teacher Gayle Waale, to learn a new tumbling routine called the rocking chair. Once the technique had been demonstrated, the students moved off into pairs to try the technique for themselves. The gymnasium was soon filled with calls of "Mrs. Waale. . . Mrs. Waale. . ." While many of the students just wanted her to see that they had mastered the technique, others were having difficulty and needed assistance. In almost constant motion, she somehow seemed to find a little time for each student. Mrs. Waale has been selected as Marshall county central school district's teacher of the year.

Polling Places Established For School Election

A new polling place at St. Hilaire — the St. Hilaire post office — was approved by the board of education for School District 564 Monday for the annual school election on May 17. Three polling places will be open in Thief River Falls during the election hours of 4 to 8 p.m.

Filings for the three terms expiring this year will open Monday with application forms available from Arnt Aune, district clerk, or from the superintendent's office at the school district service center in Thief River Falls.

Presently holding the three-year terms are Myrle Carlson, Lawrence McDowell and Greg Pribula. Carlson and Pribula are completing their first terms and McDowell has nine years of school board service. All have indicated they intend to file for reelection.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Thompson And Stenvik Marriage Vows Spoken

Katherine Lou Thompson and Lynn Edward Stenvik exchanged marriage vows at Our Savior's Lutheran church in this city on February 12 at 2:00 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Henry Thompson of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stenvik of Goodridge.

Rev. Leslie Galland officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 300 guests. Janeen Galland was the organist and Mrs. Renae Nicholason, a cousin of the bride, sang "You Light Up My Life," and "Wedding Song."

An arrangement of fresh lilac carnations and white daisies graced the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and oldest brother, Lawrence T. Thompson, was attired in a floor-length, A-line gown of white satin featuring a lace bodice complemented by a sheer yoke and sleeves. Her flowing veil was held by a derby hat trimmed with lace and ribbon streamers. She carried a round bouquet of silk roses in white, dark purple, lilac and medium purple, accented with purple and white ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Sue Hageman, Colorado, a sister of the bride. Other attendants were Mrs. Ann Juhl of this city and Karen Loeffler of Hallock, a cousin of the bride. Their gowns of dark purple with matching lace capes were accented at the rounded necklines by gold necklaces. Their bouquets of silk roses featured the same colors as those carried by the bride.

Carrying similar flowers in a white basket crocheted by the bride's mother was the flower girl, Jennifer Warne, Grygla, a cousin of the groom. She wore a white gown with a ruffle on the bodice and a lilac ribbon encircling the waistline.

The rings were carried by Arlen Stenvik, a brother of the groom. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a gray tuxedo, light purple ruffled shirt and a lilac rosebud boutonniere.

Scott Stenvik, Goodridge, attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Glen Thompson, Ft. Carson, Colo., brother of the bride, and Brad Stenvik, Goodridge, brother of the groom. Ushers were Jerry Thompson, brother of the bride; Randall Stenvik, Goodridge, brother of the groom, Kevin Loeffler, Hallock and Charles Simonson, cousins of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a dark purple floor-length gown with an overlay of dark purple lace. The groom's mother wore a light pink gown with an overlay of pink lace.

Honor guests were Mrs. Mary Loeffler, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warne, Goodridge, grandparents of the groom; and Mrs. Sue Hjelle, the bride's personal attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jencourski and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Nordby, cousins of the groom, served as hosts and hostesses at the reception that followed.

Mrs. Lorraine Stodola, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Edith Eidelbes, aunt of the groom, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Lucille Simonson, aunt of the bride. On either side of the cake, decorated with flowers in shades of purple and lavender, were two lilac colored heart-cakes.

Pouring coffee were Connie Simenson, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Doris Mosher, aunt of the groom.

Debbie Warne, aunt of the groom, and Jean Stodola, cousin of the bride, served the punch; Sheila Mosher, and Ricky Warne, cousins of the groom, were at the gift table, and Jodi Thompson, cousin of the bride, Kris Reck, Sharon Loerazel and Gwen Viken, friends of the couple, were waitresses.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Lincoln high school and prior to her marriage, was employed at Hardee's in Thief River Falls. The groom is a 1979 graduate of Goodridge high school and is employed in construction work.

Lucinda Wagar Weds David Nelson At F. Falls

Lucinda Wagar and David Nelson exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, January 8, at 3:00 p.m., at the Hope Lutheran church in Fergus Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Ray Wagar and Janice Wagar of Fergus Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Art Nelson, Thief River Falls.

Honored guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Latzke of Savage.

Rev. Leonard Dale officiated at the ceremony.

Attending the bride were her sisters: Paula Christianson, as matron of honor, and Brenda Wagar, as bridesmaid. Jessica Fisher, a niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Bert Clark, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsman was Mark Wagar, a brother of the bride. The rings were carried by Jason Clark, a friend of the couple.

A reception for 100-150 guests followed in the church parlors with Dave and Sharon Fisher as host and hostess.

Following a wedding trip to Moorhead, the couple is at home at 1034 East Mt. Faith, Fergus Falls, where the groom is employed at the State Hospital. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland Community college. The bride attended the Fergus Falls Senior high school. Photo, Zierke Studios, Pelican Rapids.

Trent Stanleys Will Make Home In Grygla

Mr. and Mrs. Trent Stanley are at home in Grygla following an exchange of marriage vows on Dec. 11, 1982 at 3:00 p.m., at the Faith Lutheran church in Goodridge, and a Carribean cruise wedding trip.

The bride, the former Marilyn Rambeck, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Rambeck of Goodridge. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stanley of Grygla.

Rev. Gene Broughton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Joy Norby and Carol Kriel were the organists and Van Swanson and Lisa Kriel sang.

Marcia Coan, Goodridge, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Sherry Henrickson and Mary Jo Kiesow and Laurie Swanson, a sister of the bride. Jennifer Wilkens, Warren, a cousin of the groom, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Bill Stanley, Grygla, a nephew of the groom.

Best man was Richard Nordby, Massachusetts, a friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Rick Kiesow, Grygla, Brian Stanley, Grygla, a brother of the groom, and Jim Morrisey, Thief River Falls. The ushers were Thomas Jelle, Grygla, a cousin of the groom, and Tom Roan, Grygla.

Marilyn Vraa, Goodridge, was the bride's personal attendant.

Honor guests were the bride's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Josephson of Thief River Falls, and the groom's grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sletten and Mrs. Hazel Smith.

Hosts and hostesses at the reception that followed in the church parlors were Neil and Barbara Josephson, cousins of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Todd Stanley, brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Judy Josephson and Kim Larson, cousins of the bride and groom, respectively. Pouring coffee were Ethel Josephson, and Donna Jelle, aunts of the couple.

Gwen Stanley, sister of the groom, was at the guest book. Gloria Hanestad and Lynnette Jelle, cousins of the couple, ladled the punch. Waitresses were Jaci Drangstveit, Jen Radniecki, and Lee Ann Hanestad. The gift bearers were Johnny Josephson and Robert Josephson.

The bride is a graduate of Goodridge high school and prior to her marriage was employed by Hartz Wholesale in this city. The groom, a graduate of Grygla high school, is engaged in farming in the Grygla area. Photo, Jim Solsten, Thief River Falls

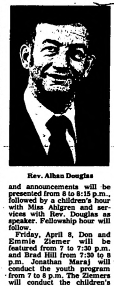
Mission Effort Recognized At 21st Conference



Rev. Alban Douglas

"The Unfinished Task" is the theme for the 21st annual missionary conference which will open Wednesday, April 6, at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls, according to Rev. Don Peres, pastor.

Main speaker for the conference will be Rev. Alban Douglas of Prairie Bible institute in Three Hills, Alberta, Canada. A native of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, he spent four years in China and 10 years in the Philippines with the Overseas Missionary fellowship after completing his Bible training. He lived under a communist regime for 18 months of his missionary service.

Upon his return to Canada, he held pastorates in Saskatchewan and then joined the staff of Prairie Bible institute in 1965. He is on the faculty of the missions department and also travels extensively for the school.

Other participants in the mission conference will be Rev. Bradley Hill, Covenant missionary to Zaire; Jonathan Maraj, missionary in India; Mary Ann Ahlgren, Covenant missionary to Zaire; and Don and Emmie Ziemer, Wycliffe Bible translators.

A fellowship dinner at 6 p.m. April 6 will open the conference, followed by a get-acquainted series of 20-minute sessions with each of the missionaries. Service will begin at 8:10 p.m. with special music and announcements and a children's hour will be conducted by Rev. Hill at 8:20 p.m. Rev. Douglas will deliver the message at 8:20 p.m. and a fellowship period will follow at 9 p.m.

Thursday evening session April 7 will include meetings with Jonathan Maraj from 7 to 7:30 p.m. and Mary Ann Ahlgren from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Rev. Hill will meet with youth from 7 to 8 p.m. Special music and announcements will be presented from 8 to 8:15 p.m., followed by a children's hour with Miss Ahlgren and services with Rev. Douglas as speaker. Fellowship hour will follow.

Friday, April 8, Don and Emmie Ziemer will be featured from 7 to 7:30 p.m. and Brad Hill from 7:30 to 8 p.m. Jonathan Maraj will conduct the youth program from 7 to 8 p.m. The Ziemers will conduct the children's hour from 8:15 to 9 p.m. and Rev. Douglas will speak at the mission service. Special music will again be presented at 8 p.m. and fellowship hour will begin at 9 p.m.

Group meetings in homes will take place Saturday, Arpil 9, from 9 to 10 a.m. with a family brunch at the church at 10:30 a.m. Special music will be presented, Jonathan Maraj will give his testimony and Rev. Douglas will speak.

Junior and senior high school youth will join in a youth night program beginning with food and fellowship at 6 p.m. Bethan Fellowship team will present a program at 7 p.m. with Rev. Douglas to speak.

Rev. Hill will speak at the Sunday morning service from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and missionaries will participate in Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Rev. Douglas will deliver the sermon at the 11 a.m. worship service. Special music will be presented at both services.

Sunday evening will include panel discussions from 7 to 8 p.m., special music and announcements at 8 p.m., faith promise ingathering, children's hour and mission services at 8:15 p.m. and final fellowship program to follow.

Rev. Peres and members of the Evangelical Covehant church invite any others interested to attend any or all of the mission conference activities.

Elwood Beitos, Middle River, Note Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Beito of rural Middle River were honored at a pizza party on Saturday evening at the Pizza Hut in Thief River Falls. The event, in observance of their 35th wedding anniversary, was hosted by their children.

Present were Elwood and Joyce Beito, Darryl and Nina Beito, Danny and Jeanie Beito, DelRay and Rhonda Beito and Leora Ose, all of the Middle River area; Tony Burkel and Audrey Beito of Thief River Falls and Diane and Wayne Klemetson.

An evening of first-time bowling for the honored guests followed.

Joining the group at the Klemetson home for anniversary cake and coffee were Christopher Beito, Denise Beito and Traci, and Darwin and Karleen Klemetson.

The two anniversary cakes for the evening lunch were made by Mrs. Ose.

LaLeche League Informational Meeting Slated

Questions pertaining to the breastfeeding of infants will be answered at the meeting of the Thief River Falls LaLeche League to be held April 5 at 1:00 p.m., at 901 South Crocker.

Among the questions to be answered are: Are there certain foods that should be avoided during breastfeeding; and what nutritional suggestions are available for nursing mothers. Also discussed will be tips on weaning a breastfed child. Information will be based on the latest medical research as well as personal experience.

Anyone wishing further information may call 964-5468, 681-1870 or 681-7212.

Past Presidents Parley Elects New Officers

Officers of the Past Presidents Parley of the local American Legion auxiliary were elected on March 22 at a supper-meeting of the organization held at the Legion club rooms.

Elected were Mrs. Ed Kramer, president, and Mrs. Constance Driscoll, secretary-treasurer. Out-going president Mrs. Mayer Holen presided.

Dues were collected and a donation of $20 was given to the past president's nursing scholarship fund.

Past presidents in attendance were Ethel Monroe, Mrs. Ed Kramer, Constance Driscoll, Mrs. Norman Peterson, Mrs. Orville Feregan, Mrs. Leo Nelson, Mrs. Jim Cuppett, Mrs. Bob Reeve, Mrs. Jerry Odegaard, Mrs. Mayer Holen and Mrs. Ed Haraldson.

The next meeting will be a potluck picnic on August 3 at the home of Mrs. Norman Peterson.

Library Week Set Apr. 16-23 In T. R. Falls

National library week will be celebrated by Northwest regional library (NWRL) in Thief River Falls, from April 16 to 23, in observance of the contribution libraries have made to the American way of life.

Theme chosen by NWRL is Minnesota history. Kicking off the library's celebration will be the book-and-author dinner at 7:30 p.m. April 16. Mrs. Ella Valborg Tweet, co-translator of O.E. Rolvaag's "The Third Life of Per Smevik", will be guest speaker. Norwegian food and entertainment will also be featured. Tickets must be purchased by April 13.

Wednesday will feature a very special storytime from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and from 1 to 1:30 p.m. Storytime will be built around Paul Bunyan, and as always, children will be able to participate in exciting activities.

Seniors' program on Thursday will also have a Minnesota theme, and is scheduled from 3 to 4 p.m. in the library. Also on Thursday's agenda is a book sale which will run from noon until 9 p.m. Money from the sale will be used to buy magazine holders for the library.

Chautauqua group will present a three-act program at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 23, in the main portion of the library. Entitled "Minnesota a State of Mind", the presentation will be free to the public.

Area Students Named On UMC Provost's List

Four area students were named to the 1983 winter quarter provost's list at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston (UMC), according to Dr. Stanley D. Sahlstrom, provost.

To qualify for a place on the list, students must complete 12 or more hours of college credit while attaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Students on the list included: Jacqueline Cwikla, business and interior design technology, Middle River; Lon Flage, small business management and Mark LaCrosse, diversified agricultural production, Red Lake Falls; and Evonne Wold, business computer systems, Thief River Falls.

Library Lil

Hi! My name's Lil — Library Lil, to be exact. You see, I used to be a librarian before all these high-falutin' things like computers and community programming came into the libraries.

I'm not so sure I like everything that's coming along and I tell you, that Northwest Region Library here in Thief River Falls is the berries for trying out these modern confabulations — so they can serve the people better, they say. HUMPH! Well, I say there's something fishy going on. Nobody is that civic-minded — and I intend to worm my way to the bottom of this! (I learned to slither pretty good hanging around bookworms all those years.) And I'll report back to you whenever I find out something interesting.

Like this "Book-and-Author Dinner" they're planning for April 16. It seems they've got Ella Valborg Tweet, co-translator of O.E. Rolvaag's book "The Third Life of Per Smevik," as their guest speaker. Now that's my kind of gal!. . . But don't think I've been taken in by this. I'm keeping my eyes and ears open for the funny stuff, too. So watch out, NWRL staff! I'm lying in wait for you!

Here are some new books I wormed through:

DiGiulio, Robert C: "Effective Parenting: What's Your Style?" — Author Robert DiGiulio describes the six major parenting styles and how each style affects the development of children. He also shows how to improve effectiveness as parents by properly using individual parenting styles.

Marshall-Ball, Robin: "The Sporting Shotgun." — This book is an excellent source for the beginning sportsman or shooting enthusiast. It covers the history and uses of sporting guns and distribution of game maps as well as the shooting jargon, basic workings of the shotgun and ballistics.

Johnston, Tony: "Odd Jobs and Friends." — Illustrated by Caldecott-honors illustrator Tomie dePaola, this children's book is about a jack-of-all-trades who gets into the zaniest predicatments.

Chorao, Kay: "Ida Makes a Movie" — Ida makes her directing debut with a movie about children dancing. She enters it in a film contest and wins — because the judges think it is a great film about how horrible war is to children. Should she accept? Read and see.

Swanson Easter Fulfilled By Miracle Son

he appeared to be healthy and well. Relief and gratitude were overwhelming. Following another week of recuperation from the surgery, Marilyn and her new son were permitted to go home. He has responded normally in every way and the grateful parents modestly admit that he is an especially good baby.

Curtis and Marilyn are grateful that hospital policy permitted their two young daughters — five-year-old Lisa and three-year-old Leslie — to visit their mother several times in the hospital before and after their little brother was born. Not only was it good therapy for Marilyn, it provided reassurance for the girls that their mommy was O.K. And the couple is also most appreciative of the concern and care provided by the medical and nursing staff at the hospital.

It was Marilyn's sister, Darlene Stricklin of Minneapolis, who told them about the meaning of the name Jonathan. The Swansons hadn't talked much about a name for the child, perhaps somewhat fearful of the eventual results of their ordeal. But they had earlier considered the name John — Curtis' grandfather's name. When Darlene explained the meaning during a visit to Marilyn in the hospital here, the name Jonathan was immediately accepted.

During Marilyn's hospitalization, friends, relatives and neighbors pitched in to help in many ways. They provided baby-sitting service for the girls in their homes so that Curtis could work in the farm shop or pursue sales of sunflower seed. They cleaned the Swanson's mobile home and prepared food to share. They visited Marilyn in the hospital. And they prayed.

"WOMEN IN ACTION: North Dakota Photographs" exhibit will open April 5 at Northern state bank in Thief River Falls. Local photographs will also be displayed throughout April. Photographs in the exhibition both historical and comtemporary, show women at work and also dancing, fishing and having fun. The photo above, from the Flaten and Wange collection, Clay county historical society, Moorhead, shows women sewing.

Among the major helpers were Curt's mother, Mrs. Clarence Swanson, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark (Virginia) Swanson, both of whom live in the area. Also extensively involved was Rev. Don Knudson, assistant pastor at Redeemer Lutheran church, who also serves the Black River church where the Swansons are members.

"Curt and Marilyn were just beaming last Sunday when they were in church for the first time with their new baby," Rev. Knudson said. "After all of the waiting, hospitalization, concern about the baby's health and the threat of a premature birth, the realization that this baby was normal made us all thankful and grateful to God. There was plenty of concern and prayer support shown to the family from members of their Black River church."

The Swansons will spend Easter Sunday with Marilyn's father, Lester Norberg, at Crookston. It will be their first extended trip away from home with Jonathan.

The following Sunday at the Black River church, Jonathan will be baptized in the same baptismal gown worn by his father and grandfather — who like him were the oldest sons of their generation. Rev. Knudson will preside and attendants will be Mark and Virginia Swanson and Charles and Kathy Carlson.

Also baptized that day will be Stephanie Elizabeth Brekke, daughter of Curtis' sister Pamela and her husband Jay Brekke. Stephanie was born in Northwestern hospital February 10 while Marilyn was there awaiting the birth of Jonathan.

"We are especially glad in this Easter season," Rev. Knudson said, "that rather than 'weeping with those who weep', we are able to 'rejoice with those who rejoice'."

The Easter season carries with it the feeling of life, of new beginning, of hope and vigor and vitality. The Black River community continues to marvel over the miracle represented in their midst in the form of Jonathan Swanson — "a gift from God."

Bids Rejected On St. Hilaire School Site

district of the income from the sale but will result in continuing cost to the district for as long as the issue remains unresolved."

Dehnert said he had no immediate need for the building but that he would expect to use it for expansion of his business in the near future. His purchase would put the property on the St. Hilaire tax rolls, he said, and any future development would be additionally beneficial to St. Hilaire.

In an agreement formed at a meeting of school board representatives, St. Hilaire city council representatives, Dehnert and others on March 23, Dehnert had agreed to provide St. Hilaire with access to all playground equipment for a minimum of five years or until the area was needed for building expansion. First expansion would be to the north, he said, retaining the playground area.

If the playground would be used for building, the agreement noted, the city of St. Hilaire would be given the playground equipment to be removed at the city's expense.

In addition, Dehnert would explore the installation of a separate heating system for the gymnasium and cafeteria area and would make those areas available to responsible parties for recreation, community gatherings and other events. There would also be the possibility one of the rooms in the cafeteria or gymnasium could be used for a city library.

The school district would be allowed to remove all property not attached to the walls or piped in and the St. Hilaire PTA would be permitted to remove library books and free-standing shelving on the top floor of the main part of the building.

Supt. Block said that the board's rejection of the bids must stand since the time period to accept or reject bids has not expired. The board could readvertise for bids, he said, if it chose to do so. Disgusted by the board's rejection, Dehnert would not say if he would enter another bid.

St. Hilaire school bids covered only a small part of the total meeting agenda. The board set the schedule for the annual school election (separate story in today's Times) and discussed the music position (Douglas Engstrom) cut from the 1983-84 budget. They directed the administration to prepare a list of recommended items to be put back in the budget if the district receives the full $1,475 per pupil unit basic aid and suggested that the music position be included in the list.

Supt. Block told the board he would be bringing them a recommendation to add library aides to the 1983-84 budget at a cost of $10,000 to $12,000 to partially offset cuts made in the educational media program. He also asked reconsideration of the $5,300 cut in the work study program in order to provide jobs for a number of young people during the summer and school year.

The board was given a copy of a proposed drug policy for the district and asked to review it for discussion at a later meeting.

Community education advisory committee presented a budget to the board. The budget was accepted, including a $12,000 expenditure to the ExCEL program if funds are not received for this program from other sources.

Business manager Harry Nelson informed the board that any proceeds acquired from sale of district real estate would go to the capital fund and reduce the district's levy by the amount of the deposit.

Recommendation to increase student ticket prices from 75 cents to $1 and AVTI-NCC student ticket prices from $1 to $1.50 was approved.

Presentations were made concerning retention of baseball and boys and girls golf as spring sports at Lincoln. A total of $5,350 had been raised by interested individuals and it was felt that additional money could be raised before the end of the season. The board approved offering the programs until funds provided by these individuals are depleted.

The board also adopted a resolution reemphasizing that no sports which have been cut for 1983-84 will be offered if funds are not raised by outside sources by Aug. 1, 1983 for fall and winter sports and by Feb. 1, 1984, for spring sports. TRF swim club's request to use the Franklin pool for the 1983 season was approved at $240 for the pool rental.

Resignations were received from Linda LaFave, AVTI cosmetology instructor, and Floyd Borgen, custodian at Knox elementary school. Extra-curricular assignments were approved for Jack Boyer, head boys golf coach; Ruth Onkka, head girls golf coach; and Charlie Cornell, head baseball coach.

Next meeting of the board will be on April 11.

Daytime Radio Expanded In Senator's Bill

Senator Rudy Boschwitz has introduced legislation to permit daytime AM radio stations to broadcast starting two hours before sunrise until two hours after sunset. Currently these stations, such as radio station KKAQ in Thief River Falls, are allowed to broadcast from sunrise to sunset only.

The legislation will update regulations developed in the 1930s that limit the operation of these stations to daylight hours only. Boschwitz indicated that the bill is needed because more than 600 communities throughout the country — more than 46 million Americans — have no local nighttime AM radio service.

"Currently, many people living in rural communities are denied timely information on early mornings and evening weather and highway reports, announcements of school closings and coverage of local high school sports," added Boschwitz.

Senator Larry Pressler of South Dakota has joined Boschwitz in introducing the bill in the Senate and Congressman Vin Weber of Minnesota has introduced a companion measure in the House of Representatives.

Rites Held In Michigan For E. Scramstad

Funeral services for Mrs. Richard (Elizabeth) Scramstad, 36, of 5936 Meadowview, Ypsilanti, Mich., and formerly of this city, were held February 25 at the Nie-Fontana funeral home in Ann Arbor, Mich. Rev. Raymond Rademacher officated. Mrs. Scramstad died february 22 at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital in Michigan.

Mrs. Scramstad the former Elizabeth Jane Komp, was born Oct. 31, 1946 in Brooklyn, N.Y., to John and Elizabeth Dowds Komp. She lived with her parents in New York and Washington, D.C., until the age of six when she moved with them to Japan, Chili, South America, and the Panama, where her father was in the diplomatic service. She attended school in those countries and was graduated from high school in Texas. She spent one and one-half years at the University in Chile, where she worked as an interpreter, two years at a junior college in Monterey, Calif., where she was editor of the school paper, and was graduated from the University of Arizona, at Tucson, with a degree in journalism.

After graduating, she was married at Tucson on June 5, 1971 to Richard Orlin Scramstad of Thief River Falls. Following their marriage, they came to Thief River Falls, and she worked here as secretary at Arctic Enterprises. They then lived in Grand Forks where she was employed at United Hospital. After her husband's graduation from UND, they moved to Calif, and she was employed there by Diemo Industries. Later, they lived for two years in Michigan and most recently spent two years in Jakarta, Indonesia where her husband was employed by Black and Veatch, a firm of consulting engineers. While there she did volunteer work in an American school, where her daughter was enrolled.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Jennifer Elizabeth, her father Col. John Komp and her stepmother, Nancy Komp, Salinas, Calif.; two sisters: Nancy and Margaret Komp, Hayward, Calif., and a stepsister: Mrs. Roy (Sandra) Bonham, Coos Bay, Ore.

She was preceded in death by her mother.

Among the relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Scramstad and Mr. and Mrs. David Scramstad of Thief River Falls; Col. and Mrs. John Komp, Nancy and Margaret Komp, all of California; Mrs. Bernadette Hearst, Brooklyn, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. John Gjernes, Livonia, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Pete McManus, also of Michigan.

Mrs. J.O. Jacobson, 86, Dies In Ariz.

Mrs. J.O. Jacobson, 86, of Sun City, Ariz., and formerly of this city, died Monday morning in a hospital in Sun City. Mrs. Jacobson lived here from 1923 until 1953 while her husband served as pastor of the Evangelical Free church.

Funeral services for Mrs. J.O. Jacobson will be held Thursday at the First Evangelical Free church in Phoenix, Ariz.

Among the survivors are her husband, Rev. J.O. Jacobson, 9961 Thunderbird Blvd., Sun City, AZ 85351; a daughter Alice Jacobson, also of Sun City, and one son, James Jacobson, Phoenix.

Dr. D. Burns Dies Saturday At Crookston

Dr. Dennis Burns, 31, of Crookston podiatrist, who held regular office hours in Thief River Falls, died early Saturday morning in his car of accidental carbon monoxide inhalation, according to Polk county corner Dr. John Wood.

Funeral services for Dr. Dennis Burns were held Tuesday at Crookston.

Dennis Burns was born in McCook, Neb., on April 6, 1951. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln and received his DPM degree from California college of Podiatric Medicine, San Francisco, in 1979. He first practiced in McCook with the family business, which manufactures orthotic devices for podiatrists across the nation. In 1981, he moved to Crookston and was associated there with Peterson Foot Clinic.

He was married Feb. 5, 1982 in Crookston to Dianna Hegre. She survives, together with two children, Douglas and Katie, both of Houston, his father, Dr. Lawrence Burns, McCook; three brothers: Dr. Greg Burns, Kearney, Neb.; Dr. Michael Burns, Red Feather Lakes, Colo.; and Paul Burns, McCook; a sister, Mrs. Patrick (Mary) O'Dea, McCook; and his grandmother, Mrs. Maude Johnson, also of McCook.

Emil Wright Services Held Here Tuesday

Funeral services for Emil Wright, 85, of this city, were held Tuesday at 1:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Wright died Friday evening at Northwestern hospital. He had been a resident of the CNC unit for the past two years.

Officiating at the services was Rev. Berton Hushagen, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church. Music was tape recordings by Merrill Womach. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers were David Wright, Craig Wright, Larry Wright, Richard Wright, Randy Wright and Robin Wright.

Emil Wright was born Jan. 25, 1898 at Cokato, where he attended school and grew to manhood. He was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church at Cokato.

In 1920, he was married at Waseca to Adeline Reineke. After their marriage, they lived in Minneapolis, where he worked as a carpenter. In 1924, they moved to Maple, Wis., and in 1945 to Darwin. At both places they farmed and he worked as a carpenter. He retired in 1960. In 1968, they moved to Thief River Falls and he had since resided here.

He is survived by three sons: Gailard Wright, Thief River Falls; Val, Darwin; and Lloyd, Central Point, Ore.; 12 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, five sisters and one brother.

Geo. Peterson, Once Shoemaker, Dies

George E. Peterson, 83, of this city, a retired local shoemaker, died unexpectedly Tuesday at his apartment at Riverside Terrace.

Funeral services for George E. Peterson will be held Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Assemblies of God church with Rev. Daniel Cole officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from 1:00 to 9:00 p.m., Friday, and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

ACHES AND PAINS are part of almost any physical education class, and Marshall county central school's teacher of the year, Gayle Waale, expresses her concern over each of them on an individual basis. After a brief rest on the sidelines, this student soon rejoined the group's activities. Mrs. Waale stresses the value of teaching students attitudes of good sportsmanship, cooperation and acceptance of their own and their classmates' abilities or limitations. She notes in her philosophy of education, that they are included in her daily lesson plans, "for they are a part of desirable daily living in our world."

Gas Prices Rise Despite Lower Crude

Now that OPEC's scrambling is over and its pricing strategy has been hastily revised, motorists are expecting a reprieve from triple-digit gas prices, notes Minnesota AAA. So why are we spying gas station operators up on their ladders changing their signs to show three to seven cent increases? Gas prices in Minnesota dropped up to 10 cents per gallon in some areas since December, but are now rising again, according to Minnesota AAA's Easter fuel survey.

Petroleum industry representatives say that consumer conservation over the last several years has lowered demand for petroleum products, and has increased competition for the consumer's gasoline dollar. The resulting abundance of crude finally forced OPEC to cut its prices to keep the cartel intact, according to AAA.

Motorists face a five cent-per-gallon hike in the federal gas tax in a few days, and up to a nickel-a-gallon in the state gas tax, as well, as soon as the legislature agrees on a figure. But before the additional taxes go into effect, AAA says, we should be paying the lowest gas prices in several years.

Retailers say that gas wars in past weeks have forced them to lower prices to the point that they were "cutting their own throats." So to stay in business, they explain, prices had to go up again. But, AAA says, to be raising prices when their wholesale cost is dropping seems curious.

Motorists have had a hand in decreasing gasoline costs through conservation and sacrifices for several years, yet now face increased costs through tax increases and possibly passed-on costs from President Reagan's proposal to tack on a $5-a-barrel additional crude oil import fee, supposedly to be used for budget balancing. AAA also asserts that motorists should not be forced to continue to subsidize businesses that cannot survive in the current market. Petroleum experts add that the OPEC decision may still change and crude prices could drop again, especially if other oil-producing nations such as Great Britain cut their prices further.

Consumers should question fluctuating retail prices in a downward market, AAA says. Nationally, gas prices have fallen an average of eight cents per gallon since the beginning of the year, and 15 cents since one year ago. Gas prices have dropped 25 per cent overall since reaching their highest point in March of 1981.

According to AAA's mid-March survey of northern Minnesota stations, current full-service prices are: regular, $1.227; unleaded, $1.270; unleaded premium, $1.409; and diesel, $1.174.

Self service prices are: regular, $1.176; unleaded, $1.219; and unleaded premium, $1.309. All prices reported above are before cash discounts. Approximately one-third of the stations surveyed offered two or four cent-per-gallon discounts for cash-paying customers.

AAA's survey also found that over half of the stations will be closed on Easter Sunday, April 3, and that nearly half close by 6 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Brian McKillop To Lecture At Bemidji State

Dr. Brian McKillop will be teaching and lecturing at Bemidji State University April 11-22 as the third visiting expert of the spring quarter institutional residency in Canacian studies.

McKillop is a professor of Canadian history at the University of Manitoba and will be teaching a two-week course on recent Canadian history with Dr. Perry Armin of the BSU history department.

He will also present a public address on his perceptions of Canada and the United States in history April 14 at 7:30 p.m. in room 113 of Hagg-Sauer hall.

Individuals interested in McKillop's lecture or course can obtain more information by contacting Dr. Bill Elliott, Hagg-Sauer Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601 (218-755-2813).

Full Moon Determines Easter Date

The moon, an inspiration for poetry and legends, is also a prime factor in determining the date of Easter, according to the University of Minnesota star watch.

Easter is the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox, which marks the beginning of spring. It can occur as early as March 22 or as late as April 25. This year's vernal equinox — when day and night were equal in length — was March 21. The full moon will be March 28, and so Easter will be April 3.

Legends and lore about the moon probably date back to the first humans. The words "loony" and "lunatic" come from lunar, Latin for "of the moon," reflecting the myth that a full moon drives people mad. Though this is not literally true, a peak in accidents and illness has been associated with full moons.

But, love is more commonly associated with the moon than is lunacy. Romeo addressed Juliet this way, "Lady, by yonder blessed moon I swear,- That tips with silver all these fruit-tree tops." Juliet answered, "O! Swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon,- That monthly changes in her circled orb,-Lest that thy love prove likewise variable."

More prosaically, the moon also raises the tides. As it orbits Earth, it exerts a gravitational pull on the ocean, creating two high and two low tides each day as the volume of water moves toward and away from the shore. As seen from Earth, the moon moves eastward in its monthly orbit of the planet at the rate of almost an hour a day. Corresponding high tide occurs 50 minutes later each day in a given location, according to Ed Ney, astronomer at the University of Minnesota.

This is the moon's "tidal signature," according to Isaac Newton, and it is three times stronger — because it is nearer — than the tidal influence of the much more massive sun. When both work together and the moon is a bit closer to Earth in its orbit, tides are especially high.

The moon is actually only a small reflector of the sun's light. It is just a quarter of the size of the Earth and has no atmosphere, water or geologic activity to speak of. Its daytime temperatures are 250 degrees Fahrenheit and its nights are minus 260 degrees Fahrenheit. On the moon, a "full Earth" is as bright as 80 full moons in our sky.

Although much is known about the nature of the moon, Earth's nearest neighbor still holds many mysteries including the story of its origin. Astronomers still are not sure whether the moon was spun out of the side of the Earth as both bodies were forming or whether it was formed elsewhere within the solar cloud and captured much later by Earth's gravity. Still another theory now seems the most likely, Ney said. That theory suggests the moon was formed at about the distance of 10 Earth radii from Earth and at the same time the planet was formed. It has been receding ever since, now at the rate of almost two inches a year.

FAMILY LIFE has been important in the development of the philosophy of education held by Marshall county central school's teacher of the year, Gayle Waale. She says that having her own children has helped her to be a better teacher because it has given her a closer look at some of the problems which students have to deal with outside the classroom. Seated on the family sofa (left to right) are: daughter Kim, husband Harold, Gayle, and son David. In the foreground are daughter Susan and Hildegunn Nyland, a Norwegian exchange student who has lived with the Waales for the past year.

Sunflower Oil Determined By Clean Seed

Parul Haroldson, chairman of the grades and standards committee for the national sunflower association (NSA) notes that "The exporters of sunflower seed are once again determining oil on a clean seed basis." In early January the exporters of sunflower seed decided that they would determine oil content on an 'as is' (with dockage in) basis when buying seed.

Haroldson noted, "This change was met with considerable resistance from growers and elevator managers. Oilseed technicians also opposed the change because existing oil determining equipment is not accurate with the dockage remaining in the sample. It was pointed out in a number of meetings with the exporters that wide variations in oil yield would result in determining oil content on an 'as is' basis."

Exporters said they need to change to an 'as is' basis because the Europeans and other importers determine the oil content with the dockage in the sample. In a crop year like 1982 with low oil content and high dockage, exporters claim they lost money in the conversion between the U.S. and European oil tests.

Haroldson said, "after we discussed the problems related to oil testing, the exporters agreed that the dangers to the industry were substantial if the oil test remained on an 'as is' basis. Instead the exporters have developed a discount scale on dockage which should solve the problem to some degree."

Haroldson stated, "I was gratified that serious problems were averted without asking for government intervention. The sunflower industry is still small enough so we as farmers and industry representatives can sit down together and solve problems." Haroldson stated, "the domestic crushers did not change to an 'as is' basis" and that was an important factor.

Now Hear This! by Lola Wiskow
NOW-AND-THEN AMPLIFICATION?
Practically speaking, a hearing aid can be worn at any time the user wishes. However, for maximum effectiveness, most audiologists/dispensers suggest that the first time user wear the aid on a consistent basis initially. After a significant period of time, it can often be used only when needed.
Selective hearing aid use benefits a specific hearing aid population. Specifically, if the hearing loss does not exceed the moderate hearing loss range, the user is often able to communicate without great difficulty in some select listening situations. Generally, however, the user is urged to use the hearing aid on a regular basis no matter what the extent of the loss. Unlike the visual system, which usually responds quickly and efficiently to lenses, the auditory system appears to need a period of re-orientation.
Hearing aid use remains a complex issue of need, motivation, severity of loss, and individual decisions that often have little to do with the success or failure of a hearing aid user.

LEC Reports 11 Cases Mar. 29

Law Enforcement Center report dated Tuesday, March 29, listed 11 cases investigated by Thief River Falls police department by reporting date, including the following:

February 27 — Observed trying to conceal a homemade stove that had been stolen from a fish house on the Red Lake river, a Thief River Falls minor was released to the custody of his parents. Owner of the stove is presently unknown.

March 17 — Stone's Mobile Radio personnel reported theft of a Handi-Talkie, value $1,200, from their shop. Case is under investigation.

March 19 — James M. Kappes, 12, Thief River Falls, was treated at Northwestern hospital for a foot injury, apparently caused as a result of being struck by a projectile form an air rifle which discharged while two other youths scuffled over it.

March 22 — Randy Wicklander, Thief River Falls, was driving south on Main avenue, attempting a left turn onto Eighth street, when he struck a parked car owned by Jerome Johnson, rural Badger. Damages were estimated at $500 to the Wicklander vehicle and $300 to the Johnson vehicle.

March 22 — Les DeBriyn, Thief River Falls, reported that the antenna had been broken off his pickup, causing damage estimated at $12.

March 22 — Mary Abraham, Thief River Falls, reported that her vehicle had been scratched on one side with a sharp object, and the license plate spray painted. Damage estimate was unavailable.

March 23 — Mildred Magnan, Thief River Falls, reported theft of her son's bicycle, value $30, from the lot at Franklin middle school.

March 24 — Two fire extinguishers and a ladder, value $95, were reported by a resident as stolen from an apartment building owned by Dr. E.M. Padilla, Thief River Falls.

March 25 — Northland Foods personnel reported apprehension of a shoplifter. Juvenile male was charged and released to the custody of his parents.

March 26 — Vehicle owned by Matt Kronberger, Thief River Falls, was parked in his driveway when a southbound vehicle left Crocker Avenue, struck it, then left the scene. Damages to the Kronberger vehicle were estimated at $700. Case is under investigation.

March 27 — Robert Olson, Thief River Falls, reported that trees at his residence had been sprayed with black paint, causing an unknown amount of damage.

COLORING EASTER EGGS was one of the activities participated in by pre-schoolers last Wednesday at Northwest regional library. They also played games, had an Easter egg hunt, and had stories read to them, of course. Activities were all part of storytime, a program the library sponsors every Wednesday, from 10 to 10:30 a.m. and from 1 to 1:30 p.m. Special activities with a Paul Bunyan theme are being planned for storytime during National library week, April 16 to 23.

Senator Says Jobs Bill Is Honest Effort

The $5.2 billion jobs bill was "an honest effort to address the issue of long-term structural unemployment versus recession-related unemployment," according to Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

The bill passed Thursday after a week long deadlock over the amendment to repeal tax withholding on interest and dividends. That provision will be taken up next month.

The jobs bill provides funds to create jobs by expanding existing government programs to include such items as highways, education and retraining. Minnesota will acquire interestate transfer grants for Duluth; $22 million in revenue sharing for cities; and funds for avaition centers located in Tower, Duluth, Hibbing, and Ely Minnesota.

"The bill is a good one. It targets dollars to areas hardest hit by unemployment. Making a distinction between structural unemployment versus recession-related unemployment is important and is not easy because being unemployed is painful no matter what the cause.

"By concentrating the funding on the block grant programs we are letting local officials target the money to the areas most in need. By increasing funds for revenue sharing we are helping communities retain jobs they may otherwise have lost," Boschwitz said.

"But this bill does more than this. It also increases funding for retraining and education programs. When this current recession is over and the jobs lost because of it have been regained, we will still be left with the issue of structural unemployment. This is why retraining programs are so important.

"Minnesota's unemployment rate hit 10.4 per cent in January, up from 9.3 per cent in December and 8.6 per cent in November. While the nation's average has stabilized or declined slightly, unemployment has been climbing steadily in Minnesota. And what we need to do was vividly brought home to me in January when I went up to Minnesota's iron range with our governor for a town meeting on jobs.

"Unemployment on the range is over 20 per cent, with pockets of the area experiencing two or three times that rate. They need some assistance." Boschwitz said. "This bill will not solve all the problems of the unemployed, nor will it create 'full' employment. However, it is a responsible and humanitarian bill.

"It's a good thing we were able to change the withholding provision to a further date because the jobs bill needed to pass so we can get our unemployed back to work," the senator added.

The first use of public construction bonds for the alleviation of employment was in New York City in 1854, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Extension Of Jobless Pay In Federal Bill

Extension of supplemental unemployment benefits for those whose coverage has expired has been included in the social security package, according to Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

The legislation, originally introduced by Boschwitz in January, extends an existing program — the federal supplemental compensation program (FSC) — which was passed in two phases last August and December. Provisions of the program would have expired on March 31, 1983. Now the program will run until Sept. 30, 1983, the end of the current fiscal year.

Boschwitz said he decided to introduce the bill after his town meeting on jobs held in Hibbing, in conjunction with Governor Rudy Perpich.

"The senate's action on my bill means that Minnesotans who run out of regular unemployment benefits after April 1, 1983 will still be eligible for 12 additional weeks of benefits," Boschwitz said.

"I am also very pleased that in addition to extending the program, we have provided additional weeks of benefits to those who have run out already. Without this, over 26,000 Minnesotans could be out of benefits by the end of this month.

"This extension will not be cheap," Boschwitz said. "But what choice do we really have? The senate's action on this program means we will extend the safety net for those hardest hit by the recession — the unemployed. I am pleased with the senate's work."

March 31 Is Final Date For Grain Reserve

March 31 is the final date for a number of activities in the grain loan and grain reserve program. It is the last day to take out a loan on 1982 crops of wheat, barley and oats and the last day to place them in the three-year reserve program.

To place 1982 small grain in the reserve, farmers must sign the loan papers and the request for the reserve agreement before the last day of March, according to Phil Bergland, county executive director of the ASCS office.

Those who have an existing three-year reserve agreement that will mature within the next year might want to request an extension at this time. It is unknown yet if Reserve VI (1983) will carry a provision for extensions, so to insure that the reserve contract will be in effect for longer than the initial three year agreement, extend it now. Department of agriculture can accept the extensions of these agreements only between now and March 31.

Sign-up for participation in the 1983 farm program ended on March 11. Nearly 99 per cent of the wheat acreage in Pennington county has been enrolled in the acreage reduction and payment in kind program, with nearly 33,000 acres designated in the 10 to 30 per cent PIK. These 551 producers will receive certificates for more than a million bushels of wheat next August, and when the grain is sold it will mean income that everyone can use.

Because of the high initial sign-up results, the department was not authorized to accept any whole-base bids, other than on 377 acres of corn. If the sign-up exceeded 45 per cent of the wheat and corn base in the ARC and PIK program, whole-base bids were not accepted. Enrollment figure for wheat was 47.8 per cent of the wheat base, and 39.4 per cent of the corn base. When the 377 acres of whole-base corn bids were accepted, the maximum participation level of 45 per cent was reached. There were 112 wheat farmers and 32 corn farmers who offered their base acreage in the PIK program.

"We now look forward to spring planting. If you have any questions about your permitted acreage of the set-aside requirements, please call us at the county office," Bergland said. "Department of agriculture will need an actual planted acreage report by July 15".

Those who signed a PIK contract and have indicated they have the grain under a CCCloan are reulqred to keep enough bushels in storage and under loan to satisfy the needs of the PIK. ASCS will pay storage in this grain from now until the availability date (August 15 for wheat and November 1 for corn) and for an additional five months after that. Release of any of this grain for sale unless a farmer has more bushels than needed for the PIK contract, can not be authorized.

Farmers are also reminded to check grain bins regularly. Sprouted and moldy grain is severely discounted when sold.

Seek To Settle Land Dispute At White Earth

Congressman Arlan Stangeland took another step in his effort to settle land claim disputes involving property in Becker, Clearwater and Mahnomen counties this week.

Congressman Stangeland, the author of a comprehensive proposal for federal settlement of the White Earth Indian reservation land disputes in the last Congress, re-introduced the bill March 22.

The new bill, (H.R. 2246), has again been placed under the consideration of the House committee on interior and insular affairs.

Congressman Stangeland said he also persuaded Minnesota Senator David Durenberger to sponsor identical legislation in the Senate. The Senate bill, (S. 884), has been referred to the senate select committee on Indian affairs.

"I continue to believe that the fairest plan for everyone involved in this controversy is a legislative solution," Congressman Stangeland said. "If we wait for the courts to settle this issue, it could drag on for years. Neither side can be confident of a satisfacotry judicial settlement, and unfair economic burdens would continue to be placed on land-owners until the courts reached a solution.

"The federal government may have failed as the trustee for the Indians involved in these claims," he said. "But that is no reason to force innocent land-owners into years of litigation.

"Because Indian claims have clouded the titles, people who purchased property in good faith have been faced with frozen land transfers, declining property values, the inability to use their land as collateral, and other economic restraints," he said. "Small businessmen in this area also report they have been hurt by the cloud cast by these land claims."

Congressman Stangeland said that he would again ask Rep. Morris Udall, chairman of the House interior and insular affairs committee, to hold full committee hearings on the bill in the Minnesota counties affected by the land disputes.

"I am willing to work with anyone involved in these disputes," he said. "Compromise which leads to a fair and quick legislative solution is preferable to waiting for the courts to reach an uncertain decision."

In 1862, The "Molly Maguires," a secret society of Irish miners in the anthracite fields, first came to public attention. The "Mollies" were charged with acts of terrorism against mine bosses. They went out of existence in 1876, when 14 of their leaders were imprisoned and 10 were executed, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Conferences At Oak Hills To Start In July

Annual Oak Hills Family Bible conferences at the Oak Hills fellowship grounds on Lake Marquette, four-and-one-half miles southwest of Bemidji, will begin Monday, July 25 and run through Friday, August 5. Designed to provide Christians with opportunity to share in-depth Bible study, fellowship and plenty of vacation activities, these conferences are reasonably priced and open to the public.

Featured speaker for conference one, July 25 to 29, is Dr. W. Peter West, pastor of the First Baptist church of Minneapolis. Conference two, August 1 to 5, presents Rev. Alan Johnson, pastor of the Bemidji Evangelical Covenant church, who will lead the evening sessions and Mark Hovestol, instructor at Oak Hills, who will conduct the morning sessions.

Each week also includes activities designed for children and youth. Those attending may camp on the lakeshore or stay in the dormitory facilities.

Cost information is available on request from Conference Director Ken Wold, Oak Hills, Bemidji, MN 56601, phone (218) 751-8670.

Marshall Co. Conducts IR Convention

Connie Elseth, Newfolden, and Alton Nybladh, Stephen, were unanimously elected chairmen of the Independent-Republican party of Marshall county, at the recent convention in Newfolden. Frances Crummy, Warren, was elected secretary and William Lindell, Stephen, was reelected treasurer.

Four vice chairmen were also elected. They are Mrs. Roy (Evelyn) Engh, Warren; Mrs. Kim (Sue) Schuler and Wayne Warne, both of Grygla; and David Rodahl, Thief River Falls. Rodahl was also elected to the party's state central committee, with Bruce Elseth, Newfolden and Bonnie Carlson, Stephen, elected as his alternates.

Seventh district Congressman Arlan Stangeland told delegates and guests that the PIK program, although not perfect, is a first step toward reducing the nation's huge grain surplus. That surplus, he said, stems from the 1979 millers' and truckers' strikes, the 1980 grain embargo and the two biggest crop years in history in 1981 and 1982.

He observed that the recent 1,7 million ton wheat sale to Morocco and the flour sale to Egypt under the provisions of the 1981 farm bill, are attempts to enlarge our foreign markets that have never recovered from the crippling blows of the embargo and strikes. Stangeland also warned against becoming involved in trade wars with either Japan or the European economic community. Such wars, he said, could only harm American farmers.

Mark Skogerboe, former candidate for Minnesota house district 1B, also addressed the convention.

Bruce Elseth, current vice chairman of the county executive committee, announced awards of 1982 century club pins for significant service to the party during the past year as follows:

— To Ruth Milsten, Middle River; Esther Erickson, Alvarado; Gwen Graham, Warren; and to Georgette Hansen, Stephen, for phone bank organizing, recruiting and phoning;

— To Carmelle Pinsonneault, Warre, for fair booth — setting up and recruiting workers; and — To Betty Melgard, Warren and Earl Eveland, Newfolden, for fund raising.

Clarice Hjelle, newly appointed finance chairman, sent word that the county's fund raising quota has been set at $4,200 of which $595 has been raised thus far. She also requested help in meeting the quota challenge.

TREES ARE FOR ...

"TREES ARE FOR. . ." was the theme for this year's poster contest conducted by the Pennington soil and water conservation district. Jodi Goldesberry (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Goldesberry and Andrea Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. James Eriskson were two of the winners honored. Both are students of Tom Schafer at Mark Twain.

Canadians Are Topic Of BSU Lecture Series

Dr. Gregory Mahler, a political science professor at the University of Vermont, will visit Bemidji state university (BSU) March 28 through April 8 as a lecturer for the spring institutional residency in Canadian studies.

Mahler will teach in Dr. Alex Nadesan's international law class during his stay at BSU and present a public lecture on Canadian federalism at 7:30 p.m. March 31, in room 113 of Hagg-Sauer hall. He is the author of numerous magazine and journal articles as well as a book, "New Dimension of Canadian Federalism," to be released soon.

Two-week instructional units focusing on Canada and presented by experts will be incorporated into existing BSU courses in history, political science, geography and literature. Arriving later in the quarter will be historian Brian McKillop and poet Fred Wah.

Individuals interested in registering for the two-week political science program or the remaining portions of the residency can contact: Dr. Bill Elliott, Hagg-Sauer hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN. 56601; phone (218-755-2813).

Senator Likes Response To PIK Program

"This week the U.S. department of agriculture reported the remarkable results of sign-up in the PIK (Payment-in-Kind) program, which will remove 82 million acres of wheat, corn, cotton, and rice from production this year," said Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

Boschwitz is a member of the senate agriculture committee, and was in Thief River Falls recently to help explain and promote the program.

"Secretary of agriculture John Block said that the response of farmers was beyond his wildest expectations. I have always felt that farmers would appreciate the PIK program because it is in American agriculture's best interests to diminish the burden — stocks of surplus grain that have so severely depressed the markets," Boschwitz said.

The PIK program was designed to alleviate growing government stockpiles of commodities by giving them to farmers who agree to reduce production. The program will save the American taxpayer approximately $3.5 billion over the next two fiscal years, Sen. Boschwitz said.

"Minnesota farmers, as had been expected, did even better than the national average. For corn, 72.7 per cent of the growers have agreed to idle 43 per cent of the state's corn base. In wheat, 64.4 per cent of the farmers have also agreed to idle 43 per cent."

Nationwide, for corn and sorghum, 57.5 per cent of the farmers are complying with PIK. This will result in a 39 per cent reduction in planted acreage for those two crops.

"It looks as if planted acreage for corn will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 55 to 58 million acres. This is a huge decrease from the 81.9 million acres planted last year.

For wheat, 61.8 per cent of farmers have signed up. Planted acreage should be about 59 million, down from 87.4 million in 1982.

Boschwitz To Oppose Lower Milk Support

As the USDA unveiled its modified dairy program last week, Senator Rudy Boschwitz said he "continues to oppose lowering the support price and will fight against it this year as I have in the past two years."

Boschwitz's response came as agriculture secretary John Block announced the administration's intent to start collecting an initial assessment of 50 cents per hundredweight (cwt) on April 16, and to implement another 50 cents assessment on August 1. In the interim, USDA hopes that Congress will pass legislation giving the secretary flexibility to adjust the dairy support price downward.

Boschwitz vowed to fight any attempt to lower the price across the board. He added, however, that the politics of dairy make that fight an increasingly difficult one.

"The program cost $2.3 billion in fiscal year 1983," Boschwitz said. "Many in Congress — including me — would like to get that cost down. If cost to the government were the only concern, the two 50-cent assessments could be left in place. That will lower the cost to about $650 million.

"But cost isn't the only concern," he added. "Farmers from all across Minnesota have told me that the assessments are simply an unfair tax and should be repealed. I am in favor of doing away with them, but we better replace them with something better." Boschwitz said the sense of urgency about dairy in congress has been heightened by talk of scrapping the program entirely.

For his part, Boschwitz said he has been working with leaders in the dairy industry toward another plan; one that will not be costly to the government, that will be acceptable to dairy farmers, and that will provide incentives for reducing production.

"Any plan of mine will also have a strong section to promote dairy products," Boschwitz said. "I believe that is essential to any dairy proposal."

Organization For Women Has ND Conference

North Dakota National Organization for Women (NDNOW) ninth annual state conference will be held April 16-17 in Grand Forks.

"From philosphy. . . to action" is the conference theme, according to Janis Cheney, Bismarck, NDNOW state coordinator. Among the presenters will be Linda Wallerich, administrative director of the Ripley shelter in Thief River Falls.

Presentations on prairie women, divorce and domestic law, legislative action, crisis and abuse centers, women in the labor movement and a feminist coffeehouse will highlight the schedule.

Sharon Knowlton, Grand Forks, conference coordinator, said day care will be provided. The public is welcome. For more information contact Knowlton at 1924 River Road NW, East Grand Forks, MN 56721.

Home Garden Minicourses Set At Roseau

"Grow Your Own — and Like It!" is a series of home gardening and foods minicourses scheduled in Roseau from April 7 through April 21. Sessions will be held Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Roseau museum assembly room.

"Grow Your Own Vegetables — Organically" will be the first two sessions, led by gardeners Betty and Bud Johnson. April 7 meeting will deal with seed selection, starting plants indoors and with garden plans. On April 14 the emphasis will be upon preparing garden beds and upon non-chemical methods for maintaining soil fertility and of controlling pests.

"Dry Your Own Produce — and Use It" will be presented by Eileen Grand, Bonnie Weispfenning and Betty Johnson on April 21. They will share some techniques for home dehydration, storage and use of fruits, vegetables and snack foods. Plans will be available for a "build-your-own" food dehydrator.

Pertinent printed materials from county agricultural extension service, the public library and personal collections will be displayed. Refreshments will be available.

Agassiz environmental education council is sponsoring this fourth annual "Grow Your Own — and Like It!" series of public minicourses. There is no admission charge, but a small donation will be appreciated to help pay expenses. For further information, call Betty M. Johnson at 463-2181.

The corrected schedule is: Friday, April 1 — Good Friday services 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, April 3 — Easter worship service at 9 a.m. with Holy Communion.

Gayle Waale MCC Teacher Of The Year

Gayle says that teaching is a complex profession because students have many different personalities and come from many different backgrounds. She stresses the importance of the individual, and tries to treat each student as a respected and worthwhile human being. "Each child needs to have the opportunity to succeed," she says. "Because this is so necessary in the process of growing up with a confident and positive attitude toward life, I try to present opportunities in which each student can be successful."

She notes that teaching in the area of physical education provides her with opportunities to teach students attitudes of good sportsmanship, cooperation and acceptance of the abilities and limitations of both themselves and their classmates.

One of her former students (now a ninth grader) commented in a letter that Mrs. Waale had made a lasting impression on her because, "no matter what the game was, she always found a way for me to play it. This may not seem so important to some, but it was to me because she helped me to overcome a physical handicap that did not allow me to walk and run as fast as the others."

A high school senior wrote: "Mrs. Waale never left anyone out either — she gave everyone the same amount of attention. I think that her attitude towards us persuaded a lot of us to find confidence in ourselves."

In the gymnasium, as she conducts her class, her name rings out almost constantly. After a demonstration of a new technique, her students move off into smaller groups to try it out. Gayle moves from mat to mat, encouraging those who need it, physically assisting those having difficulty, and praising their efforts when they get it right. Even those who are physically unable to do a particular stunt are encouraged to make an effort.

In her philosophy of education, Gayle says, "I feel in my teaching of physical education I can instill in the students the concept that physical activity can be fun and enjoyable as well as a challenge. This concept is important, as physical activity can make their lives more enjoyable and healthier."

Principal Jim Hodny notes, "Mrs. Waale brings a lot of common sense. . . wisdom, whatever you want to call it, to her job. Her personality is cheerful and her attitude is positive. She's a good person to have on the staff." His feelings are obviously echoed by her fellow teachers, administration and school board members, who voted her to represent them as Marshall county central's candidate for Minnesota teacher of the year.

Legislators Agree On Farm Crisis Report

The "key" to beating the farm economy's slump is a "boost in prices" for products, said Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer. But that's not going to happen right now so measures should be taken to help farmers this season, Stumpf said.

He said he agrees with most of the commission's findings and recommendations.

Stumpf is supporting a bill to make operating loans available through an agency that handles similar loans and would be able to handle the farm loans. Stumpf said the agency, the Small Business administration is already there to do the job.

Stumpf said he would also be in favor of legislation to make some technical changes in the law so foreclosures could be stalled for a few months.

The ombudsman network is a good idea, he said, because when farmers are "under the gun" they may need more help in making decisions.

Rep. Wallace Sparby of Thief River Falls said the commission's temporary recommendations are necessary and have merit.

In Sparby's area three years of bad weather have put many farmers in financial trouble that may be worse than problems of the great depression, he said.

The forbearance loan program is a good idea "temporarily," Sparby said. An economic turnaround is the real answer, he added.

Sparby predicted that the legislature will give the recommendations serious consideration but the final bill will probably not look exactly like the package.

Since the commission has studied the farm financial situation, Sparby said he tends to support the recommendations.

"These are short-term solutions," said Clint Kurtz, president of a bank in Norwood and member of the farm crisis commission. A significant rise in the price farmers get for their product stands as the only permanent solution, Kurtz said.

The package is a compromise, Kurtz said, referring to the commission's rejection of a mortgage moratorium. "Bankers opposed that measure, but this package is generally supported by the banking industry as a whole," Kurtz said.

Banks would have a state guarantee recommended at 80 to 90 per cent under this plan.

Rep. Steve Wenzel of Little Falls, House agriculture committee chairman, said the proposal suggests measures that will help farmers, but called the package unrealistic for passage in this session. Wenzel said the statewide financial counseling network could work, but the loan programs would need hundreds of millions of dollars — money that would have to come from other state programs.

Wenzel estimated that operating loan program would cost the state $100 million and could be workable, but the forbearance loan program would need much more money to operate.

He feels the forbearance program isn't strong enough and he's likely to push for the mortgage moratorium as an alternative. In the 1930s the government gave farmers two years off on payments, saving thousands of farms, Wenzel said.

Kurtz countered that the forbearance loan program would be much better than a moratorium. "If the lenders do their usual good work, losses will be held to a minimum," he said. However, Kurtz admitted the commission hasn't estimated the state's cost in the program.

Some areas of the state seem to be in worse shape than others. "I'm surprised how tough it is in some areas," said Marv Hanson, a Hallock farmer and former state senator who chaired the farm crisis commission. Some northwestern counties have had three years of bad weather and the farmers in west-central, southwest and southeast Minnesota are in trouble, Hanson said.

If the state farm economy doesn't improve by fall, the governor may call back the task force to recommend a farm mortgage moratorium. Hanson said that in the hardest hit areas of the state, the situation would not have to deteriorate much before a moratorium becomes the most plausible answer.

However, Kurtz predicted the farm crisis "will not get worse if the legislature passes this package."

Thief River Falls school board, at its regular meeting Monday, accepted a check for $3,150 from the Spring Sports Committee and approved spring baseball, along with boys and girls golf, for the 1983 season.

Those sports were put in limbo until now as the fund-raising group tried to raise the money necessary to run the programs, which were scheduled to be cut as cost-saving moves by School District 564.

Retained as school-funded spring sports were track for boys and girls and tennis for boys.

As community-funded programs, some $6,000 was said to be needed to run the baseball and golf programs this spring. Rest of the money will still have to be raised, with about $2,000 coming from a combination participation fee and donation of $30 from each of the participants, along with funds that are hoped to be realized through promotions at the Model Barber Shop and TG Sporting Goods. Individual contributions, which can be made through the Sports Boosters Club, are welcomed, too, of course.

Spokesman for the Spring Sports Committee, John Michael Anderson, expressed his gratitude for the success of the fund-raising efforts, noting that the student-athletes, their parents, coaches Sports Boosters Club members and the entire community pitched in and got the job done.

Some $2,500 of the money raised to date came from the sale of McDonald's coupons, noted Anderson, a highly successful venture headed by Kittie Cornell.

Program backers have cleared their first hurdle in getting the baseball and golf programs reinstated, but that's just the tip of the iceberg. There is an Aug. 1 deadline set by the school board for funds to be raised for boys and girls cross country, plus girls swimming programs next fall. And funds will have to be raised if the boys are to have a swimming program next winter. Then the process begins anew for funding 1984 baseball, golf and also boys tennis.

Bemidji Wins VFW Title

Coached by Lincoln high school graduate John Wangberg, Bemidji Bantams won the 1983 VFW Bantam A state hockey tournament title Sunday at St. Cloud with a 2-1 championship game victory over recently-crowned Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association (MAHA) state champion St. Paul Johnson.

It was quite a turnaround for the Bemidji team that had lost three straight games in the MAHA state tournament the week before on its home ice. At the state VFW tournament Bemidji turned the tables on two of the three teams that beat them in the MAHA event by stopping Hibbing 4-3 in overtime in the opening round and then shading No. 1-rated Johnson in the finals.

Bemidji earned a VFW state tournament berth by winning the Ninth District tournament played in Thief River Falls earlier this month.

"The team skated hard from start to finish," Wangberg told the Bemidji Pioneer after the state championship performance, and played by far its best game since the district tournament at Thief River Falls, he added.

In the 4-3 win over Hibbing to start it, Bemidji's George Pelawa came out of the penalty box to score an unassisted goal in overtime for the win. Pelawa got the game winner again in the final minute of regulation time as Bemidji edged Anoka 8-7 in the second round. A third round bye got them into the championship game where they carried a 2-0 lead into the final two minutes of play. Johnson made it tight by cutting the margin to 2-1 and had a power play for the final 1:32. Johnson had rallied from a 3-1 deficit for a 5-3 MAHA tournament win over Bemidji a week earlier.

Rochester edged Anoka 5-4 for third place honors at the VFW state meet, with White Bear Lake beating Hibbing 6-4 for consolation honors in the 10-team, single-elimination tournament.

Bemidji finished the year 40-5.

Miscellaneous

+ Karin Schumacher has resigned as head coach of the Moorhead high school girls basketball team. Schumacher, who also serves as the Spuds' head volleyball coach, said it became too demanding to coach the major sports in back-to-back seasons. Head coach of the Moorhead girls for the past six seasons, she guided the Spuds to an overall 74-45 record, including a 14-4 finish this winter.

+ Roseau products Neal and Aaron Broten are both among the scoring leaders on their respective NHL clubs. Going into last night's action Neal had 28 goals, 41 assists and 69 points for the Minnesota North Stars, which ties him for fourth on a very close club scoring race, while Aaron had 12 goals, 35 assists and 47 points to give him the scoring lead with the New Jersey Devils.

Wisconsin, Sabo Win Second NCAA Hockey Title

Thief River Falls' Scott Sabo has had a memorable hockey career at the University of Wisconsin. In his three years with the Badgers, Sabo and his Wisconsin teammates have appeared in three stright NCAA tournament finals, winning two of them.

Latest national title came Saturday at the University of North Dakota Winter Sports Center in Grand Forks where Wisconsin defeated Harvard 6-2, with the 6-1, 180-pound Sabo centering the Badgers' third line. He logged plenty of ice time and played well, collecting an assist on a goal scored by Bruce Driver that gave Wisconsin a 4-1 cushion at 11:35 of the third period. That was a key goal because moments later the Crimson had their second goal of the night but still trailed by two instead of being within 3-2.

Playing on a line with freshman Marty Wiltala of Superior, Wis. and junior Ted Pearson of Flin Flon, Man., Sabo missed a second period scoring opportunity on a shorthanded situation when he came in on Harvard goalie Grant Blair all alone. He went to his backhand and put the puck behind the netminder, only to see it slip through the crease and out the other side.

A 1979 Lincoln high school graduate, Sabo originally indicated he planned to attend Bemidji State University, elected instead to play a year of hockey with the Warroad Lakers, a senior amateur team, before accepting a scholarship offer from Wisconsin.

As a freshman, Sabo was a member of the 1981 NCAA Wisconsin championship team that upset Minnesota 6-3 in the finals at the Duluth Arena. In his sophomore season the Badgers again reached the 1982 NCAA finals but this time lost a 5-2 decision to North Dakota at the Providence Civic Center Arena in Providence, R.I.

Few hockey players are awarded with the opportunity to win an NCAA title. And even fewer get two shots at it. And rarely are you given the chance to play in three title games, something Sabo and his teammates accomplished Saturday.

Although a junior at Wisconsin, Sabo isn't likely going to have a chance to make it four-in-a-row since he's expected to sign a major league baseball contract this spring.

He left almost immediately after the NCAA hockey finals to join the Wisconsin baseball team, in the midst of a spring trip to Texas. The left-handed pitcher, once he makes the transition from the ice to the mound, is expected to be one of the Badgers' top hurlers this season in the Big Ten baseball race.

Family Bowl Event Won By Dawn Pyle

In a mother vs. daughter final, Dawn Pyle (the daughter) defeated Shirley Lindeman (the mother) 163-144 Saturday to win the women's city match game scratch double-elimination bowling tournament at the Family Bowl in Thief River Falls.

Forty-four entries were received for the event and 88 matches were held.

Dawn Pyle defeated Shirley Lindeman 224-199 in the final matchup of unbeaten bowlers, but after a 179-161 victory over Ann Yonke in the final match of the loser's bracket, Lindeman came back to beat Pyle 169-153 in the finals to give each bowler a loss and force a third match between the two for the championship.

Dawn won it 163-144.

Peggy Berganev won the tournament's high game award with a 243.

LHS Girls Struggle To 3-14 Finish In 1982-83 Season

By no stretch of the imagination can you label a 3-14 Lincoln high school girls basketball season a success. But at the same time, the recently-completed 1982-83 campaign wasn't a total washout, either, according to Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer.

"We were a better team than what our record showed," he insisted. "We were in every ball game we played. We lost some close ball games."

Of the 14 losses, there was a two-point decision, a pair of three-point setbacks and a four-point defeat. And even in some of the losses by wider margins it was just a short, but very costly, stretch within each game that invariably took the Prowlers out of it.

"We could never put our fingers on any one thing that cost us," explained Schafer. "It was a case of something different happening every ball game."

"Mostly it was a sudden problem handling the opposition's pressing defense, and more often than not the problem occurred in the third quarter, a fact magnified during a 12-game losing streak that took up most of the schedule. Four times within that two-month span the Prowlers were either ahead or tied at halftime, only to get zapped in the third quarter. They led Warren 29-15 at the half and lost 43-29; they led Park Rapids 23-14 at the half and lost 46-38 by getting out-scored 17-5 in the third quarter; they led East Grand Forks 23-16 at halftime and lost 41-39 by getting out-scored 18-2 in the third quarter; and they played eventual North Half Region 8AA champion Bemidji to a 26-26 halftime draw only to lose 62-47 by getting out-scored 22-5 in the third quarter. That Bemidji outfit lost by a single point to Albany in the Region 8AA finals, and Albany went on to win the Class AA state tournament title.

Despite the frustrating string of losses, the Prowlers never gave up, said Schafer.

"The girls did a super job," he noted. "They went into every ball game looking to win. I was scared they might give up when we kept losing, but they didn't. It could have turned into one heck of a bad year, but their attitude was just great. They deserved more than the three wins they got."

Sophomore guard Michelle Olson led the Prowlers in scoring this winter with 237 points in 17 starts, a 13.9 scoring average. She also led the team with a 64 per cent free throw shooting figure (59-for-92).

Senior guard Paula Meyers was second on the scoring charts with 138 points and an 8.1 average, and despite launching most of her shots from the outside, she led the regulars with a 34 per cent shoting mark from the field (65-for-189).

Senior forward Lynn Culkins led the team with 138 rebounds, averaging 8.1 per game. Pia Tymberg, the foreign exchange student who held down the starting center position, grabbed 100 rebounds and Meyers had 95.

Thief River Falls started the year 2-1. The Prowlers lost their opener 68-44 to Marshall County Central, then beat Tri-County 49-25 and Roseau 47-23 before the 12-game losing streak started.

Those setbacks included successive losses to Warren 43-39, Moorhead 52-32, Bemidji 62-47, Park Rapids 46-38, Crookston 55-35, East Grand Forks 41-39, Greenbush 54-51, Fertile-Beltrami 61-50, Bemidji 43-25, Crookston 45-35, Detroit Lakes 61-41 and East Grand Forks 45-42.

Thief River Falls finally ended the losing streak with a 65-60 win at Fergus Falls Feb. 22 — the final regular season outing for the Prowlers. Six days later they were back in Fergus Falls to open North Half Region 8AA tournament play and lost to the Otters 52-34.

Jim Muzzy Wins Roll-Off Sunday At Family Bowl

Jim Muzzy out-scored defending champion Bonnie Aaseby and Dwight Donarski to win the local national no-tap bowling tournament Sunday at the Family Bowl in Thief River Falls.

Among the three bowlers who qualified for the local roll-off, Muzzy finished with games of 233-264-215 for an 847 series, while Aaseby went 183-237-171 for a 755 and Donarski bowled 200-191-177 for 700.

Muzzy will represent the Family Bowl at the state roll-offs. A year ago Aaseby won the local and state roll-offs and bowled at the nationals in Las Vegas.

UMC Cage Clinic Will Be Held June 13-17

A basketball clinic for boys and girls who will be in grades four through ten next year will be held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) June 13-17.

For more information contact clinic director Gary Senske, UMC head basketball coach, telephone 281-6510.

Farmland losses caused by development and erosion will total 3.2 million acres during the next 20 years in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri if continued at the present rate, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

FISHIN' TIPS

from . . . Tom Mann

MISTER MANN: Does the chart recorder have any real advantages over the flasher type depth sounders?—Charley Joiner

HELLO CHARLEY: At first I viewed a chart recorder as strictly for saltwater fishing. Then I got started using one a couple years ago and, man, this Mann wouldn't be without one. It continuously draws you a picture of what's below your boat, both structure and fish. I learned a lot from an expert who'd be glad to help you, too. Write: Randy Fite, 181 April Point, Montgomery Texas 77356. He's tops!

BRER TOM'S CLOSING TIP: Most big bass experts agree that a big live shiner would be the number one lure to tempt a world record bass with, and number two would be a plastic worm.
